...ngs Blamed For Dentist's Death

An allergic reaction to multiple bee stings was the reported cause of the weekend death of an Oakland area dentist.

Dr. Raymond G. McGehee III, 47, a resident of the Joe Whitacre Road, near Oakland, died Sunday after he apparently disturbed a nest of bees and was stung on the ear and neck while he was working on the roof of his home. The swelling, according to a family member, was almost immediate, and although he knew he was allergic to the stings, the location of the attack on his body possibly caused a faster reaction to his system.

A practicing dentist since 1979 in Arlington, Va., McGehee and his wife Karen opened Allegheny Dental Care on Rt. 219 in 1997. His wife has stated she hopes to find a dentist to take over the practice.

In addition to his wife, he leaves behind six children, ages 2 to 13. A trust fund for them has been established at American Trust Bank. He is also survived by his mother, Gay McGehee, Arlington, Va.; three sisters; and two brothers.

CONCERTS CONTINUE in the Little Yough Summer Music Festival with a performance by Tom Paxton this Saturday, July 8. Singer, songwriter, and musician Paxton has been an integral part of the folk music community since the early 1960s. This free concert will be held at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland, beginning at 7 p.m.

County United Ways Take Step To Better Define Local Services

County United Way volunteers recently took the first step to better define service for Allegany and Garrett counties and neighboring West Virginia counties of Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, and Pendleton. Using its non-profit status, County United Way will extend to each county in its service area the opportunity to participate in a network of individual United Ways, according to Harry King, executive director.

"In this way, United Ways in each county will be able to elect volunteers to a governing body as well as select volunteers to raise and distribute funds. Each United Way will have its own bylaws. Funds raised in each county will be dispersed to local agencies to meet identified local human needs," King said.

The County United Way will provide administrative services to the United Way of each county. The individual United Way in each county will elect two representatives to serve on the executive committee of County United Way to have equal voices in guiding policy, King said.

The United Way of Garrett County was the first county to accept the opportunity, King reported. Dave Thomas, president of the United Way of Garrett County, recently signed an agreement with Dick Paulman, president of County United Way. Other officers of the Garrett County organization include Jeannette Fitzwater, vice president, who also serves as a representative to the County United Way executive committee. Ken Perrin is the secretary of the local group, and Bob Huebner is treasurer.

The United Way of Garrett County will begin funding 14 community service organizations in 2001, King reported.

Another initiative of the County United Way is to develop an endowment fund. A board of trustees has been appointed to oversee investments in the endowment fund, with the objective being to generate sufficient revenue to offset administrative and fund-raising costs of the agency, as well as to perpetuate the future of the County United Way in the community. Then 100 percent of the funds raised in annual community appeals will be used for direct assistance to individuals' needs, King reported.

More County United Way information may be obtained by writing to County United Way, 111 S. George Street, Cumberland, MD 21502, or to the local group at: United Way of Garrett County, P.O. Box 394, Oakland, MD 21550.

Woman Charged Following DCL Boating Mishap

An Oakland woman was injured, and subsequently charged, when her 20-foot motor boat struck a concrete piling of the Garrett Highway Bridge at Deep Creek Lake early Wednesday, according to the Natural Resources Police.

Catherine Ellen Ravenscroft, 36, was operating the vessel when it struck the bridge piling at approximately 2 a.m. She sustained head injuries, and the Southern Rescue Squad transported her to Garrett Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released. None of the other

MLP Juveniles Charged With Felony Theft

A pair of Mtn. Lake Park juveniles were arrested Wednesday by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation and charged in connection with the theft of a $7,000 church money offering from a car parked at Par-Matt Lanes on April 24.

The 17- and 14-year-old juveniles spotted a money pouch lying inside a locked car that belonged to a church secretary, according to GBI detective Jeff Murphy. They reportedly tampered with a door lock to gain entry and take the pouch, which contained approximately $1,300 in cash and $5,700 in checks. The money had been collected by a local church that weekend during its Easter services.

Both youths face charges of felony theft and tampering with a motor vehicle. They have been released to the custody of their parents, and the case has been forwarded to the Department of Juvenile Justice for further action.

CHEERING FOR THE RED, WHITE, AND BLUE - Getting into the spirit of the celebration, 3-year-old Lindsey, visiting Accident from Bethesda to take part in the 4th of July Homecoming event, waved her flag enthusiastically. Having watched the parade along Main Street and shared a barbecued chicken lunch with her parents, Lindsey was waiting for her chance to climb aboard the hay wagon for a ride around the park. Grant For $142,000 Given To Enhance After-School Programs

Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, state legislators, and members of the Maryland After School Opportunity Fund Advisory Board were joined this week by over 200 community leaders, educators, health and non-profit service providers, after-school program directors, business leaders, and officials representing Local Management Boards (LMBs) in jurisdictions across Maryland in Baltimore to announce a historic $9.2 million increase in state funds to expand after-school activities for at-risk youth.

Garrett County was among the counties awarded money, being given $142,000. The funds will go to the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families (GC PCF) to establish an after-school program in Yough Glades for children K-5 and at Northern and Southern middle schools. The money will also fund an off-site full day summer program, according to Susan Athey-Oxford, director of the partnership office. Additionally, the funding will provide mini-grants for new after-school programs and special projects for existing programs, she said.

"These funds will open new doors to thousands of children and teens across Maryland who would otherwise be left alone after school and are at risk for involvement in crime, drugs, gangs, and sexual activity," said Townsend, who chairs the After School Opportunity Fund Advisory Board. "If we don't supervise our children, the drug dealers will."

With there new allotments statewide, the governor's office now has raised the total direct state support of after-school activities to $18,281,052, a 200% increase over last year and an almost 25-fold increase since 1995, Townsend noted. Statewide, the funds will help establish more than 300 new after-school programs. Over 7,500 children and teens are expected to receive supervised instruction in arts and cultural programs, recreational activities, and academic assistance during the upcoming school year.

"These programs will give many youngsters the opportunity, to be in a positive environment after school rather than on the streets or glued to a television set," said Senator Chris Van Hollen, co-sponsor of the After School Opportunity Act and an advisory board member.

The advisory board and fund were created by the 1999 Maryland General Assembly, and the Glendening-Townsend Administration funded the program at $10 million beginning in FY 2001. The legislation limited funding for each jurisdiction

Charges Filed, One Injured In Motorcycle Crash

A Pittsburgh motorcyclist was charged and his passenger injured Saturday evening when he lost control of his 1993 Harley Davidson and ran into a ditch along Deep Creek Drive near the Point View Inn, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Thomas John Dicaprio, 44, was northbound on Deep Creek Drive at 7:30 p.m. when he ran his motorcycle into the ditch and the bike went over onto its side. He refused medical treatment at the scene and was charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI), negligent driving, and speeding. His passenger, Joseph Charles Lane, 55, Venetia, Pa., was taken by the Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company provided assistance at the scene as well.

Several other individuals were arrested by sheriff's deputies over the past week and charged with DWI or driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI). They are Ronald John Marc, 55, Mark James Park, 35, Joyce Ellen Hodge, 55, and Catherine Marie Biser, 43, all of Oakland; and David Steven Elliott, 38, Zanesville, Ohio.

Vehicle Swerves, Overturns; Three Youths Injured

Three teenage girls were injured when the vehicle in which they were traveling, swerved, struck an embankment, and overturned on Savage River Road last Thursday.

According to a report from the Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack, Kelly Lewis, 16, Swanton, was operating her vehicle on Savage River Road when she swerved to avoid hitting a deer. The car then went out of control, struck an embankment, and overturned.

Lewis and two passengers, Carrie Groff, 15, Barton, and Cassie Thomas, 14, Lonaconing, were taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Bloomington and Westernport volunteer firefighters responded to the scene along with Tri-Towns Ambulance.

Trautwein Receives Educator's Award At California Conference

Charles "Chuck" Trautwein, computer resources teacher for the Garrett County Board of Education, was among 172 educators from 41 states to be presented with the Milken Educator Award, a prestigious honor that includes a financial award of $25,000, at a ceremony in California recently.

Trautwein and three other Maryland educators joined distinguished educators, policy makers, and business leaders from across the nation for the Milken Family Foundation National Education Conference in Los Angeles, which concluded on Wednesday, June 28.

The award recipients also received public recognition for their "exemplary" work and membership in a nationwide network of over 1,500 "high-caliber" educators.

"We created the Milken National Education Conference as a way to celebrate, elevate and activate outstanding educators. We do this by presenting them with a myriad of opportunities for ongoing professional growth and by uniting them in a powerful nationwide network aimed at reforming education through action," said Lowell Milken, the foundation's co-founder and chairman.

He also noted that the award was intended to "celebrate" their achievements and to expresss gratitude for the opportunities they provide each day to the nation's children.

Under the theme of "Advancing Teacher Quality," participants at the conference explored solutions for the impending shortage of quality teachers in America's schools, which has been forecast by the U.S. Department of Education. The agency estimates that approximately 2.2 million teachers will be needed over the next 10 years, but the number available will fall short of this need by

Tuesday Blaze Damages Glade Rd. Residence

An activated smoke detector and the actions of an alert neighbor helped prevent major damage during a Tuesday evening house fire northwest of Friendsville, according to the office of the State Fire Marshal. No one was home at the time of the 6:32 p.m. blaze at 51 Glade Road, which resulted in $500 damage to home of Bruce and Stacey Stone.

The fire was discovered by a neighbor who heard the sounding smoke alarm and upon investigation observed smoke coming from the basement of the one story brick rancher. At least thirty volunteer firefighters from the Friendsville and Accident, and Markleysburg and Addison (Pa.) fire departments responded to the scene, along with Air 3 of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company and Northern Rescue Squad Unit 3-1 of the Friendsville fire hall. The fire was extinguished in the home's basement after five minutes.

The fire marshal's preliminary ruling is that the fire was accidental, resulting from a damaged electrical supply cord which arced and ignited nearby combustibles

All interested residents and business owners are invited to attend to contribute ideas of concerns.

Mtn. Lake Park Town Elections Slated Tuesday

The residents of Mountain Lake Park will have the opportunity to vote in municipal elections, slated for Tuesday, July 11, at Town Hall. The polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Three council seats are to be filled in next week's balloting. Terms are expiring for council members Lou DiCarlo, David Gangler, and Harold Murphy, and incumbents DiCarlo and Gangler will seek re-election. Also on the ballot competing for the three seats will be Jack Michaels and Fred Callis.

Bush Campaign Organizing In Garrett County

The George W. Bush for President Campaign in Garrett County will hold an organizational meeting on Wednesday, July 12, 7 p.m., at the Loch Lynn Restaurant. Brenda Butscher, director of the county campaign, said that anyone who is interested in becoming a volunteer worker for the Bush campaign is invited to attend the meeting.

"We have many positions to full to complete our volunteer organization. We encourage young people to come and get involved in the political process," Butscher said.

Interested persons who are unable to attend the meeting are asked to call Butscher at 301-334-4500 or Sheila O'Neill at 301-334-2018.

Pa. Man Faces DWI, Fleeing, Drug Charges

Deputies with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrested a Pennsylvania man in the Deep Creek Lake area early Sunday morning on charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI), fleeing and eluding, and possession of marijuana, according to a police report.

Ronald Verdelli, 24, Hummelstown, Pa., was operating a 1996 Nissan pickup along Garrett Highway near the Trading Post at 12:10 a.m. when a deputy's radar device detected that the truck was speeding. The deputy activated his emergency equipment in an attempt to stop Verdelli's vehicle, but he continued to drive on to Mountain View Drive, where he turned west and climbed a steep hill into a resort community.

The Nissan eventually pulled into a driveway, nearly striking a parked car and partially drifting off the blacktop into a yard, the report stated. Verdelli was arrested for DWI and fleeing and eluding, and a subsequent vehicle search revealed a bag of suspected marijuana in the console between the front seats.

Verdelli was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting a $1,000 bond.

COLLISION SENDS DRIVERS TO HOSPITAL - Howard Brode, 69, Cumberland, was reported to be in "guarded" condition this morning at Garrett Memorial Hospital, following a two-vehicle accident on Garrett Highway at Kings Run Road, near Oakland, yesterday, Wednesday, at 11:06 a.m. Brode's Jeep was reportedly struck by a passenger car operated by a 17-year-old female, who was also taken to the hospital. The name and condition of the juvenile have not been released. Maryland State Police from the McHenry barrack investigated the accident and reported that charges are pending. Southern Rescue Squad and Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene of the accident. Photo by John McEwen

"Road Rockets" Targeted In Md. State Police Campaign

Aggressive motorcyclists, referred to as "Road Rockets," are the target of a campaign launched this week on state highways by Maryland State Police. Citing several motorcycle deaths and "unreasonable" driving behaviors, Maryland State Police superintendent Colonel David B. Mitchell announced an immediate enforcement effort aimed at ensuring safe travel for motorists.

Recent deaths of motorcyclists and continuing complaints from motorists have led to this effort, a state police spokesman said.

The enforcement initiative, dubbed "Operation Rocket Roundup" includes high-tech cameras, "stealth" motorcyclists, and other "creative" vehicles. The cameras will be mounted in state 'police' helicopters to closely monitor and to collect identifying characteristics of those violators who choose to disobey the law and continue to be a hazard on the interstates.

The "stealth" motorcycles and passenger cars operated by troopers will also be in place to observe and take appropriate enforcement action in conjunction with helicopters. Troopers from the Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Unit will also be out with Project ADVANCE to assist in this enforcement campaign.

"These motorcyclists have been repeatedly clocked in radar at speeds ranging from 130 miles per hour to well over 150 miles per hour. The motorcyclists are also abruptly changing lanes and using the shoulders to pass slower vehicles," Mitchell said. adding that he recognizes that the percentage of aggressive motorcyclists is small. "However, they are creating major problems to the motoring public on Maryland highways," he said.

Mitchell also called on motorists to dial #-7-7 on their cell phones to report these violations as quickly and accurately as possible. "This will enable state police to activate the covert

MLP Search Uncovers CDS, Woman Charged

A Mtn. Lake Park woman faces charges illegal drug distribution following her arrest Friday by Garrett County's Narcotics Task Force, according to state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

Summer Stripling, 21, was arrested by Task Force detectives who executed a search and seizure warrant at her N Street residence that was obtained after she reportedly sold prescription drugs to undercover police officers. Several prescription medications were recovered from within the residence, and Stripling was charged with one count of distribution of Hydrocodone. She is being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $10,000 bond pending trial.

CONCERT BAND STARTS OFF WITH A BANG — The inaugural concert of the Garrett Concert Band was received well by a large Fourth of July audience, who cheered as the patriotic tunes of Sousa, King, and Berlin, among others, were played. Directed by Gerry McGee (pictured) and Fred Stemple, the group chose the July holiday as its first performance, complementing the ongoing Chautauqua Festival on the lawn of Garrett Community College. Performances of the festival will continue under the Big Tent tonight, tomorrow, and Saturday. The concert on Tuesday was followed by fireworks over Deep Creek Lake.

ARTS COUNCIL OPENS OAKLAND GALLERY — The Garrett County Arts Council hosted a preview reception at The Gallery, the organization's new art gallery at 206 East Alder Street, as part of its recent annual membership meeting. The Gallery opened to the public this week with an exhibition featuring 25 local artists and artisans. Business hours are 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., Monday-Saturday. Pictured above are, from left, Susan Weisbrod, gallery manager; Carole Peraz, newly elected GCAC president; Helen Earles, past president; Lois Sherrard, secretary; Marilyn Filemyr, treasurer; and Steve Schlosnagle, administrator. Community artists and artisans interested in displaying and offering works for sale at The Gallery may submit samples for consideration by the council's jury committee, which meets monthly. Additional information is available by calling the GCAC's new phone number at 301-334-6580.

Western Counties Form Partnership For Youth Services

The local management boards of Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties have been awarded a $377,277 grant to develop a Youth Services Network to bolster community-based services for at-risk youth. The boards, which are responsible for planning, allocating, and coordinating resources for children and families, secured the grant from the Governor's Subcabinet for Children and Families. The Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families (GCPCF) will oversee the regional project, according to GCPCF president Susan Athey-Oxford.

The Youth Services Network will be a regional project related to each county's comprehensive plan to meet the needs of children and families. Identified as priority regional needs are the expansion of short-term crisis services and flex funding for hard-to-serve youth, implementation of a pilot program to identify and treat juvenile sexual offenders, and the provision of updates to existing on-line community resource directories. Long-term project goals include establishing a western Maryland partnership to develop and support regional, community-based resources for at-risk youth, and implementing a research-based protocol to track long-term outcomes.

Each project component will be led by a designated county site, with the benefits to extend to all jurisdictions. For example, the Allegany Office for Children, Youth and Families (ACOYF) will pilot a project to screen and treat youth who have the potential for sexual deviance. It is anticipated that this will reduce the incidence of sexual offenses, the residential placement of offenders, and the potential victimization of other youth.

"Many communities have services available for children and youth who have been victims of sexual abuse or assault, but very few have services for perpetrators," ACOYF executive director Kathy Delany commented. "Appropriate screening will allow youth sex offenders to be identified and to receive specialized services that address sexual misconduct."

Washington and Frederick counties focus on creating short-term shelter and crisis services. Among the initiatives to be addressed by Garrett County will be the expansion of the existing GCPCF Special Projects Pilot Program into the other three counties. Each county will also work to enhance its own electronic community information files and strengthen regional approaches to divert out-of-home placements.

"The GCPCF is excited about the potential of this regional project," Athey-Oxford said. "We have the opportunity to position the region as a model for comprehensive treatment for youth with specialized and complex behavioral needs. The reward for the hard work that will continue to be needed, [and] will come when we are closer to the time when every child in western Maryland has a warm, nurturing environment in which to thrive."

Laureate Wind Quintet To Perform In Penn Alps Summer Music Series

The Laureate Wind Quintet, the performing ensemble of West Virginia University's music faculty, will appear Saturday, July 8, as part of the Music at Penn Alps concert series. Playing works by Claude Debussy, Anton Reicha, and Paul Taffanel, the quintet will appear at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville, located along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

Voting in 2000...

The 2000 election is still several months away, but will be upon us before we know it. While it is always important for eligible persons to register to vote, and then vote when the time comes, the next presidential election makes such even more important. Consider the following: a non-incumbent president will be elected; there will be a turnover of virtually all presidential cabinet-level positions; there may be three to five vacancies on the Supreme Court during the next presidential term; one third of the U.S. Senate and all of the U.S. House seats are up for re-election; and control of both houses of Congress hinges on a six-seat margin in each.

On the state and local level, control of nearly half of all state legislatures could go to either major party, and congressional districts nationwide will be redrawn by the legislators elected in 2000, the results of which will affect national and state elections for the next 10 years.

Turnout in the 1996 presidential election was an unimpressive 49%, with only 32% of those ages 18-24 participating. Over the past 25 years, overall voter turnout has decreased by 9%. Surely we can do far better.

Every vote does indeed count, because if everyone thought that his or her vote did not count, then no one at all would vote. Elections are won and lost by individual votes, sometimes many of them, and sometimes only a few.

So, to those citizens who are 18 or older and not registered to vote, we suggest going now and getting registered. To those who are registered but rarely vote, we urge you to mark your calendars, start listening to the candidates and the issues, and plan to exercise this important right and responsibility in November.

We have just celebrated another glorious Fourth of July, which is held in celebration of our independence as a nation. Voting is a crucial piece of that precious independence, and should be of utmost importance to each and every citizen. It is one of the rights for which many of our young men died about two and one-quarter centuries ago, and for which tens of thousands of men and women have died since.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company. If anyone has ever had any reservations of the time or ability of these people, rest assured they are the best team of people I have ever had the privilege of meeting. They made me feel completely calm and secure in their ability to handle my needs.

I was home alone and unable to determine if I was having a heart attack when a friend arrived and called 911 — within minutes the rescue squad and fire department were there to help me. I couldn't believe the number of men and women that filled my living room — I lost count at 15!

Once again — I would like to send out a big heartfelt thank you to those men and women who dedicate and volunteer their time to all the citizens of Garrett County.

Sincerely,
Paula Seaman
McHenry

To the Editor:

The class of 2000 has graduated and thousands of high school students now are going to make their way into the "adult" world. Congratulations to all.

At this time I would like to recognize some of those students who are indeed very special. These are the students who may never have been recognized in any other way. They never made the honor roll. They never received any special awards. They never ranked high in their class. They weren't jocks. The students I want to honor are those who persevered under very difficult circumstances — the ones who had learning disabilities, the ones who lived in homes where they were abused/neglected, the ones whose parents were alcoholics, the ones who had no mother and/or father to nurture them, the ones who came from homes where extra money for any designer clothes or shoes was unheard of, the ones who did their best, but by the school system's scale it wasn't good enough to merit any praise.

There are many others also who continued on and made it, though circumstances made it almost impossible to graduate. You did! You made it! You are the ones who should be honored. Though you never made it on any other "honor roll," you made it on mine. I honor you!

God bless you all,
Norma J. Bodtkhorst

To the Editor:

Do you drive a car? Do you heat your home with oil or natural gas? Do you think you can afford to have Dubya in the White House?

Big Oil has put 15 times as much money into Dubya's campaign as it has put into Al's. Dubya has gotten a princely $1.5 million. Al has gotten a paupership (for Big Oil) $100,000.

Al has a small family connection to Big Oil. His father, the late Tennessee senator, was on the board of Occidental Petroleum. His stock is now in a trust fund for Al's mother.

But Dubya's family has a big connection. His father made a fortune in Texas oil in the 1950s. Dubya himself explored for oil in west Texas in the 1980s, did not do well, and sold his million in stock in a deal that sparked an SEC investigation into inside trading.

During dad's presidency, 1988-92, Dubya interceded frequently for oilmen seeking tax relief for drilling costs and a plug for natural gas in the next State of the Union address.

Dubya is still helping Big Oil. He packs Texas environmental boards with oil and chemical people. Last year, he signed an emergency tax break to help Big Oil out of a "slump."

What about the economic slump we all may soon descend into because of high oil and gas prices? Dubya blames them on anybody and everybody but Big Oil.

As usual, the issue "refines" down to whom do you trust. Is Al or Dubya more likely to really investigate gouging by Big Oil, to impose price controls, to promote R and D into alternative fuels, and to keep environmental restraints whole in the face of Big Oil pressure to gut them? Is it Al or Dubya who will better protect the drivers from the drillers?

TAP has been officially endorsed by eight member states of the Education Leaders Council (ELC), and is being piloted in five public elementary schools in Arizona in the fall. Milken announced this during the opening presentation of the conference, titled "Teaching as the Opportunity: The Teacher Advancement Program."

"The need to assure that every child has the opportunity afforded by good teachers is urgent. It is as urgent as the need to be well nourished, and for exactly the same reason: a child's growth depends on it," said Milken.

to no more than 15% of the total. The advisory board has developed program standards, funding priorities, and an administrative structure to guide the after-school expansion with local support from the LMBs. The Department of Human Resources will support the LMBs with training, technical assistance, and monitoring to ensure effectiveness.

According to 1996 U.S. Census data, an estimated 57% of children under 18 lack full-time parental supervision during the after-school hours. Research has shown that a child who is unsupervised after school is apparently twice as likely to use alcohol and/or other drugs as one has an adult at home when he or she returns from school. The peak hours for juvenile crime are 3-6 p.m., according to Townsend's report, and the unsupervised after-school hours are the most common time for youth to use drugs, commit crimes, and have sex, contributing to teen pregnancy.

"We have been very fortunate in Garrett County to have many of our community leaders and volunteers take an active interest in after-school and summer opportunities for our youth," Athey-Oxford said.

Athey-Oxford reported that during the construction phase of the GC PCF's proposal for the grant funding, dozens of community members offered input.

"Special recognition should be given for key support of the project by Bob Stephens and Kendra Todd of the county health department, Don Forrester and Lindsay Stanton of the education board, Pam Nelson and Linda Green of the Community Action Committee, Crystal Shaffer of Garrett's Promise, and PCF staff."

The local funds will "fill gaps that have existed for some time," Athey-Oxford said, and will provide "meaningful activities" for young people during the early evening hours.

For more information about after-school opportunities for youth or about the GC PCF, persons may contact Athey-Oxford at 301-334-1189.

Vehicle Flips, Man Injured

Fairfax, Va., resident Harry Eugene Mills was injured June 30 in a single-vehicle accident on Route 40. Police reported that Mills was westbound when he apparently lost control of his vehicle, which traveled into the eastbound lane and back across the westbound lane to strike the embankment and subsequently overturn.

Northern Rescue Squad and Grantsville VFD responded to the scene. Mills was taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital for treatment. Investigation continues.

Winter's grip
all but forgotten
an outsized cast begins to assemble.
Cranberry, blueberry on cue, tiny wood fern uncertain.
Will ruby-throated hummingbird triumph?
Out of sight in supporting cast of near-by pine do bobcat and black bear
wait, readying themselves?

Primly tamaracks stand earthbound water-bogged leafless not lifeless
like a silenced Greek chorus giving no forecast whispering no tales of past performances, their countenance unreadable, waiting for show time.

AFTER THE PARTY

In the after-glow of our national celebration of independence, how does the current political landscape look? We have heard again those magnificent words about "unalienable rights" and the mutual pledge of lives, fortunes, and sacred honor. Two hundred 24 years later, how do things stand?

In many ways the U.S.A. looks grand. More people can do what they want, both with respect to liberty and finances, than at anytime in the history of the world. That is a remarkable achievement and ought not be belittled.

The puzzle of America begins with that very same prosperity and liberty, however. How is it that next door to our richest neighborhoods we have other areas which approximate conditions in the third world with respect to living conditions, education, and infant mortality?

The late Mother Teresa said that she found in America conditions worse than those in India. In part, I think, she meant that the contradiction of the conditions in America are much worse. In a country that has shown, time and time again, that we can do anything we set our minds to, how is it that total poverty and total wealth can co-exist?

As Republicans have pointed out, the failure is not due to a lack of spending money. I wonder if we have cared enough or cared in the right ways.

With the words of the great Declaration ringing in our ears, we do well to ask how many of our leaders today would subscribe to that document if it were being debated on the floors of state and national legislatures? Oh yes, everyone would agree that declaring independence from England was a good thing, but do we still believe in the reasons for declaring independence from England? I do not think so.

Last week the Supreme Court said, in effect, that the right above every other right, above the right of religion or free speech, is a woman's right to kill her unborn child. Not even the most horrific form of abortion — partial birth abortion — can be restricted. The Court opined that if the most horrific technique of aborting babies were prohibited, it might well lead to the prohibition of only slightly less horrific techniques of aborting babies.

Think about it. The Supreme Court has now ruled that a woman has the absolute right to kill her full-term, healthy baby who could be as safely delivered as aborted.

The Supreme Court further ruled last week that free speech can be abridged at abortuaries in a way that it cannot be restricted anywhere else in any other context. In other words, the right to an abortion is so absolute that governments may reasonably restrict a person's ability to persuade a woman not to have an abortion.

The Supreme Court has now brought us to the point where we are very near the Chinese policy on abortion: the right is nearly so great that it becomes an obligation. Perhaps that is one reason why President Clinton likes the Chinese ways so well.

Speaking of President Clinton, what would it be worth to the American people if he pledged his "sacred honor" to a cause? He is our most notable example of moral unreliability, but he is, sad to say, only the first among equals.

At the signing of the Declaration, Benjamin Franklin observed, "We must all hang together, or assuredly, we shall hang separately." If the Declaration were passed in our present Congress, which way would they likely hang?

To quote Franklin again, when a woman asked after the Constitutional Convention what we were to have, a monarchy or a republic, he replied, "A republic, madam, if you can keep it." We have kept it for 211 years, but will we continue to keep it?

The early pages of our national history are littered with cautions to posterity, that is, to us. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." "The revolution must be renewed in every generation."

A great birthday bash is a wonderful thing. If the republic is to be preserved, however, then we must go beyond picnics, parades, and fireworks. We must put on the spirit of sacrifice rooted in commitment to those old unalienable rights of life and liberty.

FAMILY, FRIENDS COME HOME FOR 4TH - The 4th of July celebration in Accident, known as the Homecoming, brought together residents, friends, and visitors who shared in a traditional community gathering. Beginning with a ecumenical worship service and a flag raising, the day offered activities, sights, and sounds to appeal to all ages. Marching bands, floats, and shiny fire trucks filled Main Street for the annual parade, sponsored by the Accident Volunteer Fire Department, while the Ladies Auxiliary prepared chicken dinners to serve. Games, music, food, and conversation continued throughout the day and into the evening. The IDEA art exhibit, part of this community celebration for over a decade, drew hundreds of people to view the wide variety of work submitted for professional judging. (See results on page C-6). In the photo at left, youngsters squeal with delight as they lob wet sponges at the student raising money for the NHS band. In the photo above is one of the many decorated floats that were part of the parade. Below, Sue Arnson, Accident, notes that her watercolor entry earned an honorable mention ribbon.

Woman Convicted Of Assault Is Given Jail Time

A Mountain Lake Park woman was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections for the charge of assault. Summer Joy Stripling, 21, had pleaded guilty to the charge in April, according to a report from the state's attorney's office. Garrett County Circuit Court judge James Sherbin then suspended 2½ years of the sentence and ordered that Stripling serve the remaining six months in the local jail.

Stripling was arrested in December by officers of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI). A joint investigation with caseworkers of the Department of Social Services reportedly revealed that Stripling had been observed outside her residence striking a 10-month-old child.

In another circuit court case, Shane Matthew Oester, 20, Salisbury, Pa., was sentenced by Sherbin to two years in the local jail. He was convicted on the charge of third degree sexual offense. Sherbin suspended 2½ years of the sentence, according to the report. Following his release from jail, Oester will be on supervised probation for two years.

The defendant was charged by investigators of the GBI in March. The officers reportedly determined that Oester had engaged in sexual relations with a person not of an age to consent.

Oester will now have to register as a child sexual offender in any community in which he resides in the future, according to the state's attorney's report.

Personal Vessel Stolen From Blakeslee Shore

A 1990 Yamaha Waverunner was stolen from the shore of a lakeside South Blakeslee Road home at an unspecified point on Sunday, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Guests staying at the home of a relative told deputies they were riding the personal watercraft on Deep Creek Lake throughout the day, and had pulled it onto the shoreline at approximately 5:30 p.m., leaving its back end partially in the water. The guests entertained other company at the home through the evening, and after they had gone to bed they awoke after midnight to realize the boat had not been covered when it was parked. They went to the shore and discovered that the craft had been taken, and later advised deputies that no one had heard or noticed anything suspicious at any point since it had been parked.

The waverunner is a red and white 1990 Yamaha, built to accommodate two persons, with a model number of YAMA0671H990 and bearing the Maryland boat tag 3241AX. The craft is valued at $1,000.

Persons with any information on the incident are asked to contact DFC Dave McLaughlin of the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911.

50 YEARS AND WE STILL WORK WELL UNDER PRESSURE

GARRETT COUNTY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Through the years at GCMH, pressure has helped forge us into the strong institution of healthcare we are today. The nature of these pressures have changed with each generation, from the challenges put forth by crippling infectious diseases in the early days to the weight of a managed care healthcare system today. Looking into the next century we are ready to confront the next hurdle to providing excellent care for our community.

Kitzmiller Earns "Neighborhood" Funding Status

Kitzmiller earned approval as a Designated Neighborhood recentiy, thereby becoming eligible for state funding which targets areas in need of social or physical revitalization. This program is administered by the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development.

Some state funding programs are currently available only to applicants located in or serving residents within Designated Neighborhoods. These programs are: Live Near Your Work (DHCD), Neighborhood Conservation Program (MDOT), Neighborhood Business Development Program (DHCD), Sidewalk Program (MDOT), and Neighborhood Partnership Program.

Designated Neighborhoods, containing areas which have both residential and commercial uses, must first be declared eligible by the county government before applications may be submitted to the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development.

FRIENDSVILLE NEWS

FRIENDSVILLE UNITED METHODIST WOMEN

The Friendsville UMW met on Monday, June 26, at the church. Eight women attended the meeting. Mary Friend opened with a prayer, and Carol Frazee presented the devotional program. A decision was made to contribute money to three different missions. Plans were made for the women of the church to go to dinner on Thursday, July 13, at Topo's Restaurant. Those attending will leave the church at 5 p.m. A small business meeting will be held after the dinner.

The Friendsville UMW will be serving breakfast to the Friend Association on July 8 at the Friendsville Elementary School at 8 a.m.

ASHER GLADE CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

On Sunday, July 9, members of the Asher Glade Church of the Brethren will vote on a deacon for a three-year term.

Bible study will resume on Wednesday, July 12, at 7 p.m., and there will be a board meeting on Friday, July 14, at 7 p.m.

Sunday, July 16, is Christian Youth Sunday. A covered dish dinner will follow regular morning worship.

The Asher Glade Church of the Brethren will hold vacation Bible school during the week of July 17-21 from 7 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. The Bible school program will be held on Sunday, July 23, during the morning worship.

Outdoor Plant Allergy Affects Millions

Americans come in contact with poison ivy, poison oak, and poison sumac each year. These three plants are the most common cause of allergic skin reactions in the U.S. The rash that occurs is caused by a potent oil in the plant called urushiol. One reference indicates that the amount of urushiol oil that it takes to cover the head of a straight pin is enough to cause a reaction in approximately 500 people. Allergic reactions can occur from touching the plant or simply touching something that has touched the plant, such as the fur of an animal. If contact with one of these plants is suspected, wash the affected area with cold water. A lukewarm solution of oatmeal or baking soda can help ease itching. OTC diphenhydramine (Benadril) or hydrocortisone cream may be needed. Potent prescription steroid medicines may be necessary if OTC creams do not help.

THE ADVENTURES OF ROCKY & BULWINKLE

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:30 - Released 6/30/00

As I watch The Adventures Of Rocky & Bulwinkle, I get the sense that this is a good idea but a bad execution. There are few old cartoon shows more clever than the ol' moose and squirrel, but somehow the trappings of the three-dimensional world seem to smother their subtle wit. Although there are many funny lines and no shortage of the legendary R&B puns, the humor seems a bit labored. This is only the sophomore effort from director Des McAnuff (after 1998's Cousin Bette), and although he faithfully incorporates all of Jay Ward's famous characters from the 30+year-old TV program, it's only the third outing for screenwriter Ken Lonergan. The inexperience shows. But an abundance of cameos by various comic celebrities provides an amusing diversion, and the presence of 81-year-old cartoon voice veteran June Foray as Rocky adds an astounding sense of authenticity. Foray, who originated the role of Rocky the Squirrel in 1959, also played such famous characters as Granny from the Sylvester & Tweety cartoons, and "Witch Hazel" opposite Bugs Bunny. Incidentally, Bulwinkle is played here by Keith Scott, taking over for the late Bill Scott, the original moose. The younger Scott's characterization is virtually indistinguishable from that of his predecessor.

Desperate to find a script that's not "too intelligent," producer Minnie Mogul (Janeane Garofalo) signs the evil cartoon bad guy Fearless Leader with his idea for a series of Russian spy shows under the umbrella of the Really Bad Television network. But as she reaches into the TV to take the contract from Fealess Leader's hand, he is pulled through, suddenly becoming a live-action person (Robert DeNiro). Also humanized are his two accomplices, Boris Badenov (Jason Alexander) and Natasha Fatale (Rene Russo). Little does Minnie know, their plan is to "zombify" the entire U.S. population with their terrible shows and take over the country. When the FBI learns of this sinister plot, agent Karen Sympathy (Piper Perabo, Whiteboys) is assigned to find Rocky and Bulwinkle and enlist their aid in stopping Fearless Leader, but Boris and Natasha are soon on the case, following the moose, the squirrel, and the FBI agent across the country and attempting to eliminate them with cartoonishly disasterous results.

It is quite humorous to see Robert DeNiro doing such a ridiculous character, especially when he goes into the "are you talking to me?" routine. Jason Alexander, on the other hand, seems uncomfortable with the role of Boris, making him little more than a Russian version of George Costanza from Seinfeld. Rene Russo is wasted, barely ever speaking despite her amazing interpretation of Natasha's throaty Russian accent (which, by the way, was first performed by June Foray). But what seems especially ponderous is the inclusion of Perabo as Karen Sympathy, a girl-next-door type who is trying to overcome her inner child. Her romance with a Nordic prison guard is nothing more than filler, and her straight-man interaction with Rocky and Bulwinkle tiresomely underscores the lack of need for her presence.

Faults aside, Rocky & Bulwinkle is worth a look just to enjoy the smart patter between the two title characters. Lonergan's script, to its credit, incorporates much self-deprecating humor and references to "real life," with mentions of things like Who Framed Roger Rabbit and the Internet. Also, look for cameo appearances by Jonathan Winters, Whoopi Goldberg, Billy Crystal, and John Goodman, among others. ★★★½

FANTASIA 2000

Rated G - Running Time: 1:15
Released 6/16/00 (35mm version)

For many years after I first saw Fantasia (at the age of about 9), I referred to it as "my favorite piece of art of all time." I have seen it in the theatre more than any other film, watching it numerous times upon its every revival, and I bought the soundtrack and pretty much memorized its eight musical compositions. Naturally, I had high expectations when I heard about the release of Fantasia 2000. I am happy, and somewhat surprised, to say the new film measures up in every way to the 1940 original, with a whole list of new musical pieces (and one repeat) played over the colorful, beautiful animation of the Disney artists. Like the original, the music and artwork of Fantasia 2000 is deliciously diverse, with no dialogue or sound effects except those provided musically by the old masters' original scores, and each of the eight segments helmed by a different director. The music is performed by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under the baton of James Levine, except for the single re-run.

Without going into specifics (I feel a film like this is better experienced without too much prior knowledge of what's coming up), I can say that even the most musically inexperienced moviegoers will recognize several of the pieces, which range from Beethoven's 5th Symphony (1st mvt.) to Gershwin's "Rhapsody In Blue" to Elgar's "Pomp And Circumstance." Some of the art is purely abstract, with little more than moving colors and shapes, while some tells a definite story. The sole piece resurrected from Fantasia, complete with the original art and music performed by the Philadelphia Orchestra and conducted by the late Leopold Stokowski, is Paul Dukas's "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," the most famous part of that film, which features Mickey Mouse trying to control magic much too powerful for him.

While this film definitely maintains the spirit of Walt Disney's original concept, some wise format changes have been made, mostly to make it more kid-friendly. First, it's only 75 minutes long, considerably shorter than the 2-hour length of its predecessor. Rather than having each piece introduced by the faceless voice of Deems Taylor (who?), this film uses many well-known celebrities like Steve Martin, Bette Midler, Angela Lansbury, and even Penn & Teller to present the pieces, each in his or her own style. The first Fantasia, while rated G, could be quite scary and sometimes downright boring for little ones (I never sat through a showing of it where some kid didn't start whining during Stravinsky's "Rite Of Spring"); this film is shorter, lighter, and interspersed with humor to ensure that most children will be able to view its entire length without fidgeting (in addition to the Mickey Mouse piece, there's also one starring Donald Duck). And it does this without sacrificing any of the beautiful music or artwork that will impress adults. My only complaint is that it was over too soon. ★★★★★

Governor Announces New Energy-Saving Program; First In Nation

Emphasizing the critical importance of conserving energy in order to protect the environment, Governor Parris N. Glendening is urging Marylanders to take advantage of a new state program that offers tax rebates and incentives toward the purchase of appliances, cars, and other items that have been deemed the most energy-efficient on the market. Joined Friday by U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) Assistant Secretary Dan Reicher, Senator Chris Van Hollen, and other leaders at a demonstration at Montgomery Mall, the Governor unveiled the "Clean Energy Incentive Program," which was passed by the General Assembly last session and became law on July 1. Maryland is the first state in the nation to adopt the program.

"Today, Maryland is continuing our national leadership on environmental protection by launching a new program that will cut the use of fuel, use fewer natural resources, and put money back into the pockets of our citizens," said Glendening. "The Clean Energy Incentives Program provides significant tax breaks for Marylanders who make a conscious choice to buy the most energy-efficient appliances, cars, and other products on the market. I commend Speaker Taylor, Senator Van Hollen, and the General Assembly for working to make Maryland the first state in the nation to adopt this visionary, energy-saving program."

Under the new law, the state will repeal its sales tax on washing machines and heating and cooling equipment (beginning July 1) and air conditioners and refrigerators (beginning July 1, 2001) that bear the federal Energy Star label (which the DOE confers on the most energy-efficient products available). Consumers taking advantage of the new law will save significant amounts of money, including an average of $40 to $50 in taxes on the appliance, as well as on cheaper energy bills from reduced usage.

"Maryland's law sets an energy efficiency trend for other states and the federal government to follow," said Secretary of Energy Bill Richardson. "This law will help Maryland citizens save money while actively participating in cleaning up their environment. For example, the typical family could save up to $100 in energy and water costs, and over 7,100 gallons of water each year by using an Energy Star qualified clothes washer."

The Maryland law also provides a variety of tax incentives towards the purchase of other energy-efficient products, such as those using solar or electric power. For energy-efficient automobiles, the law will reduce the excise tax for up to $1,500 for a hybrid car (which can get up to 70 miles a gallon) and $2,000 for an electric car (which requires no gasoline). These types of cars also have lower emissions, potentially improving air quality. The law also gives a 15% state income tax credit for the installed cost of a solar or photovoltaic system, and a tax credit for using biomass fuel to provide electricity.

"I want to thank the House leadership for joining me in sponsoring this legislation in the House, and to thank the governor for his support," said Speaker Casper R. Taylor Jr., the House sponsor of the bill. "This program encourages businesses to develop, and consumers to use, more energy-efficient products. It is a great step forward for our environment."

"This landmark legislation is a win-win for Marylanders," said Senator Van Hollen, who sponsored the bill in the Senate. "By making energy-efficient products more affordable, it saves consumers money, and protects our environment at the same time."

Dear Thelma,
Just finished reading your book and thought your story was well-written, and brought the feeling of West Virginia Mountains and its breathtaking beauty to life.
Your characters were very believable and the plots were thought out and seasoned with plenty of action.
The story was fast paced, and the readers can't help but like State Trooper Adam Smith and his friend, Jason Lane.
It is truly a sensitive story of love with a twist of mystery that you'll remember for a long time, and I'm looking forward to your next book.

Car Salesman, Dealer Offer To Support Hospice

Hospice of Garrett County Inc. recently received an offer of support from Jay Paugh, car salesman at Diehl's Ford Sales in Grantsville and Greg Diehl, dealership owner.

Paugh noted that Hospice had greatly assisted his family and friends. "I want to do something for Hospice. My grandfather, father, and many of my friends have used the service. I see the work that the Hospice staff and volunteers provide to terminally ill families," he said.

To show his appreciation for the work done by the organization, the salesman outlined his plan for an ongoing donation. "I have decided that I will give $10 to Hospice for each car I sell beginning July 1 and ending December 31, 2000," Paugh said. He added that Greg Diehl, owner of Diehl's Ford Sales, will match every dollar that Paugh donates. "Hospice makes a difference in so many lives, and I want to do what I can to help make that difference happen," he concluded.

Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice responded to the offer made by the two Grantsville businessmen. "We are honored and pleased that Jay Paugh and Greg Diehl have moved forward with a new idea to help Hospice to continue to provide care for the terminally ill patients in Garrett County," she said.

Massage Offers Soothing Touch To Reassure Bid-Ridden Elderly

by Peggy Santamaria

Cynthia Knight teaches anatomy and physiology in the massage therapy program at Garrett Community College, and leads workshops and seminars on the benefits of massage. The following are some of the concepts that she presented and explored during a recent workshop on the benefits of massage for the elderly client.

The elderly and the infirm, especially those confined to a bed within a nursing home, are often emotionally fragile, which makes emotional support a primary concern, said massage therapist Cynthia Knight.

Depression, one of the most over-riding problems in nursing homes, may result from a combination of factors in a person's life. The nursing home resident may be enduring illness, relocation, and loss of privacy and independence. Other influences may be death of a spouse, loss of friends, or financial difficulties. "Depression is a common issue in this population, and massage can be a unique spirit-lifting experience," Knight explained.

She also described the confined older person as perhaps masking anger, frustration, or other overwhelming feelings about the life changes brought on by a debilitating illness or the fragility of aging. The person with such feelings "bottled up" may need to be given "permission" to let these emotions flow, she said.

This permission may be experienced through the comfort and support of the touch of a massage therapist. The release may even be in the form of tears shed as the body relaxes and the client experiences acceptance. "Nurturing touch tells the client that someone cares. It is touch that is more than routine care," Knight pointed out.

In addition to ameliorating depression, massage may benefit an elderly person or nursing home resident in other ways. The focused contact and attention can reassure and enhance healing. "Massage calms the anxious and agitated person who feels frightened and out of control," Knight stated.

The relaxation that massage encourages can also help to "melt the wall of frustration and isolation," allowing the client to become more active and sociable. An outside person visiting regularly with someone who is bed-ridden may provide mental and physical stimulation. The mentally alert client may find a relief from boredom in the visit from a massage therapist, while the elderly client who is disoriented may find a sense of being "reconnected" through interaction with the therapist.

"Being touched as a person helps the client feel whole — not just the label of diagnosis. It restores the sense that the person is still important," Knight emphasized.

Groups Planning Use Of Tobacco Settlement Funds

With the settlement funds from state law suits against the tobacco industry, health departments across Maryland will implement individual local plans to curb tobacco use through cessation and prevention programs. Each jurisdiction will develop a population-appropriate strategy that will mesh with the statewide concept. In Garrett County, the health department and the Tobacco-Free Coalition are currently outlining a plan.

Settlement funds will be allotted at the local level to support: a school-based course of action to prevent and end tobacco use, a community-based effort, and the enforcement of current tobacco regulations.

The creation of an effective local plan was the topic of a recent meeting of the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition. Group members voiced an interest in finding someone in the community to chair or co-chair the project, "so that there could be true community ownership of the county tobacco plan and the coalition efforts," a group representative reported.

Coalition members will identify resources in the county and agency programs that may be effective components in the local tobacco plan. For more information on this project persons may call Kendra Todd at 301-334-8122.

Interested persons are also invited to attend the next meeting of the Garrett County Tobcco-Free Coalition on Wednesday, July 12, at noon at the health department located along Route 135 in the G.W. Plaza.

Three Speakers To Give Health Presentation

Three physicians will address the issue of "a diet for health living, with suggestions for the prevention of cancer" on Wednesday, July 12, at the Renaissance Learning Center, located at 113 S. Third Street in Oakland. The talk will begin at 7 p.m.

The speakers will be Dr. Paul Getty, Dr. Richard Petras, and Dr. Thomas A. Haymond. The three will discuss how the human body's own autogenic system prevents and overcomes imbalanced conditions (disease). Getty and Haymond spoke locally in June, although Getty has noted that he has gained new information on the topic since that discussion.

Haymond, who practices medicine in Reedsville, W.Va., is a prostate cancer survivor and participates in a circuit of international speakers about prostate cancer. He is on the board of directors of US TOO at the Walter Reed Hospital.

Petras, Fairmont, W.Va., is certified as a doctor of naturopathy and is the founder of MicroWater Plus. He and his wife Jeanetta have owned and operated a natural supplement business, Saltbox Nutrients, for 14 years.

Getty, a resident of Kingwood, W.Va., has devoted much of the last five years of his retirement from surgical practice to understanding a healthy diet approach to life. He said he feels that cancer is basically a disease of the immune system, so improving one's immune system will improve one's life.

The public is invited to attend the discussion.

Game Encourages Interactions Of Parents, Children

A game to foster positive interactions between parents and children was used in a project this spring that was developed between Garrett County Community Action Head Start and the Garrett County Health Department Community Outreach Program. These agencies partnered with Head Start parents to encourage them to become more involved with their children by sponsoring "Random Acts of Love Bingo."

The game uses "bingo" cards on which are printed various activities that could be pursued by parents and children each week. These cards were given out to the Head Start parents, who then began to "play" the bingo game with their young children.

When an activity suggested on the bingo card was completed, the participants earned a reward. Those who completed all suggestions on the cards qualified for a grand prize at the end of the project.

A total of 79 parents from the Head Start program took part in this activity.

During the coming school year there will be more parent education offered. At orientations in the fall, parents will be informed about incentive programs, assessments, and prizes. A family trip will also be offered at the end of the year for participants.

For information about Head Start persons may call 301-334-9431, ext. 126.

LIGHT WIND, THY NAME IS FRUSTRATION; FIRECRACKER REGATTA AND JUNE SERIES RESULTS
BY DAN MUSS

Saturday looked to be a typical Garrett County summer day, partly cloudy, slightly humid, and warm. At 11 a.m., although, there did not seem to be much wind. We rigged and went out with faith in our hearts.

The committee had set up a course for the first race of the Firecracker Regatta expecting a northerly breeze, but the zephyrs seem to be coming from everywhere. At the start a real breeze came up out of the north and we were off. Then the wind died, then it came up, then it died. Sometimes it came up on the left and sometimes on the right. It took almost an hour to sail that first windward leg. The committee then sent the patrol boat around to announce a shortened course, and we finished downwind at the next mark. It was almost 3 p.m. when we got in for lunch, hungry, tired, hot, and thirsty.

It was too late to sail the second race on Saturday, so it was postponed until Sunday. On Sunday the weather was very similar to Saturday's, but the committee was able to get two races in back-to-back.

To the casual observer one might expect light air to be easier, more relaxed. In reality it's just the opposite. Light air requires intense concentration and can cause physical and psychological stress, and winning seems to depend on one factor — Find the wind. Seeing it coming as a gentle ruffling of the water surface and trying to get to it. In light air one does not merely sail to the mark, one tries to get to the mark by finding these little puffs.

Women Golfers Play Scramble

Members of the Women's Association of the Oakland Golf Club held their monthly meeting on Saturday morning prior to 9 a.m. scramble play. The winning threesome of Janice Metheny, Bonnie DeWater, and Jane Frawley carded 74. Two teams tied for second place, each scoring 75 — the foursome of Pat Filsinger, Cheryl Wotherspoon, Margaret Moran, and Julia Sines, and the threesome of June Bray, Loretta Pernell, and Vickie Regnier.

On the weekend of June 24 and 25 several members of the association traveled to the Preston Golf Club for the West Virginia Tri-State Golf Tournament. Players in this tournament were from Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia. June Bray took second place honors in the third flight, while two members placed high in the fourth flight: Annis Colaw claimed second place and Sherry Grant finished sixth.

Sue Shillito, Alpine Lake Resort, Terra Alta, won the Silver Senior Award (age 60-69) and Dorothy Betonte, (age 70+).

These awards were based on net score. The closest to the pin award was won by Catherine Hamerick, Sunny Croft Country Club, Clarksburg. There was a tie for the least amount of putts in 18 holes. The winners were Lowis Keener, Sleepy Hollow Country Club, Hurricane, and Cindy Gallina, Preston Country Club, Kingwood. Charter members Alice Icard, Hidden Valley Country Club, Pt. Pleasant, and Missy Brown, Scarlet Oaks Country Club, Nitro, were in attendance.

Tournament sponsors were Shillito Insurance Agency, Homes for All Seasons, Delano Furniture & Carpet, Gregg's Pharmacy, Clutter Realty, J&J Ford, the Terra Alta Bank (all from Terra Alta), and Golf Express, Davis.

SHS Hoop Teams Conclude First Summer Season

The varsity and junior varsity boys' basketball teams, sponsored by Railey Realty and Pioneer Conveyor, respectively, finished play in the Fort Hill Summer League recently. The varsity squad resumes play this evening, July 6, as it opens in Berkeley Springs' Outdoor League at 6:30 versus Hedgesville and 7:30 against host Berkeley Springs.

The Rams' varsity notched an 11-3 record in the Fort Hill league, and all three losses, including a championship game defeat, came at the hands of host Fort Hill. The squad had beaten Allegany in the semi-finals to advance to the final round. Varsity team members are Mike Saturday, Keith Steyer, Bryan Panther, Ryan Ewing, Josh Sharon, Jamie Botley, Chad Panther, Ricky Reams, Joel Helbig, and Bryson Meyers.

The SHS junior varsity unit finished with an overall record of 10-2, with one of those losses coming in the championship contest after beating Fort Hill in the semis. Team members were Matt Stephens, Joe Davis, A.J. Bender, Adam Cooper, Brian Edwards, Brent Niner, Dennis Tressler, and Nathan Fitzwater.

Garrett Splits With Ft. Cumberland, Frostburg As Legion Play Resumes

The second half of the American Legion Mountain District Baseball League season got under way this week, and the Garrett squad fell to Fort Cumberland, 24-9, in Thursday's opener before roaring back to down Frostburg Farraday Post 24 by a 16-9 margin Saturday.

Thursday's home match-up with Cumberland got off to a furious start, as each team scored seven runs in the opening stanza. Garrett starter Justin DiSimone was tagged for a three-run home run by Derrick Davis and a two-run shot by Matt Wright that sparked the visitors' first-inning output. Tony Fetters had opened on the mound for Cumberland, but Wright was called on in relief as Garrett began to rack up its scores in the bottom half of the first.

The second inning opened with the combatants locked in a seven-all struggle, but Cumberland broke away in short order by scoring six runs in the stanza to go up 13-7. The visitors scored once in the third before Garrett was able to put a solo run on the board in the bottom of the inning, then Cumberland scored three runs in the fourth that was answered by a lone Garrett run in the same stanza.

Cumberland's offensive tear continued as it mounted a one-run fifth before Jacob Cagey stroked a three-run homer in the sixth, and the squad scored three more times in the seventh. Garrett was held scoreless from the third inning on, and the game was decided by the 10-run rule after the bottom of the seventh inning.

The visitors shredded Garrett's pitching staff of DiSimone, Nathan Sleeman, and Jared Fike for a total of 20 hits during the contest. Garrett's hurlers had little help from their defense, which committed five errors in an uncharacteristic lapse. Sleeman paced Garrett's five-hit output with a pair of singles.

Garrett regrouped to down Frostburg on the road Saturday, scoring a dozen runs over the final five innings of a complete nine-inning contest. Christian Warfield launched a solo home run in the opening inning to help Garrett jump out to a 2-0 lead, then the squad added another pair in the top of the third to go up 4-0. Frostburg rallied to take a 5-4 lead in the bottom of the third, as Ryan Brodbeck's three-run double was followed by a two-run home run by David Ziler.

Garrett grabbed the lead in the top of the fifth inning with a seven-run flurry. Fike singled in two runs, and P.J. Workman ripped a two-run double. Keith Parks stroked a single that drove home a run, and Garrett scored two more runs on a fielder's choice and a Frostburg error to go up 11-5. The hosts pulled to within two in the fifth inning when Zack Bittinger blasted a bases-loaded triple and Josh Glass added an RBI single.

The ninth inning saw Garrett pull away for good with five runs, as DiSimone and Workman both ripped two-run singles, and Josh Bosley walked with the bases loaded to force in the other run.

Jeff Carr started on the mound for Garrett and was relieved by Bosley in the fifth inning. Bosley picked up the win. Frostburg's Ritchie Dellinger, who was lifted in favor of Jarrett Rishel in the fifth, was tagged with the loss.

Jordan Uphold singled three times for Garrett, which amassed 14 hits on the day. Bosley and DiSimone each singled twice, and Sleeman doubled once.

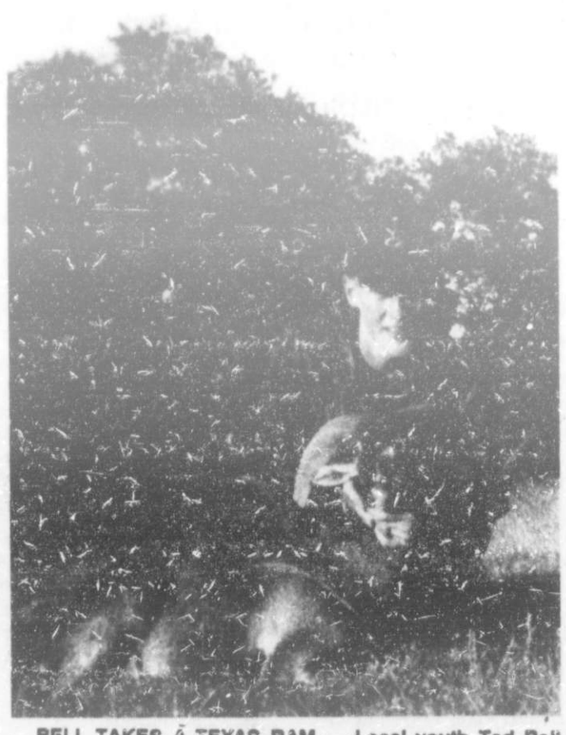

Garrett hosts Frostburg today at 5:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College, then travels to Cumberland for a noon match-up Saturday. The squad will travel to Frostburg Thursday for a 5:30 p.m. contest.

Senior League All-Stars To Play For Title

The Oakland Senior Baseball League All-Stars will play for the district championship this Sunday, July 9, at 5:30 p.m. at Broadford Park. The Senior All-Stars are the defending district champions that came within one game of winning the state title last season. The 1999 squad lost the state title finals to Cambridge after taking the first game of the best two-of-three series.

The 2000 All-Stars advanced to this year's district championship after an impressive week that saw the team take three straight wins, each by virtue of the 10-run mercy rule. The week opened with a 24-6 rout of Conococheague that featured five All-Star home runs. Ricky Reams lofted two home run blasts, while Joel Helbig, Kevin Goralski, and Brad Palmer each belted round-trippers of their own. Steven Eiswert added three hits and Chad Kroll chipped in two hits to aid the pitching efforts of Reams, Tobi Stoner, and Eiswert.

The next game was against Valley of Hagerstown, when seven-run explosion in the first inning sparked the Oakland squad to a 10-0 win behind the combined shutout pitching work of Bryan Hauser and Chris Remley. The mound duo held Valley to just two hits on the day. Brad Palmer whacked a grand slam home run, Bryson Meyers ripped three hits, and Chris Remley stroked a pair of hits. Ryan Ewing and Jay Tressler keyed the defense with some sterling glovework that helped preserve the shutout.

The third outing of the week was more of the same, for Oakland trounced Halfway by a 10-0 margin as Meyers hurled a three-hitter. Chad Panther collected a pair of hits at the plate, scored twice, and made an over-the-fence circus catch to rob the visitors of a home run. Eiswert and Meyers both cranked out home runs in the first inning before Brad Palmer blasted a grand slam in the third.

The Senior League Oakland All-Stars are managed by Doug Copeland, with assistance from coaches Greg Tressler and James Burns. The winner of Sunday's district championship game will advance to Joe Cannon Stadium to play in the state semifinals.

Christian Men's Softball League Results Noted

Three doubleheaders were played in Garrett County Area Christian Men's Softball League action this past week, two of which ended in sweeps while the third resulted in a split. Crellin United Brethren sat idle and retained its grip on first place with the league's sole undefeated record at 12-0.

Pleasant View and Glade Mennonite battled through a hard-fought twinbill, with Pleasant View taking a pair of two-run wins, 10-8 and 11-9. Poke Winters took credit for the pitching victories in both halves of the doubleheader.

Maple Glen Mennonite bested Glade Mennonite 10-9 and 22-7. Maple Glen capitalized on a pair of home run shots by Steve Miller (one a grand slam) and two Dave Kennel homers. Terry Brenneman stroked a home run for Glade in the losing effort. Laban Tice picked up the wins for Maple Glen.

Cherry Glade Mennonite and the Oakland Church of the Nazarene split a twinbill, with Cherry Glade taking an 11-7 opening win before the Nazarene resurrected for a 26-25 victory in the nightcap. Brian Bender notched the victory for Cherry Glade in game no. 1, and Will Roszell took credit for Nazarene's triumph. Bender, Terry Beal, and Brent Maust each stroked a home run for Cherry Glade, while Nazarene's Tim Upton launched a pair of home run blasts and Steve Shaffer added one of his own.

On the trail of Crellin UB's league-leading 12-0 mark are: Bethel, 12-2; Crellin UM and Mt. View, both 10-4; Glade, 9-5; Maple Glen, 7-5; Cherry Glade, 5-7; Cornerstone, Gortner, and Maranatha, each 4-8; Pleasant View, 3-7; Nazarene, 3-9; Oak Park, 3-11; and Crellin AG, 0-8.

Doerr Splits With Savage, Frankfort

Doerr Construction split a pair in this week's Hot Stove Baseball League action, taking a 5-4 win over Mt. Savage Saturday before suffering a 13-2 defeat at the hands of Frankfort yesterday afternoon. Doerr's has a 3-11 record heading into the final week of regular season play, which begins with a Tuesday match-up at Flintstone and concludes with a Thursday, July 13, battle with Kiwanis on the Northern High School diamond.

Doerr exploded for a four-run first inning against Savage at home Saturday, a flurry that included an RBI single by Derek Workman. Savage scored once in the third, Doerr scored once in the fourth, and the visitors scored a lone run again in the fifth to make the score 5-2 with Doerr on top.

Jared Bridges doubled in a pair of runs to draw Savage to within one in the seventh and final inning, but Doerr reliever Dan Vagnetti clinched the win by striking out the final batter. Vagnetti, who came to the mound in the fifth, took the save, while starter Jason Rice was credited with the win. The pitching duo combined to hold Savage to just four hits during the contest.

Doerr's offense had a six-hit output as Cliff Everett stroked three singles.

Frankfort took no prisoners yesterday at Allegany College, as the West Virginia squad scored in each of its five appearances at the plate with one run in the first inning, five in the second, one in the third, and three in both the fourth and fifth stanzas. Doerr, which was held to two hits, scored once in the second and once in the fifth. Vagnetti smacked a double for Doerr.

Area Speedway Review

The New Somerset County Speedway

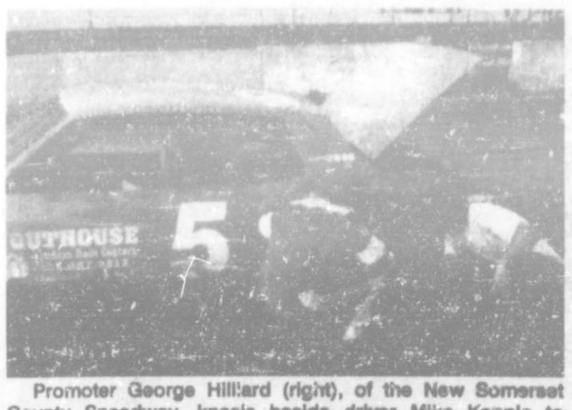

Last Friday night, drivers in Street Stocks, Pure Stocks, and Hobby Stocks competeted for trophies at the New Somerset County Speedway in Meyersdale, Pa.

Drivers in all three classes presented exciting racing for fans last Friday night, with Joe Donaldson of Meyersdale winning the Street Stock event. He was followed by Tom Humberson of Grantsville in second place, and Charlie Bittinger of Confluence, Pa., taking third.

The Pure Stocks saw Bobby Smith of Meyersdale taking the win for the second week in a row, with Bryan Taylor of Corinth, W.Va., in second place, and Dale Wilt of Meyersdale in third.

In the Hobby Stock feature Len Livingood, Mike Stiffey, and Stephen Emerick, all of Meyersdale, placed first through third, in that order.

Racing will take place again tomorrow night starting at 7:30 p.m.

Promoter George Hilliard (right), of the New Somerset County Speedway, kneels beside driver Mike Kepple to wait for the tow truck and to check out the damage to his car after the rear axle broke coming out of turn 4. The mishap happened as the green flag dropped at the beginning of the Street Stock feature, putting Kepple out of action for the rest of the night. Hilliard, new at promoting, is offering safe, fair, and quality competition for drivers, and exciting racing for fans. The gates at the track open at 5 p.m., with hot laps starting at 7 and races beginning at 7:30. General admission is $5 for adults, $3 for those 10 to 14, and free for children 9 and under. For cars and drivers the pit fee is $15, and $12 each for additional crew members. For additional information, Hilliard can be reached at 814-662-2169.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park

John Redshaw of Farmington, Pa., took the checkered flag for the first time in his Pure Stock Career Saturday night at Roaring Knob Raceway Park. Redshaw was followed by Greg Hauger, Jim Byers, Jim Bendishaw Jr., and Scott Spade. The Hard Charger Award went to Jim Bendishaw Sr. for going from 17th to 5th position.

Winning in the Late Model division for the first time this season was D.J. Cline of St. Clairsville, Pa. followed by Chad McDougal, Jeff Thomas of Oakland, Jeff Ferguson, and Wally Stock.

The top five in the Dwarf feature were John Cogar, first, followed by Lynn Knepper, Eric Hay, Frank Dunkle, and Jeff Barclay.

The E-Mod top five were Brent Trimble, Scott Jones, Mark Baylor, Buck Goodwin, and Bud Cutlip.

The Splash for Cash was a water balloon toss between drivers and the fans. The winners were Tina Bendishaw tossing to driver Jim Bendishaw Jr., both of Uniontown, Pa., and Roxanne Ringer of Bruceton Mills, W.Va., tossing to driver Mike Hay of Somerset, Pa.

This week, July 8, at The Knob will be the second series of races in the Tri-state Shoot-Out with $1,500 to win for the Late Model 35-lap event, $500 to win for the E-Mods, $300 to win for the Dwarf cars, and $250 to win for the Pure Stocks. Also Wed., July 19, fans will see the first annual Keystone Shootout. Late Models will do 75 laps with $7,500 to win.

For more information, fans may call 724-329-0306 or check www.roaringknob.com on the Web.

Interstate 79 Speedway

The Semi-late drivers were in the spotlight at Interstate 79 Speedway last Friday night as they ran their special event sponsored by Roy's Travel Trailers. Steve Wilmoth of Clarksburg, W.Va., was the winner of the 25-lap invitational. Also visiting the winner's circle were Robbie Scott of Shinnston, W.Va.; Shawn Davis of Salem, W.Va., driving for Automotive Machine of Mtn. Lake Park; Jim Byers of McClellandtown, Pa.; and Dave Summers of Grafton, W.Va.

Since the beginning of May, Paul Wilmoth has had a lock on the feature races at I-79. He has won 6 straight feature events and led most of the laps in those races. However, Robbie Scott ran a flawless race and held off more challenges from Wilmoth than he cares to remember. On the final lap, Wilmoth pulled a famous slide job going into the fourth and final turn, but Scott came back under Wilmoth to claim his first win of the new millennium. Tim Senic claimed third, while Garry Dalton and Scott Miles were fourth and fifth. Nolan Daiton won the Hard Charger award, and heat winners were Scott and Senic.

The Semi-late Invitational began with M.T. Hall setting fast time during qualifications. Stanley Spooner and Roy Gibson won heats, while Mark McGill picked up the fast dash. Steve Wilmoth earned a front row starting spot for the A-main and jumped out to lead at the green flag, leading all 25 laps. He was followed by McGill, Hall, Chris Smith, and Gibson.

Leading the Fox 46 Modified feature was not the place to be. First, Vic Vandergrift had a substantial lead when a fire broke out under the hood and he headed for the fire truck in the infield. Jack Young inherited the lead but slipped and gave the lead to Brent Trimble. Then it was Trimble's turn to bobble, giving the lead for the final time to Shawn Davis. Davis picked up his second win of the year ahead of Trimble, Young, Sonny Stutler, and Ron Parrish. Vandergrift, Ray Perkins, and Young claimed earlier heat wins.

Notching his second win of the season in the Pure Stocks was Jim Byers. Byers won an extra $50 for being a NASCAR look-alike with his M&M car. Jon Wamsley, Ron Howard, Randy Bohan, and Pat Frazier followed Byers across the line. John Smith, Byers and Frazier took the heat wins.

Driver Dave Summers took the win in the 4-Cylinder class, followed by Mike Simpson, Kevin Pifer, Jeff Pennington, and Mike Lewis of Oakland rounding out the top five.

Tomorrow night Interstate 79 Speedway will present racing in five divisions. An Enduro warm-up will be held for drivers who plan to participate in the July 16 Enduro. Gates will open at 6 p.m., with racing at 8 p.m. For information, fans may call the speedway office at 304-592-3200 or the track at 304-592-0916.

Special Olympics Cycling Set At DCL State Park

The Garrett County chapter of Special Olympics Maryland (SOMD) will begin a cycling program on Monday, July 10. Group participants will meet at the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center at 4 p.m. Practice will continue until 5:30 p.m.

Special athletes who would like to participate but do not own bicycles may have bikes provided through the program. Anyone interested in volunteering to assist with this program is invited to contact Garrett County SOMD chairman Chad Brown at 301-895-3793.

Golf Fund-Raiser Set For Northern Garrett Football

A benefit golf tournament to raise funds for the three football teams of northern Garrett County is set for Monday, July 17, at the Wisp Golf Resort in McHenry. The two-player best ball tournament will be played with a handicap system. On-site registration begins at 7:30 a.m., and play gets under way with a shotgun start at 9 a.m.

A variety of prizes will be offered at the tournament, including a $1,000 prize for a hole-in-one on any of the course's par 3 holes. A new car, supplied by Diehl's Ford Sales in Grantsville, will be awarded for a hole-in-one on an as-yet unspecified hole. Additional prizes will be awarded at each hole, low gross teams will win cash for three places, and a putting contest will have prizes as well.

The entry fee is $75 per person, and up to 60 two-player teams may register. Interested persons may call Jamie Rodeheaver at 301-746-6506 or Warren Glotfelty at 301-387-5349 for further information. Any businesses interested in sponsoring a hole for $100 may call those persons as well. DeepCreekMagazine.com is offering a free month-long ad on its web site for any business that sponsors a hole.

The fund-raising tourney benefits the football programs of the Northern High School Huskies, the Northern Steelers youth league, and the Northern Maddawgs.

SHS Player/Parent Meeting Set For SHS Girls' Soccer

A player/parent meeting will be held for all girls interested in playing varsity soccer for Southern High School on Thursday, July 13. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the social hall of St. Peter's Catholic Church, located at 220 South Fourth Street, across from the Courthouse in Oakland.

All girls interested in playing varsity soccer are encouraged to attend this meeting along with their parents. Expectations, schedules, school policies, medical requirements, and other information regarding the upcoming season will be discussed. Forms requiring both player and parent signatures will also be distributed.

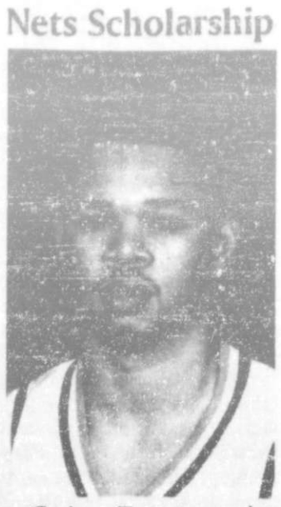

Anyone unable to attend this meeting or wishing to obtain more information may contact Ron Petrella at 301-334-1174 in the evenings between 6 and 9 p.m.

Ringer Slingers Results Noted

The results of this weekend's Mt. Top Ringer Slingers doubles horseshoe pitching tournament are as follows: first place — Jim Shahan (pitching solo), second place — Gary Holtschneider and Jesse Fear; third place — Junior Goodwin and Ralph Condon.

The Ringer Slingers have slated an upcoming singles competition for Sunday, July 9, at 2 p.m. on the Accident Park horseshoe pitching court.

Lakers' Turner Nets Scholarship

Corin Turner, point guard and a recognized team leader for coach Dennis Gibson's Garrett Community College men's basketball team, has accepted an athletic scholarship to attend Virginia Union University in Richmond, Va. Turner averaged 10 points per game for the Lakers this past season, and led the squad in assists with 5.3 per game and in steals with 54 for the year.

"Corin wanted to win, and he brought heart and desire along with leadership into our games," commented Gibson, adding that he considered Turin the top defensive guard on his team. "I am very proud of Corin. He sacrificed a lot to transfer here from Potomac State College [Keyser, W.Va.] in order to play in a much better conference. He averaged over 20 points a game for PSC, but we convinced him that he needed to do more as a point guard, and he willingly gave up the ball in our offense to get it to Jones, Somerville, and Levi, our top scorers. This scholarship and the opportunity to play for a well-respected coach such as Dave Robbins is his reward."

Robbins concurred with Gibson's assessment of Turner's skills. "We brought in 10 different guards to work out with our team, but [only] Corin did all the right things. He played great defense, distributed the ball to our scorers, and played with authority. I was very pleased to land him, he will be a great asset."

Viginia Union is recognized as one of the top teams in the CIAA conference. The program has won 10 tournament championships since 1979, including five over the past decade.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the Planetarium at Frostburg State University. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask a sky question, call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief program on days of the week and "Sky Sights" which airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM, Frostburg State's radio station that transmits at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Dr. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu

THE SUN - In July, sunlight hours each day slowly drop from 14.9 to 14.3 at the end of the month. The sun's midday peak height slightly decreases from 73 to 68 degrees (45 degrees is halfway up and 90 degrees is overhead). Sunrise times advance by about 20 minutes (from about 5:53 to 6:15 a.m.). Sunset times fall back about 20 minutes (from about 8:50 to 8:30 p.m.).

THE MOON - At the start of July the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. A few days later the moon will again be visible as a slender crescent low in the western dusk. By Saturday, July 8, the moon will have grown to half full in the evening sky (looks like a "D"). This shape of the moon offers the best views of the moon's craters and mountains with binoculars or a telescope. The moon grows to full on Sunday, July 16. Within five nights the moon will have exited the evening sky and then will rise after midnight. A week before July ends the moon appears half full at dawn (then looks like a backwards "D"). As July draws to a close, the moon is a slender crescent in the eastern dawn. The moon will appear near Saturn in Wednesday, July 26, and Jupiter on Thursday, July 27, low in the eastern dawn.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS - Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even the planet's light may flicker. Three of the five bright planets can be seen in July 2000. In the eastern dawn you can see bright Jupiter and Saturn. In the last week of July, you can also see Mercury below and to the left of Jupiter. Both Venus and Mars are too close to the sun to be seen in July.

JULY'S BEST SIGHTS - The most arresting sight in July evenings is the star group Scorpius low in the south. Scorpius the Scorpion resembles a starry letter "J." The bright pinkish star Antares near the top of the "J" marks the Scorpion's heart. The Big Dipper is about halfway up in the northwest with its two lowest stars pointing right to the North Star. There is a faint comet named Linear that may be visible to the eye the last weeks of July. (The comet's name comes from the automated telescope that discovered it.) In mid-July use binoculars and scan underneath the North Star for Linear. The comet will appear as a "furry star." About 10 days before the end of July, Linear will be brightest and underneath the bowl of the Big Dipper. A faint tail, pointing upward, may be seen with binoculars. Linear then moves leftward and fades; by the end of July Linear will be found above the tail star of Leo (Denebola) low in the western dusk.

JULY ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES - Our Sunday programs are over for the summer months, and regular planetarium shows will resume in September. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet on Friday, July 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the LaVale Public Library. The new comet Linear will be discussed. All interested sky gazers are welcome. Several members are residents of Garrett County, including the club's vice president, Gus Johnson of Swanton.

Kitzmiller Coin Collectors Meet

The Money Club met in Kitzmiller recently for an Independence Day gathering. Club members received the new 2000 Sacagawea dollar folder with P and D coins and a collector's map for the state quarters series, and shared information on recent purchases, such as the 1999 Susan B. Anthony P and D coins and an 1864 "Soldiers in Action" Confederate $10 bill. The 1976 Bicentennial $2 Jefferson bill, counting skills, and stock market research were among the other topics of discussion.

The club has opened an account with Ferris, Baker, and Watts Inc. in Oakland, and plans to open a savings and checking account at a local bank as well. The Money Club is sponsored by the Backbone Mountain and Potomac River Heritage Corporation, and persons may contact Becky DeWitt at 301-453-3375 for further information.

Students Awarded GCC Scholarships

JOANNA ABE

Four recent area high school graduates have been awarded scholarships from the Garrett Community College Foundation, according to Bretta Reinhard, advancement officer.

Two students, Joanna Abe and Sheena Murphy, have received the Charles L. Briner Memorial Scholarship.

Ms. Abe, daughter of Stephen and Susan Abe of Oakland and graduate of the New Life Christian School in Elkins, W.Va., has enrolled in the general studies program because she does not have a specific career goal at this time. She is interested in journalism and she enjoys reading science fiction. In high school she was a member of the student council, on the principal's honor roll every year, and was selected to be in Who's Who Among American High School Students. She also received two President's Awards, and was named Student of the Year during her freshman year. She is active with local and district church youth groups.

Sheena Murphy, daughter of Dennis and Reneta Murphy of Oakland and recent graduate of Southern High School, is enrolled in the human services certificate program with plans to become a special education assistant. In high school she was a member of the chorus, the National Honor Society, and the Southern Garrett Christian Club, for which she served as secretary, and then as vice-president. She currently serves as piano player for several churches and is interested in Bible quizzing and youth groups. She is a member of the Oakland Church of the Nazarene Youth.

Two students have been awarded Westvaco scholarships, and one of them has also received the Roscoe G. Bartlett Scientific Scholarship.

Shelley Lee Taylor, daughter of Stanley and Darlene Taylor of Swanton and 1999 graduate of Westmar High School, is a member of the Honors Program at GCC. When she completes her education, she plans to work in orthopedics or massage therapy. In high school she was a member of the National Honor Society, S.H.O.P. and Student Council all four years. She was also selected to be in Who's Who Among American High School Students. She enjoys volunteering her time to help other people at a day care facility and the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department, and she has helped in the annual soup kitchen and the Toys for Happiness program. Ms. Taylor has received the Roscoe G. Bartlett Scientific Scholarship and the Westvaco scholarship.

Daniel Garlitz, son of Clay and Connie Garlitz of Lonaconing and graduate of Northern High School, has received the Westvaco scholarship and will major in computer science in College. In high school he was on the track and field teams and served as vice-president of FFA. He was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students. He is vice-president of the Grantsville 4-H Club, and he enjoys fishing, hunting, bike riding, running, and playing indoor soccer at the

Johnny's Bait House John Marple, Owner

Long-time fishing enthusiasts have learned from experience that fish can be contrary creatures. What they will strike varies from season to season, weather condition to weather condition, species to species or for no apparent reason. For someone looking to bring home dinner, this can be frustrating.

Johnny's Bait House is a resource that no local angler should do without. They carry a variety of live bait to appeal to any species! Fish are more likely to strike the bait that most closely resembles their natural prey, and Johnny's Bait House can advise their customers on the bait for the type of fish they're after. Live minnows, worms, night crawlers and other baits are available. They are also the place to go for your state fishing license. These experienced folks will be glad to pass on information regarding what fish are running and where you can catch them. A carefully chosen selection of artificial lures is also on hand as well as a variety of weights, hooks, sinkers, bobbers and more.

To outfit a new angler or re-supply an experience fisherman, Johnny's Bait House, located in Deep Creek Lake at 20768 Garrett Highway, phone (301) 387-FISH, is the best place to go. Come find out for yourself what fish are biting!

Rosedale Christian Academy Dr. Greg Cummings, Principal

Rosedale Christian Academy is located in Mountain Lake Park at 600 Spruce Street, phone (301) 334-5873. This school offers an educational curriculum built upon traditional ideas and values where Christianity is the watchword at all times. An investment in a Christian education is an investment in your child that will pay real dividends in future years. They offer an individualized learning system with a customized curriculum designed for each student. In the classroom, your child will receive necessary skills and guidance and will learn to make good decisions in the world and the community.

To get anywhere today, one must have a good education. Rosedale Christian Academy offers programs through 12th grade, with the emphasis on academics. They have been a leader in advancing the educational level of students in this area for many years. Graduates of this school are able to excel in college as well as later in life. To help your child prepare for the future in a healthy, well-rounded environment, contact Rosedale Christian Academy today. Your child will thank you for it later.

For information about their registration, class schedules, special events or academic programs, feel free to call Rosedale Christian Academy at (301) 334-5873. Let them help make the difference in your child's education and future.

Garrett County Orthopaedics Dona Alvarez, MD

Injuries and other bone and joint disorders are among the most common, painful and aggravating ailments suffered by the human body. Dr. Alvarez, located in Oakland at 311 North 4th Street, phone (301) 334-1034, specializes in the medical, surgical and rehabilitative treatment of the bones, joints, muscles, ligaments, and tendons.

Orthopaedics encompasses not only injuries to the musculoskeletal system, but also arthritis and other afflictions, most of which are treated in the office without surgery. Some, however, fail to improve with non-surgical therapy. Tremendous advances in surgical treatment have enabled most who require surgery to recover much quicker now than in years past. Arthroscopic surgery requires only two to three one-fourth inch incisions and usually is performed as an outpatient procedure. Most knee, and many shoulder problems can be managed with arthroscopic surgery. Recovery from these procedures is usually prompt, requiring minimal lost time from work or athletic endeavors. For the individual suffering from the crippling pain of severe arthritis, if non-operative treatment fails, joint replacement often provides tremendous relief and enables return to painless walking.

Dr. Alvarez has abundant knowledge, training and experience in this field, and she is certified by the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery. For comprehensive and personalized orthopaedic care, contact the office of Garrett County Orthopaedics and Dr. Alvarez at (301) 334-1034 for an appointment. Most medical insurance plans are accepted.

Garrett Rehab Services

Providing The Community With Full Rehabilitative Therapy Services

Rehabilitation is often required for a variety of disorders, including injuries, diseases and congenital problems. Professional physical and occupational therapy is available at Garrett Rehab Services, located in Oakland at 6500 Thayer Center, phone (301) 334-1863.

Physical therapy is restorative care using physical agents other than drugs. Through the use of heat, light, water, electricity, massage and exercise, their licensed physical therapists will provide a personalized treatment program enabling you to progress as quickly and safely as possible. Their goal is to help you return to your normal activities and regain as much function of the affected area as possible. Their registered occupational therapists are available to assist adults and children with disabilities, along with those who have suffered head trauma or a stroke, to regain functional independence. They help with all types of motor training and daily living skills, and can provide bio-feedback for stress management and relaxation techniques. In addition, they assist arthritics in regaining a functional range of motion. Full audiological services are also available.

Contact Garrett Rehab Services at (301) 334-1863 if your doctor has recommended physical or occupational therapy, or if you have questions regarding the benefits and effectiveness of these rehabilitative treatments. These caring professionals are committed to providing their patients full opportunity for recovery and independence.

Classie Car Co. Don Nine, Owner • Selling Value For 22 Years

For many years, automobile dealers considered "used cars" as a sideline to the business of selling new models. Things have changed in recent years, and one of the big reasons is the kind of business operated by Classie Car Co. They believe that the used car buyer is just as important as the new car buyer and are determined to give each customer the finest quality and the best possible price.

The smart way to buy a used car is to purchase it from Classie Car Co., located in Oakland at 1314 Garrett Highway, phone (301) 334-4995, where each and every car is checked by an expert mechanic before it is put on the lot. You can feel assured that all of the cars they sell are in excellent condition and have many miles of driving left in them. Financing can also be arranged for your convenience.

Classie Car Co. has a large "family" of customers who return because they know that integrity, service and assurance of quality are passwords here. If you're in the market for a good buy on a clean, reconditioned previously owned car, stop in soon. They are sure to have just what you're looking for.

Gonder Insurance Agency

Everyone knows or has heard of someone who met with a catastrophic circumstance and was either uninsured or under insured. A rental property burns and the tenants have no renters insurance. A motorist loses control on a wet or icy road and totals the car, but only carries liability insurance. A young family is left in shock and financially devastated by the untimely death of the principle breadwinner who thought there was plenty of time to invest in life insurance. These are everyday occurrences today, but it doesn't have to happen.

Gonder Insurance Agency, an affiliate of First United Bank & Trust, located in Oakland at 203 South 2nd Street, phone (301) 334-3343, is the area's insurance expert. They can evaluate your current policies and develop a comprehensive insurance plan sufficient enough to protect yourself, your family or your business, and specifically designed for your needs and budget. Gonder Insurance Agency represents a variety of insurance companies and will discuss age-specific, multi-car or multi-policy discounts for which you may be eligible. They offer home, business, farm, auto, life and health insurance as well as insurance on your recreational vehicle or boat.

Contact Gonder Insurance Agency for a personalized consultation on your current policies and future needs now before a catastrophic loss makes you wish you had. For tomorrow's security and today's peace of mind, phone (301) 334-3343.

R WHAT IS A PRESCRIPTION?

It looks like an ordinary piece of paper with writing you can't read, to get medicines that sometimes seem expensive.

Actually, a prescription is a passport to better health. Physicians study many years to be able to write one. Pharmacists study many years to learn how to compound them. Drug firms usually spend millions to perfect the drugs in them. The relatively few dollars all this knowledge costs can save you sickness-time and sometimes your life.

"Child's Play"

What a unique idea. Here, right in the heart of a buzzing mall, someone remembered the children. Someone remembered that as vital as the world of merchandising and advertising is, the laughter of a child and a moment's peace for a parent are also important. As they watch youngsters exploring giant waffles and banana slice steps (see picture), passersby also grin. Happiness is contagious.

In our hectic lives, we need to find a reason to smile in the midst of mayhem...for ourselves as well as for those who see us, that they may "catch" our pleasant frame of mind. God gives us a reason to smile. He cares for us as His children. If we look we can see our Creator in the sky and the stars...in every raindrop. Psalm 146:5 tells us, "Happy is he...whose hope is in the Lord his God."

Worship God at your chosen church or synagogue this Sabbath day. Discover His sanctuary in the midst of the business of living. You will share in the joy of becoming a child of God.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHOM DO YOU FOLLOW

July 9, 2000

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 2.
Devotional Reading:
John 17:1-11, 20-23.

I am writing this on a train traveling from Vevey, Switzerland to Verona, Italy. It is a Sunday and I feel the strangeness of not getting ready for our Sunday school class and worship in downtown Dallas, Texas. Along the way we see the towers and spires of many churches where presumably Christians are assembling according to their own custom. Then I begin to wonder how many of the other travelers on our train are also fellow Christians. If Valere and I got off at the next stop and entered the nearest church, would we feel a part of this congregation or like strangers?

Have you ever noticed that, outside your own congregation, you may feel little sense of identification with other Christians? Presbyterians may feel they have little in common with Baptists. Protestants may find it difficult to think of Roman Catholics and Orthodox as brothers and sisters in Christ—and vice versa. Why is it that, although we confess the same Lord, we do not feel much of a connection with other Christians?

Perhaps it is because our God is too small, our Christ is too narrow and our churches too parochial. Maybe what we believe about Christ actually erects walls between us and other followers. While I would never say that what we believe is not important, nevertheless I would remind you that belief and faith are not identical—and the greatest of these is not our beliefs, but whom we follow. James reminds us that "You believe that God is one; you do well. Even the demons believe—and shudder" (James 2:19). You may believe in Jesus Christ, but that does not necessarily mean that you follow him.

Sons of Disobedience

Ephesians puts the emphasis upon following, noting that before becoming Christians, his readers followed the course of the world, following the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that is now at work in the sons of disobedience. Among these we all once lived in the passions of our flesh, following the desires of the body and mind and so

COVER STORY

Many secrets lurk at heart of Young Americans

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Kate Bosworth

Summer school officially starts this week for the students of Rawley Academy as Young Americans premieres Wednesday, July 12, on The WB Network.

While series creator and executive producer Steven Antin (Inside Monkey Zetterling) never envisioned this ensemble drama as a Dawson's Creek spinoff, the character of Will Krudski (Rodney Scott) was introduced on Creek last season as a friend of Pacey Witter's (Joshua Jackson).

As the new series opens, an elated Will arrives at exclusive Rawley Academy, where he has won a scholarship – and, he hopes, a ticket out of the blue-collar home he shares with a browbeaten mother and abusive father.

His roommate, Scout Calhoun (Mark Famiglietti), is a Kennedyesque charmer who quickly befriends Will and falls for lovely townie Bella Banks (Kate Bosworth), whose overprotective father owns a gas station.

"I wanted to tell a story about star-crossed lovers, a kind of Peyton Place in high school," Antin says. "I was driving through Maine and pulled into this gas station with all these 16-year-old girls working there during the summer. One of them told me her dad owned the place. And I thought, 'Wow, this is so cute.'

"Then two boys pulled up in a BMW, and I thought, 'No, this is a show: towns vs. gowns, local girls and guys from the prep school down the road.' "

The Peyton Place analogy is telling, because even in the premiere episode, several secrets rear their heads. Will, we learn, cheated on his entrance exam, desperate to escape his father's violent rages. Scout and Bella are rushing headlong into passion until they come up against a startling secret that stands between them. And another boy at the school, reclusive outsider Jake Pratt (Katherine Moennig), has a jumbo-sized secret of his own, although the viewer quickly is tipped to the fact that he is a she.

The students at Rawley are mentored by Finn (Ed Quinn), an idealistic teacher who is also a bit of a rogue.

"At heart, Finn really does care about these students," Antin says, "but if he is too Yoda-like, just standing around dispensing wisdom, that can get tiresome. I wanted to create this character who has a real lust for life and loves being a teacher. He feels this incredible connection with his students.

"But we're also left to wonder: If this guy had so much potential as a young person, why hasn't he moved on with his own life instead of staying here and teaching at this small school?"

It's hard to tell whether Young Americans will grow into a Dawson-sized hit, but it is very smartly cast. Scott radiates middle American decency, while Famiglietti, if anything, needs to tone down his dazzling smile. Bosworth is authentically stunning, fresh-faced and natural in the same way that Katie Holmes captured viewers when Creek premiered.

Moennig tries hard but probably no actress her age could completely pull off this outrageous character. Most viewers will peg Jake as a girl from "his" first appearance, and the failure of the other students – especially dean's son Hamilton Fleming (Ian Somerhalder), who is Jake's closest friend – to notice is jarring. Antin admits he is pushing the envelope with this story line, and says some of the regulars will, in fact, become co-conspirators in Jake's cross-dressing masquerade in weeks to come.

In most other respects, however, Young Americans is far from a drag.

In Focus

Krissy Perez, Theresa Saldana and Cristian Guerrero (clockwise from left) star in Ready to Run, a new TV movie about a teen-ager determined to become a jockey, airing Friday, July 14, on the Disney Channel.

Corrie (Perez) doesn't care that horse racing is a sport dominated by men. She dreams of being in the winner's circle even though her mother is against it, especially since her father died in a racing-related accident.

Friday

Seth Peterson stars as Robbie Hansen, a young man adjusting slowly but surely to the demands of adulthood, in Providence, airing Fridays on NBC.

Teen Group To Sponsor Party At R.E. Library

The Teen Advisory Committee, a small group meeting with library staff to bridge teen concerns, will sponsor a teen party on Friday, July 14, 7-9:30 p.m. at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland.

The Oakland teen community, ages 12 and up, is invited to come for karaoke, games, food, and socializing. There is no charge for students.

This is the first teen party to be held at the Ruth Enlow Library. The members of the Teen Advisory Committee, who range in age from 12 to 17, said they hope that many people will come. The party will also be attended by library personnel.

To be included in the pizza order, to reserve a place at the party, or to ask questions, persons may call Doreen Rogers at the library at 301-334-3996.

National Assn. Of Appraisers Recognizes Sines

Patty Sines, a long-time Garrett County resident, was recently accepted as a member in the National Association of Independent Fee Appraisers. Sines earned the recognition of this professional organization with more than 10 years experience in the real estate industry. In addition, she has worked for five years in the real estate appraisal industry, serving Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania.

DEER PARK CHURCH SETS BAZAAR, YARD SALE — St. John's Episcopal Church, located along Maryland Highway in Deer Park, has scheduled a bazaar and yard sale for Friday, July 14, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Saturday, July 15, from 9 a.m to 1 p.m. Several church members worked together to make a quilt, which will be raffled off during the weekend fund-raiser. Shown above are, from left, Hazel Wingo, Kathryn Wick, Gertrude Annarelli, and Gladys Virts.

Bloodmobile Results Noted

An American Red Cross bloodmobile was held at Zion Lutheran Church in Accident last Sunday, June 30. Forty-one productive units of blood were obtained from 44 donors. Donor milestones were reached by: Hobert Bowser, 11 gallons; Barbara Law, four gallons; and Earl Wentz, one gallon.

Volunteer assistance was provided by: Rev. Dr. Wilfred L. Karsten, registration; Mildred Haenftling and Arlene Georg, greeters; Earl Haenftling, Charlotte Sebold, and George Edgar, walkers; and Carol Edmiston, Dot Bowser, Linda Oester, Mable Fike, Peggy Close, Louise Edgar, Theresa Haenftling, and Charlotte Sebold, canteen. George Edgar and Hobert Bowser helped to set up the bloodmobile.

Sandwiches and juice were provided by the Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid, the drive's sponsor. Cookies were provided by the Accident Old Flour Shop Bakery.

Cleaning a deck has never been easier.
Cleaning the underside of a mower deck used to be difficult and time consuming, until now. Introducing three Steiner side discharge mower decks with new and improved features that provide safe, easy access to the cutting blades - while the deck remains attached to the tractor.
In seconds, convenient handles enable you to raise the deck to a 90+ degree angle. For your safety, the deck latches securely in the upright position. The unique Steirer design makes it impossible to drive the blades with the deck positioned for service. And, lowering the deck to resume operation is just as easy and safe.
While adding convenience and safety, these mower decks also provide the features you expect from Steiner, including fast attachment via Quick-Hitch™, excellent flotation and rugged, durable construction that leads to years of service. Poster Contest Winners Named

The Family and Community Education/Homemakers Clubs of Garrett County recently sponsored a poster contest on the theme "Your Character Counts." According to spokeswoman for the group, this project reflected the club members' support of the school system and its character enhancement program.

The students were asked to draw posters using any and/or all the "Six Pillars of Character" (trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, caring, and citizenship). Students from Dennett Road Elementary, Crellin Elementary, and the Tri-Towns After-School Program participated.

A Maryland quarter was given to each of the 118 children who participated.

Each winner was presented with a certificate and T-shirt. The posters are on display in the meeting room of the Ruth Enlow Library.

State Park Programs

NEW GERMANY

Summer programs at New Germany State Park are in full swing, according to a park spokesperson. Complete summer calendars of events are available at the park office.

Special July events include the following:

July 7: A mushroom feast will be held. A $2 donation will be requested.

July 12: Dr. Doyle from Frostburg State University will present a star program at the Nature Center, beginning at 8 p.m.

July 13: A soapmaking event with Lois Watson is slated at the Nature Center, beginning at 9:30 a.m. A $2 donation will be requested.

July 15 and 16: An overnight backpacking trip will be held. The cost is $40 per person. Meals will be provided. The maximum number for this trip is eight, and registration is required.

July 15: the annual Monroe Run hike and canoe trip on the Savage River will be on this date. The cost is $8 per person and registration is required.

Peg Nixon will help celebrate Christmas in July, making holiday crafts from natural ingredients. (Date of event not provided -- persons may call for details.) A $2 per family donation will be requested.

July 28: A bike tour of Poplar Lick will begin at 9 a.m. That evening at 8, Ranger Rita Knox will give a talk at the Nature Center about biking and the C&O Canal.

All events are open to the general public. For more information or to register, persons may stop in at the park office, or call 301-895-5453 or 301-746-8359.

VBS Scheduled By Methodists

Club Can-Do: Kids Called to Care is the name of a vacation Bible school that will be sponsored by the Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries the week of July 10-14 and hosted by Paradise United Methodist Church.

The focus of the "club meetings" will be on children from the Old and New Testaments who "helped fulfill God's plan." All youth are invited to attend.

The Paradise church is located along Sand Flat Road. Persons desiring more information may telephone Sue at 301-387-2789 or Carol at 301-387-5166.

Umble Selected As Ministry Assistant

Daniel Umble, Friendsville, has been selected to serve as a ministry assistant at Eastern Mennonite University in Harrisonburg, Va., next year.

Umble, a first-year bible studies and theology major, is the son of Ernest and Julia Umble.

Ministry assistants are students who have been chosen and trained to facilitate Bible studies and offer spiritual support in their residence halls.

Messicks To Lead Revival

Singer/songwriter and evangelist Steve Messick, along with his wife and co-evangelist Linda, will return to Garrett County to participate in the annual Loch Lynn Revival. The portion of the 15-week revival led by the Messicks will be July 19-23 and will be held in the 4-H building at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The service time is 7 p.m. each day.

A former government employee, Rev. Messick is now a full-time minister, having been involved in the ministry of evangelism for 20 years. He is an ordained minister with the Assemblies of God.

Pastor William Skipper extends an invitation to all to attend the services.

Antiques
by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Whale oil and other burning fluids were used for light at the beginning of the 19th century, long before electricity was available. But around 1835, a different lamp fuel gained popularity — lard. Burning fluids were liquid, and they were dangerous because they were explosive if handled carelessly. Lard was almost solid, and therefore safe. It could be made at home on the farm and could be stored. But the thick lard had to be encouraged to flow up the wick to the flame. Many special, patented lard-oil lamps were invented in the 1840s to 1860s. Most lard-oil burners were made to bring heat to the fuel. The wick holders were often wide and flat.

Q: I remember reading the "Nancy" comic strip in the 1950s. I have a Nancy-Sluggo board game that was given to me by an older cousin. It is in very good condition, with all its game pieces. Can you give me some information about the game and comic strip?

A: Ernie Bushmiller introduced Nancy in his comic strip "Fritzi Ritz" in the 1920s. In 1940 she became the star of her own strip and remained popular through the early 1960s. Sluggo was her tough sidekick. Your board game was made by the Milton Bradley Co. about 1944. It is worth about $50.

Tip: Want to clean a copper-colored miniature souvenir building or other small copper-coated piece? Soak it in a shallow bowl in the juice of one lemon or 2 tablespoons of vinegar and enough water to cover the souvenir. Leave it only about five minutes. Dry. Repeat, if necessary. The acid of the lemon or vinegar chemically removes the oxide that is darkening the piece. But too much soaking might harm the copper coloring.

Pet Care
by Peter Edwards

"Fluffy" bedding, including so-called "natural fluffy" or "safe fluffy" products, can be dangerous to your gerbil, hamster or other pet rodent.

Veterinarians have been reporting hundreds of such deaths every year. They occur when the little critters swallow some of the fluffy bedding — which typically is made of a blend of cotton, polyester and polyfibers — creating an intestinal blockage that is almost always fatal to the animal. There is no practicable way to prevent these pets from ingesting pieces of the bedding since it's natural for them to stuff material into their cheek pouches, and they usually swallow some of it. Unless the material is water soluble, it's likely to swell up and cause problems ranging from constipation to fatal intestinal damage. Many pet owners suggest that a truly safe alternative is to use paper towels, facial tissue or toilet paper for bedding. The animals love it and it won't hurt them. (Note: Be careful not to use paper made with lotions, perfumes or dyes.)

Wood chips fall into the "natural" category. But even these may cause problems for pet rodents because of the so-called "fragrant oils" they contain. These oils are supposed to ward off mites and fleas, but they can cause health problems for your pets. If you do use wood chips, use those that contain the least amount of these chemicals.

"Hammys" (hamster owners) also recommend the use of compressed paper bedding made from virgin wood pulp. They claim these products won't cause choking or intestinal obstructions, won't trigger any illnesses, and do not contain mites.

I'd appreciate comments from other "hammys."

HOLIDAY PARTYING

Q. My husband bought the barbecue grill of his dreams last week, just in time for the holiday. This is our first cookout — we just bought our first home. Any tips on making it a great party? — Rachel C., Cincinnati

A. Congratulations on your new home! Cooking out in the backyard is one of the nicest benefits of home ownership, but it's a whole different ballgame than the tiny hibachi cookouts many apartment dwellers must settle for.

Preparation is the key to a having a great barbecue. You'll have to get a pen and paper and figure out just how much food and drink you'll require. Are you providing all the food? Or is it potluck, with everyone bringing a dish? What sort of drinks do your guests like? Stock enough beer, soft drinks and other beverages for everyone.

Start marinating meats and preparing hamburger patties at least a day ahead, along with any side dishes. Buy drinks and store them out of the way — cool them down on the day of the party.

Safety is another important factor. Providing rides for guests who've had too much to drink is certainly important, but what about keeping folks safe during the barbecue?

Take a walk around the backyard the day before and look for potential danger areas. Tool sheds should be closed and locked to keep curious kids out. Pick up toys and other debris from the yard. Check the ground for holes or uneven areas where a guest might trip or tip his or her chair over.

Place your new grill in an area where there won't be much traffic, especially from running children. If you have a pool, make certain that an adult stays near it at all times, even when no one is swimming.

Finally, close the doors to any rooms in your house that you don't want guests to explore, keep some cash on hand for emergency runs to the store, and relax — enjoy the holiday!

GCC Trustees Meet For Discussion Of Finances, Projects, Appointments

The Garrett Community College board of trustees addressed a variety of issues during its recent monthly meeting. The next meeting of the board will take place Tuesday, July 18, at the Savage River Lodge, when the trustees gather for their annual dinner meeting. The open session will get under way at approximately 8 p.m., following the closed session and dinner.

Financial Report

The financial report was presented by Michael Kilgus, dean of administration, and was met with approval by the trustees because of the strong position in which the college finds itself.

During his segment on the college budget, expenditures, and encumbrances, Kilgus said that he believed that all budget categories were going to come in on target or slightly under budget when the fiscal year ended on June 30. As of May 31, overall spending stood at 91.3 percent, under the even spending target figure of 91.7 percent.

The operating cash forecast projects that GCC will end the fiscal year with approximately $250,000 in cash reserves, Kilgus stated, adding that the college did not have to enter into any short-term borrowing during the fiscal year and should begin FY2001 on a good cash basis. GCC president Dr. Steven Herman noted that this is the best cash balance he can remember in recent years.

Kilgus also reviewed the FY 2001 budget appropriation from Garrett County, noting a small decline in the year-to-year revenue from a budget perspective. He attributed the decline to a legislative change that allowed colleges to reduce out-of-county and out-of-state tuition rates, which GCC responded to by reducing its out-of-state tuition from $220 to $175 per credit hour. As a result, GCC's forecasted out-of-state tuition is projected to decrease, but the college administration hopes that more out-of-state students will apply to take advantage of the reduced tuition rates, thereby offsetting the reduced tuition amount.

A motion to approve the FY2001 budget was approved by the trustees, and the budget was subsequently forwarded to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, which approved the college's request for county funding.

The FY2000 budget revision was discussed, with Kilgus noting that GCC had a better year from a revenue standpoint than had been forecasted, as a gain of approximately $150,000 in revenue came in above projections.

The trustees approved the FY2000 budget revision, which was subsequently agreed to by the county commissioners.

Capital Projects

Herman presented updates on several capital project initiatives of the college. The Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC) project has been advertised for re-bids, with nine companies having picked up bid packages to date. Bids are due by Monday, July 17. An ARC grant is being sought, and grant approval must be secured before the state Board of Public Works will approve the project. If all goes as hoped, construction of the 20,000 square foot GIEC high-technology business incubator facility could begin by late summer or early fall.

A renovation project at the Oakland Armory will be undertaken in conjunction with the Maryland National Guard. GCC's Oakland Center will eventually relocate to the Armory. This is a positive move, according to Herman, especially in light of the $9,000 monthly lease on the Oakland Center's current space, which has very little available parking. The Armory facility will contain some of the latest educational-related telecommunications equipment available, which will allow it to tie in to educational institutions across the state and region.

The GCC Grantsville Center project is moving forward with the help of the Garrett County Community Action Committee. Herman expects the college to be able to offer classes in Grantsville by next spring semester.

Some ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) related projects are under way. The ADA project involving academic space will conclude in two years. The county commissioners have committed $100,000 to $150,000 per year for that project so far, although further county funding seems unlikely for the near future. Herman said that GCC will need to proceed with renovations and additions to the Learning Center facility, with the first ad-dition being the library.

Other projects include the renovation of the Student Assistance Center, which is currently under way. The college has also received funds to install a low ropes course at the Glendening ATC.

A grant application has been made in an effort to secure Project Open Space funding for the construction of a soccer field on the McHenry campus, Herman said, noting that although the original intention was to field intercollegiate soccer teams, that goal has been scaled back, at least temporarily. The cost of instituting a soccer program is regarded as prohibitive at this point, as GCC would have to already be committed to provide some matching funds for the soccer field construction if the Open Space grant were to come through.

Herman said that the college might be able to take over the Lions Club lease on the Lions Club Community Park along Bumble Bee Road, which is county-owned. "GCC might be able to use this site for some athletic activity, but we don't know yet if this prospect will pan out," Herman said, in weighing the pros and cons. "Some vandalism has occurred at this site, and the location would break up the campus and distance the events from our students."

Staff Medical Benefits

The county commissioners arranged for a combined bid on medical benefits for the coming year for Garrett County, the Garrett County Board of Education, and the college. This combined bid strategy held GCC's medical benefits increase for the next year to $22,000 (4.1 percent), a savings of $13,000 to $15,000 based on separate coverage for GCC by itself; furthermore, the bid allowed the college to retain its current benefits level.

The board of trustees voted its approval of GCC's combined medical benefits bid in conjunction with the county and the board of education.

Estonia Trip

As part of his president's report, Herman spoke on his recent trip to the sovereign nation of Estonia, a former republic of the Soviet Union. His trip, as reported in previous news articles and trustees' meeting coverage, was an effort to assist the fledgling democracy in instituting an education system that will meet its needs. Maryland's community college system is one of the models being studied by Estonian officials.

Herman told the trustees that various initiatives are being explored through the emerging partnership between Estonia and Maryland, which was chosen for the project because the state has a high proportion of residents with an Estonian heritage, located mainly in the Baltimore area.

Beyond the establishment of an Estonian community college system, faculty, educational, cultural, and artistic exchanges are being promoted, as well as specific partnerships between Estonia and Garrett County. Herman said he would like to see partner city relationship established, possibly pairing Grantsville with the Estonian city of Torva; McHenry with the resort town of Otepää; and Oakland work with Valga.

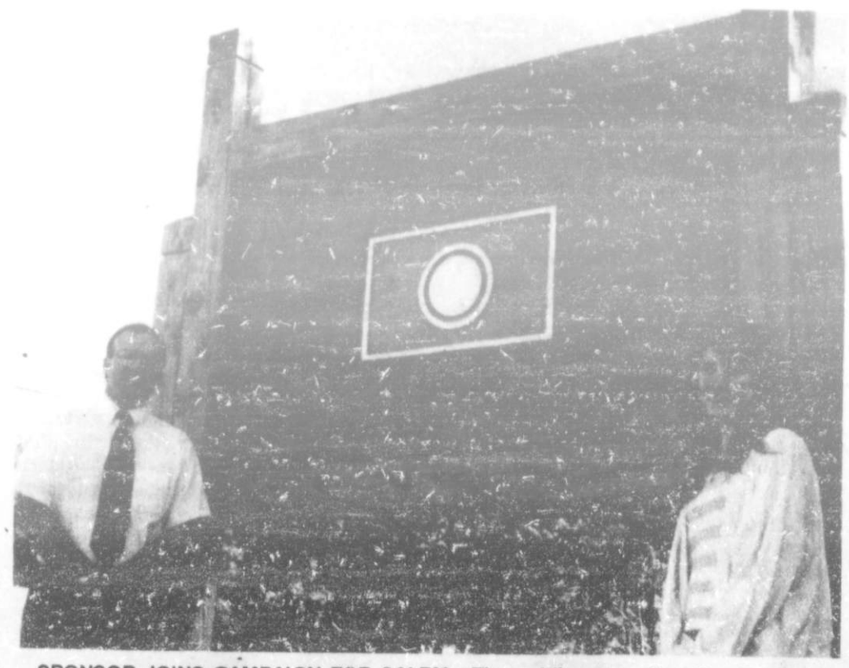

Several Estonian students have expressed an interest in studying at GCC through a recently established scholarship program specifically for such individuals, according to Herman, but some may have difficulty in securing the funds for air transportation. Math department chair Dr. Nancy Priselac suggested that church groups and West Virginia University be contacted to see if assistance can be rendered. Herman hopes to arrange for host families to provide room and board for the students in Garrett County.

Nominations/Appointments

The nominating committee for officers of the board of trustees, consisting of chair Charles "Bus" Bender, Linda Sherbin, and Bob Stuck, recommended that the trustees retain their current officers, chair Doug Sites and vice chair Rob Michael. The board approved the nominating committee's recommendations, and scheduled the election of officers for the trustees' upcoming meeting.

After an application and interview process, GCC professor Ginger Broaddus was recommended by a search committee for the position of the college's director of arts and sciences. Following Herman's approval of the recommendation, the trustees confirmed the appointment.

Stacy Paul Miller was recommended by a search committee for the position of assistant professor of business and economics. Currently serving as interim instructor in the same capacity, Miller has taught at GCC for the past two semesters. The board of trustees approved the appointment following Bender's motion.

SPONSOR JOINS CAMPAIGN FOR SALEM - The public accounting firm Rodeheaver & Associates, Oakland, have joined the OutSpokin' for Maryland's Kids fund-raising campaign 2000 to benefit the Maryland Salem Children as a Bronze Corporate Sponsor. The goal of the campaign in which cyclists representing various childcare agencies in the state ride the 350 miles from Salem's campus to the Eastern Shore is to raise awareness of children in need and the programs that serve them. Pictured are James Murray, principal of the company, and Dawn Scheffel, staff accountant. Rodeheaver & Associates have participated in the OutSpokin' campaign previously, and have been performing annual audits for Salem for the past several years. Salem provides a home, education, and emergency shelter services to children from Allegany and Garrett counties plus throughout the state who are unable to live with their own families or who have special needs.

Rally Scheduled At Maranatha Assembly Of God

A rally at the Maranatha Assembly of God church in Grantsville, scheduled for July 12-13, will feature Larry and Gloria Lundstrom. This South Dakota couple will present the Gospel through music, humor, and personal accounts.

The Lundstroms have appeared on television and conducted citywide rallies and seminars across the United States and in Canada for more than 30 years. They address problems and issues that may "challenge" family life, marriage, and relationships.

The rally in Grantsville, titled "Heart to Heart," will begin at 7 p.m., and everyone is welcome. A freewill offering will be accepted. The Maranatha Assembly of God is located at 176 Springs Road.

Earns Diploma At Dulaney High

Laurie Needer, Timonium, graduated from Dulaney High School on June 3. She is the daughter of Charles and Dorothy Needer, Timonium, and granddaughter of Ruth Needer, Baltimore, and Walter and Myrtle Hanft, Accident.

She is listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students. She received a varsity letter each year in high school for badminton, cross-country, and lacrosse. In her senior year, she was a member of the girls state championship runner-up cross country team. She was a team captain and won the Unsung Hero Award. Laurie also won first place at the Lancer International race. In the winter, she was a member of the girls regional championship indoor track team. This spring she was goalkeeper for the girls regional championship lacrosse team. She was further named to the second Baltimore County all-division team. In addition to sports, Laurie remained on the Baltimore County all-academic certificate, Minds in Motion.

Laurie is currently attending Towson University and playing lacrosse.

TEETS REUNION

Over 100 persons from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, Illinois, and Florida attended the 20th reunion of the descendents of Harvey and Pearl Fearer Teets last weekend. The reunion was held at the Restless Ridge Hunting Camp located near Accident.

A "hee-haw" campfire was held Friday evening. Saturday began with breakfast of bacon, eggs, and hotcakes prepared by the men. There were games and crafts for the children, a croquet and horseshoe tournament for men and women, and a horse-drawn hayride. Dinner consisted of barbecue beef, baked potatoes, and all kinds of dishes, and afterward the family meeting was held. A square dance session was enjoyed by observers and participants, as was a silent auction. A 60th wedding anniversary celebration for Glen and Freda Teets, planned by their daughter, Mary Wilson, and her daughters, took place at 6 p.m., and cake and ice cream were served. The men prepared breakfast again Sunday morning, then a family-oriented worship service was held. Linda Fleming led the devotions and the opening prayer was led by Alan Van Clief. The speaker was Tim Whetzell of Addison, Pa.

After lunch and clean-up everyone headed home. The 21st Teets family reunion will be July 7, 2001, at Restless Ridge.

PUTTING FAITH INTO ACTION — The vacation Bible school of the Loch Lynn Church of God provided a practical lesson in Christian charity and service recently, as its young participants and their families donated goods and funds for the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault resource shelter. Throughout the VBS week, the children brought in a total of $300 worth of household items that the Dove Center uses to provide for women and families in need, as well as $300 in cash donations from their own families that will be used to purchase gift certificates for distribution to Dove Center residents. Shown above with the collected items are, from left, Rev. Ivan Ackerman, pastor of the Loch Lynn Church of God; Barbara Bernard, VBS director; and Dove Center counselor Debbie Holler. "The children were very excited to bring the items in, and their arms were full of items each morning," Bernard said. "The kids learned a very important lesson in giving back to their community," Rev. Ackerman commented. "It's a simple thing that the Bible says — 'It's more blessed to give than to receive.'"

Health Materials Now On Display At BOE Office

Recommendations resulting from the May meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education Health Advisory Committee were presented at the regular meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education meeting in June. Board members heard the recommendation to approve materials for use in the classroom. Three videos were presented for approval as resources for use in grades 9 through 12: When Sex Means Trouble, part II, I Know You Really Want It (acquaintance rape), and Our Little Secret, part III, (sexual abuse).

The video was reviewed by board members, and a copy of it has been put on display for public review and comment. It will be available through August 7 at the board office in Oakland on weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Governor Urges Vigilance Against West Nile Virus

Maryland Governor Parris N. Glendening announced receatly that the state has implemented an aggressive plan to prevent an outbreak of the mosquito-borne West Nile virus. The departments of Health & Mental Hygiene, Natural Resources, and Agriculture are coordinating a comprehensive strategy to protect Marylanders from the virus. During his announcement, held in a family's back yard in Eastport, Governor Glendening also encouraged Marylanders to complement the state's efforts by controlling mosquito breeding and eliminating standing water around their homes.

"As we saw last year in New York with the West Nile outbreak, mosquito bites can cause a serious risk to our families' health and safety," said the governor." Working together, our departments of Agriculture, Natural Resources and Health and Mental Hygiene have implemented a comprehensive surveillance, monitoring, and response plan to protect Marylanders against mosquito-borne diseases. We have no reason to believe that we will have a West Nile outbreak this summer. We are acting aggressively to prevent the potential threat, though, by slowing the growth of the mosquito population and monitoring the dead bird popuiation now. I encourage all Marylanders to take an active role in helping us prevent the spread of the virus in and around their homes.

The state's plan is based on the recommendations of an interagency task force that Glendening appointed last year after a dead bird carrying the West Nile virus was found in Baltimore City. Under the plan, the state will control the mosquito population, aggressively monitor and test dead birds (which may carry the virus), establish procedures to increase mosquito control efforts if the virus spreads into Maryland, and protect citizens from the health risks associated with West Nile.

The Department of Agriculture will continue with normal mosquito control efforts to keep the population low — and will not increase the amount of pesticides used to control the population — but will increase mosquito control efforts if West Nile begins to appear. In addition, the state has established a 24-hour deceased bird hotline, 1-888-584-3110, which citizens are encouraged to call if they find a dead crow or significant numbers of dead birds of other species, and do not see any apparent reason for the bird's death. The Department of Health and Mental Hygiene will continue to take the lead in coordinating the state's effort to protect the public from the potential health threat.

Glendening also emphasized the importance of individual action to help control the mosquito population. The governor urged residents to monitor their own yards and gardens for signs of standing water that serve as breeding grounds for mosquitoes, noting that as little as ½ inch of water in a discarded can or container will support dozens of the insects. He encouraged citizens to take the following steps:

- Clean rain gutters to allow water to flow freely.
- Remove old tires or drill drainage holes in tires used for playground equipment.
- Store plastic wading pools inside or turn them upside down when not in use.
- Turn over or remove clay pots and plastic containers.
- Dispose of all empty beverage containers, plastic wrappers, discarded toys, etc.
- Check for and eliminate trapped water in plastic or canvas tarps used to cover boats, pools, etc.
- Pump out bilges in boats. Turn canoes and small boats upside down for storage.
- Replace water in bird baths at least twice a week.
- Remove pet food and water dishes that are not being used.
- Don't leave garbage can lids lying upside down. Be sure water does not collect in the bottom of garbage cans.
- Flush water in the bottom of plant holders twice a week.
- Fix dripping outside water faucets.
- Turn wheelbarrows, wagons, and carts upside down when stored outside.
- Aerate ornamental pools and water gardens or stock them with fish. Use a circulating filter system.

For personal protection when out of doors, the governor recommended the following:

- Avoid areas of high mosquito infestation.
- Avoid unnecessary outdoor activities at dawn and dusk when mosquitoes are most active.
- Wear light colored clothing, long pants, long sleeve shirt and hat when outdoors.
- Use mosquito repellents according to package directions.

Glendening proclaimed the week of June 25 to July 1 as Mosquito Control Awareness Week in Maryland to coincide with the national observation, sponsored by the National Mosquito Control Association.

Literacy Council Launching Public Awareness Project

The Literacy Council Of Garrett County has announced it will soon implement a public awareness program. It was decided at its last monthly meeting that the council will make its services available to the far, remote corners of Garrett County. It has already set into place expanded services for its telephones so that calls will not go unanswered and calls will be returned in the shortest time possible.

New informational brochures are being designed and printed and will be distributed to many public offices and organizations.

The Literacy Council tutors those who are unable to read or those who read below an adult level. The tutoring is done on a individual one-on-one system. All the tutors are volunteers, as is the staff, and all materials are supplied free of charge.

Funding for the program is supported through local donations. Anyone who would like to be a tutor, work on the staff, or who knows of anyone in need of the services of the of the Literacy Council is asked to call 301-334-8606.

Selected To Who's Who

Aliza M. Green, a senior at Southern High School, has been selected for inclusion in the upcoming Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1999-2000.

Green serves as assistant secretary of the Southern FFA, and has also held a number of offices as a member of the Red House 4-H Club. She attends Fairview Church of the Brethren, where she is secretary of the youth group, and has been employed at Oak-Lee Dairyland for two years.

Approximately 20,000 schools are represented by their students in Who's Who, and only 5 percent of all high school students receive the annual award.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Thank goodness the kids are back from 4-H Camp. We parents really missed them. All 10 of my siblings' children attended the camp. Attending the final campfire on Thursday night were Lloyd Sussman, Rodney and Marci Glotfelty, Carol and Kevin Bass, Ruth DiPaolo, and Ann McLister. Because of the rain storm earlier, the campfire was moved into the lodge instead of at the beautiful location down in the glades by the lake.

Matthew Bass was a member of the winning tribe, the Navahos, and won a coveted Gold Feather. Claire was Sagamore for the Cherokee tribe. That is the first step in the leadership ladder for camp. The next step is to be a tribe leader, then counselor, or "O'Chief." Robbie Glotfelty was Sagamore for the Appache tribe and was also chosen for the 4-H Head Award.

The kids are following in their parents' footsteps, as Rodney was a tribe leader, O'Chief, and finally counselor. One year I was in charge of a horseback program at the camp. I can't believe it, but Claire's and Caitlin's cabin won the blue feather for being the cleanest. Also in that cabin were their cousin, Blakely Glotfelty, Megan Vokel, Dana Hannibal, Megan Margroff, Casie Fratz, and Sara Garner.

The Bittinger 4-H'ers used the visit to Goodwill Nursing Home on Friday evening to entertain the residents with new songs and cheers from camp. Among the members of the Bittinger club who attended were Robbie and Blakely Glotfelty, Emma Bass, Claire, Caitlin, and Meredith Sussman, Jodie Brenneman, Vicki Taliaferro, and Marci Glotfelty. One of the elderly ladies asked Claire if Mere was her little girl. They do look very much alike, but there is quite a difference in their age. They enjoyed the evening, and I am sure the residents did, too.

Since last Thursday we've been in the nail-biting mode, as we had a huge amount of hay down. Unfortunately, as I write this on about Monday noon, the rain has returned and messed up our plans for getting all the hay safely in the barn. Fortunately, we had two beautiful days on Saturday and Sunday, which was just great. The weather man from Pittsburgh predicted no rain for Thursday through Tuesday, but he was proved wrong. One of the parents at the campfire asked Lloyd if he didn't want to go to Pittsburgh and shoot the weatherman. Ha! He obviously was just kidding, but, really, when a field gets ruined by the wet weather, it can mean a loss of thousands of dollars.

On Saturday and Sunday, our family was aided by Courtney Englar and Kyle Morrison. We had many young boys and girls — cousins — pitching in with the unloading of the hay in the barn. Kyle and Valeria Morrison and family from Wilmington, Del., paid a weekend visit to their friends in Garrett County. We really miss the Morrison family. Along with the family we were visited by little Paige and Kelsey. Kelsey will be spending this week with our girls, and it is so good to have her around, as she always seemed almost like my fourth daughter when they lived here. She is Meredith's best friend forever. We were all also visited by their big black Lab Murphy. Their son, Ben, and Val also visited the Vagnetti family in McHenry.

A daughter of Todd and Bonnie Smith, Megan Nicole, was baptized at Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Sunday morning. Her sponsors were her grandparents, Bob and Mary Lou Smith. Former Bishop Alex Black presided at the service. Caitlin Sussman was supposed to make her debut as acolyte on Sunday, but she panicked and pressured her sister into taking her place. She then watched carefully to be more sure of the routine.

A candidate for the Bittinger Lutheran Parish pastor, Patricia Pittsnogle, will hold services at all three churches on July 16. On Saturday night, July 15, at 6:30 p.m., there will be a covered dish dinner at the fire hall to meet the candidate. All members are encouraged to come, and to keep the candidate and our parish in their prayers. A congregational meeting will be held following the worship service on Sunday morning in each congregation for the purpose of extending a call to fill the vacancy of pastor.

St. John's Lutheran Church, Meadow Mountain, will hold Vacation Bible School on July 10 through the 14 from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m.

Lenny Poholsky's mother, Mary Salak, is celebrating her 90th birthday on July 9. She resides with her husband Andy at Rivercliff Terrace, 120 Allegheny Avenue, Kittanning, PA 16201. I'm sure that a birthday wish would brighten her day.

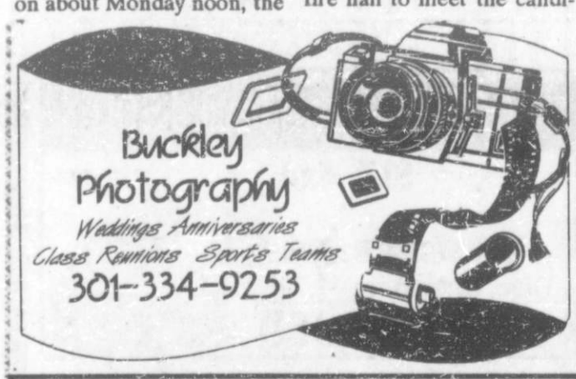

Now for some local news: Abby Collins celebrated her 3rd birthday on Sunday, June 25, at the Bittinger fire hall. There were about 25 family members and friends in attendance. Abby is the daughter of Doug and Kim Collins.

Pete and Linda Buckel visited the Rev. Jim Mitchell and wife Norma at their home near Cranberry Township, Pa., over the past weekend. Dr. and Mrs. Jack Perkins, Fayettsville, Ark., are visiting her parents, Ralph and Ethel Buckel, and over the past weekend took them to Chestertown, where they attended the wedding of Mark Buckel and Tamy Hickman on Saturday evening. They also attended the rehearsal dinner on Friday evening, hosted by the groom's parents. The outdoor wedding was performed at Rock Hall at Tamy's brother's home along the banks of the Chesapeake Bay.

Kerry and Brooke Greer and family from Laurel, Kendra and John Walls, Rockville, Bea and Max Buckel, Adelphi, Steven and Donna Mazer, Glenwood, and Tim and Ali Mazer and daughter, Ellicott City, were visiting relatives in the area over the holiday.

Lea Stanton and Leslie Buckel, Towson, are visiting their families over the holiday.

Word has been received of the death of former resident Marian Stephens, who has been living with her nephew, Carl Broadwater, in Ohio. Arrangements for burial are being handled by the Newman Funeral Home.

THE PERFECT STORM

The story of the Andrea Gail, a swordfish boat from Gloucester, Massachusetts, that was lost at sea in 1991, is thrillingly recounted in Wolfgang Petersen's The Perfect Storm, based on the book by Sebastian Junger and adapted for the screen by William D. Wittliff. The fact that the story is true somehow lends weight to the film; I wouldn't believe it otherwise. The computer effects are, of course, compelling, but the film suffers from a stillborn sense of character. Petersen tries desperately to make us care about these guys before they cast off, but Wittliff's script gives them little more than trite stereotypes (and the actors don't really help much, either), so from an emotional standpoint it's an uphill battle.

As the film's name suggests, it's not as much about the Andrea Gail as the storm itself; the action continually switches back and forth between the swordboat's predicament and two other vessels that call "Mayday" as a result of the massive tempest. The Andrea Gail's skipper is Captain Billy Tyne (George Clooney), a divorcé with two daughters. After a disappointing catch, he decides to go out and try again. Against the wishes of various wives and girlfriends, he takes along his crew: Bobby Shatford (Mark Wahlberg), David Sullivan (William Fichtner), Dale Murphy (John C. Reilly), Alfred Pierre (Allen Payne), and Michael "Bugsy" Moran (John Hawkes). When a major storm develops, Billy outruns it and heads for calmer seas, but a faulty refrigeration unit forces him to drive back home early or risk losing his precious, fishy cargo. Unfortunately, his path takes him directly between a couple of colliding hurricanes.

This film is nothing without its visuals. That can be said for many films of the present day, of course; billions of dollars are spent every year making movies that are visually astounding and emotionally bankrupt. What is surprising to me is that The Perfect Storm, being a true story, didn't move me more than it did. I have never been a fan of George Clooney (ironically, I feel he delivers one of his better performances here), but it's something about Wittliff's screenplay that turns a thrilling true story into a full-blown Hollowood vehicle, complete with credibility gaps and continuity problems. As usual in movies that involve water, people are able to hold their breath for far longer than is actually possible. We see a man get a huge hook stabbed through the center of his palm, and after the ordeal is over, he seems perfectly fine, with no bandage, no pain, and no difficulty carrying out his duties (which include pulling on heavy ropes and working a wrench on a stubborn bolt head).

As if to make the film more emotionally impactful, syrupy-sweet romances are worked into the story. Besides the Titanic-style love scenes involving one sailor and his fiancée (Diane Lane), another meets a woman who, after initially being turned off, acts as if she was in love with the man. Moreover, Tyne's real-life colleague, Linda Greenlaw (Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio) is forced to imply that she would like to settle down with him before ending up screaming frantic warnings over the radio. Mastrantonio is at her scenery-chewing worst here — thank goodness she isn't in much of the film.

On the other hand, the storm sequences are truly gripping; I lost count of the heroic rescues performed,not only by the Andrea Gail crew but the various members of the coast guard (a separate story entirely), and John Seale's cinema and James Horner's music contribute a great deal to making a beautiful film from a tragic and unpleasant subject. ★★★★

Crop Harvest In Full Swing

Crop harvesting is under way for vegetables in the state, according to Ray Garibay, state statistician with the Maryland Ag Statistics Service. Cucumbers are 35% harvested, 9 points higher than last year and 16 points above the five-year average. Potatoes and snap beans are both slightly below last year's harvest, but above the five-year average. They are both 20% harvested. Green peas are 93% harvested, 7 points below last year, but 8 points above the five-year average. If the weather holds, harvest should be complete by the end of the week. Lima beans are 5% harvested, 4 points above last year and the five-year average.

Small grain harvest continues throughout the state. Winter wheat is 40% harvested, 7 points below last year but 2 points above the five-year average. Barley is 94% harvested, the same as last year and 8 points higher than the five-year average. Rye is 61% harvested, 3 points above last year and 15 points above the five-year average.

Topsoil moisture is 1% very short, 5% short, 79% adequate, and 15% surplus. Subsoil moisture is 2% very short, 9% short, 83% adequate, and 6% surplus. Precipitation for the month of June ranged from 3 inches in Baltimore County to 6.2 inches in Charles and Dorchester counties.

Crop progress for the week which ended on July 2, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, follows.

Small grain development: barley, harvested 94, 60, 94, 86; rye, harvested 61, 51, 58, 46; winter wheat, harvested 40, 17, 47, 38.

Planting progress: soybeans 76, 75, 82, 79; cucumbers 90, 81, 100, 97; lima beans 65, 55, 100, 77; sorghum 88, 81, 94, 93.

Crop harvesting: cucumbers 35, 30, 26, 19; green peas 93, 78, 100, 91; lima beans 5, --, 1, 1; potatoes 20, 9, 21, 13; snapbeans 20, 17, 25, 16.

Hay harvested: other hay, 2nd cutting 35, 31, 44, 21; alfalfa, 2nd cutting 42, 30, 58, 45.

Crop condition for the week which ended on July 2, listing the crop and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, in that order, is: corn 1, 1, 7, 57, 34; soybeans 0, 3, 15, 63, 19; sorghum 0, 0, 20, 42, 38; range & pasture 1, 2, 12, 65, 20.

Farming In Maryland.....

Agricultural Prices Received Down 2 Points

The index of prices farmers received for their products in June was down 2 points (2.0%) from the May index, according to the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS).

Lower prices for lettuce, corn, cattle, soybeans, and broccoli more than offset price increases for eggs, strawberries, milk, and celery. The seasonal change in the mix of commodities farmers sell affects the overall index. Higher seasonal marketings of wheat, grapes, hay, and cantaloupes more than offset the relatively lower marketings of oranges, tomatoes, strawberries, and cattle. These marketing changes kept the index from falling one more point.

Compared with June 1999, the All Farm Products Index was 2 points (2.1%) higher. Price increases from June 1999 for hogs, cattle, lettuce, and soybeans more than offset price decreases for milk, oranges, corn, and broilers.

The June Index of Prices Paid for Commodities and Services, Interest, Taxes, and Farm Wage Rates (PPITW) was 120% of the 1990-92 average. The index was unchanged from May but 5 points (4.3%) above June 1999. Lower prices in June for feed grains, feeder pigs, hay and forages, and LP gas were offset by higher prices for feeder cattle, herbicides, feed concentrates, and complete feeds.

NASS Reports On Grain Supplies

The National Ag Statistics Service (NASS) has reported that corn stocks are down 1%, soybean stocks are down 9%, and all wheat stocks are up slightly.

Corn stocks in all positions on June 1, 2000, totaled 3.59 billion bushels, down 1% from June 1, 1999. Of the total stocks, 2.03 billion bushels were stored on farms, down 10% from a year ago. Off-farm stocks, at 1.56 billion bushels, were up 15% from a year ago. The March-May 2000 quarter indicated disappearance is 2.02 billion bushels, 3% below the disappearance of 2.08 billion bushels during the same period a year earlier.

Soybeans stored in all positions on June 1, 2000, totaled 775 million bushels, down 9% from June 1, 1999. On-farm stocks, at 370 million bushels, were down 19% from the same period a year ago. Off-farm stocks, at 405 million bushels, were 4% higher than June 1, 1999. Indicated disappearance for the March-May 2000 quarter totaled 621 million bushels, up 2% from the same quarter in 1999.

All wheat stored in all positions on June 1, 2000, totaled 950 million bushels, up slightly from a year ago. This is the largest June 1 stocks level since the 1987-88 market year. On-farm stocks are estimated at 227 million bushels, down 18% from last year. Off-farm stocks, at 723 million bushels, are up 8% from a year ago. The indicated March-May 2000 quarter disappearance is 465 million bushels, down 8% from the same period in 1999.

Durum wheat stocks in all positions on June 1, 2000, totaled 49.6 million bushels, down 9% from a year ago. On-farm stocks, at 30.3 million bushels, are down 19% from 1999. Off-farm stocks totaled 19.3 million bushels, up 12% from a year ago. The indicated March-May 2000 quarter disappearance of 31.7 million bushels is down 6% from the same period a year earlier.

Barley stocks in all positions on June 1, 2000, are estimated at 111.7 million bushels, 21% below last year. On-farm stocks are 25.4 million bushels, 52% below a year ago. Off-farm stocks are 86.3 million bushels, only 4% below 1999. Indicated disappearance during the March-May 2000 quarter totaled 58.5 million bushels, unchanged from the same period a year earlier.

What Does "Thank You" Really Mean?
by Chris Eailatin

"Thank you" is one of those wonderful phrases people use to express a special gratitude.
But there's often a lot more to it than those two words can say.
When it comes from the heart, from deep inside the nicest feelings and the most special thoughts,
"Thank You" means so much.
It means thank you for taking the time to show that you care. It means "you really made my day," and sometimes it means that you really make all the days so much better.
It means you make me feel so nice,
and I wish I could do the same for you... just by letting you know how much you mean to me.
"Thank you" means you don't have to...
but I'm grateful that you did.
"Thank you" means that you've done something special that I'll never forget.

Thank you to my family and friends for their love and support during some very difficult times and my recent surgery. Thanks also for the prayers, flowers, gifts, cards, phone calls, and visits. Your thoughtfulness is so touching, and will not be forgotten. May God richly bless each of you.

Sincerely,
Diana Deal

Be a Licensed Nutrient Management Consultant

We are now recruiting people who are interested in being Maryland Licensed Nutrient Management Consultants. The Maryland Department of Agriculture will be offering the examination on August 4 at Garrett Community College. This is a rare opportunity to take the exam without traveling to Annapolis.

We are offering a two-session training program to help people prepare for the test. The sessions will be held on July 18 and 26, from 10:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Office. The training sessions are free of cost; however, you must make reservations by calling 301-334-6960.

Agriculture Web Sites

I have had several requests from farmers to organize and print a listing of good agricultural information web sites. Just recently I came across a web site that I thought was very impressive. The site offers the latest agricultural news, chat line with other farmers, weather, technical information and on-line purchasing such as machinery parts and chemicals, etc. The site address is: http://www.agriculture.com/

Bug Zappers Can Spread Bacteria

According to researchers at Kansas State University, insect electrocutor traps cause insects to explode upon contact. As the insect explodes, the millions of bacteria on their legs and bodies are scattered through the air up to 6 feet. Since the bacteria are often obtained from human or animal feces, bug zappers potentially can spread infectious diseases.

As a result, the FDA has restricted the use of these devices to not more than 3 feet above the floor and no closer than 5 feet from where food is handled. Additional research has shown that bug zappers kill more beneficial insects than nuisance or pest insects. The bottom line is "Do you want a bug zapper hanging above your picnic table"?

U.S. Corn & Soybean Acreage Up, Says NASS

Corn planted for all purposes is estimated at 79.6 million acres, up 3% from last year, according to the National Agricultural Statistics Service. Growers expect to harvest 73.1 million acres for grain, up 4% from 1999. The corn acreage estimate was based on survey information collected between May 30 and June 19. Farmers responding to the survey indicated that 99% of the intended corn acreage had been planted at the time of the interview, compared to an average of 96% for the past 10 years.

The soybean planted area is estimated at 74.5 million acres, 1% above last year's acreage. Area for harvest is estimated at 73.5 million acres, up 1% from 1999. If realized, this will be the largest planted and harvested acreage on record. Planted acreage has consistently increased every year since 1990, when the soybean planted area totaled 57.8 million acres. Of the 31 soybean estimating states, growers in 16 states increased acreage, while growers in 14 states reduced area planted. West Virginia acreage estimates are included for the first time.

All wheat planted area is estimated at 62.9 million acres, up slightly from 1999. Harvested area is expected to total 54.4 million acres, up 1% from last year.

All cotton plantings for 2000 are expected to total 15.6 million acres, 5% above last year. Upland cotton acreage is expected to total 15.4 million acres, up 5% from 1999. Growers planted 202,000 acres of American-Pima cotton, down 30% from 1999. Some acreage was prevented from being planted in the Southeast due to severe drought conditions. Conversely, Arkansas farmers were frustrated by rains during their optimum planting window and thus were not able to plant all of the acreage originally intended for cotton.

State Program To Aid New Teachers In Buying Homes

As part of his goal to enhance public school systems in Maryland recruit and retain quality teachers, Governor Parris N. Glendening announced recently that the Homeownership Opportunities for Teachers program is now taking applications. The program will make $25 million in mortgage money available at a 5-percent interest rate for teachers buying their first homes.

"Retaining and recruiting quality teachers will help ensure that our children will receive the best education available," said Glendening. "Along with our record school construction financing agenda and our assistance to local school systems to help with teacher salary increases, Maryland is a national leader in educational improvements."

At least one of the borrowers in the household must be a full-time Maryland-certified classroom teacher, who is either newly hired or has taught in the state for 5 years or less. The borrower also must have a contract to teach in a state public school system (grades pre-K through 12) and commit to teaching in Maryland public schools for at least three years from the date of loan closing. All borrowers must be first-time homebuyers.

The property being purchased must be the borrower's primary residence and located in a Smart Growth area. Borrowers also may be eligible for a deferred, zero-percent loan of up to $5,000 as part of the state's Downpayment and Settlement Expense Loan Program (DSELP).

"We are thrilled that we will be able to help school systems around Maryland recruit and retain quality teachers by making homeownership more affordable," said Secretary Raymond A. Skinner, of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), the agency administering the program. "This is a perfect example of one state agency developing a product that helps another state agency — the Department of Education — reach its goals."

The mortgages are being financed through the sale of tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds by DHCD's Community Development Administration, and many of the parameters of the program (other than the lower interest rate) mirror those of the Maryland Mortgage Program (MMP), DHCD's program for first-time homebuyers. Potential borrowers will apply for loans through a network of about 40 mortgage lenders from around the state, and income and acquisition cost limits are the same as those for MMP.

For more information about the program, persons may call 410-514-7530 or 1-800-638-7781, or access DHCD's web site at http://www.dhcd.state.md.us.

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development works with partners to revitalize communities, encourage homeownership, expand affordable housing opportunities, and enhance Maryland's historic sites and traditions, a spokesperson said.

Tressler Wins Award At Nat'l VICA Contest

Eric Tressler, a student at Southern High School, was awarded the Secondary Bronze Medal in Related Technical Math at the Skills USA-VICA 36th annual Leadership Conference and SkillsUSA Championships. The competition was held at H. Roe Bartle Hall, Kansas City, Mo., on June 29.

The annual conference is the largest and most diverse showcase of skill training in the nation, according to a spokesperson. More than 4,000 students from the 50 states competed in hands-on skills and leadership competitions. In order to qualify for the national competition, the students competed in local and state contests. The state gold medal winners advanced to the national SkillsUSA Championships.

SkillsUSA-VICA is the national organization serving nearly 245,000 high school and college students and professional members who are enrolled in training programs in technical, skilled, and service occupations, including health occupations, in public schools and colleges. Membership offers leadership, citizenship, and character development programs and activities to complement skill training. SkillsUSA-VICA has nearly one-quarter million members annually in 13,000 chapters in 54 state and territorial associations.

GRANTSVILLE

Descendants of the late Jermiah and Eliza Saylor Yost met on Sunday, July 2, at the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club for their annual family reunion. Approximately 65 people attended. A cafeteria style dinner was served after Mrs. Alan Bowser returned thanks for the meal. Laura Miller was in charge of the children's games. Games were also played by the adults, and prizes were given to all winners.

A ball game was held. Victor Wilt, Meyersdale, Pa., brought a big decorated cake on which was written "Yost — 2000."

A "guess cake" was baked by Mary Kamp and won by Jenny Bodes.

The next reunion will be on the first Sunday in July 2001 at the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club at noon. Officers were elected: Helen Bowser will remain president; Nancy Durst will remain secretary and treasurer; Amanda Bowser will be in charge of the children's games; and David Bowser will be in charge of the adults' games.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Miller are spending their vacation visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Durst, Harmony, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lively and daughter, Tina Lively, have returned home at Myrtle Beach, S.C., after visiting with their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Olen Bowser, Louisville, Ohio have returned home after attending the Yost family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Greg Armstrong and children Guy and Celina, Chesapeake Beach, returned home after visiting with relatives.

A Special Thank You

To all who gave their loving support to the family of Darius (Buzz) Fike, we thank you.

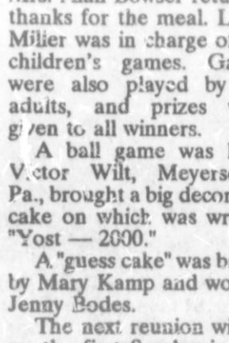

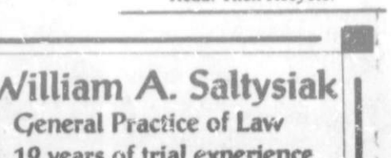

A very special thanks goes out to the girls of the Garrett County Health Dept. Also, we thank the Southern & Northern Rescue Squads and the McHenry Fire Dept. for all their help. Thanks to Pastor Randy Narin III and Pastor Donald Matthews for their devotions, and to Newman Funeral Home for all the services they did. We also want to thank all the family and friends and churches that gave the beautiful flowers inmemory of Buzz, and to those who brought all the good food. Buzz was known as the man in the bed by the window and I would like to thank all the ones who went by and tooted their horns or waved at him there, and also the ones who stopped just to say hello. Also, thanks to anybody not mentioned here for anything they might have done over the years.

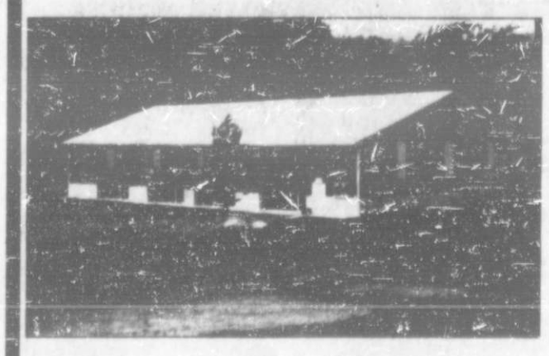

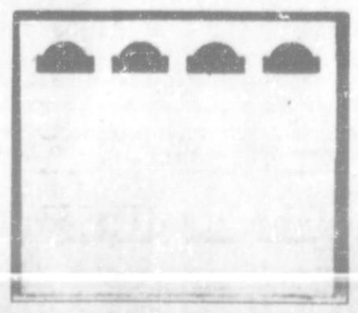

THANK YOU,

TA Students To Present Martian Project At Library

The Mars Millennium Group project, an ongoing outer space study project of a group of Terra Alta East Preston School students, has culminated in the creation of a miniature community of a Martian colony site currently on display at the Terra Alta Public Library. The nine fourth grade MMG members, who conducted their special project under the direction of parent volunteer Cathy Teets, will be on hand for an open house event at the new library and town hall on Saturday, July 8, at 1 p.m., to share their research with interested members of the public.

The MMG students — Alecia Hart, Colten Kisner, Sean Ball, Michelle Kelly, Jillian Kelly, Kasey Simpson, Sam Lewis, Craig Kelly, and Ashley Teets — were selected for the project by fourth grade teachers Debbie Royce and Stacy Borror. They began their research late last year by studying the Mars Polar Lander, and spent many hours in the school's computer lab monitoring the MPL's December 3 landing on the Martian surface.

During the Martian landing the students were in phone contact with NASA's Jet Propulsion Lab in Pasadena through the cousin of one of the MMG members. They were updated throughout the day and expressed disappointment that no word was ever heard from the MPL, but wanted to continue the project by joining the worldwide Mars2030 community project, which challenges participants to design a community to support 100 people on Mars in the year 2030.

The MMG met during recess and after school to research its Mars2030 project. Part of the discussions focused on the students' favorite things about their small rural community and how they could re-create their small town atmosphere for a technologically advanced Mars community.

The students held many discussions on how 100 people could survive on Mars in a planned community with limited resources. They also investigated gravity and its effects, and followed many of the experiments available through the Jet Propulsion Lab web site. MMG members sought input from community members, parents, and teachers, and also used the Internet to help solve the problems of providing air, water, energy, food, housing, and communications for their Martian community. They also consulted the web site of the Mars2030 project.

The MMG constructed a miniature community of papier maché and common craft materials, which is on display at the Terra Alta library. The MMG project results can also be viewed by consulting the Mars2030 web site at www.MARS2030.com, or at http://hometown.aol.com/bookmom/myhomepage/mars.html. The Terra Alta students' MMG project will be embedded on a computer chip that will be launched into space as part of a future Mars mission.

TA STUDENTS GO OUT OF THIS WORLD — These Terra Alta East Preston School students, who have spent a number of months working on a Mars Millennium Group project, will present the results of their endeavors on Saturday, July 8, at 1 p.m. during an open house at the Terra Alta Public Library. The group of fourth graders, who began their studies of the red planet by following the progress of the Mars Polar Lander mission, have designed and constructed a miniature Martian colony site currently on display at the library. Shown in the front row, from left, are Craig Kelly, Alecia Hart, Ashley Teets, Jillian Kelly, Michelle Kelly, and Kasey Simpson. In the back row are Colten Kisner, Sean Ball, and Sam Lewis.

A birthday celebration to honor Homer Myers on his 80th birthday will be held on Saturday, July 15, at the Aurora United Methodist Church, at 2 p.m. It is hoped that his wife, Marguerite, may also join in this occasion, as she did not have a celebration of her March birthday. The family requests there be no gifts, however cards will be appreciated.

MYERS REUNION

A reunion is planned for Saturday, July 29, the Myers, Gnegy, Lantz, Wotring, and Hauser families to gather at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building at noon for a picnic lunch (table service to be supplied). Those who have a printout of their family tree, are asked to bring it to share with others.

For more information, persons may contact Mary K. Teets at (302) 376-9610, or Linda Brockel at (732) 922-3492.

BAKER BIRTH

A daughter, a second child, was born on June 25 to Gary and Julie Baker of Virginia Beach, Va. The little girl weighed 7 pounds, 7 ounces, and has been named Madison Olivia. She has an older brother, Grayson Allen.

Steven Baker of Terra Alta is the paternal grandfather. Tom and Linda Lewis of Eglon are the maternal grandparents. Maternal great-grandparents are Claude and Jean Winters of Eglon and Nina Wallace of Georgia.

TA Club Slates "Eldest" Dinner

The Terra Alta Civic Club will host its annual Eldest Ladies and Gentlemen dinner at Alpine Lake on Tuesday, July 11, at 6 p.m. Any Terra Alta area resident who will turn 80 this year or who is older than 80 may attend as a guest of the civic club, which will provide transportation. Persons interested in attending may contact Betsy Lawson at 304-789-2684, Shirley Smith at 304-789-6789, or Ruth Teets at 304-789-2361 for further information.

Hardy County Sets Meeting To Form MS Support Group

There will be a meeting to form a support group for people living with multiple sclerosis (MS) on July 20, 7 p.m., at the Hardy County Public Library, Moorefield, W.Va.

For more information about the MS Support Group, persons may call Bev Carr at 304-434-2224; Winnie Vance at 304-538-3511; or Grant Memorial Hospital, at 304-257-1026, Ext. 106.

Elk Garden High Reunion Slated

The annual Elk Garden High School reunion will be held Saturday, July 16, at the Elk Garden fire hall, beginning at 1 p.m. All former students of the school are invited to attend, whether or not they graduated from there. The class of 1950 will specifically be honored this year.

A covered-dish and/or dessert is requested. Meat and utensils will be provided.

For more information, persons may telephone Lester Brantner at 301-460-7195, Velma Ruble at 304-446-5251, or Edie Didawick at 304-446-5468.

Family Reunion Set For July 29

The first Myers-Gnegy-Lantz-Wotring-Hauser family reunion will be held on July 29 at the Aurora United Methodist Church Community Building. Family and friends are invited to come at noon and bring a covered dish for a 1 p.m. lunch. Drinks and paper/plastic products will be furnished.

Mary Teets will bring available genealogy and any photos she has for each of these families. All are asked to bring information and/or photos.

For more information, persons may call Mary K. Teets at 302-376-9610 or Linda Brockel at 732-922-3492.

New Creek Site Of 2000 Summer Gospel Jubilee

The Summer Gospel Jubilee 2000 will be held at the Rolling Acres Gospel Music Park in New Creek, W.Va., July 27-30. The park is located along Rt. 93. The hosts for the event will be the Dodds family, the members of which will sing nightly.

The Jody Brown Indian Family of North Carolina and the Beacons of New Creek will co-host Thursday night's event, beginning at 7 p.m.

On Friday at 6:30 p.m., the Dominion Trio of Roanoke, Va., will perform, along with the Reeds of Mt. Storm and the Connors of Sutton.

Heaven Bound from Kingston, Tenn., will open Saturday evening's offering at 6 p.m., along with Eddie Lee & Anointed, Stanley, Va., and Heaven's Express, Browntown, Va.

Mike Ditton of Rock Hill, S.C., will preach on Sunday at 2 p.m. A concert will follow at 2:45 p.m. by the Suttles of Clendenin and Anita Chiflet, Broadway, Va.

All services will be held in the large pavilion. Free-will offerings will be taken at each service. Camping lots and food will be available. Guests are asked to bring lawn chairs.

For more information, persons may call Gene or Shirley Cathell at 304-788-1117.

MISS FIREWORKS AND HER COURT were among the many attractions in last Thursday evening's Independence Day parade in Terra Alta. This year's five-day event was held earlier than usual because of a conflict with the carnival secured by the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department to provide rides and concessions for the event. This was also the first evening parade for the state's oldest continuous 4th of July celebration. A cloudy, rainy day gave way to clearing skies and warm temperatures for the parade that was viewed by a respectable crowd. Pictured above as their float glides down the parade route were Miss Fireworks 2000 Melissa Lively, shown at the rear of the float; her maids of honor, Lauren Roth (foreground) and Tiffany Whetsell (hidden from view); the princesses, Brittany Jenkins (foreground) and Sally Sulick; and the flower girl and crown bearer, Kerysse Slaubaugh and Daniel Shillito. (Photo by Patti Grose)

FROM HIGH ATOP A SLIDE that provided entertainment for the young-at-heart (and body), carnival-goers could see the various rides and games provided by Deshler Amusements and the Terra Alta VFD during the Fourth of July celebration held last week in that mountaintop community.

DUST AND SMOKE kept visibility at a minimum during most of the heats in last Saturday evening's Demolition Derby in Terra Alta. However, once the cars stopped, the drivers and their pit crews could examine the damage, and the crowd could see if their favorite vehicle was still in running condition. The derby is one of the biggest draws to Terra Alta's Fourth of July activities, and this year's event was no disappointment to the standing-room-only crowd. (Photos by Jason Grose)

PERSONAL MENTION

Josh Mullenax represented the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club at the state forestry judging competition held June 28 at Camp Kidd near Parsons. Josh placed second in individual scoring. He is the son of Roger and Renee Mullenax, Horse Shoe Run.

The annual reunion of the Henry and Molly Harsh descendants was held Saturday with 123 relatives and friends attending. The noon dinner at the Aurora UM Memorial building and an afternoon of visiting were followed by an evening hayride and weiner roast on the home farm at Herb Starr.

Weekend visitors with the Starrs on Stemple Ridge were Jinny and Al Casto of Ohio; Terry, Missy, Todd, Jessie, Sarah, and Adam Starr of North Carolina; Candy Krites of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; and Richard Collier.

Pastor Don Knotts of Keyser, pastor of the Brookside Church of the Brethren, is reportedly very ill again and in need of further surgery.

Michael Lantz and Angela Miller of North Pole, Alaska, and Michael's mother, Mary Lou Miller of Goldsboro, N.C., were weekend visitors of the latter's parents, David and Wilma Mae Teets, Horse Shoe Run.

Rebecca Michael has returned from a recent workshop, during which Church of the Brethren youth from West Marva District joined others in a workshop at a Mexican orphanage. Rebecca is the daughter of Pete and Juanita Michael, Mountain Grove.

Tom and Linda Lewis of Eglon were weekend visitors in Martinsburg with their daughter, Emily Lewis.

Richard, Mary, and Caitlin Norwish of Eglon visited last week in Fayetteville, N.C., with Richard's sister and brother-in-law, Janet and Larry Melvin. They returned to their home Thursday evening.

Ruth Allman of Eglon is a patient in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

John Teets of Eglon and now a resident of Goodwill Nursing Home, Grantsville, was admitted last week for an apparent heart condition and released to return there after a four-day stay.

Guests of Wilma Rembold in Aurora this weekend were Bill and Mary Durr of Baltimore, Jim and Judy Rembold of Washington, D.C., her niece, Juanita Biser Gentry, and friend, Betty Rucker, both of Ft. Myers, Fla.

Doyne and Bonnie Teets of Springfield, Va., were accompanied by his mother, Naomi Teets, Boonsboro, Md., on a Saturday trip to this area. They visited Mrs. Ruth Teets at Cortland Acres Nursing Home and also Naomi's sister, Martha Holsopple, Red House, who underwent heart surgery in Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown, last Tuesday.

Patrick Bugu of Nigeria and a student at Bethany Theological Seminary at Richmond, Ind., was the guest of Maple Spring Church of the Brethren on Sunday, July 2.

He is an ordained pastor in the Ekklesiyar Yan'uwas a Nigeria (Church of the Brethren in Nigeria), and had recently functioned as librarian at the Theological College of Northern Nigeria in Bukuru. His wife Rebecca and their five children, ages 5-18, remain in Africa, and he faces another year of separation from them as he continues his studies at Bethany. After waiting for four years to have his dreams of coming to the United States come true, upon his return he will take whatever assignment is given him by the church, whether it be as pastor of a church or teaching in either a seminary or other institution. He is especially interested in Christian education.

WVPT's Next Offering To Be Secret Garden

The West Virginia Public Theatre (WVPT) will present the Broadway musical The Secret Garden July 11-16 at the Creative Arts Center in Morgantown.

Based on the classic children's novel by Frances Hodges Burnett, this Tony Award Winning musical tells the story of a young orphaned girl sent to live with her bitter, recluse uncle. Befriending a shy young boy living on the premises, the two discover a beautiful, hidden garden at the mansion.

Playing to standing ovations across the country, critics claim that this mystical musical contains some of the best music ever written for the Broadway stage, including songs like "How Could I Ever Know," "A Bit of Earth," and "Come to My Garden."

Alex Sharp will be returning to WVPT as Archibald Craven after most recently being seen as Gaylord Ravenal in Showboat. Sharp has performed Ravenal on Broadway and in the toured with the Broadway Company.

Morgantown native Kristen Graeber will be seen in the leading role of Mary Lennox. Audiences may remember Ms. Graeber from the WVPT Christmas production of Peter Pan.

Quinn Patrick Shannon, a 14-year old Pittsburgh native, will be playing Colin. A veteran performer, Shannon began performing at the age of 5. Seen in numerous Gargaro Productions, Little Lake Theatre, and Pittsburgh Public theatre productions, he recently held the role of Jesus in the KTW Young Actors version of Godspell.

Performances of The Secret Garden are slated for 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 11, through Sunday, July 16, with Wednesday and Sunday matinees beginning at 2 p.m. Tickets are $22 for the general public; $21 for senior citizens, students, WVU faculty and staff; and $10 for youth 12 years and under. Advanced tickets may be purchased at the WVPT Box Office located at the Creative Arts Center on the Evansdale campus of West Virginia University or by calling the WVPT locally at 599-6785 or toll free at 1-877-999-WVPT. Visa, Mastercard, and Discover cards are accepted.

MCNEILL'S RANGERS RETURN — The Apple Alley Players/McNeill's Rangers Inc. will host the popular historic drama again this summer in Burlington, W.Va. Along with the Civil War based story, the theatre group will present Rogers and Hammerstein's musical "Oklahoma!" The curtain went up on the month-long season on June 29. The McNeill's Rangers tale is based on the true story of John Hanson McNeill and his band of rebel rangers who wreaked havoc on the Union Army during the last days of the Civil War. The Oklahoma musical is a well-known love story set in the vast western territory. Apple Alley will present the two musicals on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights of alternating weeks. All shows begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are $11 for adults and $9 for students and senior citizens. For more information, persons may call 304-788-0458. Pictured is Jemima McNeill as she sings of her love for her husband Hanse, a wounded Confederate captain.

LOCAL ELK ATTENDS CONVENTION — James E. Stewart, leader of Oakland Elks Lodge 2461, has been in Dallas, Texas, this week representing the local lodge during the five-day 136th national Grand Lodge Convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Stewart and his fellow Elks at the convention have been learning the national results of each of the order's many programs, and have been setting the course of the BPO Elks for the coming year by voting on key issues facing the order and electing new national leaders. Last year the 1.2 million Elk membership made over $180.7 million in charitable contributions to support scholarships and educational grants, drug awareness and education, aid to veterans, and youth athletic programs. The Elks' state associations' major projects have also benefited from the group's charitable efforts, which provide funding for a variety of causes from cancer treatment and research to shelters for victims of domestic violence.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF MARYLAND FOR GARRETT COUNTY
CIVIL NO.: C-00-6166

TERESA B. PIERCE
Plaintiff vs.
BRIAN M. PIERCE
Defendant

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION

The Plaintiff, Teresa B. Pierce, has filed a complaint in which she is seeking to obtain an absolute divorce by the Plaintiff, Teresa B. Pierce, from the Defendant, Brian M. Pierce.

The Complaint recites that the parties were married on July 24, 1998, by a civil ceremony in Elkton, Maryland; that no children were born as a result of said marriage, that the Plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one (1) year prior hereto; and that the parties voluntarily and continuously have lived separate and apart without cohabitation since September 1999; that there is no reasonable hope or expectation of a reconciliation.

The Defendant has moved and there have been two unsuccessful attempts made to serve the Defendant with the Complaint at his last 3929 Turkey Point Road, North East MD 21901.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY KNOWN AS
CONDOMINIUM UNIT NO. 670
IN THE WISP CONDOMINIUM,
McHENRY, MARYLAND 21541

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Purchase Money Mortgage dated December 22, 1989, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, ("Land Records"), in Liber 541, folio 678 granted by Hong Y. Chung and Kea S. Chung, husband and wife, to First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, said Purchase Money Mortgage having been assigned to Michael Scott Cohen for purposes of foreclosure by an Assignment of Mortgage, duly recorded among the Land Records, with all the powers granted to the Mortgagee originally named therein, including power of sale upon default, and default having occurred in the terms and conditions thereof, the said Assignee will offer for sale at public auction on the first floor of the

Circuit Court for Garrett County
at 203 South Fourth Street, Oakland, Maryland, on Tuesday, July 18, 2000, at 1:30 p.m.

The property described in the aforesaid Purchase Money Mortgage, being all that real property, together with the improvements thereon and the appurtenances thereto, known as Condominium Unit No. 670 in The Wisp Condominium, McHenry, Maryland 21541.

Terms of Sale: A cash deposit or certified check of $5,000.00 shall be paid at the time and place of sale, balance in cash at settlement which shall be twenty days (20) after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, time being the essence, with interest on balance of purchase price at 10% per annum from the date of sale to the date of settlement. Failure of the purchaser to settle as set forth herein will result in resale of the property at the purchaser's risk and expense and/or forfeiture of the deposit at the election of the Assignee, who reserves all legal and equitable remedies available to him. Taxes, ground rent, and all other municipal liens and charges to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis shall be adjusted to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, document preparation and title insurance shall be borne by purchaser.

The property and the improvements thereon are being sold in an "as is" condition and subject to prior conveyances, restrictions, liens and agreements or record affecting the same, if any. Neither the Assignee, the Mortgagee, nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any warranty or representation, either express or implied, with respect to the property including, but not limited to, description, use, recorded or unrecorded leases or other occupancy agreements, if any, improvements, physical conditions, zoning, building codes compliance, merchantability, or title. The purchaser is responsible for and the property and the improvements described above are now subject to any environmental matter or condition, whether latent or observable, that may exist at or affect or relate to the property and the improvements and to any governmental requirements affecting the same.

The Assignee reserves the unqualified right to reject any and all offers.

PUBLIC NOTICES

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on July 20, 2000, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 304 of the Old Courthouse. The Board will review the following docketed cases:

1. VR-455 - An application made by Lauria E. Sapp and Mark E. Madson for a Variance from the minimum land area requirement for building lots. Specifically, the applicants are seeking a Variance to establish a lot that contains .92 of an acre instead of the required one acre. The property is located at 1072 Crows Point Road (zoned LR).

2. VR-456 - An application made by Russell W. Bounds for a Variance to allow an attached carport to remain at a distance of 5.04 feet from a side line instead of the required 15 feet. The property is located at 272 McComas Beach Terrace (zoned LR).

3. VR-457 - An application made by D.C. Development LLC for a Variance from the front setback requirement for lots #7, 8 & 10 of Southridge Subdivision. Specifically, the applicants are requesting a Variance to allow front setback of 25 feet on each of these lots instead of the required 40 feet. The properties are located off Southridge Terrace and Southridge Drive in the Southridge Subdivision (zoned LR).

4. SE-304 - An application made by Karen E. Myers for a Special Exception Permit to allow the establishment of a Cable TV/Communication Services Office on her property located on Mersh Hill Road in an existing boat storage building (zoned TR).

Interested persons are invited to attend.

Summer Festival At Spruce Forest Beginning Today

The Spruce Forest Artisan Village in Grantsville will be the site of the 23rd annual Summer Festival and Quilt Show, beginning today, Thursday, July 13, and continuing through Saturday, July 15, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

Held rain or shine amid 75-year-old spruce trees, the festival will offer the quilt show at Grantsville Elementary School; the IDEA art exhibition in the air-conditioned Village Church; and nearly 100 artisans, storytellers, and musicians sharing traditions of their crafts and selling artwork.

Lena Eicher, local author of House of Strangers, will autograph and sell her books and musicians will entertain as they stroll about the grounds. Concessionaires will offer country foods and the Children's Corner will provide activities for youngsters on Friday and Saturday.

"The festival will offer a complimentary shuttle bus with paid admission to shuttle folks between several popular attractions in our immediate area," said Trish

IN THE QUIET OF A SUMMER MORNING, one can often catch sight of wildlife here in Garrett County, where we share the place with many a mammal (among other beasts). The deer are abundant these days, sometimes causing problems for farmers or gardeners by helping themselves to the new leaves of cabbage or tender green beans. But one can hardly ignore the charm of this creature, one of God's own, of course. And how lovely it is to come upon such an animal, standing alert in its sun-dappled path, its ears pointed toward the least sound and its muscles tensed to bound away in an instant. We are indeed lucky to live here, where we are graced with such gifts of natural beauty.

Banjo, Fiddle Contest Slated In Friendsville

The 36th annual Friendsville Fiddle and Banjo Contest will be held on Saturday, July 15, at the Friendsville town park. Since 1965, this music event has been a major fund-raiser sponsored by the Friendsville Lions and Rotary clubs. The contest will begin at 7 p.m.

A pre-show, highlighting local musicians, singers, and dancers, will begin in the park at 3 p.m. This year, the western Maryland group the Mountain String Pickers will take the stage to perform their repertoire of bluegrass and country music. Also on the pre-show schedule is Adam Lawson, playing and signing gospel songs, and the county music of Jeannie Ross.

Square dancers and cloggers will demonstrate traditional dance styles as part of the pre-contest entertain-

Tri-State "Senior Expo" To Be Held By Area Agency On Aging

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, operating under the direction of the Community Action Committee, Inc. will host the Tri-State Senior Expo on Thursday, July 20, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at St. Peter's Social Hall, located at 4th and Oak Streets in Oakland, Maryland.

The Expo will provide an opportunity for seniors, caregivers, families, and the community as a whole to learn about services, agencies, health care providers, products, and long term care facilities available in the tri-state area, a spokesperson said. More than 20 representatives will be available to explain their services, programs, and products, and some vendors will offer screenings.

Agencies and vendors participating in the Expo include: Assisted Living at Frostburg Village, Goodwill Retirement Community, Allegany County Nursing Home, Stewart Funeral Home & Monument, Cuppett & Weeks Nursing Home, Rest Assured Residential Living Center, Potomac Highlands Center for Independent Living, Garrett County Health Department's Home Health Agency, S.A.L.T., State Farm Insurance, Mt. Top Mental Health Associates, Inc., Garrett Orthopedic Physical Therapy, Cooperative Extension Service, Mt. Glade Adult Day Services, Hospice Of Garrett County, Maryland Department of Aging, Daybreak Older Adult Partial Hospitalization Program, Alzheimer's Association (Western Maryland Chapter), Med-A-Save Home Health Care, Garrett Transit Service, Community Action Housing Services, Garrett Rehab Services, Williams Chiropractic Clinic, and Criss Kepple Sweit-

Grantsville Residents Confront Community Crime, Seek Solution

A meeting last week in Grantsville for residents concerned about crime drew 76 citizens, who heard reports from and addressed questions to a panel composed of representatives of law enforcement and the court and justice systems.

State's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch chaired the panel of the Thursday evening gathering at the fire hall that included the mayor and town council, county commissioner Fred Holliday, Del. George Edwards, business owners, civic leaders, town officials, and individual residents.

The meeting was called in response to a series of reported incidents of trespassing, vandalism, verbal abuse, harassment, littering, and threats of violence.

Welch gave an overview of what law enforcement is doing in the Grantsville area, and explained the laws and processes that must be followed by police. "There are some things that police can do without citizens filing complaints or acting as witnesses," she said.

However, there are types of incidents for which police need complaints filed in order to respond, Welch explained. She said that residents need to take the appropriate legal action when a problem arises, noting that she will sometimes hear from residents about incidents months after they occur.

Welch outlined how residents should respond to particular problems, such as vandalism and trespassing. "It is necessary for the victim to call the police or to file a complaint with the district court commissioner," she explained.

In order to file such a document, one must go to the District Court in Oakland and one must know the names of the suspects. The police may be able to assist in learning the identities of those suspects, Welch noted.

"Some serious discussion followed the state's attorney explanation. There is no longer a district court commissioner in Grantsville and some people wanted to know if we could get a commissioner to come to

Deep Creek Lake Zoning Hearing Set For Tonight

A public hearing about the Deep Creek Lake zoning ordinance on set-back limits and campground regulations will be held this evening (Thursday) in the Garrett County commissioners' meeting room, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The ordinances are being discussed in light of the current buy-down of properties by adjacent owners. According to John Nelson, director of the county's office of planning and zoning, the ordinance as it stands could allow structures to be built up to the edge of the property lines, or very close to the edge of the lake. He said the sale of the lake to the state and the effects of that sale "adds a new dimension to the zoning ordinance." The ordinance was established 25 years ago.

Land around the lake purchased by the state of Maryland from GPU is being offered to adjacent property owners at the state's cost of about $.36 per square foot. This land is subject to a conservation easement that could restrict its use, but the current ordinance would apparently allow a change in rear-yard set-backs.

The Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association reportedly supports no change to the ordinance, as does the local realtor board. Nelson, however, has cautioned that leaving the

urists Injured In PWC Mishaps On Lake

Three visitors to Garrett County were injured in two separate boating accidents on Deep Creek Lake this past Saturday, both of which involved apparent misuse of personal watercraft. Two of the accident victims, and one PWC owner who was on shore at the time of the first crash, have been cited by the Natural Resources Police, according to spokesperson Susan O'Brien of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

The first accident occurred at 4:30 p.m. in the Cherry Creek Cove, when Frances Paolicelli, 38, Sugarland, Texas, who was operating a 1996 Yamaha Waverunner, collided with her daughter, 15-year-old Elizabeth Paolicelli, who was operating a 1992 Yamaha Waverunner. The older woman was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment of a broken ankle, and was cited for failure to maintain a 100-foot distance between her craft and other crafts. Her daughter was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, O'Brien stated.

Anthony Lombardi, 62, Charleroi, Pa., the owner of the PWC operated by the youth, was cited for allowing a person under the age of 16 to operate a watercraft. Both Lombardi's and Paolicelli's infractions resulted in $50 fines.

The second mishap was a single-watercraft accident that occurred at 8:30 p.m. the same evening when Brian Attebery, 27, Petersburg, Ky., lost control of his jet ski and struck his face on the handlebars. He was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment with stitches to his face.

Attebery, who was allegedly jumping his own wakes at the time of the accident, was cited for operation of a vessel without a boating safety certificate, required of all persons born after July 1, 1972. The infraction carries a $50 fine.

Hospital spokespersons reported that none of the three injured individuals remained in the hospital as of Sunday evening.

RECKNER TAKES DERBY TROPHY - Jeremiah Reckner, 10, Grantsville, drove to victory in the 24th annual July 4th Coaster Derby Day Race in Frostburg. The event, sponsored by Frostburg Elks Lodge #470, is for youths ages 9 through 14. Drivers compete in hand-built race cars, similar to those used in the Soapbox Derby Race held annually in Akron, Ohio. Kenny Signs sponsored the car Reckner drove to victory undefeated in this, his first year of competition. Reckner is the first Garrett County resident to win the event. Reckner, a graduate of Accident Elementary School, will enter Northern Middle School in the fall.

Ordinance To Provide Tax Credits To Eligible Farm Owners Adopted

An ordinance to provide tax credits for owners of agricultural land who participate in the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Program or the Maryland Rural Legacy Program was passed by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners last week with a unanimous vote. The commissioners said the purpose of this tax credit program is to stimulate more participation in long-term agricultural land preservation in Garrett County, which in turn, they said, will protect the county's rural environment and farming heritage.

The adopted tax credit ordinance provides a 100 percent credit from Garrett County real property taxes levied on agricultural land and woodlands, excluding agricultural structures and residential dwellings and one acre surrounding these dwellings.

This credit can be obtained if the property is included in an agricultural preservation district as provided for in the Agricultural Articie of the Annotated Code of Maryland, if the landowner agrees that the property will remain as an active farming operation for at least five years and that the property will not be used for any purpose other than farming, and if the landowner agrees that if the Agricultural District is ever terminated, he or his heirs will be responsible for all credited taxes, plus interest, since the property entered the program.

Eligibility for the program begins when one or more owners of land, actively devoted to agricultural use, voluntarily files an application with the county requesting the establishment of an Agricultural Preservation District. The district must contain a minimum of 100 contiguous acres and be located outside any water or sewerage service area. Soils within the district must meet certain minimum United States

Grantsville Library Building Fund Profits From First United Project

First United Bank and Trust is offering a certificate of deposit specifically to benefit the building fund of the Grantsville library project. Spearheaded by the reNEW Grantsville Library committee, the goal set for this fund is $100,000 by January 1, 2001. The My Bank Helper CD established at First United Bank earmarks a percentage of the amount invested for the building fund.

Grantsville business owner Gary Ruddell, honorary chair of the reNEW committee, referred to the Helper CD as an example of the "creative" tools that businesses can develop to show support for the library project.

"We are doing well in our efforts to raise money for the library. With the initial donations from the family of Elsa Naser, the $25,000 pledge from the town of Grantsville, and contributions from community members we now have about $60,000," he said, noting that there is still a long way to go to reach the goal set by the committee.

"We are hoping for the assistance and the support of the business community to meet that goal," he stated.

Toward this end, a letter was recently sent to local businesses requesting donations for the new library. Support of the new library will be recognized in several ways. A "Tree of Learning" made up of Charter Partner plaques will be prominently displayed in the entry area of the building. A Platinum Charter Partner Plaque will be given for each $10,000 donation.

Various levels of giving will be recognized. Charter Partner plaques will be displayed denoting levels of support: gold for $5,000, silver for $1,000, and bronze for $500. The donor making the largest commitment by December 31, 2000, will be allowed to name Grantsville's library reading room.

Ruddell added that the committee would accept pledges to contribute over a period of time. "For instance, a business might want extend a generous contribution over a three- or five-year period," he said.

GBI Investigates Penn Alps Bomb, Robbery Threats

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation continues to investigate a threat against the Penn Alps Restaurant made via an anonymous telephone call on Saturday, July 1.

The phone call was made to the McHenry State Police barracks shortly before 6 p.m. that evening. A person who identified him/herself as a Penn Alps employee told the dispatcher that there were four men armed with guns and explosives inside the restaurant at that point. The caller said that instructions had been given for the staff to take the restaurant's cash receipts and deliver them to a location outside Grantsville or the restaurant would be in danger.

The restaurant was immediately contacted by the state police, who learned from employees on the scene that nothing appeared out of the ordinary. As a precaution, the business was evacuated and state troopers executed a thorough search of the premises and surrounding area with assistance from a MSP K-9 unit and helicopter. No evidence relating to the phone threat was located, according to TFC Keith Stakem, who filed the initial report.

The case has since been turned over to the GBI for investigation, and persons who have information on the incident are asked to contact MSP Cpl. Scott Anderson, the lead detective, at 301-334-1909, 301-334-1911, or 301-387-1101. Anonymity is guaranteed.

THE DISCOVERY OF LOVE — Adam and Eve (Leah Broderick and Drew Harris) are pictured as they discover the proverbial first true love, with "Father" looking on in the background (Tom Peterson). The scene is one of many in the musical Children of Eden, opening tonight at Preston High School in Kingwood, W.Va., and running through the weekend, with shows at 8 p.m. tonight, Friday, and Saturday, and at 2 p.m. on Sunday. The musical presents the first several chapters of the Book of Genesis, complete with lively songs and dances. A number of local actors are involved in the production, which is a joint effort of the Preston High Summer Theatre and the Ecumenical Youth Ministry. Lynn Broderick is the director of the show. Tickets are $5 at the door, and are also available at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland. For information, persons may call 301-334-6300.

Violin, Piano Duo Lei Hou & Richard Hancock To Perform

LEI HOU

The classical violin-piano duo of Lei Hou and Richard Hancock will present works by Ludwig van Beethoven, Franz Schubert and Bedrich Smetana on Saturday, July 15, as part of the Music at Penn Alps concert series. The performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville.

A Peabody Institute graduate and member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Lei Hou spent six years as a member of the National Symphony Orchestra in Washington, D.C., where she was appointed acting principal second violin by Mstislav Rostropovich. Her solo recitals were broadcast on National Public Radio and WJHU, Baltimore. A founding member of the Aurora Trio, she appeared with the Washington Chamber Artists and played with the Manchester String Quartet.

Hou has played in music festivals around the United States and in Europe. At the Ravinia Music Festival, she played in an all-Mozart chamber music concert with Pinchas Zukerman.

Born in Dalian, China, she studied violin at the Shanghai Conservatory before attending Peabody, where she studied with Berl Senofsky, Earl Carlyss and Sylvia Rosenberg, and earned her bachelor's and master's degrees.

Pianist Hancock, who is also a graduate of Peabody, brings a rich musical background to the Great Hall at Penn Alps that includes concert appearances around the county. He currently teaches at the Peabody Institute.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporate sponsors, and the support of individuals. This concert is sponsored by Keystone Financial.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may call Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. Because there are no reserved seats, ticket holders are encouraged to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

"NAMASTE!"* — Rev. Dr. Wilfred L. Karsten, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church in Accident, is shown with village students at the opening ceremonies of a Christian school in Sri Lanka. Karsten recently completed his fourth short-term mission trip to the south Asian island nation, and has served as guest instructor in the theological education program of the Lanka Lutheran Church, teaching Christian worship and biblical interpretation, and as a liaison to the Lanka Lutheran Church for the World Mission department of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. This school, located on a Palmerston tea estate in the mountainous region of central Sri Lanka, was opened along with four others by the Lanka Lutheran Church with assistance from Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod World Relief. (*"Namaste" is a common Sri Lankan greeting that means "I recognize the god-head, or the goodness, in you.")

Golf Fund-Raiser Set For Northern Garrett Football

Northern Garrett County's football programs — the peewee league Maddawgs, the youth league Steelers, and the Northern High School Huskies — will benefit from a fund-raising golf tournament that will take place in McHenry on Monday, July 17, at the Wisp Golf Resort. Up to 60 two-player teams may register for the best ball handicap system event on-site that morning beginning at 7:30 a.m. Doughnuts and coffee will be served, courtesy of Foodland Fresh and the Wisp, from 8 a.m. until the tourney's 9 a.m. shotgun start.

A number of prizes will be offered at the tournament, including a $1,000 prize for a hole-in-one on any of the course's par 3 holes. A 2000 Ford Taurus four-door sedan, supplied by Diehl's Ford Sales in Grantsville, will be awarded for a hole-in-one on one of the par 3 holes. Additional prizes will be awarded at each hole, low gross teams will win cash for three places, and putting and best poker hand contests will feature prizes as well. Mulligans and red tees will be available at the registration table.

The fund-raiser's entry fee is $75 per person or $150 per two-player team. Interested persons may call Jamie Rodeheaver at 301-746-6506 or Warren Glotfelty at 301-387-5349 for further information or to register.

Complimentary food and soda will be served throughout the day, and the Northern Husky varsity football players will also be accepting donations as they wash the cars of interested participants and spectators. A photographer will be available to take group and individual pictures. Any businesses interested in sponsoring a hole for $100 may call Rodeheaver or Glotfelty as well, and the online publication DeepCreekMagazine.com is offering a free month-long ad on its web site for any business that sponsors a hole.

Fresh Air Fund Youths Arrive In Grantsville

Tuesday evening buses arrived at Maple Glen Church in Grantsville bringing New York City youngsters for a two-week country visit with area families, sponsored by the Fresh Air Fund. An independent, not-for-profit agency, the Fresh Air Fund has provided free summer vacations to more than 1.7 million disadvantaged New York City children since 1877.

"Friendly Towns," scattered throughout 13 states from Virginia to Maine, will provide host families for these youngsters. Each Fresh Air community is supervised by a committee of volunteers, who select host families after reviewing their applications, visiting them in their homes, and checking their personal references.

Over 10,000 New York City children enjoy free Fresh Air Fund programs annually. This summer, close to 6,000 Fresh Air children, boys and girls from 6 to 18 years old, will visit 300 Fresh Air Friendly Towns. Children on first visits to host families are 6 to 12 years old and stay for two weeks.

Over 65 percent of all children are re-invited to stay with host families year after year and may continue with the Fund through age 18. Many will spend the entire summer in the country. "Fresh Air children and volunteer families often form bonds of friendship that last a lifetime," said Alice Orendorf, Grantsville Committee chair.

Children selected to participate in Fresh Air Fund programs based on financial need are from low-income families, with the majority receiving some form of public assistance. Fresh Air youngsters are registered by 50 social service and community organizations in all five boroughs of New York City.

There are no financial requirements for hosting a Fresh Air child. "Most hosts simply want to share their homes with inner-city youngsters," Orendorf said. Host families are not paid.

Single-Vehicle Crash Injures Kitzmiller Man

A 20-year-old Kitzmiller man was treated at Garrett Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon and released after a single-vehicle accident along North Hill Road, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Jeremy Rhine had left work early because of sickness and was en route to his home at the time of the 3 p.m. incident. He told sheriff's deputies that he lost consciousness behind the wheel of his 1999 Mercury Cougar near the old watering trough, and his vehicle drifted off the road and hit a tree head-on. The car was totaled, but Rhine's escape from serious injury was credited to his use of a seat belt and a functioning air bag.

The Southern Rescue Squad, with assistance from the Kitzmilier Volunteer Fire Department, made the hospital transport. No charges were filed against Rhine.

Deanna Bogart Next In Little Yough Summer Series Line-Up

Deanna Bogart, singer and musician, will be the Little Yough Summer Festival's featured artist on Friday, July 21, in a concert that will mix blues, boogie-woogie, R&B, and jazz.

Music circles have heard and respected the mettle of Deanna Bogart for many years. With her piano, saxophone, and band, she has provided audiences in the U.S. and Europe with "an honest, entertaining, energy-to-spare show for nearly a decade," a series spokesperson said.

Bogart has been the highlight of many festivals, sharing the stage with performers such as B.B. King, Buddy Guy, the Neville Brothers, Ray Charles, Little Feat, Ruth Brown, and Sista Monica.

The character and cadence of Bogart's hybridized blues style was assimilated from many Baltimore-Washington, D.C., area bands from 1981 to 1986, and later Root Boy Slim's band, Capitol Offense, whose members included Paul Reed Smith, Scott Ambush, Steuart Smith, and Ron Holloway.

In 1990, Bogart's first solo release, Out To Get You (Blind Pig Records), captured Best R&B album at NAIRD and a Billboard Merit Award for the jazz instrumental, featuring Danny Gatton. She has since released Crossing Borders (Flying Fish/Rounder Records 1992) and New Address (Viceroots/WEA, 1996), and has earned 18 "Wammies" (Washington Area Music Awards) in several categories.

Her first CD for the Shanachie label, The Great Unknown, produced by Robert Cray's producer, Dennis Walker, finds Bogart "opening new doors with songs of life and love told through easy-to-relate-to lyrics in her devil-may-care vocal style."

The current line-up for the band is Bogart, Kajun Kelly on guitar, Walt Cosby on bass, and Mike Aubin on drums. This free performance, sponsored by Uno's Restaurant, will begin at 7 p.m. at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion, Oakland.

Mtn. Lake Park Elects Three To Town Council

Municipal elections in Mountain Lake Park Tuesday resulted in returning incumbents David Gangler and Lou DiCarlo to the town council along with a new member, Fred Callis. With about 10 percent of the registered voters casting ballots, Gangler took 93 votes, Callis 84, and DiCarlo 78. The fourth candidate on the ballot, Jack Michaels, earned 72 of the votes cast.

HONORED FOR SERVICE - During a recent meeting of the Maryland Association of Election Officials at Rocky Gap Lodge and Golf Resort, Roscoe H. Swiger, a member of the Garrett County Board of Elections, was recognized for his service. He was presented with a certificate noting his "years of loyal service to the voters and contributions to the promotion of excellence in election administration."

Driver Charged For Speeding, Loaded Handgun

A traffic stop by Maryland State Police on I-68 last week resulted in the arrest of the driver for a handgun violation. According to investigating officer Tfc. J.F. Broadwater, Robert Wayne Yonts, 29, Nitro, W.Va., was observed operating a Honda Civic eastbound on the interstate near Amish Road July 5 at 5 p.m.

Yonts, who was allegedly driving 80 mph in a 65 mph zone, was stopped for speeding. It was at this time that Broadwater said he found a loaded Glock 9mm beside the driver's seat and arrested Yonts, who was later released.

Vehicle Overturns

Stephanie Welch, 34, Grantsville, was injured Monday afternoon when her vehicle, which was eastbound on Route 40, overturned, striking a ditch and subsequently striking several large rocks and trees, according to the police report.

Welch allegedly told investigating officer Tfc. J. LeMay that she had swerved the Dodge Ram she was driving in order to avoid hitting a black bear in the roadway. Welch was taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Northern Rescue Squad and treated and released.

Police charged Welch with negligent driving and driving while intoxicated.

Youth Injured

A one-vehicle mishap on Accident-Bittinger Road Monday afternoon resulted in injuries to the 17-year-old female driver. Reportedly the young woman lost control of her vehicle on a wet road surface as she was traveling north. The car spun around, hit a brick wall, and crashed into a yard, police said.

Both Accident VFD and Northern Rescue Squad responded to the scene. The driver was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital. No charges were filed by police.

CDS Possession

Marlene E. Wilburn, 22, Hagerstown, was arrested for possession of a controlled dangerous substance on July 11.

DWI/DUI

The following arrests were made by the state police for driving while intoxicated or driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs:

Christopher Heinrich Beitzel, 30, Oakland, July 1; Richard Clair Kennedy, 46, Pittsburgh, July 3; Bryan Eugene Ringler, 44, West Salisbury, Pa., July 8; Sherry Lynn Wiley, 40, Grantsville, July 9; and Glenn Allen Arbogast, Davis, W.Va., July 9.

Prison Terms Handed Down In Circuit Court

Three defendants were sentenced to jail time in proceedings of the Circuit Court of Garrett County last week, according to reports from Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney, and to records of the court. In another case, charges were dismissed by order of the state's attorney.

Judge Fred A. Thayer sentenced Michael Lewis Senn, 33, formerly of Grantsville, to five years in the Department of Corrections (DOC) for a third degree sexual offense. Thayer suspended three years and six months of that sentence, ordering Senn to serve 12 months in the local jail and six months on home confinement, according to the report. Conditions of his sentence include continued counseling, and Senn will have to register as a child sexual offender in his community of residence.

The defendant was arrested by Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI) officers in November of last year. The GBI and the Garrett County Department of Social Services conducted a joint investigation into allegations about Senn, revealing that he had allegedly engaged in "inappropriate contact" with a juvenile in October and November of 1998. Senn pleaded guilty to the charge in March, at which time the judge had ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

In another case, a Grantsville teenager was ordered to serve a year in the local jail for a distribution of marijuana charge. Charles Clinton Cole Jr., 19, was sentenced to three years in the DOC, but Thayer suspended two years of the term.

The defendant was charged by officers of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force for selling marijuana to an undercover police officer in September 1999. He entered a plea of guilty to this charge in March circuit court proceedings.

Judge James Sherbin also imposed sentencing against Cole last week for a second charge of marijuana distribution that allegedly occurred in September 1999 and involved a police informant. Sherbin ordered Cole to serve three years in the DOC, and then suspended the entire term. Upon his release from jail, the defendant will be on supervised probation for two years in both cases, according to the report. Among the conditions of probation imposed was payment of a $1,000 fine and a requirement to repay $200 to the task force.

In a separate matter involving Cole, the court had previously ordered the defendant's 1992 Chevrolet S-10 pickup be forfeited to the task force, as it was used by Cole on both occasions of distributing the marijuana, according to the report.

Ferdinand George Baumann, 33, formerly of Accident, was sentenced last week by Sherbin to 18 months in the local jail, and was fined $1,000 for a distribution of marijuana charge. The crime allegedly took place in December 1997, when Baumann sold the illegal drug to a police informant. Two additional charges of selling marijuana to the same informant were dismissed when Baumann pleaded guilty in April.

For a charge of being a convicted felon in possession of a regulated firearm (handgun), Baumann received a one-year concurrent sentence. The charge was incurred by the defendant in February 1998 following the execution of a search and seizure warrant at his former residence in the Accident area.

Child abuse and related charges in two cases against Galen E. Resh Jr., 54, Accident, were dismissed by the state. State's Attorney Welch said the dismissal of charges was a result of the "status of some of the evidence needed to prosecute these cases."

The charges were filed in February following an investigation by the GBI and Social Services. Welch said charges involving additional possible victims are pending.

Pickers Invited To Bluegrass Festival At Folklife Center

Local "shadetree pickers" and bluegrass "enthusiasts" are invited to bring their instruments and share their music at the second annual Bluegrass Festival at Bietschehof, to be hosted by Puzzley Run Folklife Center near Grantsville, July 21-23. "The invitation is also warmly extended to all those who enjoy just listening to the traditional tunes and familiar old songs," said center director Jean Durst.

Described as a "strings only" music festival, the event will have no featured artists. "This will allow anyone the opportunity to use the stage and microphone in the 1880 Dutch barn," Durst said.

The bluegrass festival provides free camping areas, water, toilet facilities, and firewood for tents or campers (no hookups available) beginning Friday, July 21, at noon and ending Sunday. Simple food will be available.

"Part of the mission and purpose of Puzzley Run Folklife Center is to preserve and promote the music and culture of the Appalachians. It is our hope that this festival will grow into a major bluegrass music event," Durst said.

Anyone interested in helping to promote this endeavor is asked to contact Jean and Bill Durst at P. O. Box 28, Grantsville, Md., 21536 or by phone at 301-895-3742 or 301-746-7049.

No admissions will be charged, but Puzzley Run requests donations to help cover the cost of the festival.

Bietschehof is located west of Grantsville, one mile off old Rt. 40, following Zehner Road to Hetrick Road. Signs will direct from Route 40.

Winter Selected "Outstanding" Maryland Senior

Frostburg State University honor student and 1996 Northern High School graduate Jonathan Winter was recently named Maryland Collegiate Honors Council Outstanding Senior in the state from a four-year college or university (public and private schools).

Winter received the award in recognition of his 4.0 GPA, research work, co-curricular activities and coursework at FSU. His research with biology professor Dr. Amy Harmon contributed to the discovery of a new species of nematode. Winter and Harmon traveled to Russia to share their findings at an international conference.

A biology and psychology major with a minor in chemistry, Winter plans to pursue his doctoral degree in medicine. He shares the MCHC award with a student from the University of Baltimore.

Weekend Hours Noted At State Court Office

The District Court Commissioner's office of Garrett County, a local office of the Maryland state court system, is now open for regular business from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays and Sundays. On weekdays, the commissioner's office is open for regular business from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. A district court commissioner is on call for emergencies at all other times.

Persons who need the services of a district court commissioner are welcome to come to the office during those times. No appointment is necessary. Should a person need a district court commissioner when the office is closed, he or she should inquire at the front desk of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the dispatcher will page an on-call commissioner.

District court commissioners are judicial officers who serve the public by accepting applications for criminal charges, conducting initial appearance hearings whereby pre-trial release conditions are set, accepting bail bonds for defendants, and providing information about domestic violence orders and peace orders, as well as information on a variety of court functions.

Garrett County district court commissioners are Charles E. Pariseau, Douglas E. Buckley, and Ronald W. Maiers. The office telephone number is 301-334-5739 and the office fax number is 301-334-9119.

Change And Irony . . .

Thanks to the amazing technology of today, this editorial was written last night in St. Petersburg, Russia, eight time zones and thousands of miles away from Oakland. And by this evening, on a ship somewhere in the Baltic Sea, this writer will be able to read the front page, this editorial, letters to the editor, obituaries, and various other items in the on-line edition of today's Republican. Obviously this is a first in the 123-year history of this publication, as such would not have been possible even a few years ago.

Another example of dramatic and rapid change can be found in the country of Russia, where just 10 years ago communism still ruled. This week's copy of the St. Petersburg Times carries an editorial blasting the government's tax reform plan, calling it "horrible economic policy." In another column, the Russian police and security forces are described as "highly undisciplined" and "rampantly corrupt." Just 10 years ago this editor would have been imprisoned, sent to Siberia, or made to suffer an even worse fate for writing such words.

But those days are gone, and capitalism is slowly getting off the ground, as the people of Russia have experienced freedom for the first time in their lives. They are changed.

Besides great change, one can find great irony in St. Petersburg, for it is a city so rich with history that is based on religion, specifically Christianity. The initial core of the city, founded in 1703, was the Peter and Paul Fortress, and there is a huge cathedral consecrated to the Apostles Peter and Paul, who were revered by Peter the Great, first czar of Russia. There are scores of other magnificent cathedrals and churches which have survived the ravages of both communism and Nazism.

The indescribably beautiful and massive Hermitage museum contains the largest collection of art in the world, with works by da Vinci, Picasso, Rembrandt, Van Gogh, Gauguin, Matisse, Monet, and scores of other masters. A great number of these works are of Christian figures and biblical scenes. One can scarcely go more than a block in the city without seeing some form of religious symbolism. Yet most of us grew up believing that Russia was a heathen nation of cold, scary, uncaring people who wanted to destroy us.

Change throughout the world during the last century has been nothing short of remarkable, and certainly of far greater magnitude than in any previous century. The possibilities for the 21st century seem almost limitless.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This is a letter from the hard-working citizens of the Grantsville area to inform the rest of the county and the state of the problems that we are having and how we are dealing with those problems. This is also a message to those individuals affiliated with the "biker gang" that used to roam our streets.

Let us first begin with the problem and how it all started. Two years ago, Grantsville was designated a "Hot Spot" area because we had young juveniles causing some minor problems in our town that amounted to no more than petty vandalism. The problem was overlooked because we all thought that they were just kids and one day they would grow out of that stage. We were wrong. Those young juveniles then turned into adults and continued on the same path. We noticed the problem but still chose to ignore it, hoping it would eventually go away because someone else would take care of our problem. We were wrong. Those same adults decided that they would form a gang, consisting mainly of high school dropouts with very little education and no jobs. A basic drag on society and on the standards set by those who went before us. The gang members thought that they could get away with anything. They had never been held accountable for anything in their lives up to this point, so why start now. They were wrong.

The gang intimidated the elderly, women, and children. They vandalized public and private property and showed no respect for the law or those appointed to uphold it. They even went so far as to brandish guns and threaten the lives of our citizens. We will no longer tolerate those actions in our town!

Let us share with the rest of the world how we are dealing with this problem and perhaps educate you on what to do. Do not ever underestimate a situation, no matter how petty you think it is. Take it from us, ignoring a problem only makes it worse. We now live in a time where disciplining your child is considered by some to be child abuse, and that is wrong! It is a whole community's responsibility to make sure that all of its members are holding up their ends of the bargain and walking the straight and narrow, be it a child or an adult. Don't wait for someone else to take care of the problem. Do it yourself. But do it the right way. Your tax dollars go to pay the salaries of the state police, state's attorney, and the sheriff's department. Put them to work. Pick up the telephone and report delinquent behavior, no matter how minor you perceive it to be. The police cannot deal with a problem that they do not know exists. No one person can clean up a community. It takes everyone. Accept the responsibility! Educate yourselves on delinquent behavior and gang activity so you can identify the problem and deal with it immediately before you encounter the problems that we are dealing with! Grantsville is currently in the process of implementing a neighborhood watch program to phase out any existing problems.

Finally, to those of you who are affiliated with or consider yourself a member of the "biker gang" of Grantsville: It is a new day in Grantsville. Make no mistake about it, your reign of terror and intimidation in this town is over! Your racist and anti-Semitic attitudes are through! Your threats are now idle. Despite our geographic location, we are not just a speck on a map. We have a voice and we will be heard! Your presence in our town will be accepted, but your past actions are as stated, in the past. We will no longer tolerate any more violence and negativity from you. So we leave you with two options. Either conform to society (which means get a job and fit in), or be eliminated from it (jail). Either way we are pressing on to make the Grantsville area a better place to live. Our suggestion to you would be to try to contribute to the overall good and betterment of our town instead of trying to exploit and destroy all that is still good in our community. Our town can be your town, too, but only if you change your ways. The choice is yours. Your decision will directly affect the rest of your life.

Sincerely,
The respected citizens of the Grantsville area
(Signed by 55 individuals, including Mayor Gerry Beachy, Delegate George Edwards, Commissioner Fred Holliday, town council members, business owners, and residents)

To the Editor:

On February 4, 2000, I was plowing snow on the old upper New Germany Road. I pushed a blade of snow out of my brother-in-law's driveway and onto the shoulder of the road (which is just around a left-hand turn). I looked into my driver's side mirror and saw a flashing yellow light up around the turn; a Garrett County Roads truck was coming around the turn out of control. I got my truck moving in an attempt to outrun it, but to no avail. The county roads truck plowed into the rear of my one-ton dump truck, spinning me sideways and pushing me down the road approximately 14 feet.

The other driver and I got out of our trucks, and he immediately admitted that he couldn't get stopped in time to avoid hitting me. He then called his supervisor via radio, and the supervisor arrived on the scene shortly thereafter. We then discussed the accident and the supervisor stated that they were at fault in the matter. He said the county would pay to repair my truck.

The supervisor then called the Maryland State Police. When the trooper arrived, he asked me if it was okay not to charge anyone due to the weather conditions. I said that was fine with me, as long as I got my truck repaired. The trooper then instructed me to follow the roads supervisor to his garage so that I could get the necessary insurance information and paperwork.

When we got to the garage, the supervisor called someone in Oakland, explained the situation to her, and told her that I would be sending her an estimate for the repairs to my truck, after which she was to send me a check for the damages. A few days later, I received a call from a man with the Garret County insurance company. He informed me that they would not be paying for the damage to my truck, that the driver of the county truck had changed his story after I'd left the scene of the accident.

I hired an attorney, who wrote a letter to the Garrett County commissioners requesting the sum of $1,169 for the repairs to my truck. We were turned down. Why? We must now go to court and thrash this matter out, even though it is clear that the accident was caused by the county driver's failure to maintain control of his vehicle. Denying that fact won't make it go away, and denying me reimbursement is unconscionable.

Sincerely,
John P. Hughes
Grantsville

Editor's note: In response to questions about this issue, the commissioners this week said they could make no comment, as the case is now pending in circuit court. It will be heard on Aug. 16, according to Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator.

To the Editor:

My fellow canines, Garrett County Humane Society is presenting Christmas in July, its second annual auction fund-raiser at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, this Saturday, July 15, beginning at 9 a.m.. This event is designed for dogs and their animal lovers of all ages.

"Strut Your Mutt" is a new event for this year. If this is not your speed, have your master dress you up for the "Fido" costume contest or have your human treat you to a portrait with Santa or just come watch the fun.

Ribbons and treats will be awarded. There will be a silent auction, Chinese auction, face painting, and lots of family fun.

Last year's event was attended by many dogs, pooches, puppies, canines, and mutts from all over the tri-state area.

If you would like to enter the "Strut Your Mutt" or the "Fido" costume contest, forms are available from the Garrett County Humane Society. Your owner must provide proof of current rabies vaccination. Uncertified dogs may not participate or remain on the grounds.

No dog fights! If you start anything or cut up, it will fall on the shoulders of your human. No inhumane behavior will be tolerated, so keep your human on a leash at all times. Make sure your person comes prepared to scoop, because dogs will be dogs.

If your master needs more information, he or she can call Gayle Miller at 301-387-4862.

To the Editor:

As a transplant to Garrett County and Maryland as a whole, I was wondering if The Republican could help me answer a question that has been puzzling me about Maryland traffic law. In Michigan where I grew up and took my driver's training as a teenager, we learned that it was illegal to cross the white line and pass a car on the right hand side. Does Maryland have a similar law? Or, is this an offense that our state patrolmen simply do not feel serious enough to enforce? With all the tourists in town lately, I am very concerned that some day soon we will be reading in The Republican about someone being run down as he or she walk along the roadside. For those reading who don't see this as a big deal, go sit yourself down some evening around dusk anywhere along MD Route 219 (say between Traders Landing and Arrowhead) and count how often some impatient driver zips around a car turning left. I just hope the day you go is not that unfortunate day when say... a young mom and dad on a hard-earned vacation have just treated their kids to a big waffle ice cream cone at the Lakeside Creamery and are walking back to the Will O'the Wisp, and... well you get the picture.

Robert Vagnetti
McHenry

Mr. Vagnetti,

We spoke with an officer of the Maryland State Police and he reported that passing on the right, as you have described, is indeed illegal. Passing a turning vehicle in this fashion is only allowed when the road has dual lanes, and the white line is broken. Crossing a solid white line to pass on the right is a ticketable offense.

To the Editor:

My sister and I wish to commend all those responsible for organizing the reunion on June 17 for all who had attended the school in Accident. They did a wonderful job and we want them to know how much we appreciate their efforts on behalf of all of us who attended the reunion, which was held at Northern High School. We thank them all for a job well done!

To the Editor:

In this election year, we hear many politicians proclaiming their intent to fight to save Social Security. A careful study of their motivation shows that they will fiddle with the program to make it survive in the short-term to prevent alienation of the "baby boomer" constituency, but long-term survival of the program requires implementation of major structural changes that require political wisdom and courage.

Population projections show that by 2065, the number of people in the United States over the age of 64 will range between 75 and 90 million. The viability of the Social Security program as presently structured can be ensured if the worker/retiree ratio is 4 or above. Current statistical data shows that 75% of all adults are employed, with 60% of women being employed and 90% of men in the same category. Given the current employment rate among adults, the required worker/retiree ratio can be achieved if the number of live births in this country is 8.7 to 10.4 million per year, far above the current rate of 4 million per year.

Let's be realistic. We are not going to sustain a baby boom, no matter how severe our electrical blackouts become. Social Security must be restructured from a pay-as-you-work plan covering current expenses into a savings plan for the future. Using the Rule of 72 as a guide, if the stock market indices increase by 12% per year, the amount in an indexed stock account will double every 6 years. If a person is allowed to invest $2,000 of his or her Social Security contribution for seven years starting at the age of 21, that investment will grow to $1.2 million at the age of 65. This is how we will save Social Security.

Sincerely,
Robert A. Dahlquist

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

There are few things to warm a pastor's heart more than watching children come to church who are not usually part of the church family. We have just concluded this year's vacation bible school (VBS). For five evenings I had the pleasure of seeing such children come through the church door and sing vigorously (sometimes even boisterously) songs about Jesus Christ.

This year's theme was "God's Plan For You (GP4U)" which was well expressed in the chorus of the theme song:

God's plan for you -
Amazing!
God's plan for you
Is awesome!
I believe he has a plan
For you and me.

Outside the Shorter Catechism there are surely few statements as concise and precise in stating the doctrine of providence.

We have a group of neighborhood kids who count on our VBS every year. Next to the church is a park. During the two months before VBS kids were asking me, "When are we going to have that thing again?" The more difficult hurdle is how to bring the VBS kids into the mainstream of what we are and do as a church.

For those brief evenings we introduce them to Jesus Christ with hope that whatever they do about church that they will never forget about the Lord Jesus. Another of the songs addressed that ambition. It was a direct quotation from St. John 14: 5-7:

"Thomas asked the Lord,
'We don't know where you are going!'
Thomas asked the Lord,
'How can we know the way?'
Jesus answered,
'I am the Way and the Truth and the Life.
No one comes to the Father but through Me.
I am the Way and the Truth and the Life.
No one comes to the Father but through Me.
If you really knew Me,
You would know My Father as well.
If you really knew Me,
You would know My Father as well.'"

Those words were set to a nice tune with a great swing to it, inviting all of us to belt out the song with gusto. It was an amazingly simple way for the kids (and a few adults too) to memorize scripture which they had not known previously.

At the end of the week the VBS director — a splendid, young woman Elder in our church — asked the kids what their favorite thing had been that week. I am not sure, but I think the snack came out number one. I have learned over the past five years that there are kids in our church's neighborhood who are physically hungry. That surprised me at first because I believed, and still believe, that there is no good reason for a child to be hungry in this land of plenty.

Sad to say, there are some bad reasons that kids are hungry. The first one is parental irresponsibility. The fact remains that there are kids, especially boys around the beginning of adolescence, who simply do not get enough to eat. It makes me wonder to what degree nutrition should be part of the mission of a church serving poor children. (By the way, I enjoyed the snack each night too, and I do get more than enough to eat.)

We had a wonderful VBS this year. The curriculum was the best we had ever used, translating great Christian truths in words and music to a broad cross-section of kids. The teachers were skilful, interested in the kids and dedicated to Christ. The crafts were creative and provided delightful mementos for adults and children alike. It was a terrific week, one we hope to repeat for many years to come.

Confront Crime

Grantsville," council member Paul Edwards said, adding that Welch pointed out that decisions on the number and location of district court commissioners are not made locally.

The Neighborhood Crime Watch program was also discussed at the meeting. Tfc. Blair Bittinger of the McHenry barrack of Maryland State Police said that he was developing a Neighborhood Crime Watch for Grantsville as part of the HotSpot agenda. "The residents showed significant interest in this program," Edwards said.

A number of people in Grantsville had expressed a willingness to help set up a Crime Watch for the town even before Thursday's meeting, Bittinger said. He also noted that such a program could be initiated in the very near future.

Residents took the opportunity presented by this forum to describe to law officers specific incidents which had occurred. Garrett County sheriff Richard Sanders, who was a member of the panel, recognized that these were "legitimate" complaints. "There will be a change in some of the hours of HotSpot patrol to address these problems. We have pledged our support to the Grantsville community and we will focus on stopping the instigators," he said.

Sanders pointed out that a number of people who voiced concerns and fears for personal safety were senior citizens. "We will not tolerate behaviors that are below general community standards," he said.

Also representing the law enforcement community was Lt. William Lucas from the McHenry barrack of Maryland State Police. "I was delighted to see such a large number of people turn up for the meeting. It definitely shows concern for the community," he stated.

Lucas said the meeting provided a forum for all concerned parties to reach a better understanding of problems exist and what can and will be done to change the situation. "We will strive to do everything in our power to end this problem in the community. It's not just the responsibility of the sheriff's department or state police, or the state's attorney, or the citizens. Not any one of us alone can do what needs to be done to change this situation. But all of us working together can accomplish it," he concluded.

VOLUNTEERS BRING SCRIPTURE TO LIFE — The Better Homes for Appalachia Servant Event sent a work group of 33 young volunteers and 11 adult leaders and coworkers to Garrett County recently to carry out over a week's worth of home renovation and repair projects for local residents. The theme for the week was drawn from Philippians 4:8-9, which encourages the faithful to take God's teachings and put them into practice with their own hands. The 15- to 18-year-olds hailed from six states — California, Arizona, Minnesota, Michigan, Virginia, and Maryland — and worked on seven sites in locales such as Gorman, Hutton, Deer Park, Friendsville, Swallow Falls and Frostburg. The Gorman residence of Diana and Glen Sharpless was the scene of one of the servant projects, where a group built a concrete pad and a wheelchair ramp to provide 16-year-old Brian Sharpless with independent access at his own home. Sharpless is pictured above to the left, with two of his brothers standing in the background, as the volunteers take a break before closing the gap and completing the ramp. Standing from the left in the volunteer group are Jamie Eggold and Crystal Lawson of Tucson, Ariz.; Amy Tessendorf and Todd Narcross of Sykesville; Emily Hilk of Waconia, Minn.; Holly Secary of Kent Island; and Marc Thom of Monroe, Mich.

Healthy Families Conducting July Telephone Survey

The Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families is currently conducting a follow-up phone survey for the Garrett County Healthy Families (HFGC) program. Calls are being made throughout the month of July. Garrett County mothers with newborns and infants who did not enroll in the free program to support parents in promoting healthy infant growth and development during the past year will be contacted. These follow-up contacts are required as part of the Healthy Families America credentialing process.

The results of the phone survey will help to target areas for future recruitment efforts for Healthy Families Garrett County, according to Earleen Beckman, director of Healthy Families.

"Individual privacy will be assured during the phone survey," Beckman said.

Garrett Partnership staff conducting the survey are given only the mother's first name and phone number, and only aggregated results will be reported. By placing the announcement of the survey in The Republican, Beckman said she and her staff hope that mothers contacted "will feel comfortable taking five minutes out of their busy schedules to respond to the survey questions."

"The HFGC advisory board is in the process of preparing a self-study document that will include the survey results, so this information is critical," she said.

Expectant mothers or mothers with newborns who are under 3 months old are encouraged to call 301-533-0001 to learn more about the Healthy Families Garrett County program. Program services are voluntary and are offered at no charge to all babies born in Garrett County. Services are tailored to the needs of the family and include quarterly telephone contacts, a mail-in developmental screening questionnaire that is administered by the parent, and monthly or weekly home visits by a nurse or family support worker team. The Parents as Teachers program is also available to enrolled parents.

Persons who have questions about the telephone survey may contact the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families at 301-334-1189.

Md. Mtn. Trust Sets Information Drop-In In Cove

Maryland Mountain Trust, a non-profit Garrett County-based organization, will host a community drop-in information session at St. John's Lutheran Church (Accident Evangelical Lutheran Parish) in the Cove this Sunday, July 16, 2-5 p.m. There will be information available on programs that support projects as small as backyard wildife habitats to those as large as Rural Legacy, according the Marcia Simmers, executive director of the local land trust.

"This informal get-together will also offer area residents a chance to learn not only what Maryland Mountain Trust is, but also what it is not," Simmers noted. She explained that there have been some misunderstandings about what the organization is. "Some people think we are the same organization as Maryland Environmental .Trust or that we are a government agency. Actually, we are a small, independent group, serving far western Maryland. Our board is composed of volunteers who live in Garrett and Allegany counties," she said.

A major goal of Maryland Mountain Trust is to serve as a clearinghouse for information to help link people with state, local, and federal programs that may protect their land, enhance the wildlife on their property, or to access money and tax relief that may permit them to continue farming. "It is a matter of helping property owners exercise stewardship as they see fit," Simmers concluded.

For more information, persons may call 301-746-8989.

Tax Credits

Department of Agriculture (USDA) soil capability criteria, and the landowner must conduct active farming practices on the property.

Upon approval of the Agricultural District by both the board of county commissioners and the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation, an agreement between the landowner and the Maryland Foundation is recorded in the Garrett County Land Records. This agreement specifies that the landowner will continue to use his/her property exclusively as farmland for a minimum of five years, and that no development — including residential subdivision, commercial activity, or industrial use — may occur on the property.

A property owner who has established an Agricultural District on his/her property will then be eligible to participate in the recently adopted Garrett County ag-land tax credit program, and will also be eligible to apply to the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation to sell a development rights easement on his/her property, permanently preserving the property as farmland.

Property owners who have sold development rights on their farms are also eligible for the county tax credit program and can continue to receive the tax credit as long as the landowner maintains an active farming operation.

"We hope this tax credit program will provide an incentive to owners of farmland to participate in the county's agricultural land preservation program," said Commissioner Wendell Beitzel, who has pushed for the program since taking office. "We believe the program will protect our farm heritage and preserve the county's rural way of life."

Commissioner Ernie Gregg said the program gives another avenue of financial relief for partners who want to maintain the farm, and takes some of the pressure off people who don't want to develop their property.

"Farming and timber harvesting are some of our larger economic development engines, and it should be pointed out that portions of farms actively devoted to timber management also qualify under this program," noted Commissioner Fred Holliday.

To receive the tax credit, owners of district properties agree to remain in an agricultural preservation district for at least five years, and they may renew the agreement in five-year increments. Owners of easement properties must agree to remain in the preservation district for the minimum term of their easement agreement, which can be renewed in 10-year increments. In either circumstance, if districts or easements are terminated, the property owner would be responsible for all back taxes, plus interest.

Currently, owners of over 6,500 acres of farmland have already formed districts and do participate in the county's Ag-Land Preservation Program. These properties are automatically eligible for the new tax credit program, and owners may contact the Garrett County Planning Office at 301-334-1920 to obtain more information. Owners of farmlands who may be interested in receiving more information and participating in the Ag-land Preservation program may also call the number above, or may stop by the county planning office in Room 307 of the county courthouse, Oakland.

Mosquito Bites: Prevention Is Best

During the warm summer months mosquitoes lay their eggs in any available pool of stagnent outdoor water. In addition to causing bothersome bites, mosquitoes can carry deadly viruses such as the West Nile encephalitis virus.

The safest and most effective insect repellent available is the chemical called DEET. It can be found in a variety of products such as Off, Cutter, and Repel. A concentration of 10-30% is suggested for adults. Do not exceed 10% DEET on children (higher concentrations have been linked with central nervous system effects). Another potential problem is that DEET can reduce the effectiveness of some sunscreens. Products containing DEET also can damage plastics, synthetic fabrics, leather, and painted surfaces. Soybean oil and citronella oil are effective repellents as well but must be reapplied often.

To treat mosquito bites, clean the area with soap and water. Apply an over-the-counter hydrocortisone cream to reduce itching and swelling.

Helen Harman Recognized For Dedication To County Youth

by Peggy Santamaria

A woman remarkable for her dedication to the youth of Garrett County, Helen Harman was recognized this year for her 40 years of service as a 4-H volunteer. Since coming to Garrett County from Dallas, Texas, as the bride of William Harman in 1946, she has touched the lives of hundreds of young people in this western Maryland community — both nurturing and nourishing them.

Whether she was preparing hot lunches at school or working with youngsters in the neighborhood or at church, she could, more often than not, be found in the company of children.

A Cove resident, Mrs. Harman worked with the members of the North Star Club, the Cove Kids, and in the 4-H barn at the Garrett County Fair. Her commitment to 4-H began when her daughter Joyce was old enough to become a member. "One of my brothers spent a little time in 4-H, but was not as involved as I was," reflected Joyce (Harman) Joclin.

Mother and daughter were recalling some of the early days in 4-H during a conversation last week. Helen, now 85, has had to curtail her activities because of health problems. "I think what I enjoyed the most of all the 4-H activities was camping. We would have a grand time. There were other people to meet. It was always fun," Helen recalled with a smile.

When the Harman children grew up and moved on to other aspects of their lives, Helen did modify her 4-H activities. However, unlike parents who are no longer involved once their children move on, Helen increased her level of involvement. "I had more time then that I could spend with the clubs," she explained.

As a 4-H leader, Helen was "famous" for insisting that her club members do their presentations of information and demonstrations of skills. "That was good experience for them," she said.

Fellow 4-H leader Alice Long said she knew that some of Helen's former members came back and reported that they didn't think they could have accomplished what they did in life without the self-confidence they developed while Helen was their 4-H leader.

With quiet but well-deserved pride, Helen indicated a small drawer where she keeps the four commemorative pins she was awarded for each decade of service to 4-H.

THANK YOU, MRS. HARMAN - Beth Long of the Cove Kids 4-H Club, right, represented hundreds of 4-H members past and present in thanking Helen Harman for all her contributions to 4-H during the last four decades. Beth presented Helen with the certificate of appreciation and the pin that marks Helen's 40 years of nurturing and encouraging the youth of Garrett County through 4-H.

In addition to nurturing children through the 4-H experience, Helen also gave her time and energy to more than one generation of children of the Zion Lutheran Church congregation in Accident. For 30 years she taught Sunday school at the church.

Recently the children at Zion made a giant poster-sized card for Helen thanking her for "sharing God" with them. It stands in her room below the shelf holding the picture of her with her Sunday school class.

Before her retirement, Mondays through Fridays Helen could be found in a school cafeteria, overseeing the preparation of lunches. For 34 years she made sure the children of Accident Elementary School and Northern High School were well nourished.

"Some one asked Helen how many children she had. She said, 'I have three of my own and all the school children,'" Alice recounted.

When she was into her 70s, Helen took up oil painting. She took some classes from Edna Bender at Garrett Community College and then took off into the rolling farmland and woodland surrounding her Cove home. "I'd see Helen out there on Devils Half Acre by the side of the road working on a picture," Alice said.

Her canvases depict the warm colors of sunshine on lanes winding between fields, a red barn standing on a distant hill against blue sky, and the deep blues of a winter night when snow lies on the roofs of cabins and the branches of pine trees that dwarf them.

It would seem that both Helen Harman's actions and her artwork reflect the soul of a woman deeply committed to her community.

Editor's note: Regretfully, it was learned yesterday that Helen Harman has died. Her obituary appears in this edition.

St. Mark's To Host "Festival Of Hymns For The Church Year"

As part of the sesquicentennial celebration of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, a "Festival of Hymns for the Church Year" has been scheduled for Sunday, July 23, at 7 p.m. at the church. The event will encompass well-known hymns of the entire calendar year, and will feature organist Geoffrey Simon.

The event will open with two hymns of praise, "O That I Had a Thousand Voices" and "Praise to the Lord, Almighty!" An Advent hymn will follow ("Wake, Awake!"), with some verses sung by the St. Mark's adult choir.

"O Come, All Ye Faithful" will be next, in honor of the Christmas season, followed by an Epiphany hymn, "O Morning Star." The Lenten season will be remembered in the singing of "O Christ, Thou Lamb of God," sung without accompaniment. "O Sacred Head" will follow for Holy Week, and then a number of special hymns will be sung in honor of Easter.

Remembrance of the Ascension will be next, with the hymn "Look, the Sight is Glorious," and then "Come, Holy Ghost" for Pentecost. The Trinity will be celebrated with the singing of "Holy, Holy, Holy."

The event will close with a hymn of thanksgiving, "For All the Saints Who From the Labors Rest," in honor of all who have passed through St. Mark's over the last 150 years.

The church is led by Pastor Michael Robinson, who invites all to attend the special music service. The choir is directed by Susan Peterson, and the church organist is Marcette Danner.

Chamber Notes Contributors To Fireworks Event

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce announced that this year's "Fire Over Water" Independence Day fireworks display was the "biggest ever" because of the generosity of Garrett County's business community. With Uno Restaurant and Bar as the event's major sponsor, the 35-minute event featured new designs such as brocade crowns, hourglass and bow-tie rings, palm trees, and color-changing chrysanthemums.

Other contributors to the event, in addition to Uno's $5,000 donation, were the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners' Association and Deep Creek Foodland Fresh, as $1,000 associate sponsors. Special sponsorship at the $500 level was Bill's Marine Service.

Sponsors donating $250 were A.D. Naylor & Co., Allegheny Power, Deep Creek Mountain Resort, Delano's, Ed and Jean King, Glotfelty Enterprises, Inalot Motor Lodge, Keystone Financial, First United Bank and Trust, Lake Pointe Inn, McClive's Restaurant, McHenry Beverage Shoppe, Railey Realty, and The Republican newspaper (Sincell Publishing).

Patron businesses contributing up to $150 were: Devlin Inc., Mountaineer Log & Siding, BGS&G Companies, Deep Creek Pharmacy, Demaree Inflatable Boats, Gonder Insurance Agency, Town Motel, and Deep Creek Stor-A-Way.

Chamber Vice Chairperson Karen Myers of A&A/Long & Foster Realty was thanked for her leadership in fund-raising for this event, as was the Wisp Ski and Golf Resort for providing the site and support personnel for the show. The Garrett County Fair Board donated the use of the fairgrounds for parking. Recognition was also given to the State Fire Marshal's office, Maryland State Police, and Mike Phillippi, chief of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, for ensuring the safety of the operation.

Employment In Maryland Still On The Rise

Employment in Maryland continued to climb in May, rising for the third consecutive month to a record high for the month, while the unemployment rate was at an all time low for the same month, marking the tenth consecutive monthly unemployment low. Reflecting the usual pattern at the start of the summer, more people entered the labor market, causing a slight rise in unemployment from 2.9 percent in April to 3.2 percent in May.

Garrett County's unemployment rate for May was 5.8 percent, compared to the May 1999 rate of 6.7 percent.

"May was the tenth consecutive month that the unemployment rate set a new record low for the month," said Governor Parris N. Glendening.

"Maryland's recent record high monthly employment rates clearly demonstrate the strength of our state's economy," said Secretary John P. O'Connor of the Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation (DLLR).

Even with the slight increase in the state's unemployment rate, May's level remained considerably below the national average of 3.9 percent.

Unemployment increases are not uncommon at this time of year, O'Connor noted. While seasonal hiring activity escalates, the increase in the number of students and other temporary job seekers often exceeds job availability. During May, more than 19,000 job seekers entered the labor market, pushing the labor force over the 2.8 million mark. The job market, while expanding, had characteristic difficulty absorbing this influx of job seekers, causing the number of unemployed people to rise to 91,129 in May.

For those seeking employment during May, seasonal gains at restaurants, temporary help agencies, hotels, and in amusements, and construction increased job availability. In Garrett County, seasonal hiring helped unemployment drop from 6.1 percent to 5.8 percent.

Town Hall

ACCIDENT

The town meeting was held Wednesday, July 5.

•Residents are reminded that the annual town concert will be held Sunday afternoon beginning at 5 p.m. in Town Park West. The Accident Concert Band will perform, and a free will offering will be matched by AAL Branch 5821. The proceeds will benefit the celebration fund for 200th anniversary of the settlement of Accident slated for September 30.

•The council has received the souvenir 200th anniversary posters and pins that will be available for sale through town hall.

•The council reviewed the auditing proposals submitted by bidders. The three-year contract was awarded to Devine and Sheffield.

•Residents are reminded that all dogs are to be leashed or penned. The town follows and will enforce the county's Dog Ordinance.

The next meeting will be held Monday, August 7.

DEER PARK

The town meeting was held Monday, July 3.

•The council discussed the personnel policy which is being developed. It is currently in draft form.

•Paving needs were reviewed. The town will advertise for bids from paving contractors in the near future.

•The date for the August meeting has been changed to Tuesday, Aug. 22.

FRIENDSVILLE

The town meeting was held Monday, July 3.

•There was a public hearing on the ordinance to vacate a part of Third Avenue. The ordinance was read for a second time and unanimously approved.

•The townwide yard sale is scheduled for this Saturday, July 15, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Residents are urged to take part in this event.

•The park committee is meeting this week to order the backstop for Little League. This is a Program Open Space project funded for the community park.

•The Garrett County Animal Shelter has received numerous complaints regarding the large number of dogs and cats running loose in the town. Citizens concern about this issue are urged to call 301-334-3553.

•A new Maryland state flag was received from Sen. John Hafer, and two new state flags from Del. George Edwards.

The next town meeting will be Tuesday, July 18.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Wednesday, July 12.

•A bid was awarded to Keystone Paving to do some of the paving projects in town.

•There was a proposal to adopt the resolution to amend the charter concerning authority to employ personnel. The information on this amendment will be duly advertised.

•The mayor and council will hire an individual to enforce town zoning ordinances.

•Frank Arnold Contractors will install the sewer line along B Street.

•The mayor and council will consult the attorney about tax abatement for Disabled American Veterans.

•Mtn. Lake Park will join the Maryland Rural Water Association.

•The town's new computer is installed and running. A priority list of town projects is being developed for town employees.

•The town will ask Appalachian Crossroads to supply a crew to help maintain town parks.

•The operation agreement between the town and the tennis club, which was written in 1944, will be reviewed for possible revisions.

•A committee will be established to review the town charter.

•A town Autumn Glory project is being developed by a committee of residents with the support of the town.

•In reference to a questions raised by a resident, the mayor stated the town has never conducted a closed meeting on the budget.

•The town will continue to employee the services of attorney Robert Watson.

The next town meeting will be held Tuesday, July 25.

MTN. LAKE CHURCH SETS YOUTH CRUSADE — The Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church has scheduled its seventh annual "Neighborhood Bible Time Youth Crusade" for all youth ages 4-19, regardless of denomination. The weeklong program runs from Monday, July 17, through Friday, July 21, each morning from 9:15 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and again from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in evening "Olympic 2000 Teen Rally" sessions specifically geared toward high school students. Prior to Monday, a super youth activity for high school student will take place at the church this Saturday, July 15, beginning at 6 p.m. The week's activities will conclude with a graduation and awards program at 7 p.m. the final evening. Two visiting youth evangelists from Boulder, Colo., will present this year's Neighborhood Bible Time programs, which uses a dynamic approach of hands-on teaching through entertaining tricks, dramatized stories, Bible drills, lifetime souvenirs, daily gifts, contests, gospel magic, and daily refreshments. Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church is located at 1005 Broadford Road in Oakland, and transportation is provided for all services. Persons may call 301-334-3234 or 301-334-4042 for further information.

Animal Shelter Now Open On Saturday A.M.

The Garrett County Animal Shelter will now be open on Saturday mornings from 9 a.m. until noon, according to Gary Mullich, director of the Garrett County General Services Department. The Garrett County Humane Society has asked that the shelter have more flexible open hours to allow more people to visit and adopt pets. The Garrett County commissioners agreed, as did Bonnie Zimmerman, manager of the shelter.

"We are in the final process of hiring some more help at the shelter," Mullich told the commissioners Tuesday. "We will start the Saturday hours this week, and hopefully will be able to expand even more once we have a new person on board."

Humane Society members have been actively pursuing a variety of improvements at the shelter, as well as other refinements in the county's handling of animals in need of homes. The staff of the shelter has been publicly complimentary about the recent improvements, as have Humane Society members. Both Commissioner Ernest Gregg and Commissioner Fred Holliday said they had recently visited the shelter. Both commented on the cleanliness of the facility.

"There's no doubt things are improving," Mullich said.

Garrett's Rally Nips Frostburg Before Romp Over Cumberland

The Garrett American Legion Mountain District baseball squad won a pair this week, using a clutch a ninth-inning, two-out, bases loaded double from Justin DiSimone to down Frostburg Farraday Post 24 by a 17-16 margin Thursday, then demolishing Fort Cumberland in a convincing 12-2 triumph Saturday. The squad is taking a 3-1 record into the final week of the second half of league play.

Frostburg got the scoring started on the Garrett Community College diamond by putting across two runs in the second inning and a single run in the third. Garrett scored once in the fourth, and Frostburg responded in kind with a lone run in the top of the fifth.

Down by a 4-1 margin, Garrett roared back with a 10-run tear in the bottom of the stanza to claim an 11-4 lead. Frostburg set off some fireworks of its own in the following inning by scoring seven times to pull within two runs, twice in the seventh to knot the score, and three times in the top of the eighth to go up 16-11.

Garrett laid the groundwork for its comeback by scoring four runs in the bottom of the eighth to pull to within one. Reliever Jeff Carr held Frostburg scoreless in the top of the ninth, and Garrett was able to load the bases with two outs in the bottom of the inning. With the game on the line, DiSimone coolly stroked his two-run double that won the game for the delighted home crowd.

The slugfest resulted in totals of 18 hits for the Garrett hosts and 15 hits for the visitors, as both managers sent three hurlers to the mound in their attempts to silence their opponents' powerful bats. P.J. Workman started for Garrett, and tossed five innings before being relieved by Nathan Sleeman, who was lifted after one inning in favor of Carr, who picked up the win. Frostburg's Zach Bittinger worked the first four innings before giving way to Scott Lee during Garrett's 10-run fifth. Josh Glass pitched the final two innings, and was tagged with the loss.

Ricky Reams punched out four singles for three RBI to pace Garrett at the plate, while Christian Warfield whacked a pair of doubles. DiSimone and Jared Fike each tallied a double and a single, and Workman and Sleeman both singled twice. David Schrock led Frostburg with a double and three singles for three RBI.

Garrett's visit to Cumberland on Saturday got off to an even start, as each squad scored once in the first. Garrett scored twice in the fourth, the hosts scored once in the bottom of the stanza, then Garrett rolled up one run in each of the next two innings, a six-run tally in the seventh, and one more in the ninth for the final 12-2 margin of victory.

Garrett walloped 15 hits overall, including a sixth-inning solo home run shot by Fike, who also stroked a single. DiSimone singled twice and doubled once, while Jordan Uphold singled and doubled. Sleeman tallied three singles, and Mike Shahan added a pair of singles as well. Cumberland's nine-hit offense was led by Jacob Kagey, who singled and doubled.

DiSimone hurled the first seven innings for Garrett to pick up the win, and Sleeman took the save with two innings of relief duty. Tony Fetters started for Cumberland and was lifted in favor of Matt Wright during the seventh inning.

Garrett travels to Frostburg for a 5:30 p.m. matchup today, then hosts Cumberland in Saturday's noon season finale at GCC. The playoff contests get under way Thursday.

Oakland Senior League Squad Takes District

The Senior Division Oakland All-Stars baseball squad soundly defeated the All-Stars from Halfway (Hagerstown) last Sunday at Broadford Park to repeat as District One champions. A 10 run second inning put the game out of reach as Oakland went on to win 26-3.

The local All-Stars clouted six home runs and 18 hits to back the pitching of Chad Kroll. Ryan Ewing led the offensive barrage with two round trippers, while Steve Eiswert, Jay Tressler, Bryson Meyers, and Kroll also hit home runs. Halfway used seven different pitchers, but none could quiet Oakland's bats. Kevin Goralski, Brad Palmer, and Chad Panther also added two hits apiece for the local team's balanced offense.

The Oakland All-Stars scored 70 runs in their four playoff games while only giving up nine. The impressive showing in the district has fueled optimism in the all-stars' quest for a state championship. "We have all the pieces of the puzzle to have a great post season. If we continue to play like we have, we could win a state championship." stated head coach Doug Copeland, who led the team to last year's state final, where the All-Stars lost a heartbreaker to Cambridge.

This year's squad features five quality pitchers — Krell, Meyers, Bryan Hauser, Ricky Reams, and Tobi Stoner. Each pitcher threw several innings during the district tourney. Infielders Eiswert and Reams have keyed the defense up the middle, while Ewing, Panther, and Chris Remley have paced the speedy outfield. Palmer and Joel Helbig have shared catching duties, while Goralski and Tressler have both filled in the infield and outfield.

The next step for Oakland is the state semi-finals, set for Saturday, July 21 and Sunday, July 22, at Joe Cannon Field in Harman. The All-Stars will play the winner of the District 4/5 playoffs for the right to play for a state championship, which is slated for the following weekend, at Cannon.

"Expectations are very high for this team, but expectations never won a game. We must go out and play to our potential," stated Copeland, whose coaching staff consists of Greg Tressler, James Barns, and Matt Whitacre.

Doerr Riding Two-Game Streak Into Tonight's Hot Stove Season Finale

Doerr Construction took a pair of wins this week in Hot Stove Baseball League action, defeating Medicine Shoppe in a wild 13-12 contest Thursday, then routing Flintstone in a convincing 15-7 win Tuesday. Doerr is taking a 5-10 record into this evening's regular season finale at Northern High School, where the squad will host the Kiwanis nine in a 6 p.m. match-up.

Thursday's home game was a rollicking affair, as each team grabbed and lost the lead several times. Doerr scored four times in the second inning to take a 4-2 lead before Medicine Shoppe scored twice in the third to knot the score. Each team scored once in the fourth to continue the deadlock, then Doerr scored another run in the fifth to take a 6-5 lead.

Doerr scored twice in the sixth, but Medicine Shoppe scored three times in the bottom of the inning to tie the score, and each team scored once in the seventh to remain locked in a nine-all battle heading into the eighth and final stanza.

Medicine Shoppe scored three runs in the top of the eighth inning to take a 12-9 lead. With its back to the wall, Doerr came to the plate, and with the help of a two-run single by Jason Rice the squad scored four runs to come from behind and take the 13-12 victory.

Dan Vagnetti belted two doubles and a pair of singles to drive in four runs for Doerr, while Rice tallied three RBI on two singles. Phillip Uphold drove in a pair of runs by swatting a triple and double, Cliff Everett stroked three singles for two RBI, and Derek Workman doubled and singled. Mike Cunningham's two singles and two RBIs paced Medicine Shoppe.

Rice hurled the first five innings for Doerr before being relieved by Everett, who was credited with the victory. The pair limited Medicine Shoppe to just six hits overall, while Doerr's line-up pounded three guest hurlers for 16 hits.

Doerr jumped out to an 11-5 lead after three innings of play at Flintstone Tuesday, scoring five runs in the first and six in the second. The hosts were able to mount responses of one score in the first, three in the second, and one in the fourth.

Flintstone scored one run in the fifth to make the score 11-6 before Doerr rumbled to a nine run lead by scoring four times in the sixth. Flintstone managed a lone run in the seventh to account for the final 15-7 tally.

Rice paced Doerr's 11-hit offense with a double and two singles for three RBI. Matthew Bass added a pair of RBIs on a double and a single, and Michael Wolf stroked a three-run single. Starting pitcher Everett, who hurled the first five innings, and reliever Vagnetti combined to hold the hosts to just three hits. Everett notched the win.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

WINDS FLUKEY ON SATURDAY BUT STRONG AND PUFFY SUNDAY
By Dan Muss

Saturday was another day of light variable air, with positions changing with luck and the ability to read where the breeze was going to come up. Still, the turnout was great with 29 Flying Scots racing. The second race was better than the first, with a bit more breeze and a shorter course.

On Sunday the wind was very nice but a bit puffy. There weren't enough C Fleet boats for a race, so I watched the race from the yacht club deck. I could see the dark "cat's paws" coming across the water and I knew the skippers and crews were watching for them too. In most sloop rigged sailboats sailing to windward, the best way to handle these puffs and avoid heeling too far (which loses speed and can lead to a capsize) is to keep the jib strapped in, the vang on the main boom tight and to let out on the mainsheet. This keeps the boat moving and avoids a strong weather helm (which slows the boat down). As soon as the puff is over the skipper can pull the main in again.

Sailing downwind on a broad reach with a spinnaker up in puffy air can also be tricky as that spinnaker can pull a sailboat over. Here the skipper has to bear off and get the wind behind him... if he can; there may be other boats around that have the right-of-way. If he cannot bear off he must ease the spinnaker sheet, and I saw a lot of flapping spinnakers during the puffs.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Repeat winners were the order of the evening in five divisions of racing at Interstate 79 Speedway last Friday night. Scoring feature wins were Robbie Scott, Rick Burrows, Brent Trimble, John Smith, and Dave Summers. Ivan Wamsley won the Enduro warm-up race getting ready for this Sunday's Enduro.

Taking the checkered flag in the Late Model race was Robbie Scott, as he picked up his second straight win ahead of: Gary Tonkery; Butch McGill, who was the Timber Wolf Hard Charger; Paul Wilmoth; and Mike Benedum. Six through 10 went to Duke Pratt, Scott Miles, Gary Dalton, Tim Dohm, and Tim Senic. Heat winners were Tonkery and Scott.

Rick Burrows pidked up the win in the Semi-Late class. Mark McGill came home second, followed by Steve Wilmoth, Roy Gibson, and L.C. Powers. Frank Buzzo and McGill were heat winners.

The Fox 46 Modifieds put on a show for the fans as several drivers were going for the checkered flag. Brent Trimble was victorious as he held off several challenges from Wayne Jordan, who had his season best finish in second. Third through fifth went to Dave Defibaugh, Vic Vandergrift, and Louie Krushansky. Defibaugh and Jordan picked up earlier heat wins.

John Smith garnered his fourth Pure Stock win of the year over Jay Martin, Jeff Kesling, Jim Byers, and Chuck Bloom. Heat wins went to Smith and Troy Frazier.

Dave Summers has evened the score with Mike Simpson in the 4-Cylinder division as he picked up his fifth straight feature win. Simpson won the first five events in 2000, and Summers has come back to take the last five. Following Summers to the line was Mike Lewis of Oakland, Simpson, Sonny Crayton, and Tom Simpson. Summers also won the only heat race.

The Dwarf cars will make their monthly appearance along with the regular five divisions of racing this Friday night. Gates open at 6 p.m. with racing action at 8 p.m. The season's second Enduro will be run on Sunday, July 16. Gates will open at 4 p.m. with the 200-lap Enduro starting at 6 p.m. For information, fans may call the office at 304-592-3200 or the track at 304-592-0916.

LITTLE SISTER CLIMBING THE WALL — Climbing walls, hitting miniature golf balls, riding bumper cars, and eating lots of pizza fit the bill for an evening of fun for matched "littles and bigs" of the Big Brothers Big Sisters of Garrett County recently. The event was held at Funland in McHenry as the monthly activity of the volunteers and their matched young folks, along with "waiting littles," those youngsters still waiting for adults to become their mentors and friends through the program. The organization thanked Tom and Sara Kuhn for the outing at Funland. Little Sister Sondra is pictured as she makes her way up the rock wall. For information about volunteering as an adult mentor, persons may call 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735. Big Brothers Big Sisters is a member of County United Way.

GENERAL RULES & REGULATIONS

The Destruction Derby is designed and promoted as an unusual spectator attraction, and in the interest of safety, anyone entering is subject to the following rules and regulations that are hereby set forth by the Events Committee and the track where you are competing.

A. All drivers must be 18 years of age or older. All drivers must hold a VALID driver's license in the state in which he or she lives. If UNDER the age of 18, he or she must have a notarized minor release signed by his or her parent or guardian.
B. All drivers must supply their own cars. Once you drive the car you must stay with that car. NO switching of drivers and cars will be allowed.
C. All cars must be numbered. NO PROFANITY OR OBSCENE PICTURES WILL BE ALLOWED.
D. All cars must be prepared prior to arrival at the track. All cars will be inspected for general workmanship in preparation for the event. Once your car has passed inspection you can not work on your car. You may add gas, coolant or change batteries if needed under track supervision.
E. Once your car has been inspected and registered you must take it to the staging area.
F. All drivers must fill out entry forms and insurance forms before taking part in the event.
G. All drivers are responsible for their crew, family, guests and pit crew in the pit area. The use of alcohol, drugs, any misconduct or disorderly conduct will be grounds for disqualification of the car and driver.
H. Members of Demolition Derby are NOT employees of the track. Also, they do not sponsor nor are owners of a car in the event.
I. Only the event car and one (1) support vehicle will be allowed in the pit area.
J. All drivers must and will wear approved safety helmets and seat belts; both are required.
K. There will be no holding or pinning. You can knock or push a car into a situation where it can not move. After your last hit you MUST back off and wait to see if he can move clear (one minute's time). If you can not back off and your motor stops or quits, you have one (1) minute to restart and back off. Failure to restart will result in the other car being the winner. The car making the last hit is the winner, unless you hit and hold.
L. There will not be any head-on collisions.
M. There will be no hitting of the driver's door.
N. Once you enter the arena or crash zone, you must stay in your car with helmet on and seat belt tight until your heat is over.
O. To take your car out of competition in your heat, snap your stick off.
P. You must report any and all injuries to the track officials or to the EMS people at the track.
Q. The Track Officials, Events Coordinator, or Fair Board reserves the right to accept or reject any car or driver at any time.
R. The decision of the Track Official WILL be final.

Manta Ray Team Fares Well In Two Recent Meets

The Garrett County Swim Team — the Manta Rays — have competed in two YMCA swim meets in the past two weeks, with a number of local swimmers finishing in first and second places. Several team records have been broken, as well as YMCA pool records.

In the weekly swim meets, the Manta Rays face competition with area teams from Maryland and West Virginia. The swimming contests are held at the YMCA facility in Cumberland. Nan Gangler is the team coach.

The backstroke meet was held on June 30. Jordan Lantz broke the team record in the prep 200-yard A flight race at 3:02.48, also putting him in first place. Krista Hollingsworth broke the YMCA pool record in the 25-yard B flight tyke backstroke at 22.99, and Michael Schwalm broke the senior 50-yard B flight backstroke YMCA pool record at 32.54. Ian Welch broke a team record in 25 backstroke for mini-tykes at 28.49.

Earning second places in A flight at the backstroke meet were James Marc, Josh Lantz, and Jordan Lantz. Marc came in second in the 200 individual medley (IM) and 100 back; Josh Lantz in the junior 200 IM; and Jordan Lantz in the prep 50 back.

Winning first place in B flight races were the following: Kristen Spurrier, senior girls, 50 backstroke; Brandon Heselbach, senior boys, 50 free; Michael Schwalm, senior boys, 50 back; Lindsey Strubin, junior girls, 50 back; Jadyn Swerbinsky, junior girls, 50 free style; Shar Hollingsworth, prep girls, 50 free and 50 back; Ryan Heselbach, prep boys, 50 back; Chris Speicher, prep boys, 50 free; Krista Hollingsworth, tyke girls, 25 back; and Ian Welch, mini-tyke, 25 free and 25 back.

Second place B flight winners were: Kristen Spurrier, senior girls, 50 free; James Carpenter, senior boys, 50 back; Nick Gangler, senior boys, 50 free; Jadyn Swerbinsky, junior girls, 50 back; Sarah Anderson, prep girls, 50 back; Anna Lucas, prep girls, 50 free; Ryan Heselbach, prep boys, 50 free; Julie Swerbinsky, cadet girls, 25 back; Krista Hollingsworth, tyke girls, 25 free; and Kristen Yant, mini-tyke girls, 25 free and 25 back.

The prep 200 relay team of Shar Hollingworth, Jordan Lantz, Chris Speicher, and Caitlin Williams placed first. Winning second was the cadet 200 team of Torie Bosley, Ethan Chorpenning, Lauren Neville, and Julie Swerbinsky. Also placing second was the senior 200 relay team of Jimmy Carpenter, Nick Gangler, James Marc, and Megan Williams.

The breaststroke meet was held on July 7, during which eight Garrett County swimmers won their events and another 14 placed second. Jordan Lantz set another team record at the meet, swimming the prep boys A flight 50 breaststroke at 38.22. He was Garrett's only first place A flight swimmer.

James Marc came in first in the open competition, 200 breaststroke.

Coming in second in A flight were Kristen Williams, senior girls, 100 breast; James Marc, senior boys, 100 breast and 50 free; Michael Schwalm, senior boys, 50 free; Josh Lantz, junior boys, 100 breast; and Jordan Lantz, prep boys, 50 free.

First place B flight swimmers were Nick Gangler, senior boys, 50 free; Brandon Heselbach, senior boys, 50 breast; Jadyn Swerbinsky, junior girls, 50 free; Chris Speicher, prep boys, 50 breast and 50 free; and Krista Hollingsworth, tyke girls, 25 breast.

The following Manta Rays won second places in B flight: Nick Gangler, senior boys, 50 breast; Lindsey Strubin, junior girls, 50 breast and 50 free; Shar Hollingsworth, prep girls, 50 free; Ethan Chorpenning, cadet boys, 50 breast and 50 free; Krista Hollingsworth, tyke girls, 25 free; and Ian Welch, mini-tyke boys, 25 free.

Winning first place in the prep 200 relay were team members Shar Hollingsworth, Jordan Lantz, Chris Speicher, and Caitlin Williams. The tyke team of Emilee Bosley, Krista Hollingsworth, Kayla Petrella, and Courtney Strubin came in second in the 100 free relay, and the senior team of Nick Gangler, James Marc, Kristen Williams, and Megan Williams placed second in the 200 free relay.

The Manta Rays will return to Cumberland on Saturday to compete in the butterfly meet. Complete results and information about the team can be seen on the Internet at www.ice-web.net/swim/index.html. The site was constructed and is maintained by Dave Taylor.

PEP RALLY SET TO CHEER THE CHAMPS — To help cheer Garrett County's own gold medal sportaerobic athletes on to world competition, a pep rally will be held on July 21 at Garrett Community College, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Pictured above left are the young women entering the World Aerobic Championships, slated for August 3 and 4 in Anaheim, Calif. In front is Heather Hanline, with Amanda Bell behind her. In back are Mariana Beitzel (individual champion, left) and Jessie Railey. Railey, Bell, and Hanline will compete in the trio category, and Beitzel will take the floor in individual competition. "Since our national competition in April, the girls have set new goals and have worked to increase their strength, flexibility, and routine performance," said Coach Brenda Brosnihan. "We feel as prepared as we can be." Beitzel said she "can't wait to compete," and looks forward to the interaction with athletes from all over the globe. Jessie Railey said the trio is ready, having worked hard and weathered difficult schedules and various injuries. The pep rally will feature sportaerobic athletes ages 7 to 13 who are on training teams at Brenda's Body Shop. Some of the performing groups are pictured here. There will be no admission to the pep rally, but donations to help defray the team's travel expenses will be accepted. "To compete against the best from all over this planet is almost beyond comprehension," Brosnihan said. "It's an incredible honor." In the photo above right is the junior varsity team, including members Jessica Crosco, Tara Devine, Courtney DiSimone, Leslie Gaither, Ailesa Garland, Katie Nichols, and Kelly Taylor (not pictured in order). Below is the junior team, with members Morgan Brosnihan, Kira Farley, Kasie Fratz, Grace Herpel, Tanya Devine, Kelsey Jones, Carissa Lewis, Rachel Margroff, Krista Ridder, Kellie Shotwell, Kaitlynn Fratz, and Alayna Gaither (also not pictured in order).

Glendening Named Chair Of Nat'l. Governors' Assn.

Maryland governor Parris N. Glendening this week assumed the chairmanship of the National Governors' Association (NGA) during the organization's summer meeting in State College, Pa. He began his tenure by launching a yearlong initiative aimed at helping states develop strategies to address growth and quality of life issues. Michigan governor John Engler will serve as NGA Vice-Chair.

"Unplanned growth and sprawl are destroying the fabric of our communities, creating congestion and costing taxpayers billions of dollars," said Glendening. "Governors must seize this opportunity to develop aggressive and innovative strategies to protect and improve our quality of life. Americans should not have to spend more time in traffic than they do at the family dinner table or at their child's soccer game. Together we will work to ensure economic prosperity. A goes hand in hand with community prosperity."

Glendening said the NGA will focus on ways to help the nation's governors better steer future growth, increase preservation of natural resources, encourage community revitalization, and assure that Americans maintain a high quality of life.

As the 1999 chairman of NGA's Natural Resources Committee, Glendening initiated the adoption of 10 land use principles to help guide individual states in preserving open space and promoting better planned growth. The policy, "Principles for Better Land Use," was approved during last year's summer meeting.

LIFE SUPPORT EQUIPMENT DONATED - The Maryland New Car and Truck Dealers Association have presented the Wisp Resort Ski Patrol with a life support defibrillator unit to assist in the patrol's rescue missions. The device administers an electric shock through the chest wall to the heart to allow the heart to resume beating effectively. In the photo above are the individuals who attended the luncheon meeting last week for the presentation. From left are Del. George Edwards; Peter Kitzmiller, president of MNCTDA; Mark Halsig, ski patrol director; Bob Stuck of Oakview Motors; Skip Bernard of Team One; and Allen Fratz, Accident Garage. Jack Neal, the patroller who contacted the association to arrange this meeting, was absent for the photo.

CAR SEAT PRESENTED TO WINNER - A car safety seat was the prize offered in a recent drawing coordinated through the WIC (Women, Infants, and Children's Special Supplemental Nutrition Program) program of the Garrett County Health Department. It was donated by Lacey and Devan Warnick in loving memory of their baby sister, Katelyn Blake Sweitzer, who was killed in a car crash on March 12, 1996. The seat was purchased by the children's grandparents, Dan and Linda Warnick. The message sent from the family was: "Please buckle your children up so you don't have to know the pain and empty feeling in your heart of losing a precious little angel like we live with every day of our lives." In the photo from left are Lacey Warnick, Diane Lee, highway safety coordinator at the health department and drawing coordinator, and winner Pebbles Perez.

State's Children's Health Insurance Plan Wins Funds

The federal Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) has announced that it will allow Maryland to access its full federal allocation for the Maryland Children's Health Insurance Program (MCHP). U.S. Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala contacted Governor Parris N. Glendening during the National Governors' Association summer meeting to inform him that Maryland will now be able to utilize up to an additional $30 million dollars in federal funds.

"Maryland has been at the forefront of efforts to ensure that virtually every child has access to quality health care," said Governor Glendening. "This federal credit gives the state the resources it needs to continue our leadership in expanding the Children's Health Program. This year, we covered an additional 19,000 children, enabling them and their families to lead healthier, more productive lives. We appreciate the federal government's recognition and support of Maryland's outstanding efforts."

HCFA has agreed that Maryland should receive matching funds at the higher rate allowed for those enrollees in the MCHP who were previously eligible for an earlier program called Maryland Kids Count. The earlier Maryland Kids Count program preceded the federal program and HCFA interpretation of federal rules had penalized Maryland for taking early action to offer children's insurance.

This policy clarification is the result of a team effort," said Department of Health and Mental Hygiene secretary Dr. Georges Benjamin. "Our congressional delegation, particularly Senators Sarbanes and Mikulski, emphasized to federal officials the importance of this clarification, which allows the state to get credit for an intensive outreach effort resulting in a successful enrollment for the Maryland Children's Health Program."

MCHP was implemented in July of 1998 to provide health insurance coverage for the children of working families at or below 200 percent of the federal poverty level. During the 2000 session, the General Assembly passed legislation increasing the eligibility criteria for the current children's health program in Maryland to 300 percent of the federal poverty level.

The Right Step Drop-In Center To Open Friday

The Right Step, a drop-in center for consumers of mental health services, will open its doors for the first time tomorrow, Friday, July 14, at 2 p.m. Located at 426 Weber Road in the Midway Plaza, the center will provide socialization, discussion groups, and a variety of activities.

Funded under the umbrella of the Mountain Top Mental Health Associates Inc., the Right Step was organized and coordinated by consumers for consumers. The center will be open on Fridays 2-8 p.m., on Saturdays 1-8 p.m, and on Sundays 1-6 p.m.

A grand opening ceremony has been slated for July 28. For more information persons may call 301-334-4630, 301-746-6167, or 301-334-8826.

Results Noted For Blood Drive In Grantsville

A total of 88 units of blood were collected during the visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile in Grantsville on July 3. First-time donors that day were Joshua Pope and Rachel Bender. Terry Hersh became a one-gallon donor at the July 3 drive, while Lena Beachy, Jeffrey Beitzel, and Elijah Bender reached the two-gallon donor status. Barbara Browning completed her third gallon, and Lyndon Saylor and Marilyn Holliday became four-gallon donors.

Volunteers assisting Lela Bender, coordinator for the visit, were Miriam Brenneman, Missy Fazenbaker, Lashell Maust, Lila Maust, Loretta Morgan, Ella Tice, Grace Roberts, Anna Belle Folk and Donna Fiscus.

"SERIOUS FUN" ENJOYED AT CAMP - The young people of the Deer Park community enjoyed a wide variety of activities during the Garrett County Health Department's Serious Fun Day Camp during the last week of June. The camp offered a bike safety rodeo, team-building games, visits from the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department and the Southern Rescue Squad as well as the DNR Scales and Tales program. The next Serious Fun Day Camp will be held at Bloomington School July 17-21. The charge for the camp is $5 per person. Breakfast, lunch, and snacks are provided. Activities are scheduled for 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. each day. For more information or to registers, persons may call 301-334-8122. zer, attorney.

In addition to obtaining educational information, those attending the Expo will have an opportunity to win prizes. Guests may register at the door for raffle prizes, to be drawn every half-hour beginning at 10:30. Sandwiches and drinks will be available throughout the day, with a small dining area provided.

Door prizes include: a $20 dinner certificate to McClive's, dinner and a movie for two from UNO's, luncheon for two at Cornish Manor, 1-month membership at GO PT Fitness Center, blood pressure kits, massages, $20 gift certificates to CVS, Proudfoot's and Gregg's Pharmacies, a Rand McNally Road Atlas, a book, (Chicken Soup for the Golden Soul), a potted plant, a gift certificate to UNO's, a bath and body basket, a hand-painted mailbox, a silk flower arrangement, two tickets for the Western Maryland Scenic Railroad, and more. One grand prize drawing for two $150 Southwest Airline gift certificates will be held at 2 p.m. Guests must be present to win.

"The Area Agency on Aging is pleased to be able to offer this invaluable service to the citizens of Garrett County and the surrounding area." said Adina Brode, AAA director. "The day will provide an excellent opportunity for both the community and the businesses and agencies serving older adults to get to know each other. We hope everyone will visit the Expo at some time during the day. Our staff has gone to great lengths to make the day educational and informative, as well as fun and festive. Look for our ad in today's paper and clip the door prize coupon for an extra chance to win one of the great prizes being offered."

Special activities during the day include a talk, "Get Your Affairs in Order," presented by Attorney Criss Kepple Sweitzer at 11 a.m. and afternoon entertainment by Hammers and Strings, beginning at 12:30 p.m.

The agency still has booth space available for additional vendors, businesses, or agencies. There is a $50 registration fee to for-profit businesses and agencies. The registration fee includes one 8 foot skirted table, two chairs, and a continental breakfast. The registration fee is waived for non-profit groups. To register or to obtain further information, persons may call 301-334-9431 or 888-877-8403.

STEAM Students Target Tobacco Sales To Minors

Some high school students have been active since the end of the school year helping to educate vendors on compliance with Maryland laws regarding sales of tobacco to minors. Under the auspices of the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition, STEAM (Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors) students from Northern High School began on June 13 to make vendor education/compliance check visits to stores at the southern end of the county.

The students handed out packets of information which contained not only an explanation of the state regulation on tobacco sales to minors, but suggestions for simplifying the enforcement of these laws. Vendors were also given materials imprinted with a tobacco-free logo and message, which included such items as stickers, posters, buttons, signs, and penny-holders. The motto for this effort is "Keep Minors Tobacco Free. Always ID."

STEAM students from Southern High School were scheduled to visit stores at the northern end of the county after the completion of the project by the NHS students.

In memory and with appreciation
The family of

want to express our appreciation to our many friends who prayed, visited, sent flowers, brought food and expressed their love and concern in so many ways.

A special thanks to Dr. Soitiere Savopoulos and Dr. Charles Walch, the nurses at Garrett Memorial Hospital, as well as those at Ruby Memorial and Mon General for all your care and concerns during the battles and victories during Pap's illnesses. Most of all glory and praise to Jesus who now stands at the Father's right hand to welcome Pap home. We feel that Homer is now in his heavenly home with his Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. A special thanks to everyone who knew him and was inspired by his life.

Thank you, Bro. Gail Hixon and Bro. Ross Glotfelty for the memorial service, and to the ladies who prepared the meal afterward.

THE PATRIOT

Rated R - Running Time: 2:44 - Released 6/28/00

The Patriot is an epic war movie in every way, from its nearly three-hour running time to its cast of thousands to its beautiful scenery to its brutal and emotionally charged battle scenes. It's the story of a war veteran turned family man who is forced to take up arms when his children are threatened during the American Revolution. Mel Gibson's performance doesn't live up to the grandeur of this film, but he has his moments, and the talent that surrounds him tends to create a buoying effect. The film is directed by distaster-lover Roland Emmerich (Independence Day, Godzilla), a notable step up for him, and written by Robert Rodat (Saving Private Ryan), a definite step down. Rodat's screenplay is adequate at best; there are times when one feels as if one is watching an after-school special.

Benjamin Martin (Gibson) is a South Carolina landowner and veteran of the French and Indian war, and at the film's outset in 1776, we see him putting away his Cherokee tomahawk while asking God for forgiveness. Now that his wife has died, leaving him with seven children, he feels no desire to join in the impending struggle against the hated British. But his eldest son Gabriel (Heath Ledger) is more hawkish in his politics; he enlists without his father's permission and is soon taken prisoner. During a scuffle involving his capture, the brutal British Colonel William Tavington (Jason Isaacs) not only orders the boy's death, but kills Benjamin's second son, Thomas (Gregory Smith). This re-ignites Benjamin's killer instinct, and he ambushes a group of 20 redcoats, earning him the nickname "The Ghost." Next he is heading up the local chapter of the South Carolina militia, with a ragtag group of friends, farmers, and former slaves, as well as his own son Gabriel following his lead. So begins a bitter rivalry between Benjamin and Col. Tavington that lasts for the remainder of the war.

This film is beautifully shot; Emmerich's directing choices mesh nicely with Caleb Deschanel's cinema (Anna And The King) for a piece rich with flavor and authenticity. Deborah Lynn Scott's costume design (Titanic) and John Williams's music add majesty to the proceedings. It's a pity the film's star doesn't do more to deserve such a vehicle. Gibson's delivery is uncomfortable during the moments when he's supposed to be enveloped in familial love — ironically, the battle scenes (you know, the ones where he's supposed to be *un*comfortable) are where he seems most at ease. On the other hand, good performances explode all around him like so many cannonballs landing on the field: Ledger distinguishes himself well as Gabriel, showing not only the fierce war stance of an incensed teen, but the playful charm of a lover as well. Chris Cooper puts forth another heartfelt performance as Benjamin's friend and fellow veteran Col. Harry Burwell, the commander of the regular Continental army. Isaacs is over-the-top evil as the villainous Tavington, and Tom Wilkinson is studied and regal as the proud-but-beleaguered British General Cornwallis. Rene Auberjonois plays Benjamin's chaplain like Father Mulcahy from *M*A*S*H, and lastly, Joely Richardson is fetching, with just a hint of sex, as Benjamin's sister-in-law Charlotte.

Like Gibson, Rodat's script seems most comfortable on the battlefield, with thrilling scenes of gore and mayhem, and an interesting take on the invention of guerrilla warfare. During many of the interior scenes, however, especially a recuitment scene in church, one must make a conscious effort to stifle a gag. ★★★★

THE KID

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:44 - Released 7/7/00

In between his recent tough-guy action films like Armageddon, The Siege, and The Whole Nine Yards, Bruce Willis has begun appearing in movies where his costars have been pre-pubescent. Although his role opposite Miko Hughes in Mercury Rising differed little from the action hero persona he has established ever since his Die Hard films, his part in The Sixth Sense, opposite Oscar-nominated Haley Joel Osment, and subsequent fatherly role in The Story Of Us were far kinder and gentler than we're used to. Willis now completes the feel-good journey with Disney's The Kid, a whimsical Scrooge-type story directed by Jon Turteltaub (Instinct) and co-starring 8-year-old Spencer Breslin in his cinematic debut. Written by Audrey Wells (George Of The Jungle), The Kid is intended to please children but also educate adults about the dangers of losing touch with one's inner child. Much like its characters, the film starts out with an adolescent air, but matures somewhat by the final reel.

Willis plays Russell Duritz, a crochety, 40-year-old "image consultant" (a person who tells stars and politicians how to behave) with a rather dim view of humanity in general, who, by some sort of supernatural occurrence that is not delved into, is visited by an eight-year-old version of himself. The kid (Breslin), a clumsy, obnoxious brat with a lateral lisp and a weight problem, immediately begins lambasting his older self about his failure to have a family, or a dog, or a more respectable occupation, like, say, a pilot, which has always been his own first choice. Russ, who does not remember a single day of his childhood because of some deep, dark secret, thinks he is delusional, but eventually grows to appreciate the reason for "Rusty's" arrival. He must recover his lost memory and find the turning point which turned him into the nasty person he has become. Then, if he can alter the course of history, Rusty will return to his own time and Russ can enjoy the life of a happy, dog-owning pilot and family man. Or whatever.

Every Scrooge must have a Crachit, and Russ has his in the person of his too-nice-to-be-working-for-him secretary, Janet (Lily Tomlin). Also present is his assistant, Amy (Emily Mortimer), whose role is not really clear other than being his romantic interest later in the film. Lastly, Jean Smart makes an appearance as a newswoman Russ helped out a few years ago, who resurfaces to become the catalyst for his change.

This is obviously a blowoff role for Willis; apart from a few frantic scenes where he thinks he's crazy, he appears to be reading lines in his sleep. But that's because he knows the real star of the film is Breslin, who is supposed to be cute but is mostly just annoying. There are a few good lines, however (like when Tomlin says, "How's Mini-You?"), and the staggeringly predictable climax provides the guilty emotional pleasure that is a prerequisite in every Disney film. ★★★

SCARY MOVIE

Rated R - Running Time: 1:28 - Released 7/7/00

Horror parodies have probably been around as long as traditional horror movies; I suppose it is an irresistable temptation, since real "scary movies" are so laughable, to make fun of the stupid characters who inevitably inhabit them. The Wayans brothers' Scary Movie, however, has the dubious distinction of being the first horror spoof to be made in the era of the gross-out comedy inaugurated by There's Something About Mary and continuing in force through such recent titles as American Pie, Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me, and most recently Me, Myself, & Irene. Since Mary broke the so-called "semen barrier," there seems to be no bodily function or substance too disgusting to portray on film for the purpose of getting laughs. So, in keeping with this new tradition, director/producer Keenen Ivory Wayans and his writing brothers Shawn and Marlon (with the help of several other writers) have included many such jokes in their takeoff on the new generation of horror films. A dubious distinction it is.

Scary Movie (which, incidentally, was the working title for the original Scream) makes fun mostly of Scream and I Know What You Did Last Summer, but also contains references to The Blair Witch Project, The Sixth Sense, The Matrix, and several others. I daresay the first scene, based on the Drew Barrymore opener from Scream, is the funniest. One of its best moments is when the girl (Carmen Electra) is being pursued out of her house by the knife-wielding killer. She comes upon a pair of road signs, side by side. One says "Safety," with an arrow to the left; the other says, "Death," with an arrow to the right. She stops momentarily, considers the signs, and then dashes off to the right. Unfortunately, this kind of humor gives way to the more disgusting type in short order, and only occasionally taps into the fertile ground of humor already present in slasher flicks. Besides the gross stuff, there's also a fair amount of marijuana humor that would seem more at home in an old '70s Cheech & Chong movie.

After the murder of the aforementioned girl by the masked, hooded killer, Cindy (Anna Faris), her ever-horny boyfriend Bobby (Jon Abrahams), and four other friends fear that the killer might be the man they ran over last year and left for dead (for those who don't know, this is the scenario of I Know What You Did Last Summer). And sure enough, he begins working his way through the six of them, slashing, beheading, and eviscerating them one by one, using either a hook or a knife, and panicking the student population at "B. A. Corpse High School." The remaining friends are pursued not only by the killer but by ambitious newswoman Gail Hailstorm (Cheri Oteri), who will go to any lengths to get the story, and protected by a drooling, mentally retarded cop named Doofy (Dave Sheridan), who uses the bathroom in his pants and provides various other gross/stupid humor. Among the supporting cast are a stuck-up beauty queen (Shannon Elizabeth), a latent homosexual (Shawn Wayans), a pot-smoking homeboy (Marlon Wayans), and a transvestite girls' coach named Miss Mann.

This film is definitely meant for those who frequent horror movies, because if you didn't see at least Scream and I Know, you won't get most of the jokes. I appreciate the intentions of Wayans & company; there is much material for making fun of in these movies. But their approach, incorporating the crude humor that has become so popular of late, generates an unfortunate digression from the point. On the other hand, "the point" may be to make money from moviegoing teenagers, and that they will most certainly do. ★★★ ordinance unaltered could affect tear-downs and rebuilds on new structures.

Two issues concerning campgrounds will be discussed: commercial campgrounds and gun clubs. Residents have in the past voiced concern about both entities, feeling that commercial sites could devalue surrounding properties, and that gun clubs should not be allowed in residential areas. Nelson noted that any gun club now must be situated at least 600 feet from any property line.

Works Of Michael Zuckerman On Display At GCC Art Gallery

An exhibit of paintings, drawings, and sculpture by local award-winning artist Michael Zuckerman is on display in the Garrett Community College Art Gallery through Saturday, July 29. The public is invited to an artist's reception at the gallery on Saturday, July 15, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Zuckerman was GCC's first art instructor from 1971 to 1979, and is referred to by some as "Garrett County's old man of art." In the broader sense, Zuckerman is widely recognized for his extensive career as a sculptor. With an expansive track record, his work has appeared on television and exists in numerous public and private collections from Cumberland to Baltimore, and New York and abroad.

Italian journalist Scrivianni has written that Zuckerman is a "a living artist who sees the reality of every day — not fantasies, nor symbols of terror. He has overcome the years of uncertainty." His work has been praised by artists and critics, with statements such as "the artist commands his material in full, with dynamic perception," as noted by Umberto Baldini of the Uffizzi Gallery in Florence, Italy.

Born in Englewood, N.J., in 1932, Zuckerman had an early interest in art, and won the arts prize in his graduating class in 1950 at the Holderness School in New Hampshire. He attended Bard College and Columbia University, both in New York, from 1950 to 1952, then studied in Korea in 1953 through an art correspondence course from the University of California. After traveling in Japan, he returned to the U.S. to study with renowned artist George Grosz at the Arts Students League in New York City.

Zuckerman attended the University of Mexico in 1956, where he studied painting with Diego Rivera, the famous Mexican revolutionary artist. He was appointed to the Reinhart Graduate School of Sculpture in 1957 and also studied at the Corcoran School of Art in Washington, D.C. In 1962, he won the Peabody Foundation Award and received the B.F.A. degree at the Maryland Institute of Art, and continued his career with exhibitions in New York and Miami, and worked with notable sculptors in Florence, Italy, from 1963 to 1967.

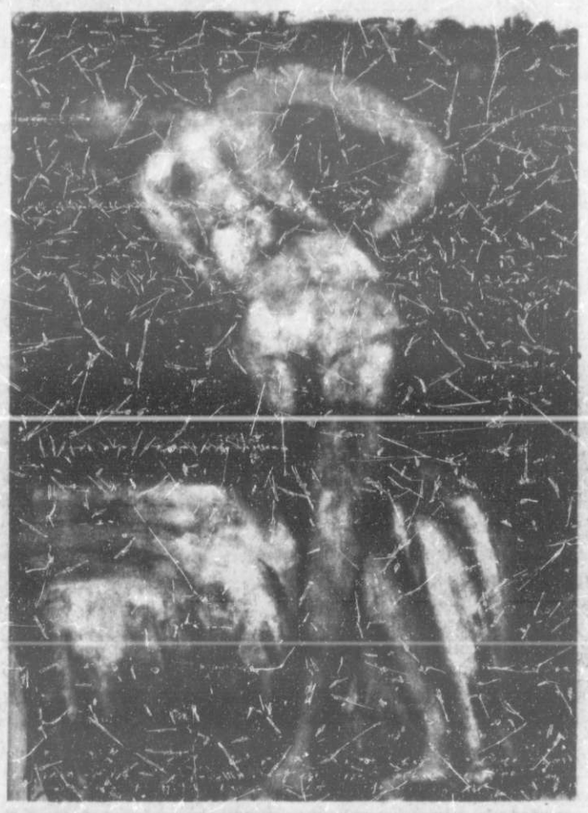

After settling in Garrett County, Zuckerman continued to be prolific with exhibitions in major galleries, including the prestigious Reinhart School of Sculpture 75th Anniversary Exhibition in 1971. His work was included in the 1974 Baltimore Museum of Art Traveling Exhibition titled "Five Maryland Artists."

Zuckerman's artwork has been previously displayed at the Garrett Community College art gallery in two solo exhibitions, and a third with Ireta Skipper Sweitzer. One of his bronze cast sculptures was procured by the Garrett County Arts Council as part of its outdoor public art program in 1994, and the public may view the figurative sculpture adorning the front lawn of GCC.

This exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events. For more information, interested persons may contact the GCC art department at 301-387-3024.

LOCAL ARTIST'S WORKS EXHIBITED AT GCC — Garrett County resident Michael Zuckerman, who served as Garrett Community College's first art instructor in the 1970s, is the subject of a GCC Art Gallery exhibition that continues through Saturday, July 29. An artist's reception is slated at the gallery for this Saturday, July 15, from 7 to 9 p.m., and all interested members of the public may attend. Two of Zuckerman's interpretive paintings of the human form are shown here, and the exhibit also contains some his drawings and sculpture.

Public Theatre Of W.Va. To Present Musical

The West Virginia Public Theatre (WVPT) will present the Tony award winning musical comedy The Most Happy Fella July 18-23 at the Creative Arts Center in Morgantown, W.Va.

Joining the cast for the lead role of Tony will be world-renowned operatic performer Spiro Malas. Having performed with the Metropolitan Opera, the New York City Opera, and the Royal Opera House in London, Malas was cast as Tony during the 1990 Broadway revival of The Most Happy Fella. Among his accomplishments, Malas has also recorded with Pavarotti and Beverly Sills and appeared in television shows such as "Law and Order," "Spencer for Hire," "The Equalizer," and "One Life to Live."

Broadway star Susan Haefner will also be joining the cast as love interest Roseabella. Haefner has performed on Broadway in State Fair and in the national tour of Damn Yankees with Jerry Lewis. Most recently Haefner was cast in the role of Sarah in Guys and Dolls at the Barter theatre. Stanton Garr, also of Broadway fame, will be joining the cast for The Most Happy Fella. Garr recently appeared in the revivals of The New Moon, Pirates of Penzance, and The Merry Widow. He was also cast as Johnny Brown in The Unsinkable Molly Brown.

Performances for The Most Happy Fella will run at 8 p.m. from July 18-23 with Wednesday and Sunday matinees beginning at 2 p.m. Tickets are $22 for the general public; $21 for senior citizens, students, WVU faculty, and staff; and $10 for youth 12 years and under. Advanced tickets may be purchased at the WVPT Box Office located at the Creative Arts Center on the Evansdale campus of West Virginia University, or by calling the WVPT locally at 599-6785 or toll-free at 1-877-999-9878. Visa, MasterCard, and Discover are accepted.

Summer Reading Club Under Way At Ruth Enlow

The Ruth Enlow Library is hosting free summer reading clubs for children in kindergarten through grade five. The clubs are held in each branch of the library and will continue through August.

The theme is "Reading Rhythms," featuring stories and crafts related to music. Children have the opportunity to participate in music and crafts, and to listen to stories. They will also be visited by high school band students, who will demonstrate how instruments are played and will lead the children in rhythm band activities. Crafts made by the children are in the themes of the stories read to them.

Club sessions last one hour on specific days at each branch. For registration information, persons may call Doreen Rogers, the children's librarian, at 301-334-3996.

OTT Schedules Play Reading

Our Town Theatre has slated a free play reading for Sunday, July 16, at 7:30 p.m. Light refreshments will be served, and donations will be accepted. The event is open to all interested members of the public, who can choose to either participate as readers or observe from the audience.

Our Town Theatre is located at 121 East Center St., Oakland, across from the Ruth Enlow Library.

SWANTON NEWS

A 4th of July picnic held at the Glen Teets lot at North Glade was attended by David, Mary Louise, Addy, Joni, Holly and Tom Wilson, and Linda and John Fleming.

Maxine and Meredith Ball returned home Wednesday from Gettysburg, Pa., where they spent the 4th of July with their son Mike and his family.

Sandra Schofield and Mary June Harvey traveled to Shepherdstown, W.Va., last Friday where they had lunch with the Woodbrey family. They returned home Friday evening accompanied by Emily and Michaela Woodbrey.

Orval and Mareva Teets joined Encie and Kenneth Teets of Norfolk, Va., and Bea and Mike Rhodes, Mtn. Lake Park, on Friday evening for dinner at a local restaurant. Encie and Ken returned to Norfolk on Sunday, after attending the Wilson reunion on Saturday.

Visitors of Amy and Artie Sweitzer last week were Clara and Charles Coddington of Lanham. The Coddingtons arrived on Wednesday and returned to their home on Sunday afternoon. Lloyd and Marge Parrish of Ogden, Utah, visited on Wednesday and Gladys Savage, McHenry, visited on Friday.

Last Thursday Addy Wilson returned to Reidsville, N.C., after a visit with her family, Dave, Marty, Joni and Holly Wilson.

WILSON REUNION

Descendants of the late George M. Wilson and Fannie Rebecca Smith Wilson met at Broadford Park, Mtn. Lake Park, on Saturday, July 8, for their 30th reunion. One hundred seven persons from Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, and Texas attended. The oldest woman present was Betty Wilt, Deer Park, and the oldest man was Harry (Junior) Warnick, Baltimore. Many door prizes were given and a 30th anniversary keepsake was presented to everyone present. Lance Rhodes of Swanton is the new president of the family reunion. The 31st reunion will be held at Broadford on the second Saturday in July 2001.

Mary McKennett was an overnight guest of Mary June Harvey on Saturday.

Mike and Jean Howse, Hobert (Hob) McRobie, Christopher (Cris) Meadows of Mansfield, Texas, and Ray McRobie and Patricia (Paty) Blevins, Fairfax, Va., visited Irvin, Louise, Rev. Lynn and Mary Beckman. Hobert and Ray are first cousins of Louise. While in the area, they also visited Nellie Shaffer, as well as the McCrobie-McRobie Cemetery, off Green Glade Road, and other points of interest in Garrett County.

Chuck, Crystal, Megan, and Matt Teets returned to their home in Chesapeake, Va., on Sunday after spending the weekend with Freda and Glen Teets. While here, they attended the Wilson reunion at Broadford Park on Saturday.

Lucinda, Steve, Amber, and Jacob Davis visited the Orval Teets family on Sunday. On Monday, Steve returned to classes at Wesleyan UM University, Washington, D.C. The rest of his family are spending the week with the A.J. Fleming family.

On Sunday evening, Luella Baker, Mary June Harvey, and Maxine and Meredith Ball attended a musical-drama at St. Paul's UM church in Oakland.

Maedean and Calvin Winters returned to their home in Romeo, Mich., on Monday. They had visited in the area to attend the Wilson reunion on Saturday at Broadford Park and the Bishop reunion in Keyser, W.Va., on Sunday.

COMMUNITY CENTER

The July meeting will be held on Monday, July 17, at 7:30 p.m. at the center.

Fund Profits

Individuals and businesses may also support the project by purchasing an engraved brick for the approach walkway for $100. Names of children or other relatives or memorials may be engraved on these bricks.

To date, in addition to the town's donation, major monetary commitments to the new library building have been made by the Grantsville Rotary Club, the Grantsville Lions Club, the Grantsville Lioness Club, the Greater Grantsville Business Association, and Hobby House Press.

Rotary members held an auction to benefit the library fund and the Lioness Club contributed money earned through sales during Grantsville Days. Any other club members who would like to sponsor a library fund-raiser may contact reNEW chair Sheila Miller at 301-895-5470 or Cathy Ashby, Ruth Enlow Library director, at 301-334-3996.

Donation checks may be sent to: reNEW Grantsville's Library, P. O. Box 237, Grantsville, MD 21536. The words "Grantsville Library Fund" should be written on the memo line of the check.

Other funding sources for construction of the new facility are being explored, including federal, state, and county. It is estimated that the project could cost up to $800,000 to complete. Several locations are being considered in "quiet" areas of town as sites for the building that would replace the current library, which is limited by inadequate parking and structural issues, Ruddell noted.

"If the Grantsville community is to be connected to the world of information, we need a state of the art library building with the books, computers, and study space required to exceed the learning and communication needs of the greater Grantsville community," Ruddell stated.

THE TERRA ALTA MUNICIPAL BUILDING, housing the Terra Alta Town Hall and the Terra Alta Public Library, was formally dedicated during a ribbon-cutting ceremony Saturday. A large crowd, including residents, library and town hall employees, state, county and city officials, and invited guests, gathered for the event. The Rev. Larry Peters from Trinity United Methodist Church, gave the invocation and offered a dedication reading. The building that once housed Thomas' Big Key and Gregg's Pharmacy, and later a Rite-Aid Pharmacy and a doctor's satellite office, was renovated with funds generated locally and at the state level. Shown cutting the ceremonial ribbon are Terra Alta Mayor Charles Feather, right, and Terra Alta native Jim Teets, who represented Governor Cecil Underwood for the afternoon's activities. Among the other dignitaries on hand for the dedication were Delegate Larry Williams and Senator Sarah Minear, shown at the rear of the photo. (Photos by Patti Grose)

A SPACIOUS NEW TERRA ALTA PUBLIC LIBRARY opened its doors on March 18 in a new location along Rt. 7 in Terra Alta, with approximately 5,500 square feet of floor space. Patrons to the library find books, videos, resource materials, newspaper and magazine subscriptions, a children's corner, and computers with internet access in a well-lit, state-of-the-art facility. Ima Thomas, librarian, and Sharon Haskell, assistant librarian, have issued a record number of new library cards during the past four months, and have a large number of participants in the summer reading program for school children. The library is open eight hours a day, five days a week

ON HAND FOR SATURDAY'S DEDICATION of the Terra Alta Municipal Building were members of the Mars Millennium Group project, all students at Terra Alta-East Preston School, who received certificates for their participation in an outer space study project and the creation of a miniature Martian colony site that is currently on display at the Terra Alta Public Library. One of the nine team members, Ashley Teets, is shown above accepting her award from her uncle, Jim Teets, who as assistant to the governor, made the official presentation.

NEW TOWN HALL OPEN - The Terra Alta Town Hall, previously located on Washington Street, moved in April to its spacious new offices and meeting room next door to the Terra Alta Public Library in the municipal building located along Rt. 7 in Terra Alta. Visitors to the dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremony were able to see the new offices and meeting room that provide space for the mayor, town council, and town clerks. Above, Assistant Town Clerk Tonya Myers, left, accepts a bill payment from Wenda Harmon before Saturday afternoon's activities got under way.

REMINDER FOR CLASS OF 1960

Members of the Aurora High School Class of 1960 are reminded that there will be a class reunion and dinner at the Union Ambulance Squad Hall in Aurora on July 22. All members are urged to attend.

AHS CLASSES OF '43, '44 MEET

A reunion was held jointly for the first time by the Aurora High School classes of 1943 and 1944 on Friday evening, July 7, at the Union Ambulance squad hall. A turkey dinner was served by the Ambulance Service to 30 class members and spouses or guests.

Attending were Doris Sanders Adams (1943) and her sister, Lois Phillips of Aurora; Virginia Ann (Shaffer) and Jesse Vanderpool, Baltimore; James and Freda Pennington, Oakland; William and Pauline Wotring, Authurdale; Calvin and Betty Knotts, Daleville, Va.; Ellis and Helen Harsh, Bridgewater, Va.; Junior and Alta Slaubaugh, Horse Shoe Run; Jessie Myers Fedorow, Aurora; Hassaleah Stemple Snyder, Amboy; and Claude (1943) and Jean Miller (1944) Winters, Eglon, all of the Class of '43 except as noted.

The following from the Class of '44 included: Grover and Nada Evans, Elkins; Jesse and Elsie Harsh, Oakland; Godfrey and Mary Wotring, Doylestown, Ohio; Reba Hinkle Guilliam of Washington, D.C., and her son, Roger Guilliam of Manassas, Va.; Jessie Sims Winters, Eglon; Lois (Teets) and Tom Adams, Aurora; and Eileen Henline Rembold, Pittsburgh.

Another joint reunion will be planned for 2002.

SUNDAY TEA HONORS RUTH TEETS

Cortland Acres Nursing Home sponsored a tea on Sunday afternoon, July 9, to honor a request of patient Ruth Teets. The head table was decorated with tea pots of various kinds and the dining room was also decorated with that theme in mind. Many friends, family, and guests from the home were present.

Ruth (Lantz) Teets grew up in the Aurora community and spent her married years at Eglon with her husband, the late Roscoe Teets.

PERSONAL MENTION

Oran and Delores Harsh vacationed recently at their Silver Lake home.

Jane (Mrs. Vernon) Harsh of Eglon was a surgical outpatient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital last Monday.

Lester Whitehair of Horse Shoe Run was admitted July 3 to Garrett County Memorial.

Lee Martin of State Line was hospitalized at Garrett Memorial Hospital July 1, and has returned to his home.

Ernest Shaffer has returned to his home in Mtn. Lake Park after hospitalization at Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown.

Members of the Bill and Bernice Roth (Winters) family met Sunday for a family reunion at the home of Susie Roth, widow of Harold Roth, near Red House.

Young adults of the Maple Spring Church camped for the weekend at Camp Galilee near Terra Alta and were joined by others from the church for morning worship and a picnic dinner on Sunday.

Jesse and Virginia Vanderpool of Baltimore were weekend guests of her cousin, Barbara Heckert, Eglon.

Eileen Rembold of Pittsburgh was a Friday overnight guest of Claude and Jean Winters, Eglon.

Ruth Allman of Eglon remains a patient in Garrett Memorial Hospital.

John E. Teets was returned last Wednesday, July 5, to the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home at Grantsville after being hospitalized at Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Lawrence and Peggy Donham of Stewartstown, Pa., were weekend guests of Jackie and Alma Snyder, Aurora, and here for Saturday's reunion of the children of Walter and Virginia Donham: Lawrence, Harley and wife Regina, all of Grafton, and Mildred and Hancell Teets, Jerry and Grace Winter, and Alma and Jackie Snyder. All of those children were present, along with some of their families.

A Sunday dinner at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building surprised Frank and Wilda (Harsh) Blamble on their 40th wedding anniversary. The celebration was planned by their children, Brenda, Jeff, Ryan, and Jacob Thayer, Litchfield, Ohio; David, Doris, Alexandra, Nathaniel, and Victoria Watkins, Saville, Ohio; Eric, Emily, and Elisha Blamble, also Saville; and Charles Blamble, Aurora.

Relatives of Alma Snyder Harsh, 86, who died July 5 in Ohio, were here for the viewing at the Hinkle Funeral Home in Davis. Services were at Stemple Ridge, where her body was interred near that of her late husband, Daniel Harsh. Her sisters, Jessie Hughes and Viola Harsh, had been taken to Ohio for a visit with her in June by Jessie's daughter, Judy.

Named By USAA

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Christopher English-Ramsay, Swanton, has been named a USAA National Award winner in science. A Southern High School student entering his junior year, Christopher was nominated for this award by science teacher Diana Marks.

The USAA recognizes 10 percent of all American high school students. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, and dependability, plus the recommendation of a teacher or director.

In addition to his academic work, Christopher is on the crosscountry and tennis teams and is an active member of the Garrett County Humane Society. He is the son of Polly English-Ramsay and Walter Ramsay.

New Germany SP Schedules Square Dance

New Germany State Park has scheduled a square dance, open to all ages, for Friday, July 21, beginning at 7 p.m. in the park's lakehouse. Pete Bray will be calling the dance, which will include modern western square dancing and country western dancing.

A fee of $5 per family has been set for the event. Interested persons may call the park at 301-895-5453 or 301-746-8359 for further information.

LUTHERAN WOMEN ATTEND CONVENTION - Four members of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, participated in the Eastern District biennial convention of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League held in Lancaster, Pa., last month. Among the business undertaken by convention delegates and guests from New York, Pennsylvania, and Maryland was the appropriation of funds for mission projects in this region and throughout the world. In the photo from left are Annetta Dellinger, convention keynote speaker; Lynette Karsten; Charlotte Sebold; Lois Kolb; Jan Rueter, vice president of Gospel Outreach for the national organization; and Helen A. Harman. The Lutheran Women's Missionary League is an official auxiliary organization of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Trips Planned To Music Jamboree, Atlantic City

Two trips have been planned for Garrett County senior citizens. The first one, slated for July 19, is to the Pennsylvania Country Music Jamboree in Chambersburg. This trip includes a full lunch buffet, addmission to the jamboree at the restored Capitol Theatre, and transportation. The cost is $47.

The second senior trip is slated as an "overnighter" in Atlantic City on September 11 and 12. The travel package includes round trip transportation by motorcoach; one night's "deluxe accommodations" at the Clairion Hotel; one hot breakfast buffet; two casino coin bonus packages; and baggage handling. The price per person is $69 based on double occupancy, and $89 for single occupancy.

Both excursions are sponsored by Community Action Area Agency on Aging. For more information or to make reservations, persons may call 301-334-9431, ext 137. Space is available for both trips.

Toll-Free Number Allows Md. Census Count To Continue

A toll-free number has been designated by the Governor Parris Glendening's Census 2000 office to ensure that Maryland residents not yet included in the census can still be counted, Maryland secretary of state John T. Willis announced recently. Residents not yet counted may call Maryland's Census Hotline at 1-888-447-4221 through Friday, July 21, and a federal census worker will take the information on the phone or schedule a home visit to ensure all family members are counted.

"Although Census Day was April 1, the census operation is still ongoing," Willis said. "We want to make sure every Marylander can be counted, [and the] toll-free number will make it easier for people to participate by calling from the privacy of their own homes."

At the conclusion of the "mail back" response period for the 2000 census, Maryland's 67 percent compliance figure ranked 19th in the nation, an improvement over the state's 38th ranking after the 1990 census; however, for every resident missed in the census count, the state loses $1,036 per year for the next 10 years in the allocation of federal funds. Undercounting also makes private as well as public sector planning more difficult.

Individuals who have not taken part in the census are urged to call the toll-free census hotline. Information shared with federal census takers is confidential and used only for statistical purposes. A strong privacy law under Title 13 of the U.S. code protects the collected information, which is not shared with any individual or government agency.

"We appreciate one more example of the extraordinary support given by the governor's census 2000 office to our national efforts," commented Fernando E. Armstrong, regional director for the U.S. Census Bureau.

Elliott Inducted Into Kappa Delta Pi Honor Society

Scott A. Elliott, 20, son of Terry and Kathy Elliott, Kitzmiller, was recently inducted into Kappa Delta Pi education honor society at Salisbury State University.

A 1998 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, Elliott is a junior at SSU majoring in elementary education.

At Salisbury he is a student leader in Brothers and Sisters in Christ (BASIC), a member of the Student Organization for Activity Planning (SOAP), and a member of the Food Committee.

He is a recipient of the Student Leadership Award for BASIC.

Kappa Delta Pi promotes excellence in and recognizes outstanding contributions to education. Qualifications for membership are academic achievement (50 or more hours of course work with a grade point average of 3.0 or better) and leadership in education.

Underwood UB Schedules VBS

The Underwood United Brethren Church has slated a vacation Bible school for Monday through Friday, July 17 - 21, from 6 to 8 p.m. nightly. The VBS theme is "Heroes for Jesus," and a variety of class sessions will be offered for participants of all ages.

Crafts, puppetry, games, singing, and Bible teaching will be included in the sessions, and a snack will be offered each evening. Participants will also have the opportunity to attend a VBS picnic on Saturday, July 22, at Broadford Lake Park, and in the presentation of a VBS program at the church the following evening.

For further information or to register, interested persons may call Pastor David Kisamore at 301-334-2950.

Jennings Church Homecoming Set

The Jennings United Methodist Church will hold its annual homecoming on Sunday, July 16. Sunday school will begin at 10 a.m. followed by morning worship at 11 a.m., with Rev. Karl Crowe, Greenville, Va., delivering the morning message.

A covered dish meal will be served at 12:30 p.m. The Jubilator Quartet will present a gospel music message beginning at 2 p.m.

The church is located four miles south of Grantsville off Route 495 along the Jennings Road. Pastor Brenda Shreve has invited the public to attend.

PLEASE DON'T EAT STRANGE LEAVES

Many plants and seeds can be very harmful if chewed or swallowed. Children especially are prone to this danger and should be cautioned to avoid them. Castor beans, poinsettia leaves, mistletoe, daffodils, hyacinth and narcissus are particularly dangerous. Some of them will cause vomiting and diarrhea and all of them have been known to be fatal.

If you suspect that someone has chewed or has swallowed a potentially harmful leaf or seed, get them to a physician without delay. Time is of great importance to avoid a possible tragedy.

DRAWN TO THE SEA

Why does the sea draw so many of us? We are pulled to the sea as surely as the tide rises and falls. Perhaps to some, the sea is the nearest we will approach to the might of the Creator. Our need to behold this overt power can be reassuring...a memory to recall when we feel weak and alone during the storms of life. God's Holy Word reveals this... Psalm 29:3 declares, "The voice of the Lord is upon the waters." Eccl. 1:7 marvels..."All the rivers run into the sea; yet the sea is not full." How deep and how endless is our Heavenly Father's love for us! God can help us through the worst catastrophe when we believe in His omnipotence.

As we are drawn to the sea, may we be drawn to worship at our local church or synagogue each week so that God's might will remain fresh in our heart and mind the year through.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GROW UP!

July 16, 2000

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 4:1-16.
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 3:14-21.

The writer of Ephesians desires that the Ephesians—and us—may no longer be children." He is speaking, not of our chronological age, but our degree of spiritual maturity. Physically, socially, and mentally we look and sound like adults. Spiritually, however, we may still be children.

When we first became Christians it was understandable that we begin in the faith as children. Spiritually speaking, we must first learn to crawl before we walk, and walk before we run. In 1 Cor. 3:1,2, Paul confesses that he "could not address you as spiritual men, but as babes in Christ. I fed you with milk, not solid food; for you were not ready for it; and even yet you are not ready". Beginning our life in Christ it is anticipated that our faith will be like that of little children, but we are expected to grow in our spiritual faith.

Unfortunately for many of us, it is not that we begin as spiritual children and are not yet ready for solid spiritual food, but that we may fail to ever be ready? Are we to spend all of our lives as spiritual toddlers? We need someone to challenge us in our infantile complacency to GROW UP!

Tossed To & Fro

One evidence of spiritual immaturity is the state of being "tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine" (Eph. 4:14). Some of us never outgrow this immature level of discipleship. Perhaps we assume that being a Christian means finding and defending what we consider to be true Christian doctrine. But doctrine is of value only to the extent that it inspires and enables us to live as disciples of Jesus Christ.

COVER STORY

Showtime bungles tense tale of child murders

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

There's probably a good TV movie to be made about the case of the child murders that gripped Atlanta from 1979 to 1981.

Who Killed Atlanta's Children?, premiering Sunday, July 16, on Showtime, is certainly not that movie.

First, a recap: Nearly 30 black males, mostly children, were either reported missing or found murdered during the years in question. In 1982, following a massive manhunt, Wayne Williams was convicted of killing two adult men, after which authorities closed the other cases and declared the terrifying ordeal over.

Many of the parents of the slain and missing children, however, were critical of the investigation and alleged that law authorities were trying to cover up aspects of the racially charged situation.

The Showtime movie opens four years after Williams' conviction, as Spin magazine reporter Pat Laughlin (James Belushi) and his editor, Ron Larson (Gregory Hines), arrive in Atlanta to pursue the story at the behest of a local assemblywoman.

Laughlin and Larson secretly meet with an active-duty Atlanta police officer who tips them off to the incompetence and disorganization that allegedly dogged the investigation. The two reporters get an even bigger break when they receive a package from an anonymous sender filled with copies of a secret probe by the Georgia Bureau of Investigation that seems to link the murders to local members of the Ku Klux Klan.

"Wayne Williams may well be guilty of the two murders of which he was convicted," says writer-director Charles Robert Carner. "Our movie doesn't go into the details of his innocence or guilt of those two murders.

"But the secret investigation, which developed evidence that the Klan was involved in some of these murders, is still valid. Somebody knows the truth, obviously. The question is whether justice ever will catch up with them."

Hines speculates that the GBI may have realized that linking white men with the murders of black children would have ignited a politically volatile situation.

"That certainly would not have been a good thing in Atlanta, and for Atlanta," he says. "It could have conceivably brought Atlanta to its knees, burned it down, in those days."

Pinning the murders on Williams, a black man, was an easy out, he says.

Sadly, Carner scuttles his own film with an overwritten teleplay and hyperactive direction. While the murder of children is horrifying enough in its own right, Carner needlessly belabors the point by making both his principal characters guilt-ridden fathers who don't spend enough quality time with their children. He even gives Belushi a nightmare scene in which he finds himself surrounded by the missing children, their eyes glowing supernaturally.

Carner's camera is seldom at rest, needlessly zipping, swirling and swooning in a style that verges on self-parody (some scenes look like outtakes from the dippy Naked Gun movies). The final nail in the movie's coffin is Carner's decision to cast as his Southerners a bunch of Canadian actors whose painfully artificial Dixie drawls wouldn't pass muster in a third-rate bus-and-truck production of Tobacco Road.

When someone gets around to making that good movie on this subject, let's hope he learns from the many mistakes in this awful piece of work.

St. Paul's UM Slates Special Worship Services

St. Paul's United Methodist Church has scheduled special worship services for Sunday, July 16, at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m., both of which will feature musical selections by noted West Virginia singer Mindy Cookman of Petersburg.

Cookman's performing experience includes three seasons as a member of the West Virginia All-State Chorus during her high school years. She was part of the West Virginia All-State Chamber Choir, and at the "Fiesta-val" choral competition in Orlando, Fla., she won the Outstanding Soloist Award. During her senior year she received soloist status at the West Virginia Music Educators Solo and Ensemble Honors Recital, where she performed her solo in Italian.

Her collegiate experience included membership in the West Virginia Wesleyan College (Buckhannon) Concert Chorale and the Jazz Ensemble at West Virginia University (Morgantown). In 1998 she was named Queen Silvia LXII at the Mountain State Forest Festival, where she performed with the Wheeling Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Maestro Rachael Worby.

St. Paul's UM Church is located at 318 East Oak St. in Oakland. For further information persons may call the church office at 301-334-2391.

Masons Slate Annual Picnic

Oakland Masonic Lodge No. 192 has set its 18th annual picnic gathering for Sunday, July 23, at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Food will be served at the Tamarack Shelter at 2 p.m.

Brother Francis E. Larrimore, Grand Master of Maryland's Masons, and Brother Bennie G. Owens, Deputy Grand Master, will be special guests and will present two members of the Oakland lodge with 50-year service awards. Interested Masons and guests may make reservations by calling the lodge at 301-334-1770 to leave their names and the number in their party planning to attend. Reservations should be received by Tuesday, July 18.

Kitchen Yard Sale To Benefit Seniors

Community Action Area Agency on Aging will hold a yard sale on Saturday, July 22, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the parking lot of the Community Action building, at 104 E. Center Street, Oakland.

Event coordinators are requesting donations of kitchen items to be sold at this fund-raiser, such as small appliances (in working condition), dishes, glassware, and tablecloths. To donate such items, one may drop them off at the Mary Browning Senior Center during the week of July 17-22. All money raised at the sale will be distributed to the senior centers' activity funds, which are used for special events.

Mt. Top Christian Assembly Slates Anniversary Event

The Mt. Top Christian Assembly Church will mark its 25th anniversary on Saturday, Aug. 5. The event gets under way with a 1 p.m. fellowship gathering, followed by a buffet dinner at 4:30 p.m. A worship service will take place at 6:30 p.m.

All former pastors of the church and their families have been invited to attend, and founding pastor Rev. Walter H. Leake will preside at both the Saturday evening and Sunday morning services.

All past and present church members, guests, and ministers are invited to attend, as are all graduates, students, teachers, and staff members of the former Mt. Top Christian Academy.

Dinner reservations must be received no later than Friday, July 21, and may be made by calling 301-334-9105 or 301-334-3001. The Mt. Top Christian Assembly is located in Mtn. Lake Park along Maryland Highway.

Radio broadcasting as we know it today started in 1920, probably with the report by KDKA of Pittsburgh on the Harding-Cox presidential election returns. The first receiving radios were made under an agreement with Howard Armstrong, who held patents related to the new technology. The early battery-operated radios were large and unattractive. By 1928, radios were being offered in attractive cabinets made to resemble the furniture of the day. The first figural radio was "Monte Blue," a 1920s crystal set showing a man in an overstuffed chair. Vacuum-tube radio sets were also made in novelty shapes by the 1930s. Mickey Mouse was one of the earliest. But the era of novelty radios favored by today's collector started with the transistor radios of the 1950s. Today's radios use the newest electronic methods and often have added features, like headphones.

Q: I collect lithographed tin sand pails. I only have a few, and I never even thought about who drew the designs on them. A local dealer has some pails designed by Elaine Ends Hileman. He doesn't know much about her. Do you?

A: Elaine Ends was born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1919. She did freelance drawings for Children's Playmate magazine and American Greetings before she married George Hileman in 1944. From 1945 to 1951, she worked freelance for Ohio Art Co. of Bryan, Ohio. She drew cute designs that were used on lithographed tin tops, watering cans, tea sets, drums, shovels, sand pails and more. Most of her drawings feature children playing. Her sand pails sell for $65 to $100.

MAKING YOUR BATHTUB SHINE

Q. I have two bathtubs which have lost their shine. How do I restore them? Also, hard crusty coating forms in the neck of the commode. What is safe to use to break this up? — M. Testerman, Surgoinsville, Tenn.

A. Porcelain bathtubs are among the most durable fixtures in the house. Unfortunately, the gleaming finish can lose its luster over time. Abrasive cleaners are the biggest culprits, leaving noticeable scratch marks around the tub after cleaning. Years of simple wear and tear can break down the shine as well.

The best way to restore your tubs' shine is to have them professionally refinished. This does cost a bit — anywhere from $175 to $300 or more per bathtub — but it really is the best way to go. The refinisher will put on a new topcoat using materials designed specifically for ceramic fixtures, which adhere well to the old surface.

Check out refinishers in your area carefully, and compare their rates and service. Make certain that their work is guaranteed for at least five years — anything less is a waste of money, no matter how much you think you'll save.

Once you've renewed the shine in your bathtubs, toss out abrasive cleansers. Use a mild soap for cleaning.

Now, to the subject of "commode crust." Mineral deposits often build up over time, no matter how regularly you clean your toilet. Fortunately, there are ways to combat it.

One way is to drop a couple of denture tablets into the bowl and let them set overnight. In the morning, flush and wipe away the softened material.

If this doesn't do it, then head to your hardware store and purchase some turpentine and a fine-grade pumice stick.

Empty your toilet completely by turning off the wall valve and then flushing. Fill a container with about a gallon of water and pour it directly into the toilet bowl. This should empty the bowl.

Dip the pumice stick into the turpentine, then scrub the buildup area with the stick. The pumice is much finer than abrasive soaps, which will help protect the toilet's finish. However, you shouldn't use it on chrome or painted finishes.

Pet Care

by Peter Edwards

Urinary obstructions can be fatal for cats unless caught and treated in time. The condition, called Feline Lower Urinary Tract Disease (FLUTD) can affect the cat's bladder as well as the urethra — the tube-like structure leading from the bladder to outside the body.

Symptoms of FLUTD include:

1. Prolonged squatting or straining either in or outside the litter box. This is not to be mistaken for constipation.
2. Frequent urination.
3. Pain while urinating. (The cat will howl or meow loudly.)
4. Blood in the urine.
5. Vomiting.
6. Depression, including loss of interest in grooming.

In some cases, the affected cat may develop crystals in the urine. These crystals can block the urethra in a male cat. He will produce urine within the body, but will be unable to eliminate it. (At one time, a cat with this condition was called a "blocked Tom.")

There are various causes for FLUTD. Bacterial or viral infections are said to be the most common. Trauma, tumors in the urinary tract, bladder stones and crystals in the urine may also trigger the onset of the symptoms. Other causes can include a lack of water, a diet high in minerals (especially magnesium), high acidity or alkalinity in the urine and stress. There is also evidence that congenital abnormality can lead to FLUTD.

If you suspect your cat may have FLUTD, contact your veterinarian immediately. Treatments are often successful if started early enough.

Northern GC Republican Women Meet

The Northern Garrett Republican Women's Club met on June 27 at the Hill Top Inn, Grantsville. Trish Yoder, executive director of the Mountaintop Mental Health Associates (core services agency, or CSA), was the guest speaker.

After being introduced by club president Carolyn Ganoe, Yoder explained the services offered by the CSA for those with mental challenges. She said the office can be reached by calling 301-334-1216 in Oakland, or 301-746-8123 in Grantsville. She also noted that the agency is currently seeking volunteers to serve as assistants.

The business meeting followed, with the minutes read and approved. Final plans were made for the joint southern and northern club picnic, to be held on July 20 in the Accident Community Park. (See separate story.)

Refreshments were served before adjournment. Members in attendance (in addition to the president) were Brenda Butscher, Sheila O'Neil, Joan Holliday, Zeola Robeson, Stella Edwards, Laura Turner, Lillian Crowe, Twila Mae Fike, Lois Rowe, Mildred Husselbaugh, Cora Bowser, Orpha Miller, Jean Friend, Connie Burdock, and Cleda Baker.

GC Republican Women To Host Joint Picnic

Members of the northern and southern Republican women's clubs will hold their annual joint covered dish picnic on July 20 at the Accident Community Park. The event will begin at 6:30 p.m. All area candidates are invited to attend.

Table service, coffee, and iced tea will be furnished by the northern club. A fruit basket, furnished by Brenda Butscher and Sheila O'Neil, will be raffled off as a fundraiser.

Open House Planned To Celebrate Lichty Couple's 40th Anniversary

An open house to celebrate the 40th wedding anniversary of Ralph and Mary Ellen Lichty will be held on Saturday, July 29, from 1 until 5 p.m., at the Pleasant Valley Community Center in Gortner. The event is being hosted by the couple's three children and their families. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Ralph and Mary Ellen were married on October 29, 1960, at the Eighth Street Mennonite Church in Goshen, Ind. They have lived in Garrett County for the past 40 years, and are members of the Gortner Mennonite Fellowship Church.

Mr. Lichty worked as a dairy farmer on the family farm, and Mrs. Lichty was employed as a registered nurse, working with Dr. Herbert Leighton and at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Both were active with the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad from its beginning in the early 1970s. Ralph continues to volunteer with the squad.

The Lichtys have given their assistance on a number of mission trips over the past years, traveling to Haiti and Honduras on several occasions. Having both recently retired, the two are now planning a three-month mission trip to Texas this winter with Service Opportunities for Older People (SOOP).

They are the parents of three children: Steve Lichty, Bruceton Mills, W.Va.; Rhonda Fox, Edgewater, Fla.; and Danelda Lichty, Goshen, Ind. Steve is married to Beckie and they have two children, Justin and Travis. Rhonda is married to Kevin Fox, and they also have two children, Danny and Bethany. The families will host the July 29 event, and ask that persons planning to stop in at the open house "RSVP" to Steve Lichty by July 21 (304-379-2047).

Miss Hauser To Wed Mr. Bishop

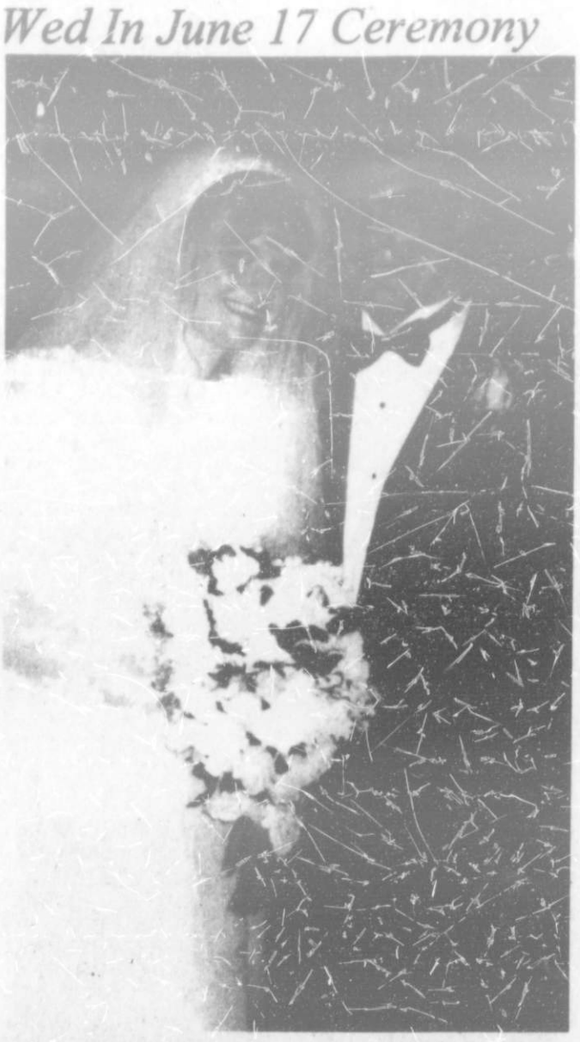

Mr. and Mrs. William Hauser of Aurora, W.Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, Beth Ann, to Chad Matthew Bishop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bishop, also of Aurora. The wedding date is set for Saturday, Oct. 7.

The bride-elect will graduate from West Virginia University (Morgantown) in August with a bachelor's degree in social work. She is currently employed by Visiting Homemaker Service of Morgantown.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from WVU this May with a bachelor's degree in physical education. He is currently employed by Waynesburg College (Pa.) and has summer employment with Stoney Hill Corporation of Aurora.

Miss DeLauder, Mr. Crosco Wed In June 17 Ceremony

Lori Beth DeLauder, Terra Alta, W.Va., and Howard Daniel Crosco, Oakland, were married on June 17, 2000. Lori, a former student of West Virginia University, will complete her degree in psychology at Shepherd College. Howard is a graduate of Potomac State College, with an associate's degree in accounting.

After their trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C., the couple will reside in Hagerstown.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Three couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to records at Garrett County Circuit Court.

Herbert Lee Kuhn, 70, and Shirley Louise Shipp, 64, both of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.

Marvin Stanley Rhodes Jr., 20, and Beverly Jo Ackerman, 18, both of Mtn. Lake Park.

Matthew Thomas Redinger, 27, and Josephine Victoria Coviello, 24, both of Mtn. Lake Park.

Ms. Markley To Wed Mr. Cutler In Fall Ceremony

Amy Lynn Markley and Joshua Allen Cutler, together with their families, announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Ellen R. Markley, Walterboro, S.C. and the late George R. Markley, Junior, W.Va. She is a 1993 graduate of Philip Barbour High School and is employed by the federal government.

Her fiancé is the son of Roger A. and Pamela J. Cutler, Grantsville. He is a 1993 graduate of Northern High School, and is also employed by the U.S. government.

The ceremony is being planned for Saturday, Sept. 9, at the Christ Lutheran Church, Grantsville, for invited guests.

In Who's Who For Second Year

Marcella Nikkol Moreland, daughter of Royce and Vonda Moreland, was selected for inclusion in Who's Who Among American High School Students for the 1999-2000 school year. This is the second year in a row she was chosen for this honor.

Marcella, who graduated from Southern High School this year, was on the distinguished all honor roll for earning all A's. A member of the Red House 4-H Club for 10 years, she held the offices of secretary, treasurer, and reporter and Jr. leader. She also received the Spirit Award for 4-H for two years.

Marcella has been a competitive gymnast and dancer for 14 years at Creations School of Dance and Gymnastics, where she competed along the East Coast, qualifying for the national title many times. She is presently employed as a truck driver for Hutzel Trucking, delivering for 84 Lumber.

In August Marcella will attend college to study physical therapy.

Who's Who honors only ½ of 1 percent of all high school students for two or more years.

FSU Allowing Students to Pay Tuition On Line

In an ongoing effort to make paying for college more convenient, Frostburg State University now allows students to pay their tuition by credit card on the Internet.

Currently the system requires payment in full, so it's of most use to students registering for summer school and intersession, a spokesperson said. Students who use deferred or monthly payment plans are not able to take advantage of the feature at this time, but FSU officials hope to move toward allowing those payments as well, according to FSU Bursar Tina Nightingale, who is in the university and student billing office.

"It saves a trip in here," Nightingale said. "It's especially beneficial to someone registering late." Payment is required with late registration.

To make the payments, admitted students should visit the registration site at www.admin.frostburg.edu, plug in their identification codes, and go through the registration process. Web registration has been available at FSU since the fall of 1999.

At the end of registration, the student is prompted for payment. This is where they are given the option of using a Visa or MasterCard to complete the transaction. Nightingale said the Discover Card, which is accepted in the FSU billing office, can't yet be used on the Web, but they hope to add that service soon.

FSU is one of the first institutions in the University System of Maryland to allow web payments. FSU was given the option of being a test site for the program, and since the University was interested in making payments more convenient, FSU officials agreed.

For more information about FSU, persons may contact the admissions office at 301-687-4201.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

I can't remember a morning in the almost 50 years I have lived on our family farm in Bittinger that it has been this hot and humid. I see the leaves on our maple tree flickering a bit, so it may be that we have a little breeze outside. But right now my living room feels like the air weight is about a hundred pounds per square inch. I'm glad I do not need to go anywhere or do much except write this column.

I want to get all the cousins that have market hogs to start exercising them, as it should build better muscle and more lean and trim hogs. I will ask them to start today, but maybe not until evening, after the thunderstorm we are sure to get. I guess we could use the rain, and it won't be so bad since we do not have any hay down.

Last week after getting about two thousand perfect hay bales in the barn, we had some unforcasted rain that turned one of our prime fields of down hay into a somewhat brownish mess. It could have been worse. After we got that one rain, there was some decent drying weather, so it is not molded or dusty. But it's not great tasting hay, nor is it loaded with feed value.

You can feed it if you need to, especially if you feed grain with it, or for a bored fat horse as it can eat as much as it wants without getting fatter. However, you can't feed moldy or dusty hay or even use it for bedding without serious respiratory consequences, especially to horses. So the hard work last weekend getting in that rained-on hay was not totally wasted. Now at 8:30 we are getting a nice shower of rain and I already feel better, now that the air is not pressing down on me like a ton of bricks.

Last week the home of Rodney and Marci Glotfelty was a bee-hive of activity, as Claire and Blakely's "Barbie Camp" was in session. Besides Claire and Blakely who did all of the planning, Caitlin and Natalie McLister served as counselors. They entertained a gang of under-10 little girls, including Meredith Sussman, Colleen McLister, Kelsey Morrison, Emma Bass, April Hockman, and Gracie Herpel. They had two days of games, crafts, treasure hunts, and even a final campfire. It was quite a job for Claire and Blakely, not to mention Marci, who provided full-time adult supervision and supplied food for the two days.

Again we were lucky enough to have Kelsey with us the rest of the week at the Sussman home. Since the Morrisons moved to Delaware, it is not the same around here without Kelsey (my little brown-eyed girl). She has always been like a member of our family.

While she was here last week, I got to brush her thick brown hair, and showered her with little presents I bought at yard sales, like a cool new pair of sunglasses, jewelry, and other things. She especially loves jewelry. I made a hand-painted egg just for her, and hugged her as much as I could, as little girls are always in motion.

On Sunday morning she packed her bags and went to meet her ride that would take her home to Kyle and Valeria. I couldn't help but cry when she had to leave. Mere and she are still best friends forever.

Claire's BFF spent the night after a trip to the movie on Saturday evening. Pappy Dale was down and informed Claire and Angie Kamp that they were distant cousins as her father (Ed Kamp is his second cousin). So I guess that means that Claire and Angie are fourth cousins (???). I still am a little confused about how to figure the degree of cousins. I know that if your parents are first cousins, then their children are second cousins.

My aunt and uncle, Ralph and Betty Hummel of Olympia, Wash., are on their way to Greece. Unfortunately, I hear that Europe is experiencing a major heat wave. In fact, the other day it was over 100 degrees. Even so, I am pretty jealous of their trip, as I have always wanted to go to Greece.

Eileen Schlosnagle of Accident has gone to her thirtieth high school class reunion near London. She plans to visit her best friend and brother, but unfortunately she can't make the trip to the coast of Ireland where her mother lives. We got a post card of the London Bridge from Eileen.

I am glad to say after two weeks of camp, Claire and Meredith are home with me and their pets: dogs, cats, a giunea pig, and bunny. They missed them so much. Right now Meredith is busy cleaning out her guinea pig's cage. Claire has taken her bunny for a romp in the yard. Boo and Emily (our dogs) were as sad without their girls almost as much as their dad and I. But Caitlin went today to the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Art Camp at Fantasy Valley. It is just a day camp, so at least she will be home this evening. Then, tomorrow, back to camp once again.

That morning shower cooled things down a lot. So much so that I had to crawl under two quilts for a short nap.

Saturday, our big hay-making day, was extra pleasant because it coincided with Bittinger's favorite chicken barbecue dinners, and we were able to feed the hay crew. The next time for the dinners will be on the third Saturday at the Bittinger picnic, which is now held at the fire hall instead of at Brenneman's Grove. (I believe a few weeks ago I had written in this column that they would serve the chicken dinner on the 4th of July, which was wrong. I hope no one counted on them and I did not mess up any July 4th plans. If so, I am truly sorry. I don't know where I got that idea.)

On Sunday afternoon, we got a visit from our dear newlywed couple, Nathan and Jennifer Greathouse. Today, June 10th, is their first anniversary and they told us they hope to take a second honeymoon to Cape Cod and maybe, if they are lucky, even to start a family.

Also Sunday afternoon we got a visit from Steve Schlosnagle, who is at loose ends while Eileen vacations in merry old England. Actually, Steve was on an official mission as the administrator of the arts council. He picked up a few of my art pieces for the recently opened art gallery in downtown Oakland. One of the works was a fairly large picture of my favorite garden flowers, cosmos. Just this morning for the first time I noticed a nice good sized cosmo plant in my garden with many buds.

Besides the cosmos picture, Steve took to the gallery a painting I call "Summer." I am often asked how long it takes to do a picture, and I often answer, "my whole life." That is at least partly true. I did not work on that picture in the winter. But every summer that I spent on our farm, I stored up thousand bits of visual images in my brain. It is good to have a camera handy, but most of the time I do not. So I just store up those memories in my mind as to how the grass looks on the rolling hills, the color of midsummer in the woods, thousands of individual cloud shapes and their colors.

While Steve and I chatted on our porch, I noticed that Sunday afternoon looked just like a painting I did awhile ago, especially the surprising amount of pink in both the grass and trees. That is why you can't always calculate a picture's value by how many hours it took to actually paint it, and also why art is a full time job, and why we deserve to be paid that way. Once an artist has a huge number of visual images in his or her brain, then they all must be scanned to find the appropiate ones to use in whatever is to be painted. Then the artist must duplicate it on canvas or paper.

It is extremely complex, the color, shape of color of any light or shadow, and duplicating a color. It is rare to have a tube of the right color. You sometimes mix many colors just to get one. That takes a lot of knowledge about color theory. Everyone knows that red plus yellow will make orange, but it is much tougher to get the reddish orange that is so prevalent in our sunsets around here. You need to add some blue or purple to get it.

Since last month we have had some great sunsets in Bittinger. Just a few days ago I saw an excellent reflection in Beachy's pond. It is good if you can rush home and get it down right away, but most of time time that is impossible or impractical. Besides you never know when it will come in handy for some future painting that needs a special detail or even background. I doubt any computer could store enough images and then combine and mix the colors to produce anything similar to one of my landscapes, especially to express a particular emotion.

For example, last week I felt very emotional and in a turmoil. I painted a brew of the glades on Mosser Road at sunset time just prior to a thunderstorm. The bright color of the sunset expressed strong emotions, as did the land broken by the jagged shape of the water. A dark smear of far off woods on the horizon, leafless trees and shrubs, and grass of pale yellow gold with shades of dark greens pretty much says how I felt then. It is a pretty picture, even though I do not feel very pretty.

Only one time did I see a hot air balloon over our farm, and one time I saw the Goodyear Blimp just above our woods. I was busy cooking dinner on Friday evening when Claire saw a balloon and came running for me to come see it. I was too busy and since I had seen one before I had a pretty good image of what it looked like. I painted a big picture of an August field of old grass under a clear bright blue sky with a few wisps of cirrus clouds. A big yellow sun was in it and a bright striped balloon just clearing a row of trees and heading towards a big white barn.

The Rodney Glotfelty family attended the Pittsburgh Pirates game on Sunday afternoon. Unfortunately the Pirates lost to the Twins in a close game. Marci said it was a beautiful day to see baseball.

Mrs. Freda Dennison, formerly of Oakland and now spending the winters in Florida, recently visited Loretta Opel and some of the Bittinger homemaker ladies. Visiting with Mrs. Dennison and her daughter, Barbara Steyer, were Kathryn Bowser, Ethel Buckel, Ferne Beachy, and Ruth DiPaolo. Virginia Hesson from Florida has been spending the last two weeks with Loretta Opel. Ruth DiPaolo was one of the visitors at the Opel home visiting with Ginny and playing some good hands of cards.

Approximately 120 persons were present at the Fourth of July get-together of the late Ed and Bess Buckel family at Harvey's Peninsula, Deep Creek Lake. Of the original 11 children, three sons and five daughters are living, ranging in age from 65 to 86. Max Buckel was in charge of the ceremonies.

Fifty people were in attendance at the 10th anniversary reunion of the Beachy/Bowser families at the Bittinger fire hall on Sunday, July 9. Relatives came from California, Florida, Ohio, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. Plans were made to meet at the same time and place next year.

Kendra and John Wells, Ashley, and Kelsey, spent Saturday night with Sam and Cindy Stanton.

Ferne Beachy and Cindy Stanton visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Green and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Orendorf, Lavale, on Friday.

Ruth Beachy of Heston, Pa., spent Sunday night with Ferne Beachy and the Stantons. Billy Bogus of Laurel spent several days last week with Torey Poholsky.

Barbara and Arnold Feather were Sunday evening visitors of Ralph and Ethel Buckel.

The annual Buckle/Buckel reunion will be held on Sunday, July 16, at the Bittinger fire hall, beginning around noon. All family and friends are invited to the covered dish dinner. Dot Teets recently hosted a meeting of representatives from the different families at her home to discuss plans for the reunion.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN HOST PATIO PARTY — A number of special guests joined members of the Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club at the home of Joanne Glotfelty for the organization's patio party. The annual event serves to recognize GOP state and local elected officials, and to introduce and support party candidates for upcoming elections. The party's theme was "Red, White, and Blue," and club president Nita Roberts led the Pledge of Allegiance, Rev. William Skipper delivered the blessing, and Dr. William Savage provided entertainment with his tall tales. Judy Wilt won the raffle prize, a gourmet basket, and state delegate George Edwards and his wife were presented with a gift basket and a cake to mark their 33rd wedding anniversary. Shown from the left are Dr. Herbert Leighton, Dr. Savage, U.S. senate candidate Ken Wayman of Carroll County, Ellen Bartlett, Garrett County commissioner Fred Holliday, Del. Edwards, and state senator John Hafer. Not pictured are a number of additional guests, including U.S. congressman Roscoe Bartlett, Garrett County Orphans' Court judge George Zimmerman, Garrett County Circuit Court clerk Dave Martin, and former state delegate DeCorsey Bolden. Paul Rappaport, a candidate for the U.S. senate, was slated to attend the picnic but unfavorable weather conditions precluded his flight.

Library Group In Grantsville Slates Bingo Fund-Raiser

The reNEW Grantsville's library committee will hold a bingo fund-raiser at the Grantsville American Legion on Sunday, July 30. The doors will open at 12:30 p.m. and games will begin at 1 p.m.

There will be "specials" throughout the day, and donated items will be raffled during the games. Food and beverages will be available, with all proceeds going to the new library fund.

The cost for this event is $20 for 6 cards, which are available from any committee member, the Grantsville and Oakland library branches, and Beachy's Pharmacy.

Bingo chairman Fred Holliday is available to answer questions about the event at 301-895-5454.

Big Valley Men's Chorus To Sing

The Big Valley Men's Chorus, which blends nearly 30 voices, will travel to Garrett County from Bellville, Ohio, to present an evening of music. The group may be heard in concert at Meadow Mountain Mennonite Church on Sunday, July 23. at 7 p.m.

The church is located along Bittinger Road in Swanton. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Search Begins For New Garrett County Farm Queen

The Garrett County Farm Bureau has begun its search for a new Garrett County Farm Queen, who will serve locally from August 2000 to August 2001 and represent the county in the state contest.

Applications can be obtained by calling Debbie Barnard at 301-334-4170 or Becky DeBerry-Tasker at 301-533-0878. The applications are due back by July 21.

The contest is open to single girls at least 16 years of age, but not 20 years of age by the date of the state contest. The contestant and/or her family should be engaged in the production of agricultural commodities or she should have an understanding of the agricultural industry. Final determination of eligibility shall be decided by the county Farm Bureau.

On the application, the contestant is asked to discuss a variety of subjects including her responsibilities on the farm, school status, ag activities, community involvement, hobbies and special interests, and future plans.

The Garrett Farm Bureau Women's Committee will be holding an orientation dinner for the contestants on July 26 at 7 p.m. at the Point View Restaurant. Interested Farm Bureau women may call Fannie Mae Kolb at 301-746-8484.

Farming In Maryland.....

Harvest Continues Across Maryland

Crop harvesting continues across the state. Ray Garibay, state statistician for the Maryland Ag Statistics Service, reported that cucumbers are 40% harvested, 4 points higher than last year and 11 points above the five-year average. Potatoes are 47% harvested, 18 points above last year and 17 points above the five-year average. Small grain harvest is coming to an end throughout the state. Winter wheat and rye are both 80% harvested, a point below last year but 18 points above the five- year average.

Topsoil moisture is 3% very short, 14% short, 80% adequate, and 3% surplus. Subsoil moisture is 1% very short, 14% short, 84% adequate, and 1% surplus. Precipitation for the past week ranged from 0.7 inch in Queen Anne's County to 0.2 inch in Worcester County.

Crop progress for the week which ended July 9, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows.

Small grain development: rye, harvested 80, 61, 81, 62; winter wheat, harvested 80, 40, 81, 62.

Planting progress: soybeans 88, 76, 89, 86.

Crop harvesting: cantaloupe 12, --, 14, 8; cucumbers 40, 35, 36, 29; lima beans 15, 5, 5, 2; peaches 9, --, 17, 7; potatoes 47, 20, 29, 30; snapbeans 25, 20, 29, 23; sweet corn 11, --, 21, 10; tomatoes 6, --, 21, 6; watermelons 7, --, 7, 4.

Crop progress: field corn silked 23, --, 29, 17; sorghum headed 8, --, 0, 1; soybeans bloomed 8, --, 6, 4; soybeans emerged 85, --, 79, 34.

Hay harvested: Other hay, 2nd cutting 41, 35, 52, 32; other hay 3rd cutting 5, --, 27, 13; alfalfa, 2nd cutting 65, 42, 83, 65; alfalfa, 3rd cutting 15, --, 11, 7.

Crop conditions for the week which ended July 9, listing the crop and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, are: corn 2, 2, 7, 48, 41; range and pasture 1, 2, 13, 63, 21; sorghum 1, 2, 2, 85, 10; soybeans 1, 2, 11, 65, 21.

Farmers and ranchers are independent business people who use modern production techniques to increase the quality and quantity of the food they produce.

MDA Low Interest Loans Slated For Farm Conservation

As Maryland farmers prepare to carry out a variety of measures to manage nutrients on their fields, the Maryland Department of Agriculture has unveiled a low interest loan program to assist with the cost of implementing the mandated conservation practices. Although the Low Interest Loans for Agricultural Conservation Program has been in existence for nearly two years, not a large number of farmers, nor lending institutions, have taken advantage of the loans.

"We are promoting this program at this time because we know Maryland farmers are now more aware of the actions they need to take under the nutrient management regulations to better control nonpoint sources of pollution," said Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Resource Conservation Royden Powell. "We believe this program benefits the farmers, who can realize significant savings in interest payments."

Funding for the Low interest Loans for Agricultural Conservation Program is provided under the State Revolving Fund for implementing certain Best Management Practices (BMPs) on agricultural land. Eligible BMPs include animal waste management facilities, structural erosion control, creation and enhancement of wetlands, riparian forest buffers, and certain types of equipment necessary for nutrient management purposes. Loans typically are offered at 3 to 4 percent below market rate through local lending institutions.

Working with his or her local Soil Conservation District office, the farmer develops BMPs that meet technical standards under the soil conservation and water quality plan. Upon certification by the Soil Conservation District and approval by the MDA, the certificate is returned to the farmer, who presents it when applying for a loan from a local participating bank. Loans are made under existing bank loan approval criteria with the funds coming from the state. As loan repayments are made, the funds are recycled back into the program.

"Since the program was inaugurated in 1999, we have made an effort to better educate the banking community about the process in order to gain their participation," Powell said "Fortunately, we now have a well-managed, low-interest, revolving loan program available at a time when it is critically needed by farmers in our state."

A series of informational sessions will be conducted at various locations this summer to increase awareness of the loan program. The following meetings, both slated to run from 8 to 9:30 a.m., are the westernmost sessions scheduled at this point: Thursday, July 27, at the Park N'Dine restaurant, Hancock (Washington County); and Tuesday, Aug. 1, at the Mountain Gate restaurant, Thurmont (Frederick County). Individuals interested in attending a session can contact Bonita Brown at MDA at 410-841-5896 or 1-800-492-5590. For detailed information about the program and a list of participating local banks, farmers may contact the MDA's Conservation Grants Program at either of those telephone numbers as well.

Summer Fly Control on Cattle

With summer conditions comes the worry and loss associated with fly infestations of cattle. Economic losses occur because of the worry of the flies, because they suck blood from the animals and because they spread cattle diseases such as pinkeye. Effective control measures will allow increases in profitability in beef cattle operations.

The first major type of fly that affects cattle is the horn fly, so named because it does rest on the horns of cattle. With modern polled cattle the flies tend to rest on the withers, back and sides but the flies also spend time on the undersides of cattle where most of the biting occurs.

Losses associated with horn fly infestations have been studied extensively. The crucial level of flies for losses to begin to occur is 200-250. If either young animals or cows have this many flies or more, then treatment will result in increased weight gains. Studies done at Texas A&M University have documented average increases in weaned calf weights of 20-27 pounds when effective control of horn flies is implemented.

The second major type of fly that affects cattle is the face fly. This fly is larger and more robust than the horn fly and spends only periodic feeding times on the cattle during the day. As the name implies, these flies prefer to be on the face and consume the secretion from the eyes and nostrils. They are particularly important because they transmit the pinkeye organism from one animal to another and because they damage the cornea of the eye during feeding and thus allow a port of entry for the pinkeye-causing organism.

A number of methods and products are available for the control of cattle flies. More emphasis has been placed on horn fly control, perhaps because their study is easier and because they are generally easier to control. The typical products that are currently approved for control and available fit into three major categories: organophosphates (OPs), pyrethroids and endectocides.

When making decisions about fly control it is important to realize that there are many effective programs. Producers should develop a program for their operations which is cost effective and most convenient. Some of the factors to consider when developing a fly control program for a herd include:

- Young cattle should receive more attention than older cattle because they are growing and a decrease in gain effects income.
- Young cattle are much more susceptible to pinkeye.
- Fly tags are convenient but have some drawbacks. Full control, especially for face flies is generally not effective.
- Horn flies developed resistance to the original pyrethroid eartags. Newer pyrethroids and OPs have been slower to have resistance develop. Combination pyrethroid and OP products are good against resistant flies.
- The use of two fly tags (one in each ear) extends control by only 10-14 days in most areas.
- Dustbags, oilers, face mops and other "self medicators" can be very effecive because they provide long-term high concentrations of insecticides on cattle. Locations for "self medicators" must be carefully chosen so that cattle will get frequent contact.

Cucumber Beetles

The cucumber beetle is out in full force this season. The beetle can transmit bacterial wilt, which is a fatal disease of cucumbers. The beetle is yellow with black strips and rather small. If you touch the plant the beetle will fly. Control of the beetle can be obtained by applying Sevin insecticide.

Youth & Leaders Excel At 4-H Annual Achievement Program

The Garrett County 4-H Program recently held its annual Recognition Program and Reception at Southern High School. During the evening, 207 youth were recognized for their project completion during the 1999 year. In addition, volunteers were recognized for years of service, and several community awards were presented.

Sarah Pysell and Lacie Berkebile both served as master of ceremonies for the event, and Susan Mayfield, 1999 Garrett County Farm Queen, introduced the guests.

Awards presented included: Maryland 4-H Key Club Award to Susan Mayfield, Trailblazers 4-H Club; April Enlow, North Star 4-H Club, and Autumn Rizer, Grantsville 4-H Club.

The Fair Club Award (sponsored by West Virginia Farm Credit ACA) is presented to the 4-H club with the highest percentage of participation in activities at the Garrett County Fair. This year there was a tie between Trailblazers 4-H Club and Red House 4-H Club.

The Baity Ridder Memorial Award, sponsored by the Oakland Rotary Club, was presented to the outstanding youth exhibitor at the 1999 Garrett County Fair, Allison Malone, Finzel 4-H Club.

The 4-H Alumni Awards (pins) were presented to Janet (Knepp) Cosner, Trailblazers 4-H Club; Terri (Georg) Rodeheaver, Oak Hill 4-H Club; Karen (Wilhelm) Smith, Grantsville 4-H Club; Valerie Wilson, Finzel 4-H Club; Natalie Tenaglio, Finzel 4-H Club; Glenn Jordan, Finzel 4-H Club; and Alice E. Hevner, retired Extension educator, 4-H Youth Development, nominated by the Country Kids 4-H Club.

Friends of 4-H Awards were presented to St. Paul's Lutheran Church by the Oak Hill 4-H Club; St. John's Lutheran Church, by the Cove Kids 4-H Club; Jeff Sebold, by the Grantsville 4-H Club; Rush Excavating by the Trailblazers 4-H Club; and Marcia Knepp and Susan Parsons, administrative assistants at the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Office, nominated by Country Kids 4-H Club and Garrett County 4-H Council.

The Dayton R. Broadwater Beef Citizenship Award recipient was Bridget Miller, Shepherds 4H Club.

The Dr Scott Glotfelty Humanitarian Award, sponsored by Ruth DiPaolo and the Glotfelty family, was presented to April Enlow, North Star 4-H Club.

The 4-H Club Families of the Year Awards were presented by the Darvin & Louise Pysell family, 1999 State 4-H Family of the Year to the Joe & Anna Colmer family, Grantsville 4-H Club, and the Ray & Sue Steyer family, Ryan's Glade 4-H Club.

Garrett Co. Chapter of 4-H All Stars Award was presented for the Best First Year Record Book to Sarah Hanlin, North Glade 4-H Club; and for the Best Overall Record Book to Bobby Schmidt, North Glade 4-H Club.

The 4-H Spirit Awards (Pins) were presented to Marcella Moreland, Red House 4-H Club, and Doug Weimer, Grantsville 4-H Club.

Citizenship Pins were presented to Elizabeth Long, Cove Kids 4-H Club, Rachel Schmidt, Cove Kids 4-H Club, Michael Guard, Snowy Creek 4-H Club, and Mitchell Guard, Snowy Creek 4-H Club.

"I Dare You" books were awarded Bridget Miller, Shepherds 4-H Club, and Luke Keller, Ryan's Glade 4-H Club.

Agriculture Awards were given to Melissa Bolyard, North Star 4-H Club; David Smearman, Snowy Creek 4-H Club; Robert Barnard, Country Kids 4-H Club; and Sara Green, Grantsville 4-H Club.

Achievement Awards were given to April Enlow, North Star 4-H Club; George Beckman, Trailblazers 4-H Club; Becky Williams DeBerry, North Glade 4-H Club; and Susan Mayfield, Trailblazers 4-H Club.

The 4-H Graduates recognized were George Beckman, Trailblazers 4-H Club; Jason Beitzel, Bittinger 4-H Club; Derrick Bender, Buttercreamers 4-H Club; Melissa Bolyard, North Star 4-H Club; Brooke Brennemam, Bittinger 4-H Club, David Butler, North Star 4-H Club; April Enlow, North Star 4-H Club; Jennifer Friend, Shepherds 4-H Club; Jody Friend, North Glade 4-H Club; Christy Hoalcraft, Saddle Tramps 4-H Club; Luke Keller, Ryan's Glade 4-H Club; Chad Lytle, Mason-Dixon 4-H Club; Brent Maust, Buttercreamers 4-H Club; Bridget Miller, Shepherds 4-H Club; Bobby Schmidt, North Glade 4-H Club; Bruce "Alan" Warsaw, Ryan's Glade 4-H Club; and Douglas Weimer, Grantsville 4-H Club.

The Outstanding 4H Club Plaque was presented to the Bittinger 4H Club.

Kozier Releases Farm Service Agency News

Mike Kozier, district director of the Garrett/Allegany Farm Service Agency, reminds farmers to report their spring seeded crops no later than Mon., July 17. He said that up until that date there is not a fee associated with reporting. After that date there is a fee of $20 per tract plus additional fees, depending upon the number of acres reported.

Reporting is voluntary, but Kozier said: " Remember, if you want to receive a commodity loan, LDP, or be eligible for disaster programs, an acreage report must be on file. If you visit the office after July 17 and want to receive a loan and an acreage report is not on file, then we will have to charge you to file the acreage report."

Kozier reported that for the 2000 crop year only, a program crop does not have to be produced on an AMTA farm (7-year program). There are several farms that produce program crops (corn, barley, oats, and wheat) and have been ineligible in the past to receive an LDP payment because that crop was grown on a farm not in the 7-year program.

"If you fall into this category," Kozier said, "we recommend that you make sure that you have an acreage report on file and make sure all the necessary paperwork is on file before you lose beneficial interest."

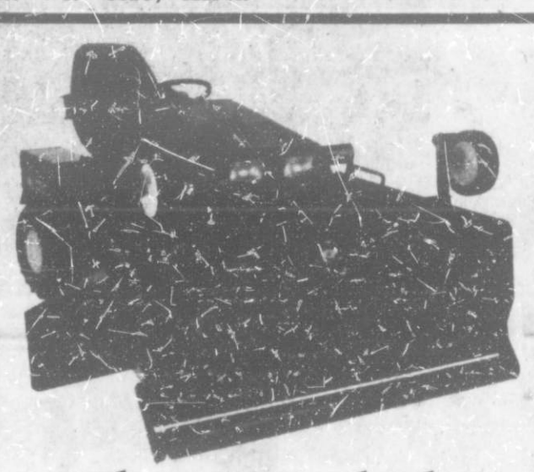

Production Flexibility Crop participants have until Tues., Aug. 1, to sign their contracts for the 2000 crop year. After that date, no payments can be issued on those contracts without proper signatures, Kozier said.

"There has been talk that there will be a supplemental PFC payment again this year," he said. "So it is important that these contracts are signed timely.

"Failure to update your contract will result in forfeiture of your 2000 payment," Kozier warned. "For faster service, please contact the county office ahead of time so that we may get the necessary paperwork ready.

"If you have already received a payment, then a contract is signed. If you have not received a payment, please call the county office."

Further information may be obtained from the Allegany County FSA office at 301-777-1536 or the Garrett County FSA office at 301-334-6954.

Cleaning a deck has never been easier.

Cleaning the underside of a mower deck used to be difficult and time consuming, until now. Introducing three Steiner side discharge mower decks with new and improved features that provide safe, easy access to the cutting blades - while the deck remains attached to the tractor.

In seconds, convenient handles enable you to raise the deck to a 90+ degree angle. For your safety, the deck latches securely in the upright position. The unique Steiner design makes it impossible to drive the blades with the deck positioned for service. And, lowering the deck to resume operation is just as easy and safe.

While adding convenience and safety, these mower decks also provide the features you expect from Steiner, including fast attachment via Quick-Hitch™, excellent flotation and rugged, durable construction that leads to years of service. For a mower that's as impressive as the tractor that powers it, visit us today.

Haydel Noted By USAA; Earns Honors For Art

Emily Haydel, a senior at Northern High School, has been recognized by the United States Achievement Academy for her achievements in art. Fewer than 10 percent of all high school students are so noted, and the recognition has earned Haydel a spot in the USAA's official national yearbook. She was nominated for the academy by NHS art teacher Teresa Roberts.

Haydel's artistic skills have been recognized by other organizations, as her pastel drawing titled "Serenity" was recently awarded third place in a judging sponsored by the Civic Club of Oakland and was also exhibited in Baltimore.

Haydel also presented her portfolio at Catonsville Community College recently, where she had been invited to interview for a Talent in the Arts state scholarship.

Haydel is the daughter of Susan and Walter Haydel of McHenry.

Mountain Lake Park Observer

by Dan Whittelsey

Election day has come and gone. We have 1,134 registered voters. Only 119 voted. Not very good, Mountain Lake Park. That is only 10% of registered voters. I am not sure what the population is of Mountain Lake Park, but I imagine it is over 2,000, so the percentage turn out is even worse — say about 5%.

The winners: David J. Gangler, 93 votes; Fred Callis, 84; and Louis DiCarlo, 78. Not elected was, Jack Michaels, who received 72 votes.

There were 116 voters and 3 absentee ballots for a total of 119.

This is a terribly poor turn-out. In fact, this is a vote of no confidence, which may be understandable from the point of view that this is an election that did not include the mayor. But still, the town council, under the guidance of Mayor Shockey, has done a very good job this year. Aside from the many problems that require solutions every day, the council passed a Dangerous Building Ordinance. The results of enforcement of this ordinance can be seen around town. And all of this for a mere pittance in pay for time and labor spent by the council members and the mayor, plus a very weak voter turn-out.

Recently general meetings have been well attended, both by those residents supporting the council and those seeking remedies to their problems. I hope the latter were among the 119 voters.

On the 25th of July, the books will be open and residents may register to vote in subsequent elections. It is very obvious that the town council should start a drive at the appropriate time to get voters registered. This would call for phone banks, area block captains, advertisements, and mailers. We cannot certainly expect good government nor can the mayor or town council point to a successful administration with the limpid turn-out we have just seen. Such an effort would be successful and could be used for a voter turn-out for the general elections.

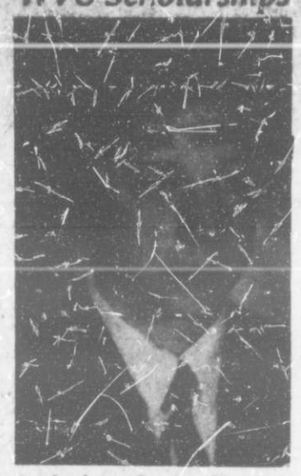

In a previous column I reported that a certain person was critical of the way Harold Murphy did his job. I received a nice letter from one of our residents of 30 years who took exception. She noted that she had always received good service and felt that snow removal service both in Oakland and Mountain Lake Park was the best received anywhere in USA. I agree with that.

A project listing historical homes in the historical area of Mountain Lake Park is being prepared. If you have such a home, please call 301-334-4314 with details of when built, first owner's name, and any short interesting story you may have about the house. (Ghosts?)

Very recently Mayor Shockey agreed that the zoning regulations should be updated and improved. Prior to this, the mayor advertised for an enforcer. There is no point in upgrading the regulations if you do not have the means of identifying and enforcing them. We look forward to some firm steps in this direction. Good zoning regulations, a good enforcer, and a tough zoning appeals board can assure that Mountain Lake Park develops and grows in a manner its residents wish.

There is nothing new in regard to Broadford Park becoming a public camp site. A grant was not given. However, Oakland could still proceed without the grant.

Awarded WOW, WVU Scholarships

Andrew James Zimmerman, son of the late James and Donna (Kelly) Zimmerman, has been awarded the Spencer W. Graham Scholarship by the Woodmen of the World life insurance society, and the Blue and Gold Scholarship as well as an academic grant from West Virginia University, Morgantown. The WOW scholarship provides $500, while the WVU awards amount to $5,000 and $1,000, respectively.

Zimmerman, who intends to major in mechanical engineering at WVU, graduated from Southern High School recently, where he was noted with several awards. He received a performance award and a special recognition award for service and on-task enthusiasm in the machine tool program from teacher Delbert Liller. He also was presented with a special certificate for meritorious service for having donated over 100 hours of volunteer service to the community.

Zimmerman's grandparents are David and Beatrice Kelly of Terra Alta, W.Va., and George and Ellen Zimmerman, Crellin, with whom he resides.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park from Friday, July 14, through Saturday, July 22. Further information is available from the park's Discovery Center, which may be reached at 301-387-7067. In the event of inclement weather, the programs will be held in the Discovery Center.

Natural history pontoon boat tours will be offered daily at 1 and 4 p.m., lasting for a duration of 90 minutes each. The fee is $8 for adults and $5 for children under 5, and reservations may be made by calling the Discovery Center.

Tomorrow's slate gets under way with trail horse rides, set for 11 a.m. and 1, 2, 4, and 5 p.m. The nature film Eyewitness Mammals will be shown at 2 p.m., and a children's program titled "Meet a Tree" is slated for 3 p.m. An 8:30 p.m. campfire program titled "Mushrooms—Poisonous or Edible?" is planned.

Saturday's activities begin with a songbird hike at 10 a.m., and at 2 p.m. the nature film Bears of the Lower 48 will be presented. A children's sensory hike is set for 3 p.m., and a campfire Scales and Tales program featuring live animals will be presented at 8:30 p.m.

Sunday's slate begins with a 10 a.m. edible and medicinal plant hike. Out of the Egg, a nature film, will be shown at 2 p.m., and an "In Search of Animal Homes" hike for children is offered at 3 p.m. A "Twilight Lakeshore" hike is set for 6:30 p.m., and a church service will take place at 7 p.m.

A 10 a.m. songbird hike leads off Monday's activities. The nature film History of Deep Creek Lake will be shown at 2 p.m., and a children's bug hunt is set for 3 p.m. A "Paddle into Nature" canoe trip gets under way at 6 p.m.

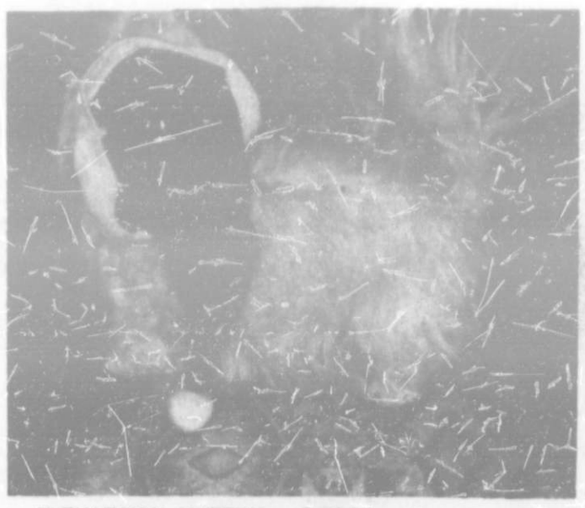

Tuesday kicks off with a curiosity hike at 10 a.m. The nature film Buildin' the Rails will be viewed at 2 p.m. A children's scavenger hunt is set for 3 p.m., and a campfire program titled "Maryland's State Parks" will be presented at 8:30 p.m.

Wednesday's activities include a 10 a.m. hike to the Brant Mine, a nature film titled Eyewitness Reptiles, set for 2 p.m., and a "Fun Fact" hike for children that will begin at 3 p.m. Horse-drawn hayrides will be offered at 5, 6, and 7 p.m., and "Fur, Feet, Feathers and Beaks!," a campfire program, draws the evening to a close at 8:30 p.m.

Thursday gets under way with a "Discover Nature" hike at 10 a.m. Eyewitness Insects, a nature film, will be shown at 2 p.m. At 3 p.m. the children's nature craft activity "Caterpillar Creation" will take place, and a "Paddle Into Nature" canoe trip is slated for 6:30 p.m.

The activities of Friday, July 21, include trail horse rides that are set for 11 a.m. and 1, 2, 4, and 5 p.m. Eyewitness Amphibians, a nature film, will be shown at 2 p.m., and a "Forest Investigator" children's program is slated for 3 p.m. A campfire program titled "Kids Night Out with Nature" will be presented at 7:30 p.m.

The event slate of Saturday, July 22, includes a 10 a.m. hike to the Brant Mine, a nature film titled Bears of the Lower 48, which will be shown at 2 p.m., and a children's bug hunt scheduled for 3 p.m. That evening's campfire program, "Living with Black Bears," gets under way at 8:30 p.m.

IS THAT YOU, MUFFIN? — Faithful readers of page 4 of The Republican may have been wondering "Who is Muffin Miller, the letter-writing booster of this Saturday's Christmas in July Humane Society benefit, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds?" An intrepid photographer snapped this shot of the mystery Muffin hiding behind her Santa's hat, and learned that barring any "faux-paws" the elusive dog will be on hand for the fund-raising event. All dogs are welcome to bring their human companions to share the fun, but must be prepared to clean up after them.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY KNOWN AS
CONDOMINIUM UNIT NO. 670
IN THE WISP CONDOMINIUM,
McHENRY, MARYLAND 21541

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Purchase Money Mortgage dated December 22, 1989, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, ("Land Records"), in Liber 541, folio 678 granted by Hong Y. Chung and Kea S. Chung, husband and wife, to First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, said Purchase Money Mortgage having been assigned to Michael Scott Cohen for purposes of foreclosure by an Assignment of Mortgage, duly executed and recorded among the Land Records, with all the powers granted to the Mortgagee originally named therein, including power of sale upon default, and default having occurred in the terms and conditions thereof, the said Assignee will offer for sale at public auction on the first floor of the

Circuit Court for Garrett County
at 203 South Fourth Street, Oakland, Maryland, on Tuesday, July 18, 2000, at 1:30 p.m.

The property described in the aforesaid Purchase Money Mortgage, being all that real property, together with the improvements thereon and the appurtenances thereto, known as Condominium Unit No. 670 in The Wisp Condominium, McHenry, Maryland 21541.

Terms of Sale: A cash deposit or certified check of $5,000.00 shall be paid at the time and place of sale, balance in cash at settlement which shall be twenty days (20) after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, time being of the essence, with interest on said balance at the rate of 10% per annum from the date of sale to the date of settlement. Failure of the purchaser to settle as set forth herein will result in resale of the property at the purchaser's risk and expense and/or forfeiture of the deposit at the election of the Assignee, who reserves all legal and equitable remedies available to him. Taxes, water rent, and all other municipal liens and charges to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis shall be adjusted to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, document preparation and title insurance shall be borne by purchaser.

The property and the improvements thereon are being sold in an "as is" condition and subject to prior conveyances, restrictions, liens and agreements of record affecting the same, if any. Neither the Assignee, the Mortgagee, nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any warranty or representation, either express or implied, with respect to the property including, but not limited to, description, use, recorded or unrecorded leases or other occupancy agreements, if any, improvements, physical conditions, zoning, building codes compliance, merchantability, or title. The purchaser is responsible for and the property and the improvements described above are sold subject to any environmental matter or condition, whether latent or observable, that may exist at or affect or relate to the property and the improvements and to any governmental requirements affecting the same.

The Assignee reserves the unqualified right to reject any and all offers.

NOTICE TO
ALLEGHENY POWER CUSTOMERS

Allegheny Power has contracted to maintain portions of its rights-of-way with an aerial saw consisting of fifteen 24-inch rotary blades powered by a motor and suspended on a vertical boom beneath a helicopter. This maintenance method allows for the quick, safe, and efficient trimming of trees along our transmission lines. The aerial saw will be operating for approximately three weeks from late July to early August in the following counties in Maryland.

Garrett County
(Pruntytown – Mt Storm, 500 kV Line)

Portions of a transmission line starting at the Maryland State Line south of Redhouse, Md., west of St. Rt. 219, and heading in a southeasterly direction. The line runs parallel with Cash Valley Road and crosses St. Rt. 219 south of Redhouse. The line then continues southeasterly crossing "The Little Mountain," "Backbone Mountain," Table Rock Road, Wilson Corona Road, and finally the North Branch of the Potomac River into Grant County, West Virginia.

Garrett County
(Albright – Mt Zion – Beryl, 138 kV Line)

Portions of transmission line starting at Maryland State Line west of Herrington Manor State Park and heading east, crossing Sanders Lane, passing through the southern end of the State Park property. The line continues easterly, crossing Herrington Manor Road and passing through the center of Mt. Nebo Wildlife Management Area. The line then continues east, crossing St. Rt. 219, Kings Run Road, Sand Flat Road, Pysell Crosscut Road, Turkeyneck Road, and St. Rt. 495 north of St. Rt. 135. The line then heads over Backbone Mountain, crossing St. Rt. 135 near the junction of St. Rt. 38, and enters a substation on Mt Zion Road. After leaving the Mt Zion Road Substation, the line heads east to the Potomac River, crossing below Jennings Randolph Lake Dam.

Garrett County
(Albright – Oak Park – Elk Garden, 138 kV Line)

Portions of transmission line starting at Maryland State Line west of Herrington Manor State Park and heading east across Sanders Lane, passing through southern end of the State Park property. The line continues easterly crossing Herrington Manor Road, then bears southeasterly crossing Oakland Sang Run Road, Hooppole Ridge, St. Rt. 219, Broadford Road, and into Oakpark Substation next to Broadford Lake. From Oakpark Substation, the line heads southeast across Broadford Lake, crossing St. Rt. 135 northeast of Mountain Lake Park. The line continues southeasterly, crossing Deer Park Hotel Road, Backbone Mountain, Eagle Rock Road. The line then runs parallel to Upperman Road and North Hill Road before crossing the North Branch of the Potomac River and into Elk Garden Substation in West Virginia.

Allegany County
(Mt Zion – Beryl, 138 kV Line)

Portions of a transmission line starting at the Potomac River, crossing west of McCoole, Md., and heading northeasterly and parallel with St. Rt. 220 and the top of Dan's Mountain. The line crosses Culvert Hollow, Dry Run, southeast of Pond Hill, Deep Hollow, and Toms Hollow. The line then makes a 90-degree right turn, crossing St. Rt. 220 south of Danville, over Fort Hill, and into Black Oak Substation.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE
OF
125 WALNUT STREET
FRIENDSVILLE, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND 21531

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Joanne Paugh and Herbert B. Paugh to First Equity Title Corporation, Trustee, dated December 17, 1997, and recorded in Liber 728, folio 387 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Deed of Trust having appointed Carrie M. Ward, Alan D. Levenstein and Alan S. Weiner, Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the County aforesaid, default having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON MONDAY, JULY 31, 2000 AT 1:00 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett County, Maryland, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple.

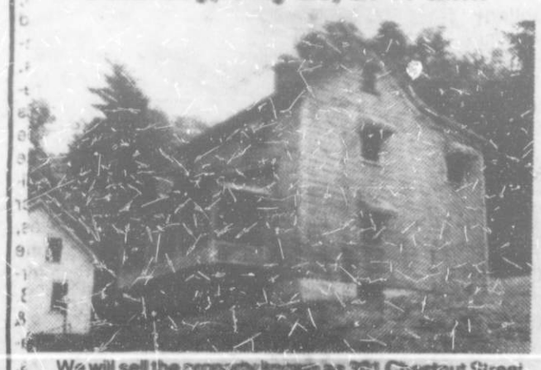

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $6,000 will be required at time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, certified check, or in other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine acceptable, in their sole discretion. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. Balance to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within the specified period stated, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to them, the Substitute Trustees will declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorneys' fees and all other charges incurred by the Substitute Trustees. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to the day the funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder, there shall be no abatement of interest caused by the delay. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, Condominium fees and/or Homeowners Association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. The Substitute Trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids, withdraw the property from sale, postpone and advertise the property for sale at a later date. Neither the Substitute Trustees nor any other party guarantees or covenants to deliver or to in any way obtain possession of the premises for any purchaser. In the event the property is occupied by tenants, the Substitute Trustees assume no responsibility for security deposts or other monies paid by the tenants to anyone. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees or the noteholder. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale. The property is sold in an "AS IS" condition without express or implied warranty or representation including, but not limited to description, fitness, use for a particular purpose, construction, environmental condition, zoning, habitability, merchantability and/or compliance with building codes or other laws. The Substitute Trustees, their attorneys and/or the noteholder shall not be liable individually or otherwise for any matters relating to this sale or the property.

"DO YA' HEAR THAT PLAYIN'?" That's what these young dancers are saying as they dance their way through this week's Dance Arts Camp of Maryland, being held at Garrett Community College. Under the direction of instructor Sarah Strain, about 25 young women, ages 12 through 23, will present a mini-showcase tomorrow, July 21, from 1:30 until 3 p.m. at the college, demonstrating their new skills. Cynthia Petrone, a Rockette from the New York City Radio Music Hall, is pictured above center. She is one of several distinguished leaders at the camp, along with director Strain, who have been working with the girls in jazz, ballet, tap, and musical theatre. Debbie Ciranni, who owns a dance school in Pittsburgh, is also on the staff. Strain is the daughter of Mike and Mary Underwood, part-time residents of Deep Creek Lake. Mrs. Underwood is also a dancer, having managed a school in Pittsburgh for decades. She said the dancers, both instructors and students, are having a great time this week, and that they hope to expand the program next year to include children of elementary school age. The students this year include several Garrett Countians, but also Pennsylvanians and West Virginians. Leigh Ann Scheift of Accident is pictured above center, seated. She is a featured dancer in this number. The workshop is a new program of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. The public is invited to come to the mini-showcase tomorrow.

Ninth Rabies Case Reported By GCHD

The Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department has reported the ninth rabies case of 2000. A raccoon which was confirmed positive for rabies by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Laboratories was shot and killed after a vaccinated dog fought with it. The incident occurred on Turkey Neck Road, in the vicinity of the southern end of Deep Creek Lake. There was no other pet or human exposure.

The dog has received a rabies booster vaccination and will remain under observation for 45 days. The owner wore protective gloves to handle the dog after the incident. He also confined the dog in a garage so that no other people or pets would come in contact with it for the crucial two-hour period after exposure to the rabid animal, officials reported. The rabies virus is spread through the saliva of the infected animal and may be viable up to two hours on the fur coat after a confrontation.

All nine positive rabies cases this year have been in raccoons. This is reportedly the first positive rabies case in the Turkey Neck area, which emphasizes the fact that rabies reaches all geographical areas of the county, officials said. Because of the wide distribution of documented rabies cases, pet owners are urged to have dogs, cats, or ferrets vaccinated against the disease. The next series of Health Department rabies clinics is tentatively scheduled for the last week in September.

DEANNA BOGART RETURN SLATED — Noted blues, jazz, and swing performer Deanna Bogart will perform tomorrow, Friday, July 21, at 7 p.m. in a free concert at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. The singer and musician, who is talented as both a pianist and a saxophonist, by all reports "brought down the house" during her last local appearance at Garrett Community College. Tomorrow night's event, sponsored by Uno's Restaurant, is one of the continuing series of Little Yough Summer Festival concerts.

DNR Secretary Nixes Bear Hunting Proposal; Cites Opponents' Letters

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Sarah Taylor-Rogers announced this week that she has rejected a request from sportsmen's groups to open a limited bear hunting season, a proposal also supported by the Maryland Wildlife Advisory Commission. The DNR secretary, who was unavailable for comment yesterday, has been quoted as saying she had "gotten 500 letters and the vast majority opposed the hunt, even the ones from Garrett County."

DNR representatives have been unable to comply with requests for numeric and geographic breakdowns of the letters referred to by Rogers, saying that they are scattered among several DNR offices at this point.

"Wildlife biologists acknowledge that Maryland's bear population [estimated at more than 400, mostly in Garrett and Allegany counties] can provide for a very limited hunt," Rogers said in a prepared statement. "However, human dimensions play a critical role in the success of any wildlife management program, and it is clear to me that most Marylanders do not support re-opening a hunting season on black bears."

This spring the Maryland Sportsmen's Association had asked for a limited two-day hunt for the fall or winter of next year, with participants chosen by lottery. The organization's goal is to reduce the bear population, thereby minimizing damage to crops and the potential for bear/human conflicts. "What we have in western Maryland are zoo animals looking to be fed," commented Timothy Lambert, president of the group. "They see people, and they know there's food." The state's Wildlife Commission also voted in February in support of a limited hunting season.

Rogers said this week that hunting would cut the

Two Arrested By GBI After Loch Lynn Burglary

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation worked through the weekend investigating a Thursday night burglary of Imoff's Gas Station in Loch Lynn, and by Sunday night two Oakland men had been arrested and charged in connection with the incident.

Scott Edward Patton, 25, faces charges of two counts each of second degree burglary and misdemeanor theft, and one count of destruction of property, while a second suspect, Patrick Dale Schrock, 19, faces charges of second degree burglary, misdemeanor theft, and destruction of property.

Accidental Fire Damages Oakland House Saturday

A fire believed to have been caused by a gas hot water tank caused an estimated $20,000 to an apartment house in Oakland on Saturday. Volunteer firefighters from Oakland, Deer Park, Gorman, Terra Alta, and Deep Creek departments were summoned to 134 North Second Street at 11:26 a.m., and upon arrival saw smoke coming from the two-story, wood-frame structure which houses five apartments.

According to a report from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's office, Michael Smoot, 30, was working in the basement of the house when he saw flames near the water tank. He fled the house to call 911 and, in the process, fell on the porch and sustained a laceration to his head. He was later treated at the scene by emergency personnel.

The blaze was brought under control in less than an hour, and fire damage was kept to a minimum. Most of the damage was caused by heavy smoke that filtered through most of the house. Deputy Fire Marshal Steve Wendling, who investigated the incident, said that smoke detectors were present and activated properly.

The owner of the house is Stuart Hamill III, who also resides in one of the apartments.

Estonia Students To Attend GCC; Host Families Now Being Sought

"The degree of interest has been overwhelming," spoke Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, about the response to his efforts to bring students from the Baltic country of Estonia to Garrett County to attend college. Because of the response, GCC has issued an appeal to local residents willing to house an Estonian student for a year.

All of these students speak English, according to Herman, and will be willing to do household chores in exchange for room and board.

"This will be an opportunity for Garrett Countians to learn about a different culture, and to expand cultural diversity within the county," he said.

Herman has now made two trips to Estonia, in conjunction with the Maryland National Guard's effort to further education and economic development in the country that has been free of Russian dominance for the past 12 years. He pointed out that Maryland has been chosen as the sister state of Estonia because it is the state with the highest percentage of resi-

Golf Tourney Nets $6,500 For Dove Center

The First United Bank & Trust Charity Golf Tournament, held Friday at the Oakland Golf Club, was a resounding success, at least in the opinion of Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center, whose facility received $6,500 in proceeds from the event. Spassil noted that the tourney was successful thanks to the support of numerous corporate, associate, and individual sponsors, as well as other businesses, organizations, and individuals who supported the benefit in other ways.

Corporate sponsors for the 12th annual tourney were: A.D. Naylor & Co.; Accident Garage; Allegheny Welding and Machine; Beachy Lumber Co.; CBIZ Benefits & Insurance Services Inc.; Cuppett Management Co.; Daniel Bosley Construction; Ernst & Young; First United Bank & Trust; G&G Excavating; Garrett Community College; Glotfelty Enterprises; Green Acres; Eiswert, Janes, & Sweitzer; Heilig's Plumbing, Heating, & Electrical; Keystone Financial Bank; Landis Office Center; Legg Mason; Mettiki Coal Co.; Moran Coal Co.; Mountaineer Log & Siding; Norman Hanline Excavating; Point View Inn/Cheers; Railey Realty; Sears/Midas of Oakland/Deep Creek

EYM Group To Leave Sunday For Two-Week Mission To Nicaragua

Fifteen members of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry of Oakland and seven adults will fly to Managua, Nicaragua, this Sunday, July 23, to begin a two-week mission project at Casa Yohaska Girls' Home in San Marco, Nicaragua. Casa Yohaska is a part of the Los Quinchos Children's Project, which provides shelter, education, and vocational training for Nicaraguan street children.

The young people of EYM will be building a "taller," or workshop, with the girls of Casa Yohaska so that they will have a more efficient place to make the jams, jellies, and soaps they sell for their support. In addition to the building project, the EYM will share in cultural events with the children of Los Quinchos. They will share their musical talents with each other and experience the folk culture of the area. There will be opportunities for intensive tutoring in Spanish as well.

The local group will also take sight-seeing trips to Mombacho Volcano, the artisan community at San Juan del Oriente to see potters at work, and Tres Mundos cultural center in Granada for a piano concert by young Latinos. They will engage in discussions about the plight of people in Third World countries.

According to EYM director Lynn Broderick, the trip would not have been possible without the financial help of many local individual contributors, from the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, St. Matthew's and St. John's Episcopal churches, and Pat Shimko of St. George's Episcopal Church Mission Outreach Committee, Mt. Savage. "We also extend special thanks to Dave and Lee Saba for their donation of the proceeds from the grand opening of the Deep Creek Brewery, and to Arthur Naylor for his challenge grant and to those who responded to it," Broderick said.

Officials Consider Change To Deep Creek Zoning Ordinance

A hearing concerning amendments to the Deep Creek Lake zoning ordinance was held by the Garrett County commissioners last Thursday evening, with about 50 persons in attendance. The proposed change to the ordinance is a result of the ongoing adjustment to the state's purchase of the lake and the buydown lots available to property owners.

The basic issue in question is the location of the set-back line, which, with the state's purchase of the lake, is now closer to the shore. If property owners take the option to buy the land from the state, and if the current zoning ordinance remains the same, the owners could feasibly build structures closer to the water line. The Garrett County Planning Commission is supporting the idea of adjusting the current ordinance to keep a 40-foot set-back from the new line.

In last week's issue of The Republican, it was incorrectly reported that the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association (DCLPOA) was against the ordinance adjustment. In fact, the owners are in favor of keeping the status quo concerning lake development, which means they support the change, as it would indeed keep current building regulations intact. (The error is regretted.) Several property owners were in attendance at last week's hearing, and they voiced their support of the adjustment.

In a letter to John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Office of Planning Zoning, DCLPOA president Roger Titus noted that "it has long been the policy of the POA that the state's acquisition of Deep Creek Lake should be a 'seamless transfer.' . . . . We are concerned that, in the absence of any amendment to the zoning ordinance, there could be a significant disruption to the status quo if a lakefront property owner purchases additional land from the state and then constructs a home virtually on the edge of their presently existing property."

Property owners will still be restricted from building on the Department of Natural Resources property, which extends several feet from the shore. This line is determined by what Nelson calls the "magic number" of 2,466 feet above sea level. The lake's highest level at normal stage is 2,462. The 2,466 footage would be reached at a flood stage, with water flowing four feet above the top of the Deep Creek dam. This strip around the lake is now owned by the state, and is a public access area. The rear line of this strip is significantly closer to the shore

Five Taken To Hospital After I-68 Accident

A woman from Cincinnati, Ohio, and four children who were passengers in her vehicle were treated for injuries at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland following an accident on I-68 last Saturday around 5 p.m.

According to a report filed by Tfc. G. Seaman of the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police, Tracey Jo McCauley, 32, was operating a 1998 Plymouth Neon westbound on the Interstate near Finzel when another vehicle attempted to make a lane change into the lane in which McCauley was driving. A BIG CHECK was generated from the recent Charity Golf Tournament of First United Bank & Trust, and the beneficiary of that event was the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault resource center. Held at the Oakland Golf Club, the event yielded $6,500 of support for the center. Pictured from left above are: Linda Spassil, director of the Dove Center; Paul Mullan, master of ceremonies; Bill Grant, president and CEO of First United; and Ken Perrin, Dove Center board member.

FINAL PACKING is under way by the members of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry, who will leave Sunday for the nation of Nicaragua, where they will spend two weeks doing mission work. The young people, who are from Garrett and Preston counties, and their adult supervisors will take with them a variety of donated items which will be given to the Nicaraguan citizens. Packing T-shirts in the photo above are Catherine Donaldson, right, and Julie Holloway. At far left (back to camera) is Rev. Chip Lee, one of the coordinators of the trip, and at far right is Lynn Broderick, EYM director. See story for details.

Special Service At St. Mark's To Feature Simon

Jeffrey Simon, an acclaimed organist from Washington, D.C., will be the featured musician in a special service at St. Mark's Lutheran Church as part of this year's celebration of the parish's 150th anniversary. The service, titled "A Festival of Hymns for the Church Year," will be held on Sunday, July 23, at 7 p.m. at the church, located at the corner of Second and Center streets in Oakland.

The service will encompass well-known hymns of the entire calendar year, beginning with Advent and continuing through Christmas, Lent, Easter, and the Ascension.

Widely recognized as one of Washington, D.C.'s, leading church musicians, Simon has appeared as organist or conductor throughout the United States, (including New York, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Kansas, Texas, California, Washington, and many others), and in Europe. His recitals and performances of Baroque, romantic, and contemporary choral works with orchestra have met consistent approval from critics and the concert-going public alike. A champion of the wide range of sacred music, his performances have brought to the audiences of the nation's capital such diverse music as the Bach b-minor Mass, complete organ symphonies by the French Romantic masters Vierne and Widor, the complete organ works of J.S. Bach, choral and orchestral oratorios including Handel's Solomon, Mendelssohn's St. Paul, and Brahms's Requiem, chamber opera performances of Mozart's Cosi fan Tutte, and operas by Milhaud and Offenbach, and numerous Washington premieres of works.

Dr. Simon holds a doctor of musical arts degree from the Peabody Conservatory of the Johns Hopkins University, and is a fellow of the College of Church Musicians. A past dean of the D.C. Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, he currently serves as cantor (organist and choirmaster) at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation on Capitol Hill. For several years, he has also been the conductor of the Library of Congress Chorale.

In October 1992, he played recitals in Leipzig, Germany, and in Warsaw, Poland. The Leipzig program was played on the two organs at the world famous St. Thomas Church, where Johann Sebastian Bach served as cantor. Dr. Simon is one of the few Americans ever invited to play at this historic church. In Warsaw, he celebrated Reformation Sunday by playing an all-Bach program in the high-Baroque Roman Catholic Church of St. Anne, one of the few Warsaw churches to survive the Nazi destruction in 1945.

Dr. Simon appeared in Oakland as the organist for the Garrett Choral Society's performance of Mendelssohn's Elijah, and has presented annual recitals for the Autumn Glory Festival for several years.

St. Mark's pastor, Rev. Mike Robinson, has extended an invitation to the public to attend this service.

GETTING ORGANIZED for their two-week trip to Nicaragua, and receiving final instructions from Rev. Chip Lee of St. Matthew's and St. John's Episcopal churches (above) were the members of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry of Oakland. The group of 22 youth and adults will depart Sunday for that nation, where they will do missions work and share their faith and experiences with Nicaraguan counterparts. In the foreground from left above are EYM director Lynn Broderick, Leah and Meghan Broderick, and Gloria Salazar. At right, Chuck Nolan organizes some of the gifts which he personally collected to take to the people of Nicaragua. They include scores of ball caps and hundreds of decorated pencils donated by Garrett County students. See front-page story for details.

Broaddus Named Director Of Arts, Sciences At GCC

Virginia Broaddus, assistant professor of English at Garrett Community College, has been appointed director of arts and sciences for the college. In this capacity, she will be responsible for overall supervision of instruction of humanities, social sciences, science, education, and mathematics courses and programs.

In addition to program planning, course scheduling, and budget management, Broaddus will be responsible for hiring, supervising, and evaluating faculty. She will work closely with dean of academic affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell and other program directors to coordinate planning of arts and sciences courses with courses in business and information technology, agriculture, natural resources, and adventure sports programs.

Broaddus, who has taught English courses at GCC for the past three years, helped to design the honors program and was responsible for implementing it last year, according to a college official. She has received several awards in recognition of her teaching effectiveness, including being nominated by two students for inclusion in the 2000 edition of Who's Who Among American College Teachers. She holds a bachelor of arts degree from Davidson College, and a master of arts degree from North Carolina State University, and is in a doctorate program at West Virginia University.

In her new position, Broaddus said she plans to take advantage of technology to integrate courses and collaborate with other disciplines so that students are more prepared to enter transfer institutions or the work place.

"I want to continue to build teamwork among the faculty and to build on the strengths of individual faculty so that our classrooms provide motivation, energy, and enthusiasm," she said. "The arts and sciences faculty will help students achieve success by helping them believe in themselves and in their institution."

About her assuming the administrative role she said it will be a "big challenge" adjusting to the move from faculty to administration, "but the change is positive."

Man Sentenced For Burglary, Theft Charges

A Grantsville man convicted on charges of burglary and theft was sent to jail last week by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge James Sherbin. Ronald Lee Wilt Jr., 19, allegedly committed the crimes in January at the Wildwater Inn in Grantsville.

Wilt appeared in court in May and pleaded guilty to second degree burglary of the Wildwater Inn, and destruction of property to the vending machines and games at that establishment. Sherbin sentenced him to five years in the Department of Corrections and 18 months in the Garrett County jail, according to State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch. Sherbin suspended three years, six months of the sentence, and Wilt will serve the remaining time in the local jail.

Sherbin also imposed 18 months of jail time for Wilt for two counts of felony theft, Welch reported. While investigating the burglary of the Wildwater Inn, officers of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation apparently found the defendant to be in possession of two four-wheelers reported stolen in Pennsylvania.

Upon his release, Wilt will be on supervised probation, Welch reported. Among his conditions of probation is a restitution payment of nearly $1,750.

Oakland Woman Suffers Injuries In Saturday Crash

An Oakland woman was injured Saturday evening in a single vehicle accident along the western outskirts of Oakland, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Diane Elizabeth Gordon, 18, was traveling on Tomar Drive approaching Herrington Manor Road shortly after 6 p.m. when she reportedly swerved to miss an oncoming vehicle partially in her lane. She overcorrected during the maneuver and lost control of the 1998 Hyundia Accent, and it left the roadway and rolled over.

Gordon was transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene. No charges were filed by sheriff's deputies.

McCauley reportedly lost control of her vehicle, traveled off the roadway, and overturned.

Frostburg Ambulance Company, Frostburg VFD, and Eastern Garrett VFC responded to the scene. McCauley and four 10-year-old boys who were passengers in her car were transported to Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Driver Charged

Justin Arthur Russell, 26, Bluemont, Va., was charged with negligent driving and driving without a license following an accident on I-68 which sent him to the hospital on Tuesday.

Police said Russell was operating a 1992 Pontiac Sunbird eastbound near Friendsville around 11:20 a.m. when he allegedly fell asleep, skidded off the road, struck the guardrail, and spun across the next traffic lane, where his vehicle was struck by a 2000 International, driven by Gregory Michael Carloss, 40, Westminster. The impact reportedly knocked Russell's vehicle into the Jersey barrier.

Russell was taken to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where he was treated and released.

Meyersdale Youth Injured

A juvenile from Meyersdale, Pa., was injured in a two-vehicle accident on Route 40 on July 13 when he allegedly pulled into the path of a 1994 Oldsmobile Cutlass, operated by Francis Poland, 65, LaVale.

Police said Poland was eastbound on Route 40 at the Route 219 intersection when the 1998 Dodge Dakota, driven by the juvenile, pulled into Poland's path.

The youth was treated for minor injuries at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland.

CDS Possession

Alison Anne Haynesw, 18, Leesburg, Va., was arrested on July 16 for possession of marijuana and paraphernalia.

DWI/DUI

Michelle Irene McRobie, 20, Oakland, was arrested for driving while intoxicated on July 13.

Oakland Man Faces Pair Of Assault Charges

An Oakland man was arrested and charged with first and second degree assault this past weekend after he allegedly beat his wife to the point of requiring emergency medical treatment, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

David Karol Sisler, 52, reportedly assaulted the woman shortly after midnight Sunday at his George Washington Highway residence. GBI detectives summoned to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after the woman's arrival there found that she had sustained a broken leg as well as numerous bruises about her arms, legs, face, and upper body. Sisler was apprehended a short time later at his residence.

Sisler remains held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $10,000 bond.

PARENT VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR for the Garrett County Head Start program is Debbie Wilt, pictured above right, as she received her award from Pam Nelson, vice president of Community Services & Family Development for Garrett County Community Action. Wilt was among many volunteers in the program who were honored at a recent banquet in Pleasant Valley. See story for details.

Volunteers For Head Start Prog. Receive Honors

Garrett County Community Action/Head Start Policy Council sponsored a volunteer banquet recently at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. The three top volunteers from each center and home-based option, as well as the three top volunteers from the community, were honored at the event.

Pam Nelson, Community Action's vice president of Community Services & Family Development, provided the "welcome" and also presented Debbie Wilt with the Head Start Parent Volunteer of the Year and the Top Volunteer awards. Former Head Start student Summer Sines, Friendsville, provided the opening and closing vocal entertainment, which included "Dear Mr. Jesus" and "Germs."

Head Start director Mary Beckman delivered the invocation and recognized the members of Policy Council. "Volunteers are the heart of our program for children and families. We view our parent and community volunteers as invaluable assets to our Head Start program," Beckman said.

Christi Markwood, Becky Bowman, and Tina McKenzie, editors of the parent newsletter, "A Child's Voice," were recognized by Barbara Hornyak, Head Start's Family Development coordinator.

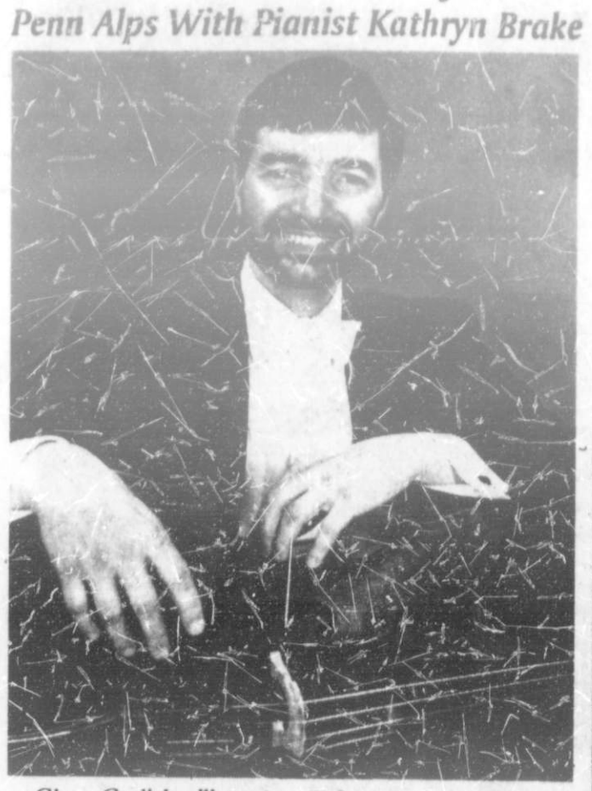

Debbie Wilt, policy council president, made the closing remarks, read one of her original poems, and thanked parent banquet committee members Julia Lewis, Trish Beeman, and Tawnya House; community committee member Kelly Beachy; and staff committee members Dodie Burrell and Barbara Unger.

The 1999-2000 top volunteers of the Head Start program were: Debbie Wilt, Marsha House, and Elaine Strobel, Accident Center; Missy Corby, Kristi Meadows, and Melinda Fazenbaker, Crellin; Trish Beeman, Ardra Sharpless and Barbie Sweitzer, Dennett Road Head Start; Tawnya House, Denise Moll, and Marna Dunn, Friendsville Center; Teresa Broadwater, Tammy Warnick, and Vicky Hoover, Jennings Room I; Tina McKenzie, Stacy Miller, and Doris Raynor, Jennings Room II; Bobbie Bender, Missy Nesselrodt, and Teresa Cooper, Kitzmiller Head Start; Tammy Burns, LaDonna Reams; and Billy Jo Kitzmiller, Oakland Room I; Joyce Hensley, Shelby Friend, and Jody Teets, Oakland Room II; Bonnie Kent, Rebecca Shahan, and Christina Stemple, Oakland Room III; Dawna Rodeheaver, Jennifer Thomas, and Maria Upperman, Northern/Southern Home Based Option; and Becky Bowman, Trena Lapp, and Kari Hugel. Pre-School Family Support/Home Based III.

The top three community volunteers for the year were Paula Gower, Steve Pagenhardt, and Camille Spurr.

Cellist Glenn Garlick To Perform At Penn Alps With Pianist Kathryn Brake

Glenn Garlick will return to Penn Alps on Saturday, July 22, for a performance with pianist Kathryn Brake, musicians who are both active in the Washington, D.C., area. The concert will include works by Ludwig van Beethoven, Claude Debussy and Dmitri Shostakovich.

Their performance, which is part of the Music at Penn Alps series, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville.

Garlick's eclectic background includes service as a sergeant in the Marine Corps Band and a law degree from the Georgetown University Law Center. He studied cello at the University of Colorado, the Eastman School of Music, and Catholic University. As a founding member of the Manchester String Quartet, he has appeared in such notable locales as the National Gallery, the Kennedy Center, the Washington Cathedral, and Dumbarton Oaks.

He has also performed with other chamber groups, including the Twentieth Century Consort, the American Camerata, and the Contemporary Music Forum.

Garlick has been a member of the National Symphony Orchestra since 1980, when he was accepted by Mstislav Rostropovich. In 1995 Leonard Slatkin promoted him to assistant principal cellist. He has performed concerto solos with the Arlington Symphony, the Catholic University Orchestra, the Greeley Philharmonic, the Golden Symphony, and the Eastman/Rochester Philharmonic. He has recorded CDs with the Twentieth Century Consort and the American Camerata.

Now an adjunct faculty member at the University of Maryland, Garlick has shared his knowledge of music with students. He also is president of the Kindler Cello Society.

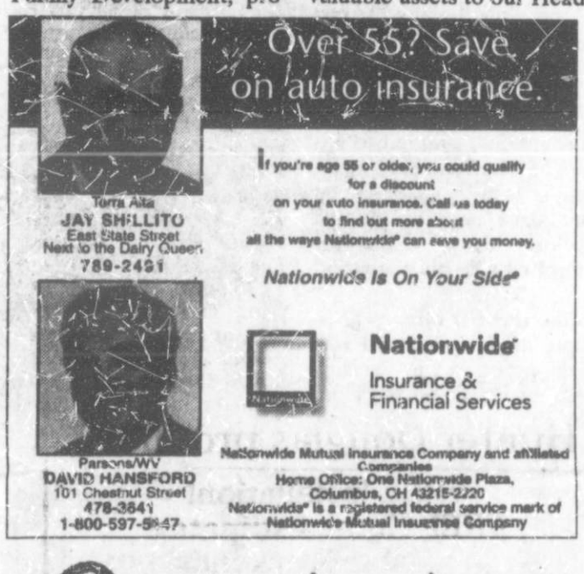

Active as a recitalist and chamber musician, Brake is accomplished in a wide range of musical styles, and has often introduced contemporary composers to audiences. She regularly performs with Musica Aperta and in the Chamber Music Series at the United States Holocaust Museum.

After graduating from the Juilliard School of Music, she earned her master's degree from the Peabody Conservatory. She has won numerous competitions, including the National Young Chopin Competition and the Beethoven Competition. Her appearances include solo and chamber recitals in major U.S. cities and several European countries.

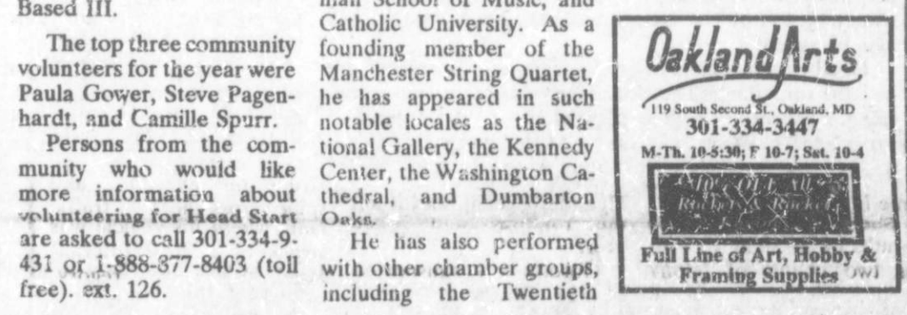

Brake's recordings include an Albany Records release of American music for cello and piano, and a soon-to-be-released CD of the Korngold Piano Quartet and Quintet.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporate sponsors, and individuals. This concert is sponsored by Hobby House Press. For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985.

Tickets will be available at the door. Because there are no reserved seats, ticket holders are encouraged to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

Zoning Change Needed...

"Status quo."

Those were the buzz words a couple years ago moments after it was announced that the state of Maryland was going to purchase Deep Creek Lake from the Pennsylvania Electric Company. In our opinion, it was good advice then, and it remains good today.

At issue right now is the protected area around the edge of the lake known for many years as the buffer strip, an area upon which no property owner was permitted to build any kind of permanent structure. The purpose of that restriction was to protect adjacent property owners from having their view of the lake obstructed by such structures, and to keep that strip as natural as possible for aesthetic purposes in general.

The state now owns the lake and has offered buy-down opportunities to the current individual property owners, allowing them to purchase the former buffer strip area in front of their lakefront properties. However, in order to maintain "status quo" — that is, the restriction against any permanent buildings on that space — a change in the current lake zoning ordinance is necessary. That proposed change was explained by John Nelson, director of the county office of planning and zoning, at a recent public meeting. A recommendation on that change will be made by the county planning commission and then forwarded to the county commissioners for action.

There is some opposition to the proposed change, particularly by some developers and realtors, who would prefer to see a loosening of the restriction. However, we must side with the majority of the lake property owners in support of the ordinance change, which would leave things basically as they are. There is a provision in the proposal that allows for request of a variance, which can be employed by those who believe they have a good case for some kind of development in that space.

There is also a request on the table by some property owners that the zoning ordinance also be changed to prohibit campgrounds and gun clubs from being permitted on property zoned lake residential. We are not as quick to endorse this proposal, which would basically shut the door on each and every such proposal, no matter how reasonable and advantageous it may be. Again, the use of a special exception/variance process is our preference.

Assuming a totally one-sided, fanatical stand on any issue is usually not good. There is always some ground in the middle that is more fair to all parties involved. We are opposed to wanton, unrestricted development at the lake, or anywhere in Garrett County, but we are also opposed to total and absolute restriction of the use of private property just because someone in the neighborhood doesn't want his or her little piece of the world to change at all, regardless of the benefits it may mean to the county.

Lake Zoning

line than the former Penelec line, and it is that land in between which is being offered for sale to the adjacent property owner. If the 40-foot set-back stays intact, the property owner can build 40 feet back from the new property line.

"While the conservation easement will preclude the construction of improvements inside the area being acquired by any lakefront owner," Titus continued, "there is a considerable problem that could occur if nothing is done with respect to the existing 40-foot rear yard set-back contained in the [current ordinance]."

The Planning Commission has supported the change, and has recommended to the commissioners that it be adopted. The commissioners held the hearing last week and will keep the record open on the issue for at least 10 days. Persons may give their input to the commissioners either by letter or by telephone.

Nelson said persons against the change in the ordinance are chiefly from the realty and development industries. These individuals see the change as a possible threat to development, he said.

Another portion of the proposed amendment is to allow for special exceptions pertaining to the rear-yard set-back. The proposed adjustment would put in place a recourse for a property owner to build closer to the shore if a variety of conditions are met. For instance, he would have to have the agreement of his neighbors before being granted the exception, and he would be required to give adequate evidence that the proposed building would not obstruct the view or adversely affect any adjoining property owners.

Views were given on both sides of this issue last week, Nelson said, with some wishing for more strict guidelines or no exception possibilities, and others expressing the view that the proposed amendment is already too restrictive.

On another issue, a group of property owners at the lake, led by Fred Warther, has asked that the commission alter the ordinance to disallow the development of campgrounds or gun clubs in the lake residential area. Currently, the policy does disallow these establishments, but does permit persons to apply for a special exception.

Nelson said this week that the commission has not shown support for this change, noting that the ordinance already has a number of conditions and regulations that limit such developments. But the final decision to all aspects of the zoning ordinance will be made by the commissioners, who are directed by recommendation only from the planning commission.

Senior Citizens' Menus

Community Action's Area Agency on Aging Senior Nutrition Program menus for the week of July 24-28 are as follows:

Monday — Apple juice, salad bar, beef stroganoff, noodles, mixed vegetables, blueberry muffin, milk.

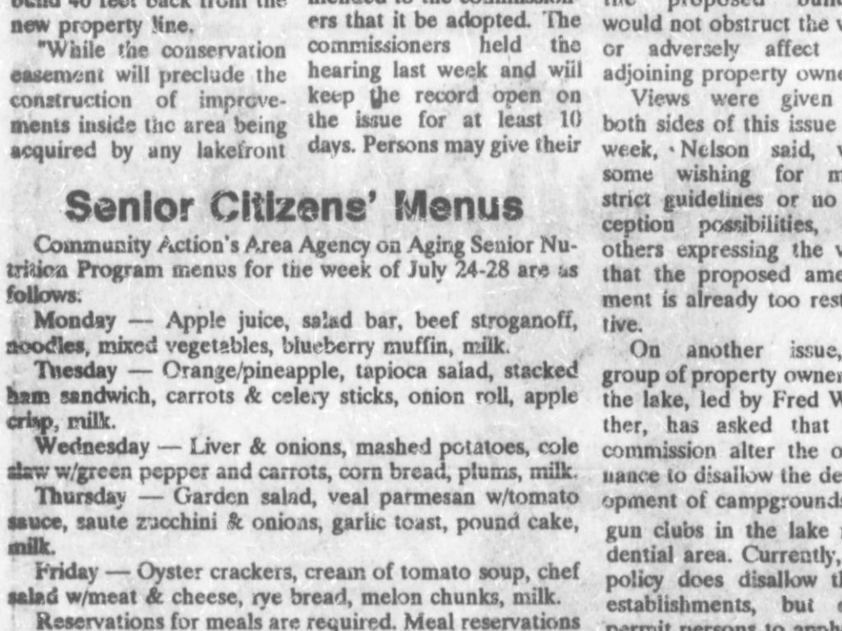

Tuesday — Orange/pineapple, tapioca salad, stacked ham sandwich, carrots & celery sticks, onion roll, apple crisp, milk.

PLANTING THE FALL GARDEN

I am taking a break from working in the garden. It is the middle of the afternoon, in the heat of the day, though it is not terribly hot. This summer has been a mild one so far, especially compared to last year. There will be hot days to come, for sure, but if we can get through July without being stifled by heat and humidity, temperatures are not likely to be intolerable later on.

This has been a good day for gardening. Last night's shower of rain softened the soil without making it really wet. The corner where I am planting has worked up well. I pulled onions from this patch a few days ago, and now it is full again, this time with green beans, beets, and lettuce improved for summer planting.

Y2K has not been a good gardening year for me. The perennial garden has pulled me through with asparagus, rhubarb, and sorrel. I planted onions and lettuce the earliest ever, and had good early crops of each. It was the middle planting time — what is the main planting time for most people — that I missed.

I do have four varieties of tomatoes, peppers, eggplants and two rows of potatoes which are all coming along nicely, but none of them is bearing yet. This has been a year when neighbors have had tomatoes the earliest I have ever seen, that is, without being subjected to heroic efforts.

The early fall crops I have also missed. There will be no homegrown Brussels sprouts for Christmas dinner. The winter squash which, some years, have been a staple, will also be absent.

One of the beauties of gardening is that it is never too late for something. The skill is knowing what that something is. A certain degree of wisdom — usually born of experience — is also necessary. At this moment it is not too late for green beans, but it is too late for winter squash, so I plant green beans. In years past I have been so enamored with the idea of growing something that I have planted it anyway, knowing full well that crop needing 130 days will not produce fruit in 90 days.

That seems obvious enough when said, but the gardener is always driven somewhat by fantasy. He imagines late frost, a delayed onset of winter, and spends time and energy on a crop he will never harvest. Successful gardening requires him to keep his eye forever on likely possibilities unless he has the luxury to indulge in pure experimentation.

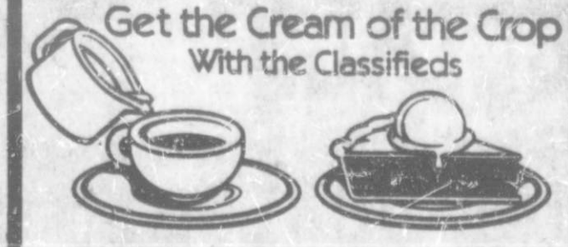

All the while forsaking lost possibilities, restraint is also necessary. I have been tempted to go ahead and throw red Russian kale and turnips into the ground "while I'm at it." My time right now is better spent weeding and in general garden work. I reckon August 1 to be the perfect time for planting those two crops, fully two months before the first frost. Both crops like frost and declining daylight. The cool ground of fall will hold turnips until a hard freeze. Kale is a crop that just goes on gettin better through January.

Carrots, too, like the fall weather conditions. My experience with carrots has alternated between abysmal failure and glorious triumph. They need constant watering, constant weeding and thinning, almost an absence of nitrogen, and lovely loose soil. Homegrown vegetables almost always taste better than their store-bought counterparts, for a variety of reasons, but the disparity is perhaps greater for carrots than for any other vegetable. When my carrots have come home to roost it has been months before I could eat a bought carrot with equanimity.

Having missed the major spring planting, I am attending to the fall/autumn and early winter garden crops. Besides everything already mentioned, there are spinach and two handsful of various lettuces and other greens to be planted.

All in all, I am avoiding fantasy and overeagerness, keeping my eye on the likeliest possibilities. That is as good a prescription for success out of the garden as in it.

WORDS WE LIVE BY

by Mary Sincell McEwen

Some time ago, my husband John and I were watching an A&E channel program about the DuPont family. The narrator said the family had a motto by which the members lived, and we thought that was sort of funny -- a family motto. John asked me what I thought the Sincell family motto was, and I was quick to answer: "I think it's 'Hurry Up.'" He thought that was probably right. Having been involved with my family for 15 years now, and even employed in the family business, he is very well aware of the impatience that permeates my clan. And it's an innocent development, I promise, bred by over a century of a weekly deadline.

Think about it: My great-grandfather bought this newspaper in 1881. He published his first issue on his 20th birthday. Every Thursday thereafter for him, for the rest of his life, was paper day. Every single Thursday of my grandfather's life was paper day, as it has been for my father, and now my brother (the editor) and me. Of course the whole family is aware of the deadline -- you can't help it. When you move away, Thursday does sort of blend into the other days after a while, but you can hardly pass the day without thinking about what's going on at the office. At least I couldn't during the years I was away. I didn't get my paper in North Carolina until Saturday or even Monday, though, so the frenzy of Thursday was at that time a rather vague sensation. But it remained. And the general tension of getting things finished is ever-present with my family. It's probably genetic. Our 5-year-old, Alex, is well aware of it already. Lying in our bed one morning, he asked if it was Thursday. I told him it was. "Oh. Then it's that day when you have to pick up all those newspapers and get so tired, isn't it?" John and I both muttered that he was right.

To add to the regular tension, we have of late been short-staffed here at the paper. Our fearless leader was globe-trotting for 13 days, as readers of last week's editorial know, and week-long vacations have fallen fast and furious among our 26-member staff. Getting the newspaper out each Thursday isn't easy to begin with, but throw in some major holes in the fabric of the staff, and you have the potential for disaster. We are doing all right, though, considering, and I am sometimes amazed to see the neatly stacked piles of papers on Thursday evening at, say, the grocery store, where people casually pick them up and scan the front page. That same page lay on the composite table just hours before, blank, waiting for pictures and stories not even finished yet. It's a frenzied thing, this line of work.

Looking at it from the outside, there is often a good deal of misunderstanding. People don't understand why certain things don't show up in the paper, or why the copy has been changed, or why it was or wasn't on the front page. They are confused about our status as a business and not a public service agency, and they get stumped about the difference of advertising and news. Some get irritated that we don't run the length and weight of new babies, except, of course, in the town columns, which have different rules altogether. We do have rules, or guidelines, that we try to follow. Sometimes we mess up, and sometimes people bringing in the news mess up. Generally we do a pretty good job, I think, especially considering that we often are flying by the collective seat of our pants, speeding to meetings or hearings, writing what we hear, shoving it to the proofreader, fixing it, and then plastering it on the page, quickly, before the whole thing is "put to bed" and there are no more chances to get it right. All the while, we are employing that Sincell family motto.

We fly at the speed of light, it seems, balancing on a raft of events and issues, trying to pay at least some attention to each one. We grab up what we need and pass it on as best we can, pumping out the paper every week, fixing the occasional error, and remembering that another Thursday will roll around in a week, and what gets missed can probably have another go.

In my own family, this mad pace is augmented by the existence of three little boys with busy little lives -- there's swim team, soccer, church stuff, and just general little boy living. Every day is a race, it seems, with one finish line resulting in simply another race to yet another finish line. We ride the crest of the wave while scanning the horizon for the next rise. I realize that these days will indeed be gone before I know it. Today's endless motion, I know, is like sand slipping through my fingers. It will be a distant memory and I will wonder how we did it. I will miss the sweetness of young sons and their young questions, and I will be at a loss when free time is granted to me. As I leave the waves and rest on the beach, there will be times when I will want back in that pounding, frothy surf.

So while we practice our family motto, friends and relations, remember that we remember you in all our zipping around. And readers of the paper, give us a little break once in a while -- we're trying our best, usually. Now, I have to hurry up -- it's time to paste this thing on the page.

MOUNTAINAIRES TO SING — A concert of barbershop harmonies will be presented by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival on July 29 at 8 p.m., featuring the Jokers Wild Barbershop Quartet and the Mountainaires Barbershop Chorus (pictured). The concert is sponsored by the First United Bank and Trust. Earning the 1994 International Champion trophy at the International Quartet Competition of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing, the Jokers Wild Quartet has been featured in concerts and on shows throughout the world, including most of the 50 United States, Canada, Germany, Italy, France, and Spain. The group has performed on radio shows across the United States and on the television show Good Morning, America. The all-male Mountainaires are from Fairmont, W.Va., and have been performing throughout West Virginia and beyond for over 25 years. Tickets to the show are $10 for adults and $2 for youths 18 and under, and are available at the GLAF office, which can be reached at 301-387-3081. Following the concert at GCC, the singers will proceed to Pizzazz Pizzeria at the Wisp Resort for an "afterglow." Tickets to this added portion of the show are $7 per person. See story.

VISITORS WORK FOR HABITAT - Groups of youth and adult workers from Ohio and Columbia (Md.) were in the county last week to provide time, talents, and people-power to help Garrett County Habitat for Humanity to construct a new home for a local family in need. The work was under the direction of Don Little, building supervisor for Habitat, who is pictured with the group above (toward the left, wearing suspenders). It was the 11th such trip to the county by the group from Girard, Ohio. See story for details.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Presenting Barbershop Chorus

Harmonies of the award-winning Jokers Wild Barbershop Quartet and the Mountainaires Barbershop Chorus will resound in the Garrett Community College auditorium as the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival presents an evening of music on July 29 at 8 p.m. The concert is sponsored by the First United Bank and Trust.

Formed in 1990 following an informal meeting of the original four members, Jokers Wild has gone on to win district and international competitions. The original foursome won the Johnny Appleseed District Quartet Championship in October 1990, and then went on to compete at the 1991 International Quartet Competition of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, held in Louisville, Ky. Three years later the group was named International Champion at the competition in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Since winning the international competition, Jokers Wild has been featured in concerts and on shows throughout the world, including most of the 50 United States, Canada, Germany, Italy, France, and Spain. The group has performed on radio shows across the United States and on the television show Good Morning, America.

Three of the four members of Jokers Wild now reside in Pittsburgh. Tenor Steve Iannacchione, a graduate of Carnegie-Mellon University and a member of the Pittsburgh Metro Chapter barbershop chorus, does commercials and industrial films. Lead John Clunies, also a member of the Pittsburgh Metro Chapter, is a graduate of the University of Maryland Baltimore County and is a practicing attorney.

Steve Legters, baritone, is a member of the Shenango Valley Chapter, graduate of Grove City College, and a contract negotiator for a major Pittsburgh industrial corporation. Bass Dave Kindinger is a member of the Columbus Singing Buckeyes Chorus, a graduate of Ohio State University, and an elementary school principal in Columbus, Ohio.

The Mountainaires Barbershop Chorus from Fairmont, W.Va., is composed of a group of men who have been singing together throughout north central West Virginia for over 25 years. The group sings a wide variety of musical selections in the all-American style of four-part a capella barbershop harmony. In addition to performing at fairs, festivals, corporate and charity events, nursing homes, and schools, the group presents annual spring concerts and Christmas shows.

Admission to the Jokers Wild and Mountainaires Chorus concert is $10 for adults and $2 for youths 18 and under. Tickets are available at the GLAF office, which can be reached at 301-387-3081. Reservations are recommended.

Following the concert at GCC, the singers will proceed to Pizzazz Pizzeria at the Wisp Resort for an "afterglow." Tickets to this added portion of the show are $7 per person. The singers will continue to perform at the restaurant with impromptu arrangements in a relaxed atmosphere, a GLAF spokesperson said.

Season sponsors for GLAF events are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Sincell Publishing Co., Sprenger-Lang Foundation, and Deep Creek Mountain Resort. All GLAF events are funded in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Habitat Groups Come From Ohio And Columbia

Groups of youth and adult workers from First United Methodist Church in Girard, Ohio, and St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Columbia took vacation time last week to come to Garrett County to assist the local Habitat for Humanity organization in building new, safe, affordable homes for families in need.

The Girard group has been coming to the county for 11 years, according to Wayne Johnson, executive director of Garrett County Habitat for Humanity.

Johnson said that, under the direction of Don Little, Habitat's building supervisor, the groups were able to take the house from the floor joists, complete the framing, and place all of the roof trusses of the house, which is located in Mtn. Lake Park.

Oak Park Church of the Brethren and St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland housed the groups and provided breakfast and lunch. Evening meals were provided by the members of St. Mark's, Oakland Church of Christ, Meadow Mountain Mennonite Church, and the Habitat board of directors.

"Garrett County Habitat for Humanity and the family that will be moving into this house by the end of September are most appreciative of the church groups and all the people and businesses who have contributed time and money toward these projects," said Ann Hill, president of Habitat.

According to Johnson, there will be seven other out-of-town church groups coming to the county, plus several local groups, helping with the building of two new Habitat homes in the county this summer.

Groups and individuals wishing to participate in these construction projects may obtain more information by telephoning the Habitat office at 301-334-9431, ext. 113.

Student Accepted To Arts, Science, Tech Academy

Tina Marie Lively, Myrtle Beach, S.C., and originally of Grantsville, has been accepted at the Academy of Arts, Science, and Technology in Myrtle Beach. She is the daughter of Gary and Connie Lively, and the granddaughter of Mary Kamp.

She will attend the academy for half-days next school year, and will return to her base school, Socastee High School, for the second half of the day. At Socastee, Tina is an honor student, and a member of the National Honor Society, the Beta Club, the Art Club, and chorus. She has received numerous citations for her achievements, including the Governor's Award. She was also named Student of the Year when she was a sophomore.

At the academy, Tina will major in computer art and visual art. She hopes to pursue studies in marine biology, with the goal of becoming a dolphin trainer. She currently is employed as a typesetter and editor for a magazine in Myrtle Beach.

From The Family of Wendy Kay Bray

We wish to thank the following people who responded and helped save our daughter's life on the morning of June 1, 2000, following the car accident on Green Glade Road, Ken Schroth, the rescuer and our hero, the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, the Deer Park Fire Department, the Medevac crew, the Cumberland Memorial Hospital emergency room personnel, the Shock-Trauma Hospital of Baltimore's doctors and nurses, and the Johns Hopkins Bayview Burn Center of Baltimore and its Burn Center surgeons, nursing staff, and psychiatry department.

We want to extend a heartfelt Thank You to all the churches and people who have sent up prayers and continue to do so, our special thanks to Glotfelty Enterprises, Garrett Community College, the Starlite Motel, the International Beauty School of Cumberland and all the students, all of the people who donated money, all of our friends who have called, sent cards, food and well wishes in this most difficult and tragic time in our lives. We are truly thankful that we live in the loving community environment of Garrett County and western Maryland.

Our hearts and prayers go out to Wendy's friend Dionne Marie Polce's family. We grieve your loss of a beautiful daughter, mom, sister, and fiancee with you.

Wendy continues to be a patient in the Bayview Burn Center and is expected to be there for some time. She has had nine surgeries for her injuries and burns. She will face reconstruction surgery, therapy and rehabilitation. With God's healing hand and the support of friends and family she will live to come home and start her life over. Thanks again for the support, the hugs, expressions of concern, and prayers.

Wendy's Dad & Mom - Bill and Mildred (Snooks) Bray;
Her Fiancee, Joe Snell; Her Daughter, Eden Marie Snell;
Brother Billy Bray and Wife Angie at Vandenberg AFB, California, and their children Little Bill and Pru; and Grandmother Frances Bray

To Send Cards:

A funeral service was conducted earlier today, July 20, at the funeral home, with the Rev. E. Jay West officiating. Interment was in the Queen's Point Cemetery, Keyser.

MABEL C. RUSH

Mabel C. Rush, 85, Frostburg, died Friday, July 14, 2000, at the St. Vincent DePaul Nursing Center, Frostburg, where she had been a resident.

Born Oct. 5, 1914, in Garrett County, she was a daughter of the late Noah and Inez (Minnick) McKenzie. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Randolph Rush; one son, Robert Rush; six brothers; and one sister.

She was a retired seamstress at the Flushing Shirt Factory, Grantsville, and was Protestant by faith.

Survivors include three daughters, Carlene McKenzie, Zihlman, and Shirley Brant and Linda Pifer, both of Frostburg; three sons, Anthony Rush, Churchton, Leon Rush, Consol, and Curtis Rush, Clearwater, Fla.; two sisters, Blanche Spiker, a resident of the Frostburg Village Nursing Home, and Pearl Garlitz, Avilton; 20 grandchildren; and 26 great-grandchildren.

Her body was cremated.

A memorial service was conducted at the Durst Funeral Home, Frostburg, on Monday, July 17, with the Rev. T. William Preston officiating. Interment was in Frostburg Memorial Park.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to a charity of the donor's choice.

Red Cross To Hold Ty Raffle

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross has announced details of its latest Ty bear raffle, title "Families and Families of Bears."

The raffle includes a total of 12 prizes, with the grand prize being a family of Peace bears (an extra large Peace Buddy, a large Peace Buddy, a pastel Peace Buddy, and a Peace Beanie. Other prizes include: the Fuzz family (large Fuzz, Fuzz Buddy, and Fuzz Beanie), the Signature family (Signature Buddy with the 1999 and 2000 Signature Beanies), the Spangle family (Buddy and Beanie), plus seven other families.

The raffle will also feature a collection of McDonald's Beanie Bears. Many of the bears being offered are already retired and no longer available for purchase.

The drawing will be held August 19 at the ARC booth at the Garrett County Fair in McHenry. Tickets and information are available at various blood drives and at the following local outlets: Proudfoot's Pharmacy in Oakland, and Reminisce Antique Mall and Deep Creek Body Works at Deep Creek Lake.

GCMH Unveils New Advance Directives Svc.

Advance directives, documents which state an individual's choices about medical treatment or names another party to make decisions about one's medical treatment if a patient is unable to do so, can now be included in a patient's permanent medical record file at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

"The advance directive expresses your health care wishes and preferences, and provides you with a voice when you are too sick to speak and decide for yourself," explained Mary VanSickle, the hospital's social services director. "The best way to make sure your wishes are respected is to talk over what might happen to you, and then to have your wishes documented in an advance directive. This document should be discussed and filed with your doctor, the hospital, and with those closest to you. An advance directive is considered a legal document and must be prepared with care."

Persons who are going to be admitted to the hospital are encouraged to bring a copy of their advance directive, which will then become a part of their permanent medical record, VanSickle continued. "This new process will be more convenient for the patient and will ensure that the information is available to the appropriate medical personnel throughout the patient's lifetime."

Advance directive forms are available at the GCMH information desk. Additional information can be obtained through the hospital's social services office at 301-533-4311. Assistance is available to help individuals wishing to fill out advance directive forms.

MTMHA Director Yoder Striving To Empower Mental Health Providers

by Peggy Santamaria

"My vision is a seamless service delivery for people who are mentally ill — from infant through geriatric stages."

Trish Yoder, who assumed the responsibilities of executive director of Mountain Top Mental Health Associates Inc. in April, describes the organization as "empowering providers to do what they do best."

By definition, the agency has the authority to ensure the quality of public mental health services in Garrett County. "Yes, we are a public management agency; but I don't see us 'policing' our service providers," she said. Rather, Yoder's focus is on identifying the needs or gaps in services offered in Garrett County and seeking out ways to fill them.

To learn of these needs, Yoder works with both consumers and providers of mental health services. In a rural area such as Garrett County the problems faced by those with mental illness may not be solved by the programs designed by the state for use in urban and suburban areas. "We are working toward a situation in which the state gives us programs that are tailored to meet our needs and not vice-versa," Yoder stated.

When not working directly with consumers, providers, or MTMHA staff, Yoder can be found researching funding opportunities for programs in Garrett County. Such programs may help those with mental illness meet housing, employment, or transportation needs.

Yoder's staff at MTMHA includes housing specialist Dan Seib, adult services coordinator Diana Boller, and a soon-to-be-hired child and family coordinator, the position Yoder filled prior to being selected as executive director.

A Garrett County native, Yoder graduated from Northern High School and Garrett Community College before completing her degree at Frostburg State University. She also earned a master's degree in counseling psychology at FSU. More recently, Yoder has been awarded a certificate for course work at Johns Hopkins University.

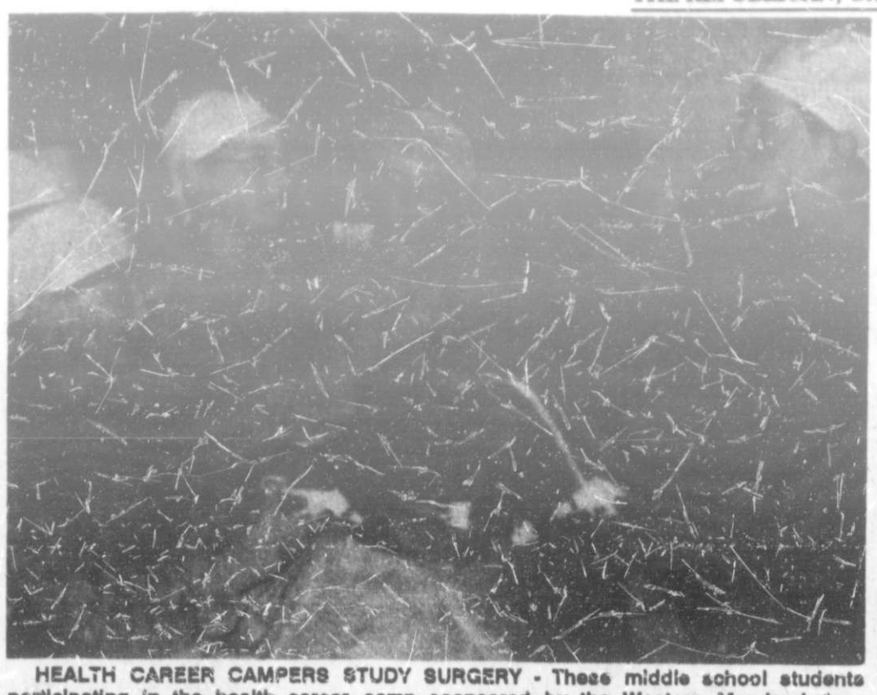

Before joining the staff of MTMHA Yoder was employed by the Garrett County Board of Education for five years, where she implemented the STAR (Students Taking Active Responsibility) program.

Yoder speaks enthusiastically about the challenges of her position and competence of the people with whom she works. "I believe that as a team we are so dynamic that we can achieve what we strive for," she said.

She also said she considers herself extremely fortunate to have found a position in her own county that allows her to practice the skills she has acquired through education and work experience. "I feel so privileged to be doing this," Yoder said.

HEALTH CAREER CAMPERS STUDY SURGERY - These middle school students participating in the health career camp sponsored by the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) practiced the hand/eye coordination skills required for laparoscopic surgery in the operating room at the Western Maryland Health System. They used a pelvic trainer box, scope, and graspers to move gummy bears from one point to another. The students can not see the gummy bears in the trainer box, which is covered, and must rely solely upon the television monitor to perform the "surgery." For information about the Summer Health Careers Camp or other health exploration opportunities, persons may contact Western Maryland AHEC at 301-777-9150. Pictured, left to right, are camp participants Michael Roberts, Christian Hunt, Melissa Stevens, Candice Leberfinger, Melanie Martin, Danielle Kennedy (from Allegany County), and Scott Buckingham (from Garrett County).

Lupus Support Group To Meet

Connections, the western Maryland lupus support group, will meet in Cumberland on Tuesday, Aug. 1, 6:30 p.m., at the Brandenburg Center, located along Country Club Road. Another meeting is also slated at the Hagerstown Presbyterian Church, 20 East Prospect St., Hagerstown, on August 7 at 7 p.m.

Connections is sponsored by the Maryland Lupus Foundation. Anyone wishing to obtain more information on either meeting or to request a free information packet on lupus may call 1-800-777-0934.

First Fun Walk Will Be Held In Friendsville

The first Fun Walk will be held at the Friendsville Community Park on Saturday, Aug. 5, beginning at 8 a.m. Scheduled as part of the Friendsville Days festivities, the event is cosponsored by the citizens group R.A.D. — Residents Against Drugs — and the outreach program of the Garrett County Health Department.

Commemorative sweatshirts will be given to the first 50 registrants. First place plaques will be presented to a male and female in each of the following age categories: 16-24, 25-39, 40-59, and 60 and older. The entrance fee is $10 if paid by July 22 or $12 at the park.

For more information, persons may call Brenda Frazee at 301-334-8122.

Treating Post-Stroke Depression Reported To Repair Mental Skills

Individuals who receive treatment for depression after a stroke get the added benefit of restoring mental abilities, which are often impaired by a stroke, according to a report this month in Stroke: Journal of the American Heart Association.

In the first double-blind treatment trial aimed at establishing a firm link between post-stroke depression and the impairment of certain mental abilities, researchers in the U.S. and Japan found that nearly 3/4 of patients who received anti-depressants during treatment recovered some mental function that was lost after having a stroke.

Researchers measured mental functions such as orientation, memory, language, and hand-eye coordination. These findings confirm the presence of what researchers call a "dementia of depression," which sometimes mimics Alzheimer's disease in people who have had a stroke. "A number of studies over the past 20 years have indicated an association between depression and mental impairment following a stroke," said Robert G. Robinson, M.D., of the department of psychiatry at the University of Iowa, where part of the research was carried out.

He explained that this is the first research to show that relieving depression can also often restore lost mental ability. In the past, researchers speculated that some of the older anti-depressant drugs might actually interfere with a person's mental performance, Robinson said. "However, we found that 74 percent of the patients who completed the study responded favorably to this particular drug treatment," he said.

Robinson also noted that anything that can effectively treat post-stroke depression, whether an old or new treatment, could also improve mental ability.

Researchers evaluated 47 patients with 21 randomly assigned to anti-depressant treatment and the other 26 to a placebo. Over a period of 6 to 12 weeks, the anti-depressant group showed "significantly greater improvement" in both mood and mental function.

There are two main causes of mental impairment after a stroke, Robinson explained. One is physical damage to the brain caused by the stroke itself; the other is post-stroke depression. "For years it was thought that if a patient showed no improvement in mental ability after a stroke, the impairment was caused by the stroke lesion and that treating depression wouldn't help; but that clearly isn't true," Robinson said.

Patients with post-stroke depression have cognitive impairment that is caused by both brain damage and depression, and most of these patients can be effectively treated with anti-depressants, he noted.

Because many stroke patients are in the same age group in which Alzheimer's disease is prevalent, medical professionals can't always be sure of the causes of dementia, he said.

The symptoms of dementia due to stroke or Alzheimer's disease are similar, Robinson explained, but he pointed out that in Alzheimer's disease, the condition is progressive while in stroke patients, the symptoms are at their worst at the time of the stroke and then tend to improve somewhat.

The situation is complicated by the fact that depression is often considered a "natural" part of a person's post-stroke condition and in many cases goes untreated. "Our findings provide another compelling reason to evaluate all stroke patients for depression and to treat depression aggressively when it's found. Families of stroke survivors need to know how important this is," he concluded.

Dance At Golf Club To Benefit The Dove Center

The Oakland Golf Club Sandtrap Lounge will host a "no-cover-charge" dance to benefit the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence prevention program. The event is scheduled for next Thursday, July 27, beginning at 7 p.m.

The dance will have a "tropical Jimmy Buffet" theme and feature "a cheeseburger special" and margaritas, according to coordinators Sherri Stewart, lounge manager, and Heather Hanline of the Dove Center. Prizes will be awarded to winners of dance and limbo contests, and anyone arriving dressed in tropical clothing will be eligible for a door prize.

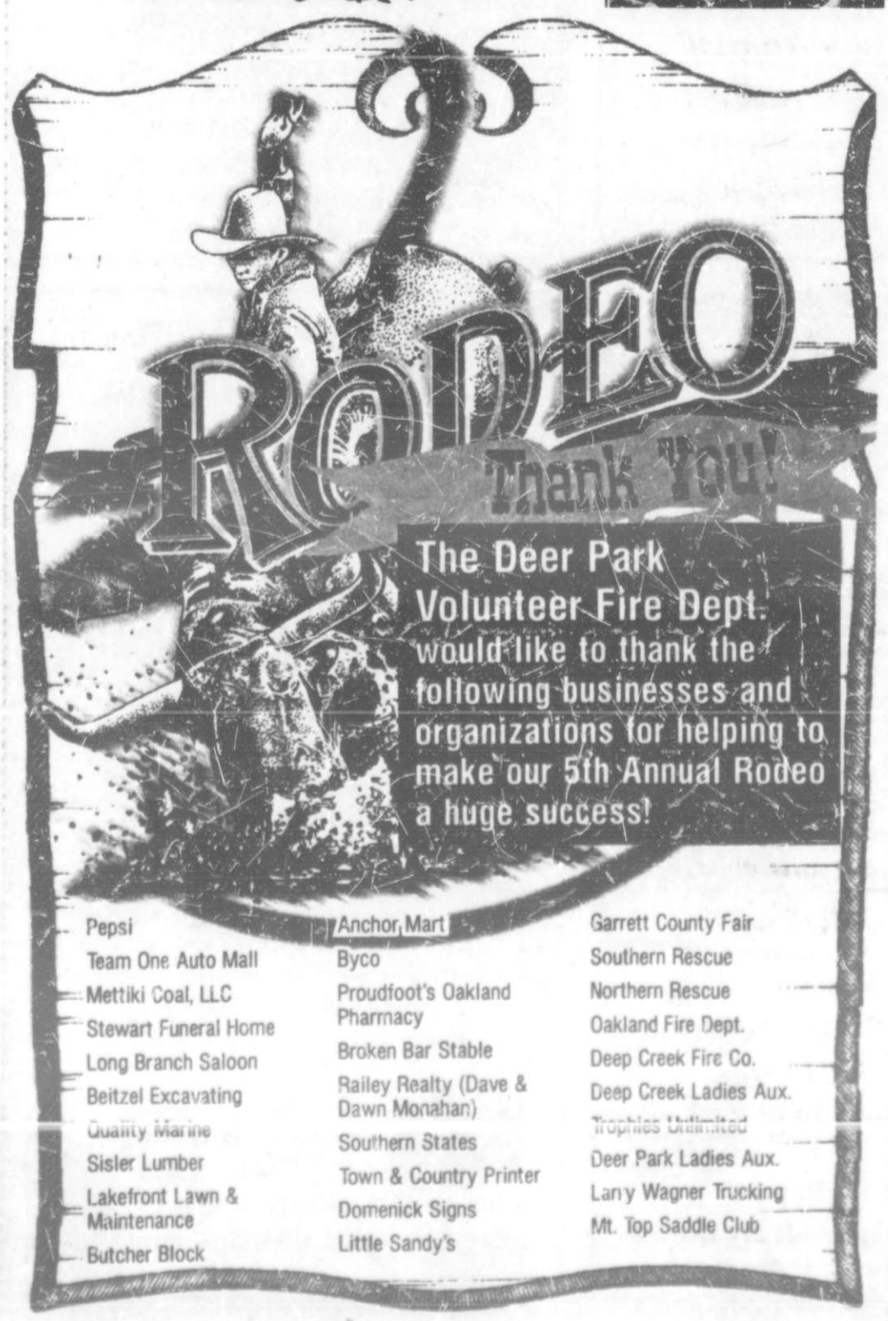

Raffles will be held during the evening for a variety of prizes donated by local businesses and individuals. Among the items that will be raffled are a golf bag, Beanie Babies, a quilt, a "bucket of cheer," a Hewlett-Packard color desk jet printer, and a set of margarita glasses. Tickets cost $1 each and may be purchased in advance from the Dove Center staff or at the dance.

"Last year's dance had an 'oldies' theme and was very successful, as well as fun. This year's dance promises to be even better. We hope all those 'parrot heads' out there will come out, have some fun, and support a good cause," Hanline said.

For more information persons may call the Dove Center at 301-334-6255.

Robin Caldwell, Donald Moreland United In May Wedding Ceremony

Robin Lynn Caldwell and Donald Stuart Moreland were joined in marriage on May 6 at the Mt. Top Christian Assembly of God Church in Mtn. Lake Park. Rev. Ivan Ackerman performed the double ring ceremony, which was followed by a reception in the church's fellowship hall.

The bride is the daughter of Nelson and Lillian Roach, Berkeley Springs, W.Va. The groom is the son of Donald and Arletha Moreland of Oakland.

The bride was escorted by and given into marriage by her son, Zachary Caldwell. She chose a traditional white gown of organza and Alençon lace, with a chapel-length train adorned with sequins and pearls. The maid of honor was Karen Burns of Berkeley Springs, friend of the bride. The flower girls were Carrie Boone and Robin Fleece.

Serving as best man was Dave Monahan of Accident, friend of the groom. The ring bearers were Ryan and Cory Moreland, sons of the groom.

To Celebrate 90th

An open house to celebrate the 90th birthday of Katie Henline will be held Sunday, Aug. 13, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Mt. Storm United Methodist Church. All family and friends are invited. The family requests that gifts be omitted, although cards will be appreciated.

Donoghue-Reckart Couple To Marry

Together with their parents, Selena Ann Donoghue and Rodney Allen Reckart, both of Oakland, announce their forthcoming wedding. The couple will be married on Saturday, Aug. 19, at 1 p.m. at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland.

The bride elect is a 2000 graduate of Southern High School and is employed by Browning's Foodland. Mr. Reckart is a 1997 graduate of Southern and is employed by Reliable Property Maintenance at Deep Creek Lake.

Although invitations have been sent, the couple extends an invitation to all friends and family to attend the ceremony.

Bolyard-Keefer Vows Exchanged

Melissa Lynn Bolyard and Mark Wayne Keefer were united in marriage on June 17, 2000. The double-ring ceremony took place at the Friends Greens, McHenry, with Rev. Richard Sisler officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Carlos Bolyard of Oakland and Robin Rice of McHenry, and a step-daughter of Robert Rice of McHenry. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Getty Keefer of Friendsville.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father. Serving as maid of honor was April Harvey. Bridesmaids were April Friend, Georgie Friend. and Bev Yommer. The flower girl was Jennifer Sisler.

Serving as best man was Jason Fatterson. Groomsmen were Roy Fazenbaker, Duane Rice, and Sean Kline. The ring bearer was Levi Sweitzer.

It was a western-style wedding. Flowers were by Deana Falkner. The cake was baked by Sheiladean Bolyard and Shelbadean Harvey.

DeWitt-Bolyard Wedding Slated

Brian Wayne DeWitt and Sharron Rene Bolyard announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage. Brian is the son of Kenneth and Connie DeWitt of Oakland. Sharron is the daughter of Carlos Bolyard, also of Oakland, and Robin Rice of McHenry, and a step-daughter of Robert Rice of McHenry.

The couple will be wed in a ceremony this Saturday, July 22, at 1 p.m. at the Apostolics of Oakland Church in Mtn. Lake Park. A reception will follow at the Oakland fire hall.

Although some invitations have been sent, all relatives and friends are invited to attend.

Adorable Adoptables

THE LARGE AND THE SMALL OF IT — What we have here, courtesy of the Garrett County Animal Shelter, will soon branch out to opposite ends of the pet size spectrum. The 6-month-old female black puppy shown above is a St. Bernard/Labrador retriever mix who has some mighty big paws to grow into. For those who prefer daintier (but no less lovable) creatures, the group of sibling long-haired kittens is also available for adoption. These and other animals may be visited at the animal shelter, which is located along Oakland Sang Run Road and is open during the day on weekdays and on Saturday mornings.

Two Arrested

discovered that several front and side windows had been broken and that the business had been ransacked. Food, cigarettes, and candy were missing from the store section.

Patton remains held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $50,000 bond, while Schrock was released from jail after posting $5,000 bond.

Christopher Acheson Beitzel, 20, Oakland, was arrested by GBI detectives on Sunday, July 9, and charged in connection with two separate incidents, a check forgery and the theft of a rifle.

The alleged check forgery took place over the last week of June, when a pair of checks belonging to a Mtn. Lake Park resident were cashed at the Terra Alta Bank in Terra Alta, W.Va., without her knowledge. Both checks were signed in her name, and one was made out to Beitzel and the other was made out to a second subject, who has not been charged.

The second incident took place on Tuesday, July 4, according to a Deer Park resident who reported it later that same day. She told detectives that Beitzel and two other subjects had been visiting her home that morning, and that shortly after they departed a .303-caliber British Enfield rifle was discovered to be missing from a sitting room, where it had been stored unlocked in plain view. After following a series of leads, detectives concluded that Beitzel had taken the $400 rifle into his possession and shortly later sold it for $100.

Beitzel, who was charged with first degree burglary, forgery, and felony theft, as well as failure to appear through an existing bench warrant, was released from jail after posting a $6,000 bond.

RICK K. & THE ALLNIGHTERS will present a concert during the 44th annual Garrett County Agriculture Fair, slated for August 13-19 at the county fairgrounds. Rick K. & the Allnighters will perform on Tuesday, Aug. 15, at 8 p.m. and again at 9:30 p.m. on the 4-H stage. The group is known for its unique blend of rock and roll "oldies," new country, and current "top 40" hits. Rick K. formed the group 11 years ago in Morgantown, W.Va. He and his band have performed more than 200 shows in 14 states over the past two years, most recently playing at the Texas Motor Speedway in Dallas, the LA County Fairplex in Los Angeles, and in Las Vegas. The band has been a long-time supporter of the American Cancer Society, helping to raise over $300,000 to fight the disease. The group also supports such organizations as the American Heart Association and the Make-A-Wish Foundation. Rick K. & the Allnighters have appeared with such artists as Chubby Checker, the Temptations, Percy Sledge, Martha and the Vandellas, Bo Diddley, and the Shirelles. Entry to the concert at the fair is covered in the admission price of $6 per person.

Deputies Charge Three With Drug, Alcohol Offenses

Three subjects were arrested and charged with a variety of drug and alcohol-related offenses early Tuesday morning by Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigating a complaint of a vehicle driving recklessly on Eagle Rock Road and in nearby fields.

Shortly after midnight deputies found two pickup trucks parked at the end of the county-maintained road and arrested both of the respective drivers, Kenneth James Murphy, 20, Deer Park, and Paul Douglass Friend, 19, Loch Lynn, on charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI). A 17-year-old juvenile female passenger in one of the vehicles was also arrested for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. All three subjects were also charged with underage possession of alcohol.

In other sheriff's arrest activity, a Pleasant Valley area resident was charged with disorderly conduct last Wednesday evening, July 12.

Terry Lynn Ford, 37, was arrested at 6 p.m. by deputies who had been called to check on a disturbance at a Plessinger Lane residence. While speaking to deputies in his front yard, a reportedly intoxicated Ford refused to lower his voice and stop yelling obscenities after repeated requests.

Ford was subsequently released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance.

Michael Dewayne Thompson, 19, Oakland, was arrested on Wednesday, July 5, and charged with second degree assault and underage alcohol possession. He had allegedly struck a woman during a domestic-related argument at his Crellin Mine Road residence. Following his arrest he was released on his own recognizance.

David Richard Armstrong, 27, Kitzmiller, was arrested on a charge of second degree assault recently after a domestic-related incident on Monday, July 3. He allegedly shoved a woman's head into a kitchen sink and threw her onto a coffee table at his State Street residence. He was subsequently released after posting a $2,500 bond.

Randy Lee Smith, 21, Kitzmiller, was arrested and charged with second degree assault after a Sunday, July 2, domestic-related incident at a Pappas Lane residence. He had allegedly assaulted a woman there at the home of her relatives, left the scene, then returned a short time later to try to gain entry. The woman's father reportedly struck the intoxicated Smith in the head with a flashlight to defend his home.

Smith was apprehended by deputies at the emergency room of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he had gone to seek treatment. He was later released after posting a $2,500 bond.

Dewayne Anthony Holliday, 20, Accident, and Carlton Jay Shomo, 18, Accident, were both arrested following a series of paintball incidents on Thursday, June 29. The pair, along with a juvenile female passenger, were apprehended in a car traveling on Hoyes Run Road shortly after they had allegedly shot paintballs at buildings in Friendsville. A paintball gun was located in the car, and all three subjects were charged with destruction of property and later released from jail under circumstances that are not available. Shomo was also served with an existing bench warrant charging him with failure to appear for a court hearing.

DWIs/DUIs

Several subjects were arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI) or driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) recently: Alice Marie Murphy, 18, Deer Park; Sheldon Ray Sisler, 37, Aurora, W.Va.; Jackson Lee DeWitt Jr., 39, Bayard, W.Va.; Jonathan Ray Oester, 22, Salisbury; and Dwayne Matthew Wakefield, 23, Baltimore.

Hordubay Earns Degree, Honors From AC of Md.

Janel Marie Hordubay graduated summa cum laude from Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland, with an associate's degree in dental hygiene on May 14. She was selected as a valedictorian for the 306 students receiving degrees in the class of 2000.

Hordubay was presented with the William T. Fridinger D.D.S. Award for academic excellence in dental hygiene plus awards for outstanding achievement in oral pathology and periodontics. In addition she was honored with membership in Sigma Phi Alpha, the dental hygiene honor society.

A 1997 graduate of Northern Garrett High School, Hordubay is the daughter of Vickie and Elmer Hordubay and the granddaughter of Gale and Susie Kamp.

SHS's Bosley Named Baseball's Player Of Year By Area Coaches

Two Ram Teammates, One Husky Also On First Team

Two-way standout Josh Bosley, a linchpin for the Southern High School Rams over the last three years, has been named the Skip Cook High School Baseball Player of the Year through a poll of area coaches. The honor, named after the late Keyser (W.Va.) High baseball coach, also signifies the graduating senior's selection as captain of the 2000 All-Area High School squad, where he is joined on the first team by teammates Justin DiSimone in the infield and outfielder Jason Rohrbaugh.

The only other squad fielding three first team players is area champ Pendleton County (W.Va.), while Northern High is represented by Huskies' outfielder Adam Brenneman, who drew the most votes of any outfielder on the honorary squad.

As a second baseman and a pitcher, Bosley, who will continue his career at Garrett Community College next season, helped lead the Rams to a 49-15 record and two state tournaments over his career. This year Bosley and his Ram teammates notched a 17-4 mark on their way to the WMIL and Region championships, and to the state semifinals. "Josh has meant so much to our program as a three-year starter," SHS head coach Jim Bosley commented. "He was a great hitter, was one of the fastest kids on the team, and his pitching was also very important. He's certainly one of the top three or four players I've ever coached, and the best pure hitter."

Bosley's .530 batting average of the past season, good for a fourth-place tie in the region, is the second-highest mark in school history, just off Brett Rice's .533 tally in 1991. In going 35 for 66 at the plate he also accumulated the second-highest season hit total for the Rams, just one shy of the 36-hit record set four years ago by Seth Tressler. He blasted a team-record nine home runs and drove in 34 runs, one behind Mike Shahan's record 35 RBIs of last year.

One of the top pitchers in a field of exceptionally strong hurlers across the region this season, Bosley won seven games while losing only two. He struck out 50 batters in 46 innings, issuing only 12 walks, and posted a 2.89 earned run average. He tossed a one-hitter against Fort Hill and a two-hitter against Allegany during the regular season, and struck out nine Westmar batters during a three-hit victory in the regional championship contest. With control and concentration as his trademarks during his career of SHS mound duty, Bosley walked only 36 batters over a total of 100 innings, while recording 92 strikeouts.

Bosley ranks at the top or second in seven offensive categories for the SHS program. Among those statistics are a .479 (81 for 169) career batting average, good for the top slot on the Rams' career list. He also holds a team-record mark of 35 career extra-base hits, and is tied with Tressler for the no. 1 home run mark with 18 round-trippers.

"Josh has always been a hitter, and he could always hit any kind of pitching," Coach Bosley observed. "He was one of the fastest kids on the team [with 10 stolen bases this year], and his pitching was also very important. I'll miss him as a hitter, but also as a pitcher, because every third or fourth day you could count on him to give you seven innings. He enjoys the game, is a hard worker, and comes to play."

Also named to the All-Area first team were NHS senior Brenneman, and SHS's DiSimone, a junior, and senior teammate Rohrbaugh.

Northern's Brenneman, who helped spark head coach Phil Carr's Huskies to a 13-6 mark, led his team in batting with a .497 average, eight doubles, one triple, 26 RBI, and a .677 slugging percentage. He scored 18 times, had a .629 on-base percentage, and committed only one fielding error during the season.

DiSimone was eleventh in the area batting ranks with a .492 mark, good for second on the Southern squad, and he was sixth in the region in triples with four and eighth in runs scored with 32. He went 34 for 69 at the plate, led the Rams with five doubles and four triples, and was third in RBIs with 24. His tallies of hit and runs-scored totals were good for second place in both categories for the Rams, each total just one off Bosley's team-leading numbers.

Rohrbaugh batted .391 as he hit six home runs and drove in 27 runs, the latter figures both good for second on the Rams' roster. He went 24 for 64, hit three doubles, and did not commit a single error in the Southern outfield.

Noted with All-Area second team honors was senior Southern outfielder Mike Shahan, who batted .400 for the season with three home runs while scoring 27 times and driving in 27 runs.

A pair of two-way Northern standouts, seniors P.J. Workman and Nathan Sleeman were both recognized with honorable mention status. Workman was selected for his catching prowess, while Sleeman was noted for his work in the outfield. Both players turned in excellent seasons on the mound for the Huskies as well.

Rounding out the All-Area first team were pitcher Cory Koliscak, infielder Jake Good, and outfielder Justin Kirk, all of Pendleton, and Frankfort pitcher Josh Dolly and teammate Justin Jenkins, an infielder. Westmar's David Ziler was selected as the squad's catcher, while outfielder Josh Delawder of Paw Paw, and infielders Adam Simmons of East Hardy, Ryan Lambert of Petersburg, and Gerald Mayhew of Keyser were also singled out for first team recognition.

Doerr's Finishes Hot Stove Year With 12-2 Defeat

The 2000 Hot Stove Baseball League season is now over for Doerr's Construction of Accident, as the local team dropped a 12-2 decision to Kiwanis last Thursday at Northern High School. Doerr's finished with a 5-11 record.

Justin Mellow paced Kiwanis to the win by pitching a three-hitter, striking out nine, walking three, and not allowing an earned run, and also aided his own cause at the plate by rapping a double and a single to bring home five runs. It was the 14th straight victory for first-place Kiwanis, and the 16th win in 17 outings.

George Geatz had two singles and three RBI, Chris Johnston had two singles, and Josh Hierstetter and Sean Welsh each stroked a double.

The game was called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Women Golfers Play "Ol' Yeller"

"O'l Yeller" was the play of the Oakland Women's Golf Association for July 13, with Fran Bell, Ann Jesnak, Bonnie DeWater, and Rita Humberson carding 106 to win first place honors. Scoring 109 for second place was the team of Bobbie Seward, Margaret Moran, Cheryl Wotherspoon, and Betsy Police, while Annis Coiow, Mary Spencer, Loretta Pernell, and Debbie Weissgerber totaled 111 strokes for third place.

GCC's Melnyk, Kochenderfer, Mills Selected All-Region XX

BRIAN MELNYK

DAN KOCHENDERFER

MATT MILLS

Three standout members of the 2000 baseball team of Garrett Community College have been named to the All-Region XX squad because of their efforts on the diamond this season. They include pitcher Brian Melnyk, infielder Matt Mills, and infielder Dan Kochenderfer.

Melnyk, who will continue his academic and athletic career at West Virginia University this fall, completed the 2000 campaign with a 4-2 record and a 2.56 ERA. He recorded 65 strike-outs in 45 and 2/3 innings.

The 6-2 left-hander is from Colliers, W.Va.

"I'm glad the other coaches recognized the potential in Brian," stated GCC coach Ed Wildesen. "He didn't have quite as good a season this year as last, but that was mainly because we didn't hit or play real well behind him in some games."

Kochenderfer, who just finished his freshman year at Garrett, hit .367 for the Lakers this year. The Lewistown, Pa., resident recorded seven home runs, 40 RBI, and 42 runs scored.

"Dan's high school experience was as a catcher," Wildesen said, "but we really needed him in the outfield, and he did a great job for us in right field. He was very consistent at the plate."

Mills, a freshman from Clifton, Va., hit .393 for Garrett this year, with eight doubles, four triples, one home run, 24 RBI, and 38 runs scored.

"Matt is excellent at second base, and he's one of our top hitters," Wildesen said.

Receiving honorable mention All-Region honors was GCC catcher Jerry Lee.

Garrett County, Fort Cumberland Will Compete For Legion Title

Garrett County's American Legion baseball team will have a shot at the Mountain District title and a berth in the state tournament, as the local players will open a best-of-three championship series this evening at Garrett Community College. Garrett County, currently 4-1 in the second half of the season, will meet Fort Cumberland in the series.

Tonight's clash will begin at 7:30 p.m. under the lights at the GCC diamond, and the second game will be played Saturday at noon at Legion Field in Cumberland. If a third game is necessary, it will be take place Sunday back at GCC.

Fort Cumberland won the first half of the season, and Garrett won the second half when Fort Cumberland was unable to field a team for a deciding game last Saturday.

Garrett County wrapped up its regular season last Thursday at GCC with a 12-5, come-from-behind win over Frostburg. The local team took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first, spotted Frostburg three runs in the bottom of that inning, and took the lead for good with six runs in the second.

Frostburg scored its three first-inning runs on an RBI single by Ryan Brodbeck and a two-base, two-run error on a ball hit by Zach Bittinger.

Garrett's big second inning was led off by a single by Jared Fike, followed by a walk by Justin Sleeman and a single by Jeremy Frazee to load the bases. Nathan Sleeman then singled home Fike and Jared Sleeman, and Ricky Reams followed with a run-producing double to make the score 4-3. Jordan Uphold followed with an RBI single, after which Mike Shahan wrapped a two-run single.

Garrett County added single runs in the third and fourth, three in the eighth, and one more in the ninth. Frostburg initiated a rally in the bottom of the eighth, but scored only two runs.

Jeremy Fitzwater pitched seven innings to earn the win over Bittinger.

Shahan finished with three singles to lead Garrett County's 13-hit effort, Justin Sleeman had a double and a single, and Justin DiSimone hit two singles. Brodbeck hit a pair of singles for Frostburg.

STATE FARM WINS TITLE - After finishing in second place in the regular season, the Oakland Girls' Softball League team sponsored by Rob Michael State Farm Insurance captured the league title by defeating Buffalo Coal in the title game. Only eight of the 13 members of the team were available to participate in the playoffs, but the State Farm "Super 8" won anyway. They first defeated Gregg's Pharmacy and met Buffalo Coal for the championship, which State Farm won by an 8-6 score. Winning pitcher Michelle Holler paced the offense by smacking three home runs. Pictured from left, kneeling, are: Brittany Scheffel, Ashley Rohrbaugh, Lyndsey Thayer, Krista Hanline, Jacklyn Skeweris, and Sara Stephens. In the second row are: Stephanie Hershman, Jessica Sypolt, Charlee Tasker, Jasmine Scheffel, Michelle Holler, Hannah Stahl, and Rachel Hanlin. In the back are coaches Mike Holler and Denny Skewerls. Members of the "Super 8" team were Holler, Thayer, Tasker, Hershman, Stephens, Sypolt, Stahl, and Hanlin.

Manta Rays Win Several Races In The Butterfly

The butterfly was the stroke for Saturday's meet at the Cumberland YMCA, and a number of first and second places were captured by the Garrett County Manta Rays. The Rays are one of six teams in the area that compete in the annual meets.

Winning races in A flight competition for the Rays were Kristen Williams, senior girls, 100 fly and 200 freestyle; and Jordan Lantz, prep boys, 50 fly.

A flight includes swimmers who compete all year and/or have won a B flight championship.

Taking runner-up honors in A flight for the Manta Rays were: Greg Speicher, senior boys, 200 free; Josh Lantz, junior boys, 200 free; Caitlin Williams, prep girls, 50 fly; and Jordan Lantz, prep boys, 200 free.

First places in B flight events were won by: Nick Gangler, senior boys, 50 fly and 100 free; Kailee Craig, junior girls, 100 free; Jadyn Swerbinsky, junior girls, 50 fly; Shar Hollingsworth, prep girls, 50 fly and 100 free; Ryan Heselbach, prep boys, 50 fly; Chris Speicher, prep boys, 100 free; Krista Hollingsworth, tyke girls, 50 free; Kurt Gangler, mini-tyke boys, 25 fly; and Ian Welch, mini-tyke boys, 25 free.

Second-place finishes in B flight were won by the following Rays: Sarah Anderson, prep girls, 100 free; Chris Speicher, prep boys, 50 fly; Ethan Chorpenning, cadet boys, 100 free; Krista Hollingsworth, tyke girls, 25 fly; Robert McEwen, tyke boys, 25 fly; Kristen Yant, mini-tyke girls, 25 fly and 25 free; and Ian Welch, mini-tyke boys, 25 fly.

Also finishing second was the Manta Rays' senior 200 freestyle relay team, including Nick Gangler, Leslie Magida, Kristen Williams, and Megan Williams.

Ringer Slinger Results Noted

The Mountaintop Ringer Slingers held two singles tournaments at the Accident Park courts recently, and will have a doubles tourney this Sunday, July 23, at the same location.

In the July 9 singles event, Jim Shahan won the A class, followed by Junior Goodwin in second place and Larry Coddington in third. Jesse Fenrer was the winner in B class, followed by Gary Holtschneider and Jamey Lewin.

Shahan also won the A class on July 16, while Bill Kanar placed second and Goodwin finished third. Coddington captured first place in B class, with Elwood Jackson and Tracy Shahan placing second and third, respectively.

Christian Men's Softball Results Are Announced

There were two doubleheader sweeps by Crellin teams and two splits this past week in Garrett County Area Christian Men's Softball League action, with second-place Crellin United Brethren taking two from Glade Mennonite, 24-3 and 22-2, and third-place Crellin United Methodist topping Cherry Glade Mennonite, 5-1 and 25-9.

Glade Mennonite won the first game against Mt. View Mennonite, 16-7, and dropped the second, 20-5, while Maple Glen Mennonite edged Crellin UB, 18-17, and was whipped in the nightcap, 19-2.

Farron Hershman was the winning pitcher for Crellin UB in its sweep of Glade, while Donnie Horner paced the winners' offensive effort with four home runs. Getting three homers each for Crellin were Roger Bowman and Jason Park.

Bill Ashby and Jeff Meyers each gained a win on the mound for Crellin UM against Cherry Glade. Crellin's Jay Bolyard had the only home run of the evening.

Rick Brenneman was the winning pitcher for Glade against Mt. View, and Gerald Tice was credited with the victory for Mt. View in the second game. Mayard Schrock and Brian, Jon, and Loren Yoder each hit home runs for Mt. View, and Terry Brenneman had one for Glade.

The winning pitcher for Maple Glen in its big upset of Crellin UB was Laban Tice, and Mike Ashby pitched Crellin to its win in the second game. Roger Bowman hit two homers for Crellin, and teammates Mel Evans, Roger Crosco, Mike Ashby, and Jason Park each recorded one. Dave Kennel and Craig Yoder had one round-tripper each for Maple Glen.

Bethel United Methodist is in first place with a 15-2 record, followed by Crellin UB at 15-3; Crellin UM, 16-4; Mt. View, 13-5; Maple Glen, 10-6; Glade, 12-9; Cherry Glade and Maranatha Assembly, 6-10; Oak Park Church of the Brethren, 5-11; Cornerstone, Gortner, and Pleasant View, 4-10; Nazarene, 3-11; and Crellin AG, 0-12.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

RACING CONTINUES ON DEEP CREEK LAKE
By Dan Muss

The weatherman called for a 70% chance of rain for Saturday, and in the morning, there didn't seem to be much wind on the lake. But by race time there was a nice breeze out of the west and quite a few boats were out. Bruce Spinnenweber, race commander, set a nice eight-leg course through the slot between Turkey Neck and Thousand Acres.

At the C Fleet start, I managed to take my nemesis, Ted Rissell, and we exchanged positions several times on the first weather leg. We were first to round and held our place for four legs, but on the fifth downwind leg, Ted crept away from us.

As we hardened up at the second leeward mark, my stalwart crew and I heard a funny groaning sound. We looked around and Marilyn Filemyr pointed out that our forestay was hanging loose. It turned out that a clevis pin had come out of the fitting that attached the forestay to the foredeck. This would have been quite easy to repair if we had had a spare clevis pin ... but we didn't. A decision was made: the wire luff of the jib sail would be sufficient to hold up the mast if the wind were not too heavy. But the wind had been heavy in the puffs, and I decided to retire and nurse the boat back to the mooring. Back at the mooring, I jury-rigged the forestay to the bow eye before we took the jib down. With the jib down, we could then hold the mast up with the jib halyard.

The Lasers had their largest turnout of the year. Peter Frey had just purchased a very nice, almost new, Laser and hoped to improve his finish. Unfortunately, just before the race, he relocated the hiking straps. His quick change did not stay fastened.

Also in the Laser fleet, Lucy Kammer sailed her first Saturday afternoon race. Lucy had just completed the advanced sailing course for teenagers at the Deep Creek Sailing School. She didn't win, but sailed a respectable race.

Eric Silverman, an instructor at the sailing school, and just back from an intensive racing clinic, was first. Keith Spinnenweber was second, with Chris Drury, another sailing school instructor, third.

In The Flying Scot A Fleet, perennial lake champion John Meredith with Karen Bour were first. Dave and Jane Mahan were second, and Al and Marlene Riebel third. In the Scot B Fleet, Meredith Dodd and Rachel Schubert, both sailing school instructors, were first. Second place was won by Ralph and Donna Kemp. Third place was held by Sally Errieson and Tom Garwin. In the Scot C Fleet, Ted Rissell and Carol Muss were first, followed by Ed and Barbara Peters, second, and Phil and Helen Hanna third.

In the second race on Saturday, first place in Lasers was won by Keith Spinnenweber, with Chris Drury, second, and Gordie Clefton, third.

First and second places in the Scot A fleet were the same as the first race, but Mo and Vicki Willey finished third. In Scots B, Meredith Dodd and Rachel Schubert were again first, Frank Vandal with Steve was second, and Dave Bertsch and Ron Downey were third.

On Sunday, as race time approached, the sky looked more and more ominous. The Lasers started, the Scot A fleet started, thunder was heard, and several boats, including all of the C Fleet, withdrew to the Deerhaven Yacht Club dock. The B fleet started. More thunder, and the race was canceled. All boats returned safely. Lightning may be attracted to the 26-foot aluminum mast of a Flying Scot, with potentially disastrous results.

Perfect Game Is Bowled By Elmer Porter

Despite being 66 years old, despite having back trouble and surgery, and despite having started bowling just five years ago, Elmer Porter of Oakland still rolled a perfect game of 300 in a match for the Wednesday Summer Trio Bowling League at Par-Matt Lanes.

It was in the second game of the three-game series on July 13 that Porter rolled 12 consecutive strikes after a modest 169 in his first game. His third game score was 171, which gave him a total set of 643. His current average is 167.

Porter said that he has considered quitting the game, primarily because of his back problems, but he admitted, "I enjoy bowling and the people so much that I just can't give up and quit."

By Robert Yonke

Area trout fishing in the Savage, North Branch, and Youghiogheny rivers has been coming on strong lately. These streams had been plagued with relatively high flow rates well into June and consequently were unfishable at times. Alan Noland of Spring Creek Outfitters told me recently that they had to cancel a number of trips earlier this year, but were now fishing the rivers, either by floating or wading, just about every day. He told of a recent trip to the North Branch where two anglers he was guiding brought around 40 trout to net and probably missed an equal number.

I saw the Savage River as active with trout as I can remember. This was two Saturdays ago and in the a.m. The surface action was very brisk on very small caddis and brown and green midges. Around noon the action stopped as suddenly as if someone had thrown a switch. The only difference I noticed was that a front came through and the sky clouded over. As soon as the sun was gone the surface action slowed to almost a stop.

There were a good number of anglers out in the morning. I parked near the upper suspension bridge and waded the long flat guide above the abandoned dam. Saw lots of fish and hooked a few. The eddy at the base of the dam was full of rising rainbows, and there were a good number of 12-inchers feeding below the surface in the fast chute on the far side. These fish were in full view, but I found them very selective and interested only in white chenille patterns.

FISHING REMAINS GOOD ON DEEP CREEK LAKE

In the last few weeks, some very nice walleye have been taken in Penn Cove. The weed growth is heavy farther up the cove, and these walleye are probably preying on small baitfish there.

Surface water temperature is 70 degrees or better. Lots of Deep Creek's fabled giant bluegills are being caught. Your best bait for these aggressive bluegills are worms. Smallmouth bass are biting on minnows, and yellow perch are hitting night crawlers. Crappie and northern pike are turning up occasionally, and chain pickerel are prowling the grassy areas in the southern end of the lake. Back Bay, Green Glade Cove, and North Glade Cove are pickerel hangouts.

Water temperature is always a factor in fishing for any species, but is never more important than in mid summer. It is key to locating both pan and game fish. Airguide, the instrument people, has just introduced a gauge that reads air, and water temperature, and also tells the time. The sensor comes with 23 feet of cord for easy mounting on the transom while the readout end can be mounted on the dash, trolling motor, or livewell. More information is available from David Goliaday at Johnson Outdoors, 1326 Willow Road, Sturtevant, Wisconsin 53177. Call toll-free at 1-800-299-2592 or visit the web site at www.airguideinstruments.com.

BEAR SIGHTINGS

There has been a flurry of bear sightings recently. A cyclist came upon a bear on Pysell Crosscut Road, and Kristin Dorr saw one feeding in a field near the intersection of Sky Valley Road and Route 495. John Neeley of Annapolis came across a bear with a cub while fishing the Savage River, and several bears in the 150- to 200-pound range have been spotted in the Grantsville area. The bears have not been aggressive.

ENDANGERED SPECIES NEWS

The DNR has proposed to reclassify 83 threatened and endangered species listed by the state of Maryland, including two federally listed species. Status changes were proposed for three animal species and 80 species of plants. The proposed changes will result in a change in status of 43 species and the removal of 40 spe-cies from the state list.

Public comments concerning the proposed changes to the state's threatened and endangered species list, which appeared in the June 30 issue of The Maryland Register, are welcomed by DNR. Written comments may be sent to Michael Slattery, Director, Wildlife and Heritage Division, 580 Taylor Avenue E-1, Annapolis, MD 21401, or faxed to 410-260-8595. The public comment period is open through July 31, 2000.

The bald eagle heads the list of species proposed for reclassification. It is currently listed by the state of Maryland as endangered, while listed as threatened by the federal government. DNR proposes to reclassify the bald eagle in Maryland as a threatened species.

WET SPRING CAN BE TOUGH ON TURKEY YOUNG

The wet spring that has brought relief from prolonged drought may result in reduced wild turkey harvest next year. Wet weather can be tough on turkey brood, and I personally have not seen turkey in the numbers of last few years. On the other hand, the rabbit population seems to be booming. Small game hunters could be in for an exciting season. However, a good number of these rabbits will be lost to raptors. I have seen a good number of ruffed grouse in the Savage Forest area recently, and we may be in for an upswing in grouse populations.

Changes Proposed For Deer Damage Permit Regulations

Following nearly one year of deliberation, a committee of Department of Natural Resources (DNR) staff, Farm Bureau representatives, county Extension agents, have developed proposed changes to the department's Deer Damage Permitting Regulations.

The proposal features several key changes intended to streamline the process for permittees and DNR staff, provide the necessary tools for landowners to manage their deer damage, and respond to the concerns of law enforcement, DNR staff, and other committee representatives. The changes in the permitting process include encouraging hunters to fill their license bag limit before utilizing deer damage permits to take deer; prohibiting use of rifles in shotgun-only counties by agents of the landowner; limiting damage investigations to properties 15 acres or larger; and allowing permits to be renewed for up to five consecutive years.

Approved by the Wildlife Advisory Commission, these changes will be supplemented with specific guidelines to implement new policies for the management of deer damage to crops, forestry plantings, and nursery stock. The proposed changes are currently available for review and public comment in the June 30 issue of The Maryland Register. Comments will be accepted until Aug. 15 by writing to Mike Slattery, DNR Wildlife and Heritage Division. 580 Taylor Ave. E-1, Annapolis, MD 21401. Comments may also be e-mailed to lwiley@dnr.state.md.us.

There were no other injuries reported. Also responding to the scene was the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

The investigation into the specific cause of the fire is continuing.

EVENING BREEZE GOLF COURSE, new on Pysell Crosscut Road, was developed and is owned by Larry Liller. Above, Liller's son Jeffrey, who helped develop and build the course, hits the first official golf ball. No reservation or appointment is necessary to play golf, but Liller can be reached by calling 301-533-4448.

Evening Breeze Golf Course

Evening Breeze Golf Course, developed and owned by Larry Liller, is located on Pysell Crosscut Road, near Deer Park. The nine-hole, par-three course is the first stage of a complex Liller hopes to develop in the future.

Brand new, the golf course has no amenities yet, only porta-johns, soda machines, and water are available now. But in the future there will be rest rooms, a snack bar, a club house and much more. "Like its management, it needs time to mature," Liller said. "Establishment of the golf course comes first and is my number one priority," he continued, and explained that right now the new course is in excellent condition with continuing construction ongoing. "It's a diamond in the rough," he said.

The golf course is open seven days a week from 8 a.m. until dusk, with an honor system in effect for payment. Liller can be reached by calling 301-533-4448, however, no appointment or reservation is necessary to play golf.

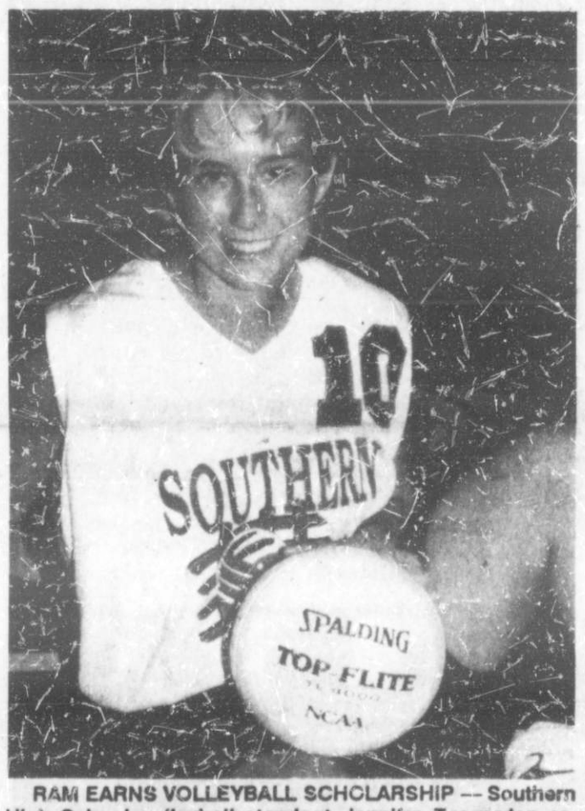

Liller's future plans involve developing a holistic health complex on the property. "I have devoted over 10 years of my weekends and free time to the development of roads for the complex and the golf course, and intend to continue development probably forever," Liller said.

His future plans include the health center, a learning center, a recreation hall, health building, camping on 100 acres, an ampitheatre for use by the public for music shows and performances, a mini golf course, and possibly a driving range. "We want to be here for a reason—your health," Liller concluded.

DeLauder, Jamie Bosley, Ronnie Carlisle, Andrew Grant, Molly McGowan, Laura Hinebaugh, Julie Holloway, Shari Winters, Sheila Nolan, and Jenna Partridge.

RAM EARNS VOLLEYBALL SCHOLARSHIP — Southern High School volleyball standout Jennifer Teagarden recently signed a letter of intent with Potomac State College that included a scholarship to cover tuition at the two-year college located in Keyser, W.Va. The Southern co-captain was named team Most Valuable Player for this past season, and she led the squad with 156 assists while recording an 87 percent serving efficiency average, 16 aces, and 36 kills. "Jennifer has been a joy to coach, and is a dedicated athlete who is always working to improve her skills," commented SHS head coach Sue Newton. "She will be an asset to the Catamount volleyball program." Teagarden also lettered in softball and basketball, and was named to Who's Who Among High School Students and received the Minds in Motion scholar athlete award.

GGEA HONORS MOEBS - The Greater Grantsville Business Association recognized out-going president Lindy Moeba, left, for her contributions to the organization. On behalf of the GGBA members, in-coming president Phyllis Finzel presented Moebs with a certificate of appreciation during last month's general membership meeting.

Moebs Honored For Service To Business Assn.

The Greater Grantsville Business Association recognized out-going president Lindy Moebs for her contributions to the organization during last month's general meeting. Incoming president Phyllis Finzel presented Moebs with a framed certificate of appreciation on behalf of the members.

Moebs, who owns and operates MuttWorks, a pet care and grooming service, has been an active member of the GGBA since its inception four years ago and has served on the board of directors since the group of business owners formed the organization.

She performed the duties of treasurer of the GGBA for two years and served as president for another two years. During her terms of office, Moebs coordinated speakers for monthly meetings. She selected the speakers with an eye to enhancing the skills and knowledge of local business owners and informing them of opportunities for growth, according to GGBA treasurer Debbie Klotz.

"Lindy also had the foresight to set up a web page for the GGBA and, along with her husband Matt Eary, has kept it current. Most recently she set up the domain name of www.grantsville.com," Klotz added.

Among the projects undertaken by Moebs during her tenure as president of the GGBA is the research, creation, and installation of pictorial/historical signs in Grantsville. The series of four professionally fabricated displays, each 2'x4', depict the chronology of the National Road from its use by Native American hunting parties to today's tourists. The signs also record the impact on the economy of local communities as this major westerly route developed.

Two of the markers are installed along Route 40 in front of the Casselman Inn, and two more are at the entrance to the Grantsville Community Park.

"Lindy established a number of policies and further paved the way for those who would follow," Klotz said.

GGBA To Hold July Meeting

The Greater Grantsville Business Association will hold its monthly general membership meeting on Wednesday, July 26, beginning at 8:30 a.m. at Penn Alps Restaurant. The guest speaker for the meeting will be Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence program.

Area business owners are welcome to attend.

PROFESSIONAL BABYSITTING — The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College offered a 12-hour course in professional babysitting this spring, with 11 students completing the class. Students were instructed on a variety of topics in the handling of and dealing with small children. Students completing the class were Laura Bowser, JoAnn Lewis, Joanne Buckle, Colleen Watson, Megan Swartzentruber, Shar Hollingsworth, Danielle Hickman, Ashley Tuck, Kailee Craig, Kenzie Craig, and Lindsey Osborne. Children who participated as "hands-on subjects" were Anthony and Katie Buckle, Julianna Sharpless, Lexis and Stephen DeWitt, and Michael, Joshua, Meghan, and Hannah Fitzwater. They are pictured above (not in order). Each student earned a citation of completion. Persons in need of babysitters may contact the college at 301-387-3069, and those interested in taking the course may contact Patricia Baer at 301-334-8304.

Lewis Included In Who's Who

Logan A. Lewis, an incoming junior at Southern High School, has been notified of his selection for inclusion in the upcoming edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1999-2000.

Logan, a merit student at Southern, is a Rotary Club volunteer and a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, where he is active with the Sunday School and on the youth and property committees. He attends Camp Luther annually. His hobbies include skiing, snow-boarding, hunting, fishing, and fly-tying.

After graduating, he plans to major in aeronautics to become a pilot, and to minor in German.

Logan is employed at Sams' Agway in Oakland. He is the son of Allen and Tammy Lewis, the grandson of Andy and Shirley Lewis and Ted and Linda Bowman, all of Oakland, and the great grandson of Vernon and Marie Wilt, Swanton.

Approximately 20,000 schools are represented by their students in Who's Who. Only 5 percent of all high school students receive the annual award.

dents of Estonian descent. As part of the effort, "sister" cities, towns, and counties have been designated, and elected officials of western Maryland municipalities have been invited to visit their counterparts in Estonia.

The Estonian students who come to GCC will each have a full scholarship, as determined by the college board of trustees at a meeting early this year. A total of 10 scholarships has been established, Herman said.

Coordination of the efforts to find homes for the Estonian students is being handled by the president's office, with the help of members of the Garrett County Chapter of AAUW. An orientation meeting will be held for families who agree to house an Estonian student, according to Herman. Interested persons may contact the president's office at 301-387-3056.

A GARRETT COUNTY SCHOOL BUS? While it's not unusual to see a local school bus parked along the road, it is indeed striking to see one parked along a road in Tela, Honduras, which is where this picture was taken. Oakland resident Tom Doyle has been traveling to Honduras for the past year to help build homes there, and he recently came upon this vehicle, bus number 74. He asked officials at the Garrett County Board of Education if any buses had been donated to any effort in Central America, but apparently no one knew for sure. There are certainly other Garrett counties in the world, but even so, the coincidence was a jolt for Doyle. The home-building project in Marion, Honduras, continues. See separate story.

Status Of Home Building Project Given By Doyle

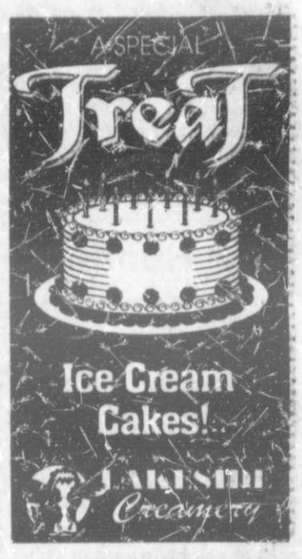

Tom Doyle, an Oakland resident, reported recently that the home-building project he initiated in the village of Marion, Honduras, is continuing. He returned to the Central American site in June and saw that 32 cement block homes are now in various stages of development.

There are 43 families living in the small village, so Doyle hopes to help construct that many homes. With help from several local people and businesses, the villagers have learned how to make their own blocks and how to build their own homes.

Because the initial number of houses was figured at 32, additional donations will be needed to help build homes for the remaining 11 families. The total project cost is $65,000.

For more information about the project — how to donate to it or how to help in other ways — persons may contact Doyle at 301-334-4808, or may write to him at P.O. Box 289, Oakland, MD 21550. He can also be e-mailed at tedoyle@mindspring.com.

A newly established web site about the project can be viewed at www.ChristiansforHonduras.com.

SPRUCE FOREST CELEBRATES SUMMER - The resident and visiting artisans at Spruce Forest in Grantsville demonstrated creative skills for scores of festival goers last week, during the annual Summer Festival and Quilt Show. Young and old wander in the shade of the 75-year-old spruce trees, listening to music and viewing the colors and textures of the traditional crafts. In the photo above, left, farm scenes are painted onto saw blades of various shapes and sizes by Alta and Raymond Bender. Potter Lynn Lais, in the center photo, answers a question on his craft posed by a young visitor to the festival. There were opportunities for the "hands-on" approach to learning. The young man in the photo above, at right, tries his skill at the weaving loom. The youngster pictured below, at left, watches carefully to learn the intricacies of making a corn husk dolls. In the center photo below, the precise work of caning a chair seat is deftly demonstrated by Rachel Miller. Village blacksmith Jody Best, working at her forge drew many festival visitors.

Bear Hunting

number of bears, but not the potential for conflicts. "I understand the feelings of some western Maryland residents who are concerned about agricultural damage, and the safety of their children, pets, and livestock, because of an increasing number of bear/human incidents. A limited hunting season will not address all of those concerns in a meaningful way."

Instead of instituting a hunt, the secretary said she will reconvene a task force to study the issue, sponsor focus groups to solicit more public input, and complete a comprehensive study of the bear population. In the meantime, she said that DNR will step up its efforts of trapping and relocating nuisance bears to areas less populated by humans, and will continue "aversive conditioning" by firing rubber bullets at nuisance bears or exploding fireworks over their heads.

Delegate George Edwards said that he was "not surprised" by Rogers' announcement, questioned the methods her office said she had used to gauge public opinion on the issue. "I've not seen any breakdown on the numbers or locations of the letter writers, nor do I recall any active solicitation of letters about a limited bear hunting season," he said. "I would bet that in Garrett County, where most of the bears are, the breakdown would be 60 percent, perhaps 70 percent in favor of a hunt.

"Still we have to hope DNR will undertake a fair and honest re-look at the situation through the task force they're proposing. Of course, the majority of people sitting on the task force should be from the part of the state in which most of the bears reside. That's only fair."

Referring to DNR's current policy of attempting to make partial restitution to farmers whose crops sustain bear damage, Edwards said, "If you're going to protect bears, you need to compensate the affected people in full, not just for crops damage but also if a pet is killed or a grill or bird feeder is damaged.

"We should also be seriously looking at moving the bears to other parts of the state where DNR studies show that adequate habitat exists, such as the Catoctin Mountains of Frederick County and some spots on the Eastern Shore, among others. However, in the past DNR has said that they would have to get permission from those residents to let us move any bears down there. Yet we have no say in having bears here in western Maryland," Edwards concluded. "It doesn't make much sense."

Graduates With Honors From FSU

Mandy Michelle DeWitt graduated from Frostburg State University recently with cum laude honors and a bachelor of science degree in social work. She was a member of Phi Alpha, the social work honor society, and was on the dean's list at FSU.

DeWitt is employed as a social worker in the Family Preservation Unit of the Garrett County Department of Social Services. She and her husband Davey DeWitt reside in Oakland.

Town Hall

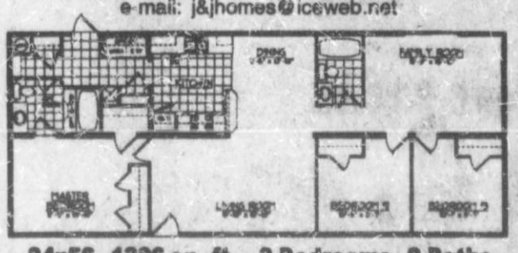

GRANTSVILLE

The town meeting was held on Monday, July 17.

- Mayor Beachy announced that he will be traveling to Turva, Estonia, sister city to Grantsville.
- Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., and representatives of Garretland Inc. were present to discuss the rental townhouse community to be built adjacent to the town park.
- Questions from a resident were directed to Duane Yoder about the availability of public transportation in Grantsville. Yoder explained that People Movers, the transit system operated by Community Action, serves the Grantsville area upon request. One contacts the transportation department to arrange transport as needed.
- A public hearing was held on the proposal to apply for a Community Development Block Grant to fund water and sewer extensions and repairs. There was no opposition to this proposal, and the grant application will be filed.
- The town will mail an income survey to the annexed sections of Grantsville. The information gathered through this questionnaire will determine the municipality's eligibility for the CDBG grant for which the town is applying.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, Aug. 7.

X-MEN

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:40 - Released 7/14/00

For anyone who enjoys comic book superheroes, Bryan Singer's X-Men is just the ticket. This entertaining and reasonably intelligent film, penned by Singer, Tom DeSanto and David Hayter, and based on the 30-odd-year-old Marvel comic book series, involves the futuristic world of mutants, people for whom evolution has taken a "leap forward." Thanks to genetic mutations, a segment of Earth's population is endowed with superhuman traits or powers, such as mind reading, being able to change the weather, or being really, really good at checkers.

The story involves the inevitable conflict between these mutants and the rest of society, namely the poor old regular humans who are afraid and/or suspicious of them. But who cares about the story? What's fun is talking about what all these guys can do: Professor Xavier (Patrick Stewart), leader of the good-guy mutant society, or "X-Men," can read minds and control others. So can Dr. Jean Grey (Famke Janssen), but not as well. "Cyclops" (James Marsden) can fire devastating lasers out of his eyes, but has a volume control in case he just wants to shoot beer cans off a fence or something, and "Storm" (Halle Berry), can, as her name implies, whip up weather patterns that would make George Clooney cringe. Collectively, these folks all wear cool uniforms and use their powers only for good.

Into this world comes "Wolverine" (Hugh Jackman) and "Rogue" (Anna Paquin), two mutants who have run away from their loved ones. Wolverine's talents are threefold: he's got huge, pointy metal talons that extend from his fists when he is attacked, and regenerative powers that allow him to heal instantly from just about any injury, and he also can smell bad guys. Apparently, his olfactory ability doesn't activate when he's around friends, because he never says anything like, "Gee, your hair smells terrific" or "Did you just eat a bag of Doritos?" Rogue's power is that she draws the life energy (I believe the technical term is "mojo") from anyone with whom she shares skin-on-skin contact. Let's just hope she's not allergic to latex, if you get my drift.

But not all mutants are good. Currently trying to take over the world is super-baddie "Magneto" (Ian McKellen), an old friend/enemy of Dr. X., who can create magnetic fields and bend metal. In his employ is "Mystique" (Rebecca Romijn-Stamos), a curvaceous shape-shifter who can look and sound like anyone, including all of the above; "Toad" (Ray Park, a.k.a. Darth Maul of The Phantom Menace), who can jump around and catch flies with his tongue — well, they can't all be great — and "Sabretooth" (pro wrestler Tyler Mane), who growls a lot and beats people up. Not much of a stretch for him. So we get to watch all these freaks battle it out, and the result of the battle could doom or save mankind. There's also a subplot about a visciously anti-mutant senator (Bruce Davison) who is taught not to judge people until he has walked a mile in their mutated moccasins.

As one would expect, X-Men is full of cool make-up and dazzling sci-fi effects (some borrowed from Contact), but it is intelligent enough to be of interest to more than just the comic-book mentality. Stewart is ever the elder statesman; his character is not unlike Captain Picard, but it fits. Paquin and Jackman are convincing in their roles, and British acting veteran McKellen (soon to be seen as Gandalf in the upcoming Lord Of The Rings series) is suitably diabolical. All I want to know now is where I can get a Mystique suit for my wife before Halloween. ★★★★

D.C. CHILDREN CONTRIBUTE TO G.C. — The Garrett County Habitat for Humanity organization received a donation recently from children in Washington, D.C. Youngsters (ages 4 and 5) from Oona Stieglitz's "Hearts" class at Gan HaYeled Day School saved their pennies each Friday as part of the Jewish custom of Tzedakah (charity) on Shabbat (Sabbath). At the end of the year, the children voted to send the money to people who do not have homes of their own. The funds were sent to the Rockville United Church's summer work campers, who are presently in Garrett County building two homes, one in Mtn. Lake Park and the other in Oakland. Building materials for these two houses were purchased with the money from the children pictured. Stieglitz is pictured in the back row to the right. Wayne Johnson, executive director of Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, reported that the two houses bring the organization's total to 39 in the county.

Vacation Homes – Hot Market At Deep Creek Lake, Too!

Deep Creek Lake, Md. - The hot vacation home real estate market has been a headline topic during the past month in several publications, including both the Wall Street Journal and Barron's. The common theme seems to center on the sensational aspect of the priciest properties that have sold in Nantucket (25 waterfront acres with a teardown house at $19.5 million) or Newport, Rhode Island (a 29-acre estate selling for a record $10.85 million).

Both articles also refer to reports from the National Association of Realtors regarding a 9.3% increase in the number of second-home purchases in 1999 over the previous year.

These statistics bring credence to a forecast by Barron's in 1995 that the demand for second homes would be strong through the year 2010. That prediction was based upon a study of demographics relating to the "babyboomers"-currently people who are between the ages of 36 and 54-who both desire and can afford a vacation home and who are thinking ahead to an active retirement.

Enhancing the baby-boomer effect are two additional factors: the 1997 tax law change that exempts up to $500,000 in capital gains on the sale of a principal residence and the astronomic gains reaped in the stock market over the past few years. (The tax law change enables a homeowner to trade down to a smaller primary residence when the children leave home and use the proceeds to buy a second home without owing any tax on the first $500,000 of gain per couple.)

What do these reports mean to the real estate market at Deep Creek Lake and the surrounding countryside? Is Deep Creek Lake enjoying the same appreciation in value and is there a similar demand for its second home market? Most definitely!

The market at Deep Creek Lake has seen an amazing number of cash transactions over the past two years. Individuals and families are using both the 1997 tax law changes with respect to gains on a principal residence as well as other tax law provisions known as "Section 1031 Tax Deferred Exchanges." (In a "1031 exchange", any investment or business real estate may be exchanged on a tax deferred basis for any other type of business or investment real estate.) For example, a small apartment building in the city can be exchanged for a vacation rental home on or near the lake.

Record sale prices have been recorded at Deep Creek Lake as well as the prestigious resorts such as Vail and Pebble Beach. The first single family home at Deep Creek Lake to be sold at $1,000,000 took place in 1997. Since that time, other homes have sold from $1.2 to $1.735 million. No longer do appraisers raise their eyebrows when asked to appraise a large, custom-built home on the waterfront. It is no longer unusual to see properties sold in the seven-digit range. Long & Foster Realtors is proud to have marketed and sold each successful sale in the million+ price range in the Deep Creek market.

What if you can't afford or choose not to spend that much money on your vacation or retirement home? No problem.

A review of the properties offered in Garrett County through MRIS, the multiple listing service handling the region, shows that an A-frame with three bedrooms and lake privileges can be purchased for as little as $79,900, with a nice selection of properties in all price ranges, up to a manor estate of over 18,000 sq. ft. offered at $1.695 million.

What about new home construction? The local Assessment Department office reported that over 100 new homes in the Deep Creek Lake area were added to the property tax rolls in the second half of 1999. Many new homes are currently under construction during the 2000 building season (366 county building permits have been issued since 1/1/2000). Lakefront lots have traditionally been in short supply at Deep Creek Lake. Now the demand has pushed the prices to new highs, with a record sale of $405,000 for a homesite. However, lakefront lots with shallow water depth are available from $64,900. Market predictors expect that a half-million dollar lot sale is less than one year away.

Should you buy now? That depends. We believe there probably will never be a better time to buy. Property values are expected to grow throughout the next 10-year baby-boomer demand cycle. So.... if your family finances permit and you have dreamed of owning a vacation home, why not take advantage of the benefits of anticipated market appreciation?

Numbers to help you understand the market in Garrett County follow:

From January, 1989 through June 3, 2000, data from MRIS shows that 983 homes were sold in Garrett County. The average price in 1989 was just over $165,000. The average price for the first five months of 2000 had increased by over 25% to $196,000. For building sites in the same period, a total of 302 homesites or acreages were sold at average prices that increased by 17% from $63,000 to $74,000.

The chart below illustrates the market as offered on June 12, 2000 in the Deep Creek Lake watershed, and data compiled from recent sales.

Price Range	# of homes currently AVAILABLE	# SOLD in 1999	# SOLD in 2000 (Jan. – May)
Under $100,000	24	54	20
$100,000 – $150,000	20	56	29
$150,001 – $200,000	14	24	16
$200,000 – $300,000	23	39	12
$300,000 – $400,000	24	32	12

Reiki I Class To Be Offered At GCC Campus

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Commmmity College will offer Reiki I beginning Saturday, July 29, from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The two-day course which will continue through Sunday, July 30, is open to the general public. Massage therapy students who have completed the Overview of Bodywork and Massage Therapy course and practicing massage therapists for Category A continuing education are encouraged to enroll.

This is an experiential training course in a complementary holistic technique that originated in Japan. The course includes oral history of the Usui System of Reiki, instruction on performing hands-on Reiki techniques for self and others and discussion of the precepts, exchanges, and practice. Upon completion of this course, participants will be a certified Reiki practitioner.

The instructor, Gwendolyn Mitchell, is a Reiki master, and will travel from Silver Spring to facilitate this course.

Licensed massage therapists will earn 12 CEUs for Category A continuing education, and must provide proof of licensure at the time of registration. GCC is approved by the NCBTMB to provide Category A continuing education for licensed massage therapists.

For additional information, including costs, persons may telephone 301-387-3088, or stop in at the Continuing Education and Training Division office, McHenry campus, Room 300.

GBI, MSP Cadets Check On Alcohol Sales To Minors

Investigators from the Maryland State Police assigned to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, along with Maryland State Police cadets, began a covert investigation into the sales of alcoholic beverages to persons under 21 years of age in Garrett County in June.

Of the 55 establishments visited, one was charged with "selling or furnishing alcoholic beverages to persons under 21 years of age" via a criminal summons.

This investigation was paid for by special funding received by the Garrett County Health Department through the Combating Underage Drinking Grant of the Governor's Office on Crime Control and Prevention in Baltimore.

BEWARE OF BEES

Summertime isn't a time to forget about insects. They aren't likely to kit us, anyway. The area of major concern here is the bee family, including hornets, yellow jackets, wasps, and the like.

While most sting victims suffer only some pain, a local reaction of burning, redness, and a large wheal formation, some are not so lucky. For those sensitive to bee sting venom, it could be a matter of life or death. They should see a physician, be desensitized and get information on the treatment. A bee sting kit should also be carried.

An Elevated Perspective

This young man sees the world with his mom as she carries him in her arms, pointing out this and that, sharing a running commentary of their adventure. What a wonderful perspective to see and learn from - so safe and secure. The closeness they share will remain with her son and strengthen his spirit as his body becomes stronger each day.

God wants to show us the world as He knows it... to point the way to a joyous life and a strong and peaceful spirit. In Psalm 25:4, the psalmist David beseeches, "Show me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths."

Take your place in the loving arms of God as His child. Come to know Him in your local church or synagogue. Let the Father show you His world from an elevated perspective.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ARMHOUSE

WALKING THE WALK

July 23, 2000

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 5 through 6:4
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 5:6-20.

Let's start with the hard part: "Wives be subject to your husbands as to the Lord. For the husband is the head of the wife as Christ is head of the church...as the church is subject to Christ, so let wives be subject in everything to their husbands" (Eph. 5:21-23).

It's in the Bible then—the husband is the head of the wife and the wife shall be subject to the husband. Is this an authoritative teaching for all Christians? I do not believe it is.

There are other teachings in the Bible that Christians do not count as authoritative. In Leviticus, Moses, speaking for God, commands the people of God to abstain from certain foods that are "unclean." (Lev. 11). In Leviticus 20:10 we are commanded that "If a man commits adultery with the wife of his neighbor, both the adulterer and the adulteress shall be put to death"! In Deuteronomy 2:14 the father and mother of "a stubborn and rebellious son" are commanded to bring the son to the elders at the city gate "and stone him to death with stones."

I do not know of any Christians today who obey these commandments even though they appear unequivocally in the Bible. Though these commandments are represented as the will of God, and although nowhere in the gospels does Jesus revoke them, we do not hold them to be authoritative for us. My own experience of Jesus Christ does not permit me to live by these rules.

What is Authoritative?

Sometimes we rationalize this problem in holding that the New Testament supersedes the Old. But there are also many Old Testament teachings that we do hold authoritative for us—the Ten Commandments, for example. Furthermore, there are some teachings in the New Testament that we do not regard as authoritative for our lives in Christ. For example: the prohibition against divorce (I Cor. 7:10,11), the stricture against marrying "unbelievers" (2 Cor.. 14), and

COVER STORY

USA Network beats the heat with two new sitcoms

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Brian McNamara

Kennedy Smith (Linden Ashby) has a nagging problem.

He has promised his doting wife, Lili (Susan Walters), that he's through with his life as a CIA agent and ready to settle down as a used-car salesman in suburbia. Unfortunately, his career-long archnemesis, the demented Kriegman (Damian Young), isn't ready to stop their cat-and-mouse games – or, as he hysterically puts it, "the eternal dance of death!"

The surreal results play out in The War Next Door, a new sitcom (for lack of a better word) premiering Sunday, July 23, on USA Network.

"It's really about these two men trying to grow up," Ashby says. "Kriegman is the bad habit of your youth, that one friend who goes, 'Yeah, I know you're married and you have responsibilities, but let's sneak off to Vegas this weekend.' "

The show is uneven, at least in the pilot episode USA provided, but it unquestionably is one of the most audaciously original shows to come along in quite a while, particularly in the "play it safe" world of today's network programming. War isn't a conventional sitcom in many respects – its rhythms are quirky and there's no laugh track, to name only two – and some of the gags fall flat.

But The War Next Door can surprise you, with jokes flying in out of left field and the tone of a scene turning on a dime from silly to sinister and back again. Watch for the hilarious bit in which Kriegman suddenly appears in Kennedy's auto showroom and threatens to create a scene while pretending to be a regular guy innocently shopping for a car.

Young, who had a featured role in the movie Snow Day but is principally a stage actor, is absolutely fearless as Kriegman. There hasn't been an over-the-top comic villain like this since the days of Get Smart, and he tears into the role with starmaking relish. Young wouldn't be nearly as funny, however, without Ashby as his handsome, square-jawed and conservative foe.

War keeps one foot in reality and the other in absurdity; you'll just have to take on faith that Kriegman can pop back into a scene only minutes after being quite definitely killed.

That same "nonsensibility" pervades Manhattan, AZ, another USA sitcom premiering Sunday. The show's darkly comic tone is established in the very opening scenes, as Los Angeles cop Daniel Henderson (Brian McNamara) learns that his wife, a Greenpeace activist, has perished in a bizarre boating accident (her burial involves several cases of hastily recalled cans of tuna).

Determined to start afresh, Daniel uproots his son, Atticus (Vincent Berry), and moves to a tiny Arizona town named for its colorful mayor, Jake Manhattan (still handsome but leathery Chad Everett).

The town, which barely exists, is a Southwestern variant on the Cicely, Alaska, of Northern Exposure, populated by a variety of zany eccentrics and governed by its own whacked-out logic. In the opening episode, Daniel tries to discover why all the neighborhood pets are missing their right hind legs (a pretty sick sight gag by any measure), while Atticus chafes at his dull new surroundings.

Neither The War Next Door nor Manhattan, AZ, is perfect, but both at least have a glimmer of imagination and stand in striking contrast to the rest of the recent lowest-common-denominator programming on USA Network, which seems aimed at a "belch-and-scratch" demographic.

MELISSA UPOLE

BRIAN RODERICK

ZACHARY PITZER

JENNIFER DEWITT

Four area students have recently been awarded Railey Realty Gerald Polansky Memorial Scholarships by the Garrett Community College Foundation, according to advancement officer Bretta Reinhard.

Melissa Upole, daughter of Donald and Virginia Upole of Oakland and a 1998 graduate of Pleasant Valley Christian Academy and Southern High School, will continue her studies in the Agribusiness/Farm Management program at GCC. In high school she was a member of FFA and competed in contests at the University of Maryland and at the state FFA convention, taking first place in the horticulture division. She also competed in national competitions at the National Junior Horticulture Association Convention. As a member of GCC's agriculture club, Upole helps with fundraisers such as the feeder pig sale. She plans to find a job that will allow her to work closely with agriculture and to have her own farm. In her free time she enjoys horseback riding, playing sports, gardening, quilting and making crafts. She is currently employed by a local bank as a mortgage processing clerk.

Brian Roderick, son of Paul and Janet Roderick of Swanton and a 2000 SHS graduate, is enrolled in the Wildlife/Fisheries program at GCC. When he completes his education he plans to work with the Department of Natural Resources or in some related capacity. In high school he was a member of the golf team, and his interests include hunting, fishing, and archery.

Zachary Pitzer, 1997 graduate of Preston High School and son of Keith and Joan Pitzer of Kingwood, is enrolled in the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology program at GCC. He plans to obtain a four-year degree and to find employment in an occupation where he can work outdoors. In high school he was a member of the chess club, math and science club, and hunting club, and he has volunteered with the Habitat for Humanity. A member of musical family, he lists music and arts, hunting, fishing, backpacking, and whitewater rafting as his interests.

Jennifer DeWitt, daughter of Jeffrey and Audrey DeWitt and a 2000 SHS graduate, plans to enroll in the pre-nursing program at GCC and eventually transfer to Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland. She enjoys reading, writing, and hiking, and was a member of the Honors Chorus at Southern.

GCC GRANTSVILLE OUTREACH CENTER DISCUSSED — The first meeting of the newly formed Garrett Community College Advisory Committee for the Grantsville Outreach Center took place at the Penn Alps Restaurant recently. The committee will be advising the college on which programs and course offerings the residents of the Grantsville area would like to have offered at the new facility, slated to open this coming January. The agenda included several presentations: Dr. Lillian Mitchell, GCC's dean of academic affairs, provided information on credit courses that could be slated at the center; Lowell Bender, dean of Continuing Education, and Julie Yoder, Continuing Education program director, addressed non-credit courses and training possibilities; and Dr. Terry Norris, director of the Business and Information Technology program, addressed information technology courses that could be made available. Advisory committee members shown at the meeting are, from left, Mitchell; Yoder; Linda Buckel, principal of Grantsville Elementary School; Bill Frick, guidance counselor at Salisbury-Elk Lick (Pa.) High School; Dr. Steve Herman, GCC president; Bender; Celeste Emerick, director of the Salisbury (Pa.) Family Center; Larry Bruch of the Garrett County Department of Social Services; Linda Meeks, owner of Mutt Works; Gina Bender of Grantsville Head Start; and Carol Base of the Garrett County Health Department. Norris was not available for the photo.

91st Broadwater Reunion Slated

The 91st annual Broadwater reunion will be held Sunday, August 6, at Grantsville Community Park. Champion fiddler Grover Broadwater and friends will entertain during the day.

Gifts and prizes will be awarded. Children's games, playground, pavilions, and picnic tables will be available.

Roast Beef To Be Served By Salisbury VFD

The Salisbury Volunteer Fire Department and Ambulance Service will sponsor an "all-you-can-eat" roast beef dinner on Sunday, July 23, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Salisbury fire hall along Ord St. in Salisbury, Pa. The dinners will consist of roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, noodles, vegetables, cole slaw, and a choice of beverage and dessert. Take outs will be available. The cost is $6 for adults, $3 for children under 12, and free for children under 5.

Stephens Reunion To Be Saturday

The descendants of Peter J. and Isabell (Broadwater) Stephens, formerly of New Germany, will hold their 35th annual family reunion this Saturday, July 22, in the small pavilion at the Grantsville Community Park. Lunch will be served at noon.

Family members and friends are requested to bring a covered dish and beverage. Place settings will be furnished. Prizes will be awarded. Members are also asked to bring items for an auction. A playground is available for children.

For additional information, persons may call Don Jenkins, 301-689-5542, or Alice Stephens, 301-359-0633.

Garrett CC Grads Receive Regent Scholars Honors

Two recent Garrett Community College graduates have been named Regents Scholars by the University System of Maryland board of regents, and have received full scholarships to complete their educations at Frostburg State University. Phyllis Furr of Oakland and Lynford Yoder of Salisbury, Pa., were awarded the scholarships based on their academic achievement and recommendations from college faculty.

PHYLLIS FURR

A letter from Chancellor Donald Langenberg notifying the students about the award stated that the Regents Scholars Program has been established to "affirm its commitment to academic excellence and to enable students of exceptional ability to devote their energy to developing fully their intellectual and creative talents." The scholarship will cover all tuition and fees, all board and room costs, and a $500 stipend each semester for other educational costs. It is renewable each year that the student maintains a minimum 3.5 grade point average.

Furr, mother of Brent and Justin, plans to enter the marketing program at FSU and pursue her career goal of working in the travel and tourism industry. She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa, the national honor society, and the GCC Pipes and Drums. She is also a volunteer with the Oakland Rotary, Our Town Theatre, and the Dove Center.

"I am honored to be a recipient of the Kelly Regents Scholarship Award, but I still can't believe it," Furr said. I can't fully comprehend the magnitude of what I am about to receive. I want to thank everyone who helped to make this a reality. Also, I want to encourage everyone to try for something that may seem impossible. This award is proof that one never knows what may transpire.

LYNFORD YODER

"Attending Garrett was a great way to start back to college after being out of school for 22 years," Furr commented on her GCC experience. "I had a great experience at Garrett, and I believe I was given a solid foundation to pursue the remainder of my education. Faculty and staff in each department were wonderful to work with for the five years I attended Garrett."

Yoder, who graduated from the Fine and Performing Arts program and who is listed in Who's Who Among American Junior College Students, has had his art work displayed in the college gallery and in other regional exhibits. "It's a dream come true, really," he said of the scholarship award. "Before hearing about this particular scholarship, I had hoped that I could get a full scholarship to study art. God has blessed me by allowing me to continue studying a major passion in my life."

"My educational experience at GCC has been good" Yoder continued. "I have been most impressed by the interest that the teachers took in me as a person. Professor Skidmore has been very supportive of my art and has become a wonderful friend. My art has definitely taken a step forward during my time at GCC."

"We are extremely proud to have two of our students receive this honor," said Marge Mahood, director of GCC's Student Services office, noting that only seven Regents Scholars have been designated in the entire state.

Baptist Church Holding Outdoor Evening Services

The Deep Creek Baptist Church, located along Garrett Highway near the lake, is now hosting its annual outdoor services every Sunday evening. The special services are held at 7 p.m. at the Deep Creek Lake State Park amphitheater.

These Sunday evening services will be held throughout the summer until Labor Day. If the weather is inclement, the service will be held in the Discovery Center auditorium.

Pastor Don Wilson extends an invitation to all to attend the services. For more information, he can be reached at 301-387-5688.

4-H Club News

SADDLE TRAMPS

The Saddle Tramps 4-H club had an overnight trail-ride at a fellow member's farm July 1-2. Plans for July include having a Fun Show, to which all are invited. This is a fund-raiser and an attempt to entice new members to join in our fun.

We held our July meeting Saturday during our overnight trailride. At the trailride, which was at Mandy's, we rode for a total of three hours on a variety of trails. After cooling out some of the horses, we untacked and hosed them off. We also rewarded them for a job well done. When the horses had all been taken care of, we went to the camping area with our tents. The food consisted of hotdogs, macaroni salad, ice cream cake for president Brittney's birthday, s'mores, and blueberry cobbler.

At the meeting, we planned the Fun Show and set the date. We also talked about the next meeting for August 7 at 7 p.m.

Everyone went to bed at 11:30 p.m. although some of us were awake until 4 a.m. and got up at 8 a.m. Breakfast was doughnuts and cinnamon rolls. After feeding the horses, we talked, and by 11 a.m. we had all gone home.

The Fun Show was set for July 16 at either Mandy's or Joyce's, depending on the weather. See flyers for directions and other info. The May meeting was canceled because of conflicting schedules.

PREPARING FOR A TOUR - In the photo above, Nellie Henken is surveying her flowers as she prepares for her garden to be part of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club "Summer Gardens" tour. The display of four residential garden designs will take place Tuesday, July 25, from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

Summer Gardens Tour Planned

Plans have been made by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club to host "Summer Gardens," a tour of four residential gardens, Tuesday, July 25, from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Located in the Oakland-Mountain Lake Park area, the gardens range from relatively new to well established designs. Owners will be available to answer questions about their choice of design and challenges the design may offer.

Guests are welcome, and there will be no charge. The Mountain Laurel Garden Club's encourages car pooling when visiting the gardens, which are located at the homes of Marilyn Regentin, 250 Crook Crest, Oakland; Susan Weisbrod, 1019 Broadford Road, Mtn. Lake Park; Nellie Henken, 605 H Street, Mtn. Lake Park; and Kathie Smith, 25 G Street, Mtn. Lake Park.

Balloons will be aloft at each residence to identify the location. Any questions concerning the tour may be directed to Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249. The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc. and the National Council of State Garden Clubs Inc.

GCC To Offer Massage Therapy

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College will offer a massage therapy clinic, which is staffed by GCC's core massage therapy students. The clinic is open to the public, and is scheduled for July 31 through August 3.

In this supervised clinical setting, members of the public are invited to receive client-focused massage therapy sessions from the core students. There is a fee to participate.

Appointments may be scheduled through the Continuing Education and Training Division Office, McHenry campus, Room 300, or telephone Carol Newman at 301-387-3088.

Antiques by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Gardens and houseplants were always an important part of the 18th- and 19th-century home. In the 18th century, a homeowner would plant a garden with medicinal and cooking herbs. Many gardens had some of the same flowers we plant today for enjoyment. In areas with mild winters, some plants were potted and moved inside, even though their care was more complicated than it is today. There were no bug sprays, no prepared potting soils, no special plant foods. But the 19th-century housewife prided herself on her plants, and plants were kept on window ledges, plant stands and terrariums in suitable windows. Bulbs that could be forced to bloom in the winter were especially popular. Many of the plant stands and baskets were made in a rustic style with parts that resembled actual trees and leaves. Potted plants, especially palms and ferns, were part of the decoration of a middle-class Victorian home. The plant room had trailing vines and tall plants that were kept together in a jungle-like atmosphere. Today, plants are easy to buy and even easier to grow. Collectors buy all types of plant stands, vases and accessories. But when a rare majolica jardiniere on a stand rises in value to thousands of dollars, the collector is forced to decide if it is worth the risk of damage by filling it with plants.

Pet Care
by Peter Edwards

The so-called "Dog Days of Summer" really have nothing to do with our faithful friend Fido. It refers to the fact that the Dog Star, Canis Major, can be easily seen in the sky at this time of the year.

But it's also true that this is the time of the year when we see more dog bites — and bites of all kinds for that matter. Most likely it's because more people are out and about and are apt to encounter dogs and other animals under various circumstances.

Some dogs in resort communities, for instance, are often (and foolishly) allowed to wander freely. Some people encounter guard dogs at service stations and other places and may attempt to pat the heads of animals who don't know them and are trained to view all strangers as potential threats to their owners or owners' property.

What to do if you are bitten? According to Dr. Ron Charles, assistant professor of emergency medicine at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas, if the biter is a bat, fox, raccoon, or skunk: "Get medical treatment immediately. The animal could have rabies, a serious central nervous system infection." If the biter is a dog, and the bite creates a deep puncture wound, or tears the skin, or won't stop bleeding, Dr. Charles says immediate attention is also important.

"All animal bites, like any serious injury, should be checked out by a physician," he warns.

Dog and cat bites can occur among your own pets — not necessarily just strange animals. Teach children not to disturb household pets (or any animal) while they're feeding. Many bites occur when the animal reacts to its natural instinct to protect its food supply. Moreover, you and your children must respect guide dogs. These creatures are trained to be gentle, but they are also protective of their people and could snap at anyone they perceive might harm them.

CURING A LAWN'S BALD SPOTS

Q. My lawn has developed several bare spots and dry patches despite regular watering and fertilizing, especially under the shade trees. Some of the dry patches are on parts of the lawn that get full sun. Is there any way to get rid of them, permanently? — Bill G., Winter Garden, Fla.

A. Bald spots can appear in any number of places on a lawn, but they show up most frequently under large trees that don't let sunlight through. In areas like Florida, where lawns also struggle with thin, sandy soil, these bald spots are a common sight under tall oaks.

Dry patches of grass, if left untended, can lead directly to bare spots within a few months. In areas of the lawn that get plenty of sunlight, a dry patch signals other problems, some of which may affect the entire lawn.

Pests and rodents can dig into and damage grass and its root system, so rule them out first.

Your lawn may also be suffering from a buildup of thatch, a thick tangle of dead grass, leaves and other debris that can cut off air and water from living grass. Clear visible mounds of thatch using a sturdy, wide-toothed thatch rake. However, if several mounds are visible, or if sod samples from several areas of the lawn (one-inch square by two inches deep) show more than a half-inch of thatch between the grass and soil, it's time to de-thatch the entire lawn. Rent a de-thatching machine and go over the lawn the day after you mow it. Be sure to rake away the thatch once you're done.

Repair the bald spots and dry patches by either reseeding or replacing the sod. Make sure to match the grass type to the existing lawn. For bald spots underneath the trees, use a grass type that has been developed specifically for full shade areas. Go to a lawn care professional to find a shade-loving grass that will blend in well with the rest of the lawn.

Angela Beckman To Participate In Nat'l. Institute

Angela Beckman, daughter of George and Linda Beckman, Oakland, will be one of over 150 Youth Scholars to attend the 72nd annual National Institute on Cooperative Education (NICE) July 31 - August 3, in Nashville. She is one of eight students chosen from Maryland.

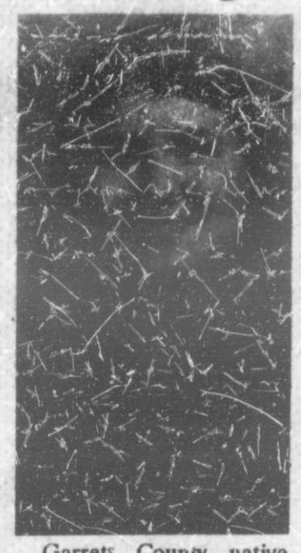

Beckman will be a senior at Southern High School this fall. She is an active member in the Oakland FFA Chapter, for which she has served as reporter and is currently vice president. She has competed in various FFA contests and leadership events since her freshman year in high school. She is a member of the Trailblazers 4-H Club and the Loch Lynn Church of God "ROCK" youth group.

Adults, education professionals, young cooperators, and youth scholars from throughout the United States and several foreign countries will attend the Institute, which is sponsored by the NCFC Education Foundation, a supporting organization of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives in Washington, D.C.

NICE is the largest annual educational event devoted to cooperatives. This year more than 75 program activities and over 100 nationally known speakers, chairs, and resource people will focus on the theme "Cooperatives: Grand New Opportunities."

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives is an association serving the legislative and educational needs of U.S. agricultural cooperatives. Its members include more than 90 percent of U.S. marketing, supply, and credit cooperatives, with a combined membership that includes most nearly 2 million U.S. farmers.

Awarded Doctor Of Osteopathic Medicine Degree

Garrett County native Tammy Eisentrout has been awarded the Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine (D.O.) degree from Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. She is set to begin an internship at Ohio University College of Osteopathic Medicine/Fire-lands Community Hospital in Sandusky, Ohio.

A 1993 graduate of Southern High School, Eisentrout earned a bachelor's degree in biology from Salisbury State University, graduating with high honors in 1996 after only three years of study. She also is a former member of the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

Eisentrout is the daughter of John and Connie Eisentrout of Oakland. She and her husband, Brynt Sines, reside in Huron, Ohio.

REEL VIDEO SUPPORTS BIG BROTHERS BIG SISTERS - Tawney Brack, manager of Reel Video, recently presented JoAnn Fletcher, Garrett County coordinator for Big Brothers Big Sisters, a check for $125. Employees of Reel Video selected Big Brothers Big Sisters as their charity of choice in the WKHJ/Uno's Trivia Challenge. Reel Video finished as a quarter finalist. The Reel Video trivia challenge team members present for the donation were, from left, Courtney Colaw, Fletcher, Billie Jean McCoy, and Brack. The money will aid in recruiting volunteers for the youth mentoring organization, which can be reached at 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735.

Geri-Olympics To Be Held At Hopemont Hosp.

Geri Olympics-North will be held Friday, Aug. 4, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Hopemont Hospital in Terra Alta, W.Va. This is a competitive event for nursing home residents in the northern part of West Virginia and western Maryland, as 15 area nursing homes have been invited to participate. Over 100 residents are expected to compete in events such as bowling, bean bag toss, sticky ball toss, basketball, horseshoes, and golf. The event will end with a cookout and social for all participants and volunteers.

Volunteers from the community are welcome to come as spectators, to help encourage residents, and assist with events.

The event is co-sponsored by the Bureau of Senior Services, W.Va. State College, W.Va. Therapeutic Recreation Association, W.Va. Recreation and Parks Association, and Hopemont Hospital.

The purpose of Geri Olympics, now in its 14th year in West Virginia and its fifth year at Hopemont, is to promote the idea of involving nursing home residents in competition, opportunities for socialization, and community involvement. "Many of the residents are serious competitors and train for the event for several months," stated an event spokesperson.

Persons who wish to volunteer for this event are asked to contact Joan Raybeck, volunteer coordinator, at 304-789-2411, ext. 237, or Leslie Poling Jr., recreation director, at 304-789-2411, ext. 260.

Information Mtg. About I-Tech Courses Slated

An information session concerning the I-Tech courses being offered at Garrett Community College during fall semester will be held on Thursday, August 10, at 7 p.m. in Room 305 of the Continuing Education Building.

Two courses are scheduled to begin in September, according to Dr. Terry Norris, director of the business and information technology program. Microsoft certified systems engineer Windows 2000 training will be given on Mondays and Wednesdays, 6:30-10 p.m., beginning September 11.

"A+" computer repair certification will be given on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 6:43-10 p.m., beginning Sept. 12. In addition to the evening sessions, both courses will meet on selected Saturdays during the semester.

"These I-Tech [courses] are being offered in response to the growing deficit of workers trained in information tech-nology required to serve the needs of business and in-dustry in the 21st century," Norris said. Persons desiring further information may call Norris at 301-387-3043.

ACCIDENT STAGES TALENT ROUND-UP - Performers of all ages took part in the annual variety show, sponsored by the Accident Cultural and Historical Society to benefit the Accident Independence Day Exhibition of Art. Held recently at Flowery Vale Senior Center, the show included mandolin, guitar, and piano music; gospel, country, and popular songs; and spirited dance routines. The community event was co-sponsored by the Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 585, which matched funds to the free will offering and provided the refreshments. In the photo above left is MC Leah Brenneman and performers Adam, Jennifer, and Chelsea Beltzel. Above, right, is Jessica Sines, who entertained the audience with her rendition of "Winnie the Pooh." In the photo at left below are Kenny and Dowell Kooken, who played not only traditional stringed instruments, but Pepsi cans. Ian Aiken, pictured at right below, demonstrated his skill at the keyboard.

West Virginia Theatre Offers Comic Romance

The West Virginia Public Theatre will present the romantic musical She Loves Me July 25-30 at the Creative Arts Center in Morgantown.

The inspiration for the film You've Got Mail starring Meg Ryan and Tom Hanks, this Broadway musical is filled with such songs as "I Don't Know His Name," "Try Me," and "Vanilla Ice Cream."

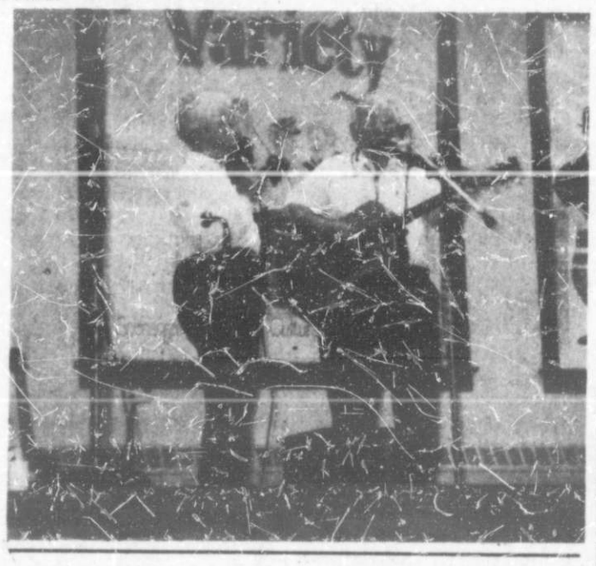

Actress Kristin Carbone, debuting at the WVPT as Amalia Balash, recently held the role of Magnolia in the national tour of Showboat starring Ned Beatty and Cloris Leachman. She also appeared as Christine in the Walnut Street Theatre's production of Phantom. Carbone originated the role of Katie Sullivan in the pre-Broadway workshop of The Molly Maguires.

Christopher Lynn will be joining the WVPT as George Nowack. Lynn recently portrayed Raoul in Andrew Lloyd Weber's The Phantom of the Opera in Switzerland. He also performed in the European tours of Sunset Boulevard, as Tony in West Side Story, and as Cliff in Cabaret. Lynn currently appears in the television shows One Life to Live, Now and Again, and Law and Order.

Broadway and film star Michael Ingram will join the cast as Mr. Maraczek. Debuting at the WVPT, Ingram was in the original Broadway cast of Jekyll & Hyde. He also starred in the Broadway production of Christmas Carol and Sweet Charity, directed by Bob Fosse. His recent film credits include A Perfect Murder starring Gwyneth Paltrow, Mergers and Acquisitions, and Prison Song.

Daniel Frank Kelley will join the cast of She Loves Me as Arpad Laszlo. He is on hiatus from the national tour of Parade, directed by Hal Prince, and following the completion of the first national tour of the Broadway musical Footloose. Kelley has also starred in the television shows Law and Order, MTV's House of Style and NY Undercover.

She Loves Me will be performed at 8 p.m. July 25-30, with Wednesday and Sunday matinees beginning at 2 p.m. Tickets for She Loves Me are $22 for the general public; $21 for senior citizens, students, and WVU faculty and staff; and $10 for youth 12 years and under. Advanced tickets may be purchased at the WVPT box office located at the Creative Arts Center on the Evansdale campus of West Virginia University or by calling the WVPT locally at 599-6785 or toll free at 1-877-999-WVPT. Visa, Mastercard, and Discover are accepted.

Changes Noted In Schedule Of Tucker Theatre

The Top of Tucker Theatre Festival in Thomas, W.Va., has had to make some changes in its performance schedule because of an accident involving one of the actors.

Moliere's A School for Husbands will open this evening, July 20, at the Valley Ridge Theatre along Front Street, and also be presented Friday and Saturday, July 21 and 22. The Mystery of Irma Vep will be restaged on July 27. All performances begin at 8 p.m.

The Sunday evening performance series will feature the Montaneros, of Elkins, this Sunday, July 23, and Pam Roberts, also of Elkins, will perform her own music on July 30. Several short original theatre scripts will be presented August 6. Each evening the featured performance is followed by open mike, which gives members of the audience an opportunity to sing a song, play an instrument, tell a tale, or read a poem.

The Top of Tucker Theatre Festival is presented by Valley Ridge Studio, a nonprofit corporation dedicated to arts performance and education. Persons desiring more information may telephone 304-463-4490.

Md. Arts Council Grant Writing Workshop Slated

The Maryland State Arts Council, through its Multicultural Outreach initiative, has announced the Organizational Development Assistance Program, designed to strengthen small and mid-sized organizations that produce or present arts activities. The ODA is a three-phase pilot program that offers community workshops, organizational reviews, and grants. Organizations must complete each phase to be eligible to proceed to the next phase.

The ODA program is designed to provide development, financial, and management support services to non-profit arts organizations. Qualifying organizations (arts or non-arts) must have operating budgets of $50,000 or less. Non-arts organizations must use the "arts portion" of their budget when considering their operating budgets.

The first workshops are being held in Frederick at the Delaplaine Visual Arts Center on July 26 from 9 a.m. to noon. The topic for emerging non-profit organizations without 501c3 status is "How to Start a Non-Profit." The topic for non-profit organizations with 501c3 status is "Board Excellence."

To receive a schedule of the Organizational Development Assistance workshops in local areas or to obtain registration forms, persons may call the MSAC in Baltimore at 410-767-6555 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or check the MSAC Web site: www.msac.org For further information about the ODA program, persons may contact Shirley Howard at 410-767-6542.

A synopsis of this three-phase program follows.

Workshops

Two series of workshops will be presented, one for organizations that have 501c3 status and one for organizations that do not have 501c3 status. The workshops, which will run from late July through early December, will be held in four locations: Baltimore City and Frederick, Talbot, and Prince George's counties. All workshops will be conducted by the Maryland Association of Non-Profit Organizations.

Organizations must register to attend, and attendance will be granted on a first-come, first-served basis. Applications are available through the Maryland State Arts Council and Maryland's county arts councils.

Organizational Reviews

Organizations that have completed the workshop will be required to submit a proposal and compete for a thorough on-site review by a consultant. The Maryland State Arts Council will pay the consultant's fees.

Grants

Upon completion of the reviews, organizations may apply for technical assistance grants for further in-depth assistance. Grants will range from $200 to $2,000.

Truck Show/WFRB Hosting Showcase Of Country Music

Musicians in the local challenge of True Value Country Showdown will be featured on stage in Grantsville Community Park at noon on August 26 as part of the Western Maryland Truck Show.

Country 105.3 FM WFRB radio station has been selected to host the 19th annual edition of the nation's largest country music talent showcase and radio promotion. More than $200,000 in cash and prizes will be awarded in the "showdowns" nationwide, with a grand prize of $50,000 to be awarded at the televised national finals.

The showdown is designed to identify the "most promising" country music talent in America and to give these performers a chance to launch their professional careers, an event spokesperson explained, adding that thousands of aspiring performers compete annually for the showdown title.

This "road to stardom" begins each spring with area talent contests sponsored by more than 400 radio stations across the country. Local winners advance to one of more than 40 state contests, where the prizes include $1,000 in cash and the opportunity to compete at one of the six regional showdowns in the fall.

Winners at the regional level are flown expenses paid to the national final, where they compete for the grand prize of $50,000 and the national title.

"The True Value Country showdown is one of the most anticipated events in country music," said WFRB's Carson "Trucker" Yoder, who is also the producer of the show. "It is an exciting event which not only promotes a greater appreciation of country music, but provides aspiring artists from the surrounding areas an opportunity for state, regional and national exposure," he noted.

Yoder also stated that Country 105.3 FM WFRB is "pleased and proud" to join Naylor's True Value, Clapper's Building Materials Inc., Hardesty's True Value, Dennis True Value, and Fratz True Value as participants in the 19th annual country showdown.

Persons interested in participating in the local challenge are asked send to a CD or a cassette of three samples of their music to WFRB Country 105.3 FM, 242 Finzel Road, Frostburg, MD 21532.

Allegany County Drumfest Slated

The 12th annual Allegany County Drumfest will take place on Saturday, July 29, at the Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland. Six major drum and bugle corps from Drum Corps Associates (DCA) will compete in this Southern Regional Championship. Three additional corps, including the Commandant's Own United States Marine Drum and Bugle Corps, will perform in exhibition.

Slated to compete are the Buccaneers from Reading, Pa., who finished second in the 1999 DCA World Championships; the Caballeros of Hawthorne, N.J.; the Bushwackers of Harrison, N.J.; the Sunrisers from Orangetown, N.Y.; the Hurricanes of Derby, Conn.; and the Heat Wave from Orlando, Fla. This will be Heat Wave's initial appearance in Cumberland. All the other corps are returning competitors.

In addition to the Marine Corps, the Yankee Rebels Alumni Corps of Baltimore and the Steel City Alumni Corps from Pittsburgh will be featured in exhibition.

Reserved seat tickets are on sale at the Book Center and Tourism Office in Cumberland, the Country Club Mall in LaVale, and Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland, or by calling 301-777-8325. Drumfest is coordinated by an all-volunteer committee, under the direction of Bob Andrews.

On Dean's List

Mark Ludwig, Oakland, achieved the honor of being named to the dean's list at Towson University for the spring semester 2000. A 1998 graduate of Southern High School, Ludwig is studying art to prepare for a career in a field such as graphic design or animation.

The son of Linda and Paul Ludwig, Mark is currently employed at Crystal Waters of Deep Creek Lake.

Collins Inducted Into Bucknell Honor Society

Noelle Collins, McHenry, has been inducted into the Bucknell University chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, an interational honor society for education majors.

A junior majoring in elementary education, Collins is the daughter of Madeline and George Collins, McHenry. She is a graduate of Northern Garrett County High School.

A dean's list student at Bucknell, she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Bucknell University, located in Lewisburg, Pa., is a highly selective liberal arts institution that also offers professional programs in engineering, management, and education.

NHS Graduates To Plan Reunion

The Northern High School graduating class of 1995 is looking for class members interested in planning a five-year reunion. Anyone who would like to participate may contact Amy Glotfelty at 301-895-5388 by Friday, July 28.

Antique Brochure Now Available From Chamber

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has announced completion of a new brochure targeted to antique enthusiasts. "This is a rapidly growing leisure time activity that deserves a separate promotion guide," said Jerry Geisler, chairman of the chamber's board of directors. "Antique Guide for Garrett County" is a full-color, high-quality piece that features 17 local businesses. Forty thousand copies have been printed and are expected to last about a year.

According to chamber president Ken Wishnick, the brochure is part of a strategy to increase visitation during slower spring and fall seasons. "We will encourage people to stay for several days, mixing antique browsing with other and enjoyable activities," he said.

Locally, the "Antique Guide to Garrett County" is available at the Visitors Center in McHenry, the Yough Overlook Visitors Center, and at antique shops.

To the former members of Ella Jones's quilting groups and her other friends, Ella is now a resident of Cherry Hill Assisted Living, near Accident.

Thank You!

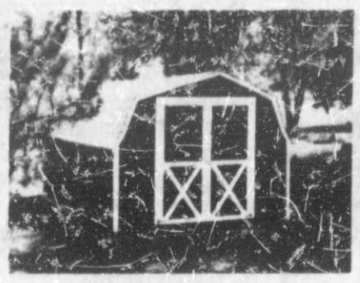

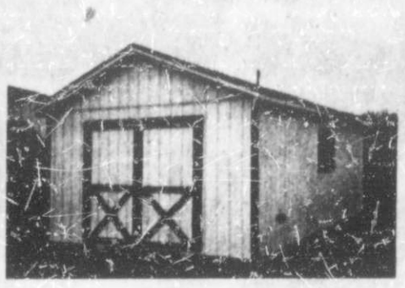

Ed & Cindy Ross would like to thank everyone for their gifts, cards, and for attending the wedding of their daughter Jennifer Lynne Ross to Britten Leo Martin III on July 1, 2000 at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland and for attending the reception that followed at the Rocky Gap Resort in Cumberland. We are glad everyone in attendance had a great time!!

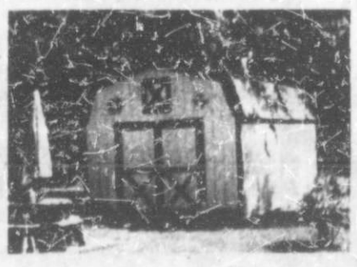

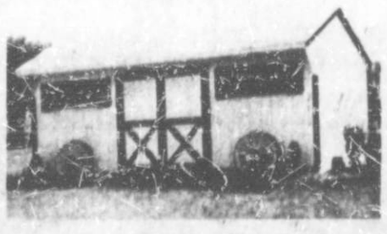

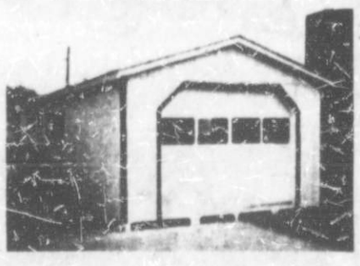

On behalf of the new Mr. & Mrs. Britten Martin we would like to thank everyone who participated in making their wedding day a memorable day.

A very special thank-you to Leo & Frankye Martin for the wonderful rehearsal dinner at the Will O' the Wisp. Once again, everyone in attendance had a great time.

Once again... thanks to everyone!!!

Horse Show Set For Sunday At Fairgrounds

The Garrett County Fairgrounds will host the Mountain Top Saddle Club's third open pleasure show of the season this Sunday, July 23, beginning at 10 a.m.

There will be classes for youth and adults in both English and western classes, featuring showmanship, halter, hunter, and trail for both horses and ponies.

A current negative Coggins test is required for entries, and prize money and ribbons will be awarded.

The public is invited to attend.

AFT Offers Steward Of Land Award

by Robyn Miller of American Farmland Trust

American Farmland Trust is offering two easy ways to nominate a farmer for the $10,000 Steward of the Land Award.

"If you know a farmer or rancher who deserves to win $10,000, American Farmland Trust is accepting nominations for its fifth annual Steward of the Land Award, the most prestigious nationwide award for farm stewardship and land conservation," a spokesman said.

The winner will receive a $10,000 cash award at a ceremony honoring his or her success. The judging panels, which include members of the AFT board of directors, will review the nominees and select the winner. The award will be presented in winter 2001.

Nominees will be judged on their efforts to promote farmland protection and to practice land stewardship. Preference will be given to nominees who employ environmentally sound farming practices, work to support policies for farmland protection, and exhibit leadership by protecting their own farm from development.

American Farmland Trust has spent 20 years fighting to protect the nation's best land for agriculture. The Steward of the Land Award honors the memory of founding AFT board member Peggy McGrath Rockefeller, who dedicated her life to conserving agricultural resources.

There are two easy ways to nominate a farmer for the $10,000 Steward of the Land Award. To find out how, those interested may call 202-331-7300, ext. 3044, to request a nomination kit via mail or visit http://www.farmland.org/files/steward/index.htm to access nomination materials on the Web.

Nominations must be received by mail or fax at AFT's national office by Wed., Nov. 1, at 5 p.m. EST. For more information about the Steward of the Land Award, persons may contact Robyn Miller or Grace Chen, award coordinators, at 202-331-7300, ext. 3044.

American Farmland Trust is a private, nonprofit farmland conservation organization founded in 1980 to stop the loss of productive farmland and to promote farming practices that lead to a healthy environment. Its action-oriented programs include public education, technical assistance in policy development, and demonstration farmland protection projects.

Crop Reporting Deadline To Be Extended

The crop reporting deadline has been extended until Fri., July 28, according to Mike Kozier, county Farm Service Agency director. "This will give farmers additional time during this busy season to report their crops," he said. Crop reporting is important because of the new changes for the fiscal year 2000 Loan Deficiency Payment.

The Loan Deficiency Payment is a "direct payment," not a loan, when the county loan rate for the crop exceeds the Commodity Credit Corporation determined value of the commodity established. These rates may change daily, Kozier said. The producer must also have beneficial interest in the crop. If a crop is fed or sold before the required forms are filed, then those bushels will not count toward eligibiliyt to receive a payment.

Producers should call ahead to ensure the maps and forms are ready, Kozier said. Those interested may call the Garrett County FSA at 301-334-6954 or the Allegany County FSA at 301-777-1536 for additional information.

THE REPUBLICAN

National Farmers Union Proposes Policy Changes

National Farmers Union (NFU) president Leland Swenson has proposed policy changes before the House Agriculture Committee that would provide economic stability, security and opportunity for farmers and ranchers. He told members that the promised benefits of Freedom to Farm, the 1996 farm bill, have not been realized by independent producers.

Swenson outlined three major policy areas that are crucial to a successful, sustainable agriculture industry.

1) The issue of market concentration and integration in agriculture must be examined. New policies must be implemented to ensure that an accessible, transparent and competitive marketplace is available to all producers.

2) Agricultural trade policy must accommodate a broad range of priorities including socio-economic issues as well as market access and fair competition.

3) U.S. agricultural programs for crops, dairy and livestock must be revised to provide an effective safety net during periods when market returns are inadequate.

"Freedom to Farm has reduced the viability of family farmers," said Swenson. "Declining commodity prices and producer incomes under this program have resulted in three years of supplemental assistance at a cost of $21.7 billion—and this figure keeps rising. There is no need to wait any longer to act on legislation that will provide a more effective and predictable counter-cyclical economic safety net for independent farmers and ranchers."

"The concentration of market power among a few highly integrated domestic or multi-national firms poses a serious threat to the benefits of a private, competitive marketplace," Swenson continued. "U.S. antitrust laws must be enhanced and enforced so that market competition increases rather than decreases."

Swenson pointed out to the committee that even with incentives to participate in public and private risk management programs, the need for additional economic and production loss assistance has not been eliminated. Producer economic security has been reduced. Of the $21.7 billion in additional funds that have been provided for the 1998-2000 production years, 84 percent have been directed to offset producer income losses due to reduced prices, well beyond what was originally prescribed in the 1996 bill. Reductions in regulations failed to bring about reduced costs for producers. Also, reduced price competition for export markets never materialized.

"While the 1996 farm bill fulfilled in part the desire of some to unilaterally reduce or curtail the public role in U.S. production agriculture, the legislation showed little regard or understanding of the future consequences of such actions if the unique, favorable conditions of 1996 changed," added Swenson.

Harvesting Of Vegetables Goes On Across State

Vegetable harvesting continues across the state, according to Ray Garibay, state statistician with the Maryland Ag Statistics Service. Cucumbers are 45% harvested, 4 points higher than last year and 10 points above the five-year average. Potatoes are 51% harvested, 10 points above last year and the five-year average.

Field corn is 51% silked, 3 points above last year, and 13 points above the five-year average. Soybeans are 20% bloomed, 5 points above last year, and 16 points above the five-year average. Soybean setting pods began this week, currently at 9%, 2 points above last year.

Topsoil moisture is 8% short, 74% adequate, and 18% surplus. Subsoil moisture is 5% short, 91% adequate, and 4% surplus. Precipitation for the past week ranged from 1.1 inches in Allegany County to 3.9 inches in Dorchester County. High temperatures for the past week ranged from 79 degrees on Thursday to 91 degrees on Monday.

Crop progress for the week which ended July 16, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, follows.

July Milk Prices— Not Good!

The July milk production report was not good news for better milk prices. June milk production, although down seasonally from May, was still 2.6% higher than a year ago. This was a stronger increase than last month's report where May was 2.2% higher than a year ago. Milk cow numbers have not begun to decline. Compared to June a year ago, there were 0.6% more milk cows. At 9.224 million head, this was the largest number of milk cows yet this year. Milk per cow was about normal with an increase of 2.0%.

Weather was favorable, for the most part, during June.

Not until milk production shows that it will slow more seasonally will milk prices show real strength.

Cheese prices did show considerable improvement a few weeks ago, but have since fallen back. Dairy producers need to watch the market and when it does show some good improvement, perhaps take advantage of it by using dairy price risk management tools.

Evaluating Your Alfalfa Stands

A. Plants per square foot needed for optimum yield: New Seeding, 25-40; 1st year, 12-20; 2nd year, 8-12; 3rd year, 3-8.

B. Stems per square foot: >50, Excellent yields possible; 30-50, Expect some yield reduction; <30, Significant hay yield reduction.

Blossom End Rot On Tomatoes

If you find a dry, black sunken area on the bottom of your tomato, it is probably blossom end rot. It is a fruit disorder and NOT a disease caused by a fungus, bacterium, or a virus. It will not spread as a disease does, but more fruits will show the symptoms if the cause is not relieved. This is directly related to soil moisture and the need of the plant for calcium.

The only control for this disorder is to maintain a soil pH between 5.8 and 6.3 and keep the plants adequately watered in dry weather or properly drained in wet weather.

Watch Out For The Deer Tick!

Lyme disease is a tick-borne infection caused by the bacteria Borrelia burgdorferi. Although named after a town in Connecticut, Lyme disease has been detected on 6 continents, in more than 20 countries, and in at least 35 states within the U.S. The three principal areas of infection in the United States are the Northeast, Upper Midwest, and the Pacific West. Only about 30% of patients diagnosed with Lyme Disease recall a specific tick bite. The reason is that larvae and nymph stages of the tick can transmit the disease as easily as the adult tick. In fact, the small nymph forms are responsible for the majority of infections.

CLINICAL SYMPTOMS: After an incubation period of 3 to 30 days, a typical skin lesion occurs in up to 85% of cases at the site of the tick bite. As the lesion develops, it typically appears as a red, flat circular shape pigmented spot with a central clearing. Other early signs of the disease include severe fatigue, headache, fever, stiff neck, chills, and joint pain. If untreated, neurological and cardiac abnormalities can begin weeks later and arthritis follows months to years later.

TREATMENT AND PREVENTION: The early signs of Lyme Disease are effectively managed with antibiotic treatment and the incidence and severity of late complications are improved with therapy. Despite treatment, Lyme arthritis and other complications can be seen in a small portion of patients. Prevention of Lyme disease is attempted by avoiding ticks and their natural habitats, wearing protective light-colored clothing, and using insect repellents. Recent vaccine development holds much promise for further protection against the disease.

MDA Announces Upcoming Events

The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) has announced upcoming events of interest to farmers and landowners across the state.

The State Soil Conservation Committee has announced that its next meeting will be held Aug. 17 at 1 p.m. in conjunction with the 31st annual Wye Field Day event at the Wye Research and Education Center in Queenstown. The meeting is open to the public and will focus on soil conservation and water quality program implementation and policy development. Established in 1938, the State Soil Conservation Committee coordinates the activities of Maryland's 24 soil conservation districts, while advising the secretary of agriculture on matters relating to soil and water conservation. For more information, those interested may call Louise Lawrence, executive secretary, at 410-841-5863.

The Maryland Nutrient Management Certification Exam will be offered Fri., Aug. 4, at the Maryland Department of Agriculture's headquarters, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway in Annapolis. Individuals who provide nutrient recommendations, professionals who provide technical assistance or are engaged in the development of waste management systems, lawn care and nursery personnel, and farmers interested in developing their own state-approved nutrient management plans are encouraged to take the exam. For an application or additional information, those interested may contact Mike Webster at 410-841-5959.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture will sponsor a seminar for consultants, farmers, public grounds personnel and other individuals interested in learning more about Maryland's new nutrient management regulations. "An Overview of Nutrient Management Regulations" will be held Aug. 7 at Chesapeake College in Queenstown and Aug. 9 at the Four Points Hotel in Hagerstown. For registration information, those interested may contact Mike Webster at 410-841-5959.

The 2nd annual Maryland Commodity Classic is slated for July 27 in Howard County at the Howard County Fairgrounds, a new location this year. John Phipps, an Illinois farmer, humorist, and columnist for Top Producer and Farm Journal, will be the keynote speaker.

The event, patterned after the joint annual meeting of the National Corn Growers and American Soybean associations, is an extension of the Maryland Grain Producers' annual meeting. Phipps's talk, "Are We Having Fun Yet—Rediscovering the Joy in Farming," will focus—in a humorous way—on stresses in agriculture and how to overcome them. Tickets are $10 and can be obtained at the gate. For more information, those interested may contact Lynne Hoot at 410-956-5771.

SWANTON NEWS

COMMUNITY CENTER

The Swanton Community Association met Monday evening at the center. The $500 scholarship was presented to Holly Wilson, a second-year respiratory therapy student, at Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland. Holly is the daughter of David and Mary Louise Wilson. A reception to honor Holly was held at the close of the business meeting.

Plans for the Open Space pavilion were discussed. Bids are now being accepted for this project.

Membership chairperson Ann Sweitzer reported 41 families now belong to the center. Swanton area residents are invited to join. The new year began July 1. Dues are $5 per family, per year. Meetings are held on the third Monday of most months, at 7:30 p.m., to plan activities. Dues may be mailed to Ann Sweitzer at 174 Swanton Rd., Swanton, MD 21561.

Those who want to try for the $500 scholarship for year 2001 should contact Dorothy Bernard (301-387-5723) for further details, or attend the next meeting at the center on Monday, Aug. 21, at 7:30 p.m.

A covered dish picnic at New Germany State Park on Tuesday, Aug. 22, 5 p.m., was planned. All area families are invited to attend.

OTTERBEIN UM CHURCH

The Brotherhood met here last Tuesday evening. Rev. Meredith Ball was the speaker. The Prayer Breakfast will be held at the Casselman Restaurant in Grantsville this Saturday, July 22, at 7:30 a.m. The August meeting will be held Tuesday, Aug. 8, at McHenry United Methodist Church.

The United Methodist Women held their annual picnic at the home of Joan Riley, Thousand Acres, on Tuesday, July 11. Twenty-nine attended. Barbara Sweitzer was the chairperson of entertainment, which included special music by Kim Sweitzer, poems by Amy Sweitzer, a skit by Sandra Schofield, and a "brown bag" auction.

Betty Foy of Oakland, a representative of Potomac Highland District United Methodist Women, attended the picnic with her aunt Sara.

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP - It was the second year in a row that Holly Gwynn Wilson was selected as the recipient of the Swanton Community Center Scholarship. A second-year student in the respiratory therapy program at Allegany College of Maryland, Holly maintains a 4.0 average and serves as treasurer of the respiratory therapy program. She is also an active member of the Swanton Otterbein Methodist Church. To qualify for the scholarship, applicants must complete at least four hours of service at four different fund-raisers sponsored by the community center, and maintain at least a C average in their studies. Holly is the daughter of Swanton residents David and Mary Lou Wilson and the granddaughter of Thomas E. Wilson and Glen and Freda Teets, all of Swanton. In the photo, presenting the award to Holly are scholarship committee chair Dorothy Bernard and center president John Livengood.

University Of Md. Slates New Urban Forestry Program

The University of Maryland at College Park unveiled a new urban forestry concentration in the university's College of Agriculture and Natural Resource Sciences undergraduate program, which will be available this fall. "This program will complement a thriving urban forestry program of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Forest Service, which has been a national leader in the development of efforts to protect trees in urban settings," a university spokesperson said.

"Unlike Garrett County's citizens, nearly eight of 10 Maryland residents live in urban areas. A growing percentage of Marylanders are recognizing the importance of urban forests, which reduce run-off, provide wildlife habitat, enhance property values, and cut energy needs through the shade they provide. With this recognition comes an increased demand for trained individuals to manage urban forest ecosystems."

The new urban forestry curriculum meets the demand for trained tree care professionals in an increasingly urban state, as well as the entire Mid-Atlantic region. Its development was spearheaded by an urban forestry steering committee composed of University of Maryland faculty, DNR's, Forest Service, representatives of other public agencies, and private tree care companies. "It was a unique circumstance to be approached by forestry leaders and potential forestry employers with a plan to meet an educational need in the state, by adding four core forestry courses to other existing courses essential to the forestry curriculum," said Dr. Thomas A. Fretz, dean of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

State forester Jim Mallow expressed pleasure that a state-based educational institution will be involved in essential forestry education. "The addition of an urban forestry program at the University of Maryland goes a long way toward protecting and maintaining Maryland's trees for the future," Mallow said.

For more information about the urban forestry curriculum, persons may contact Mallow, while details about the Maryland DNR Forest Service urban forestry program can be obtained from Urban and Community Forestry supervisor Michael Galvin. Both may be reached at 410-260-8531.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Although art shows are pretty routine around the Sussman house, last Friday evening we attended a special art show featuring the art produced by students of the GLAF Young Artists' Workshop, including our daughter Caitlin and her buddy, Jamie Hay-

Noted By USAA

Robby Stemple, a recent Southern Middle School graduate, has been recognized by the United States Achievement Academy in the subject of mathematics. Stemple was nominated for the USAA honor, which is bestowed on fewer than 10 percent of all high school students, by SMS math teacher Donna Durst, and he will appear in the organization's nationally published yearbook.

The son of Bobby and Wilma Stemple of Oakland, Stemple will enter Southern High School as a freshman this fall.

del. They were deservedly proud of their work. We saw quite a few of our friends and also parents of campers, including Keith Roberts, Richard Hill, Jeff and Liz Gilbert, Jerry and Nancy Geisler, and Lesa, Greg, and Maddy Whittemore, who were spectators. Lesa was also accompanied by her running coach, who is visiting, and her daughter. Instructors for the week were Mark and Laura Stutzman. Even the refreshments were divine. This week Blakely Glotfelty is taking her turn and attending the Young Writer's Workshop, also held at Fantasy Valley.

Last weekend was the time for reunions. First, a big family reunion of the late Charles and Linnie Buckle was held at the home of Kevin and Carol Bass. Two sons and some of their families attended, along with my mother Ruth and her family. Dale Glotfelty also spent part of the evening with the family. Donald Buckle, Roanoke, Va., and son Paul and Mary Buckle from Charlottesville, N.C., came for the reunions, along with Jack Buckle, son Bruce and Betty Buckle and son Peter, and Daryl Buckle and sons Nick and Isaac, from Williamsport, Pa. Sister Ruth Glotfelty DiPaolo, and her large family were also in attendance. The Glotfelty grandchildren had a great time entertaining Nick and Isaac.

Besides a great meal, we were also treated to a dancing performance by the boys from Bittinger led by Robbie Glotfelty, and also featuring Matthew Bass and those "triplets," Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty, and Scotty Bass. They performed to the N-Sync song "Bye, Bye, Bye." You do not need to be a rocket scientist to tell that Robbie is the son of Rodney. Besides their looking so much alike, they also have the same flair for rock and roll music. The twins with their platinum blonde hair do not look as much like their father, but they do have Rodney's personality. They did such a good job that the whole crowd of adults demanded "More, More," and begged them to do it at the big Buckle/Buckel reunion the next day, but no way. They would be too embarrassed. I don't know what happened to the girls' group, or why they did not have a performance, too. For once they had nothing prepared. Mere did do a few acrobatics.

Rodney and Marci had a pretty busy Saturday, along with the family reunion at Carol's house and attending Rodney's 30th high school reunion for the class of 1970 of Northern High School. Also from Bittinger attending were Sam and Cindy Stanton, Philip Buckel and wife Sandra, Denny Buckel accompanied by Peggy Chapel, and Mike Bittinger. Bob Yaste was in their class, but did not attend the reunion. Rodney and Marci attended the buffet at Wisp, but cut out from the lake cruise to get back to their own family party. Rodney spent the early part of the day interviewing the prospective pastor of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish, since he served on the call committee.

On Sunday approximately 60 people attended the Buckle/Buckel reunion at the Bittinger fire hall. Everything was perfectly peaceful at the reunion with no big arguments over the spelling of the name. It was decided to have the reunion every two years and try to get each family responsible for getting better attendance. When the first reunion was held some years ago, we had over 100 in attendance.

Everyone was busy stuffing themselves with a great covered dish spread. I did not even have room for my personal dish, strawberry shortcake. Someone must have eaten some because we failed to bring home any leftovers, which would have come in handy.

On Sunday afternoon, I passed by the home of Leora Yaste and saw a big reunion taking place. So I came home and later called to get the news straight from the "horse's mouth." You know, of course, that I am not calling Leora a horse, as this is just a figure of speech. Anyway, I will have more about the reunion in her own words. I want to thank her especially for the fine write-up.

The descendants of Dan Beitzel and Annie (Schrock) gathered at the Bittinger fire hall on Saturday, July 15, for their annual family reunion (the 18th). Dan and Annie were married on March 17, 1907, and reared eight children on their small farm on Orendorf Road near Bittinger. The eight children grew up, scattered out, and had 43 children. Today there are well over 200 descendants.

Attending the reunion were folks from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. A special welcome was given to newly-weds Gwen and Hector Espinosa, Philadelphia, and Catrine van der Meer, Rotterdam, the Netherlands. Catrine was visiting the Denver Beitzel family in Bittinger.

The festivities continued into the evening at the Beitzel farm on Maynardier Ridge Road with an old-fashioned wiener roast, ice cream, and strawberries. The evening was filled with music, singing, story telling, and lots of laughter. The group gathered again on Sunday morning at the "Old Cherry Glade Church" on Foxtown Road for a worship service, where many of the clan worshipped as children and young adults. Group singing was led by a grandson of Dan and Annie, Titus Peachey, Lancaster, Pa. Duets were performed by Millard and Judy Yoder, Lititz, Pa. (Millard is a great-grandson), and by two sisters, Esther (Beitzel) Yoder and Marian Beitzel Deal. There was a song by a male quartet resurrected for the day sung by Olen, Cleland, and Mayard Beitzel, and Ron Beiler, who sang together as a gospel quartet 40-some years ago and were known as the Country Cousins Quartet.

Chester Yoder (a great-grandson and assistant pastor at Glade Mennonite Church), was the preacher of the day.

Leora Yaste's weekend guests were her brother and sister-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Mayard Beitzel, Allensville, Pa., and her aunt, Fannie Peachey, Irwin, Ohio. Friday evening visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Titus Peachey and daughter Rachel, Lancaster, Pa.

Attending a picnic at Leora's on Sunday evening were Rev. and Mrs. Mayard Beitzel, Mr. and Mrs. Cleland Beitzel, Randal Beitzel, Karen Maust, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Yoder, Darrin Yoder, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Yoder and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Beitzel, Bittinger, Hilda Beitzel, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Beitzel, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Yoder and children, Elda Beitzel, Marvin Beitzel, Stanley and Roger, Grantsville, Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Beitzel, Salisbury, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Foster, McHenry, Lillian Bender, Accident, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Beitzel, and Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Beitzel and children.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church voted by an overwhelming margin to issue a call to the Rev. Patricia Pittsnogle. Also taking a vote were the Jennings Church and Meadow Mt. Church, which were favorable. We pray for her acceptance upon receiving the call to serve the parish and hope we can get her here as soon as possible. She and her husband spent the weekend here, and a covered dish dinner was held at the fire hall on Saturday night in her honor.

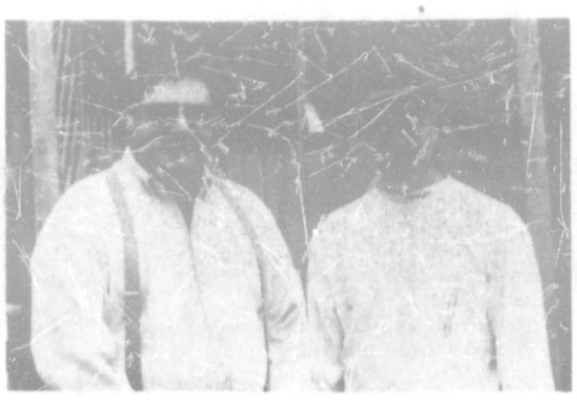

Returning to the news on Sunday evening, another picnic and gathering was held at the home of Rodney and Marci Glotfelty to celebrate a visit of a couple of really great aunts. I mean my Aunt Helen Engiar, Westminster, who drove up with my Aunt Dorothy (Glotfelty) Quaintance, now living in Las Cruces, N.M. Dot had with her her two granddaughters, whose parents are Jay and Heather Quaintance who live in New York State. Dot had picked up the girls from her parents, who were vacationing in southern Kentucky visiting with Heather's parents, and also visiting friends where Jay grew up in Howard County. Dot picked up the girls to run up to Garrett County so they could have a much anticipated visit with their country cousins. They all keep in touch with them by e-mail.

Great-Aunt Dot went for a walk in the woods down to "the crick." The kids told her it is a "creek," but she told them when she was growing up it was a "crick," and as far as she is concerned it is still a "crick." While they were playing in the stream her granddaughters, Katie and my Caity, filled up her shoes with mud while she was barefoot wading in the "crick."

The Quaintance girls, the Sussman girls, and their cousins, Emma Bass and Blakely Glotfelty, wanted to sleep out on Sunday night, but due to the threatening weather, they were forced to resort to a big sleepover in the recreation room in the basement at Rod and Marci's. Marci said it was pretty cute this Monday morning when all these girls poured upstairs. Unfortunately for us, the great aunts and cousins hit the road to reunite the girls with their parents. Dot and Helen plan to spend a few days helping Jay and Heather remodel their newly bought big old Victorian house in the countryside in upstate New York.

Adam and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg, returned to their home Saturday after spending two weeks with their grandparents, Jim and Donna Glotfelty, and visiting other uncles and aunts and cousins in the area.

Jim and Donna Glotfelty had dinner and visited with relatives at the home of Julius and Karmen Carey, near Frostburg, Saturday evening. Other guests were Jeff, Sheli, and Ashlin McKenzie Gray, Hanover, and William and Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa. The Grays were in the area to attend a family get-together Sunday at the home of Butch and Betty Bittinger.

LANCELOTTA A SILVER CORPORATE SPONSOR - Garrett County business owner Frank Lancelotta became a Silver Corporate Sponsor for the OutSpokin' for Maryland's Kids campaign 2000, which benefits the children at the Maryland Salem Children's Trust. Lancelotta is the owner of Garrett County Self Storage located along Moser Road in McHenry. He received a tour of the Salem facility and is pictured above on the left with Tom Ruckert of Salem. Ruckert will make his eighth bicycle trip to Ocean City on September 11 with representatives from other childcare agencies throughout Maryland. Cyclists will leave the Salem property on Monday and arrive on the Eastern Shore on Friday, September 15, to raise awareness of the plight of children in the foster care system. Salem provides a home and educational services to children unable to live with their own families. An on-grounds emergency shelter, serving several Maryland counties, offers a safe, structured environment for children in crisis. Anyone wishing to make a donation toward Salem's fund-raising goal of $20,000 may call 301-689-8176 for more information.

A beginners' fly-fishing activity is set for Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. in the Potomac State Forest. A hike to the old beaver dam will depart from the Swallow Falls office at 2 p.m. A campfire program titled "Night Sounds" will be presented by Garrett Community College's Kevin Dodge in the amphitheater at 8:30 p.m.

A natural history hike departs from the Swallow Falls concession stand at 1 p.m. on Sunday.

Monday's schedule includes a butterfly walk that will begin at 12:30 p.m. at the Swallow Falls concession stand. A scavenger hunt is slated for 2 p.m. at the Herrington Manor office.

Tuesday's activities include an 8 a.m. bird hike and a 10 a.m. hayride to the Bicentennial Tree. Both excursions will depart from the Herrington Manor office. Space is limited for the hayride, which has a $3 fee per participant, and registration is required and may be made by calling the park office. A Junior Ranger program will take place from 1 to 3 p.m. for youth ages 8-14. A $2 fee is required.

Wednesday's activities include a 9 a.m. canoe tour of Herrington Manor Lake, for a fee of $5 per participant. Registration is required and may be made by calling the park office; and participants will meet at the concession stand. A "Discover Nature" hike will depart from the Herrington Manor office at 1 p.m. A T-shirt art activity is slated for 3 p.m. at the Herrington Manor office at a cost of $1 per person.

A children's craft activity will get under way in the Herrington Manor nature room at 10 a.m. Thursday morning. At 2:30 p.m. that afternoon, a "Land Use History" hike will depart from the Herrington Manor office. At 2:30 p.m. a land use history hike will depart from the Swallow Falls concession building. A caravan to a watchable wildlife area will depart from the Herrington Manor office at 8 p.m.

A caravan to the Lost Land Run area of Potomac State Forest, which will include a hike to Cascade Falls, will get under way at 9:30 a.m. Friday, departing from the Herrington Manor office. At 1 p.m. an adult craft activity will take place at the Herrington Manor office, with a small fee charged for materials.

Meeting Slated For Grantsville Crime Watch

Residents of Grantsville are invited to attend the first meeting of the Neighborhood Crime Watch, a community crime prevention program, tonight, Thursday, July 20, at 6:30 p.m. at Grantsville Town Hall. This effort is coordinated by Tfc. B. Bittinger of the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police.

"A number of residents have contacted me and said they were interested in the Crime Watch program. They see it as a way to prevent the kinds of 'gang behaviors' the town has experienced recently," Bittinger said. The purpose of this initial meeting is to get a count of the number of people who wish to participate and to set an agenda for the group, he explained.

Encouraged by the members of Grantsville HotSpot team, the development of a Neighborhood Crime Watch indicates increased citizen involvement in creating and maintaining a safe community, Bittinger noted.

Anyone unable to attend the meeting who like to get more information on the Crime Watch program may contact Bittinger at 301-895-1101 or 301-387-1101.

QUILT DISPLAYED AT THE REPUBLICAN - The old-fashioned handkerchief quilt, which will be raffled off during the Western Maryland Truck Show to benefit the Dove Center, is currently on display in the front window of The Republican office in the Grantsville Plaza. Raffle tickets for this award-winning quilt made by the Creative Needle Quilters are available for $1 each and 6 for $5 at The Republican, Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop, Beachy's Pharmacy, Springs Store, Gregg's Pharmacy, Get-N-Go, and Simon's Family Hair Center. The Western Maryland Truck Show is slated for August 26-27 at the community park in Grantsville. The winning ticket will be drawn on August 27. The winner need not be present. In the photo above, Maxine Scardina comments on the unique pattern of the quilt prior to buying several tickets for herself and her twin sister.

Mountain Lake Park Observer

by Dan Whittelsey

We hear a lot these days of grants to our communities. And we shall keep hearing much more. Since I am ignorant on grants, I thought a short rundown might be helpful. I assume others are likewise puzzled. So here goes.

First, my thanks to John Nelson, planning director for the county who administers Open Space grants approved by the county commissioners. Thanks to Peggy Jamison who handled block grants approved by the Department of Housing and Community Development for a number of years and was able to take the time to explain it to me.

The Open Space grants derive funds from county taxes on transfer of deeds. The total grants for a year in Garrett County may equal $180,000 to $190,000 per year. The county commissioners are responsible for distribution of these monies. The funds must be used for recreational facilities that are open to the public. Mountain Lake Park received a grant of about $10,000 for the pavilion being built for Veterans Park. Councilman Lou DiCarlo was responsible for obtaining and planning the grant. Most of the Open Space grants are of this size and larger. The grants also must be approved by the Board of Public Works (Maryland).

Block grants are on a significantly larger scale. Application is made to the Department of Housing and Community Development, a state agency. Rules and regulations are much stricter than for the Open Space grants. Awards of $100,000 to $700,000 would be normal. Projects must benefit a major part of the community, such as sewer funds. Also, housing and other building programs benefiting poor or elderly persons are looked on favorably. A flood disaster would be another basis for relief, as well as elimination of blight.

The block grants for municipalities of Garrett County are handled by Wendell Keaton, the county circuit rider. Besides writing block grants, Wendell has a number of other jobs to do for municipalities. Thank you, Wendell, for clearing up some points on grants. Wendell has an office in Mountain Lake Park Town Hall. If you have any further questions, I am sure he will be glad to help.

A couple of weeks ago I mentioned that there were no open hearings on the budget. The mayor corrected me on this. My idea of an open hearing is as follows: (1) A meeting date set well in advance by either the town council or a specified community; (2) schedule town people who would like to speak. Supply in advance of the meeting some basic budget information so that any one speaking will have some knowledge of the subject. This has not been done in the past, but should be done in the future. And that was the reason for my remark.

As I mentioned before, the turn-out for the recent elections was miserable — Only 10% of eligible voters. I hope at the next meeting the town council will consider what can be done.

The next meeting of the council will be July 25 at the usual 6 p.m. The Planning Commission will meet July 31. Please try to come to both meetings.

OF
FRIENDSVILLE, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND 21531

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Joanne Paugh and Herbert B. Paugh to First Equity Title Corporation, Trustee, dated December 17, 1997, and recorded in Liber 728, folio 397 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Deed of Trust having appointed Carrie M. Ward, Alan D. Levenstein and Alan S. Weiner, Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the County aforesaid, default having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON MONDAY, JULY 31, 2000 AT 1:00 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett County, Maryland, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $6,000 will be required at time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, certified check, or in other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine acceptable, in their sole discretion. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. Balance to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within the specified period stated, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to them, the Substitute Trustees will declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorneys' fees and all other charges incurred by the Substitute Trustees. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to the day the funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder, there shall be no abatement of interest caused by the delay. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, Condominium fees and/or Homeowners Association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. The Substitute Trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids, withdraw the property from sale, postpone and advertise the property for sale at a later date. Neither the Substitute Trustees nor any other party guarantees or covenants to deliver or to in any way obtain possession of the premises for any purchaser. In the event the property is occupied by tenants, the Substitute Trustees assume no responsibility for security deposits or other monies paid by the tenants to anyone. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees or the noteholder. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale. PUBLIC NOTICE

TO: All consumers of Grantsville Water System
FROM: Town of Grantsville
DATE: July 12, 2000
RE: Bacteriological Testing

Pursuant to State and Federal regulations the Town of Grantsville is required to sample the drinking water every month for coliform bacteria and report results to Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE), Water Supply Program by the tenth day of the following month. We are required to notify consumers when tests are not taken and results are not submitted to MDE.

This is to notify you that the Town of Grantsville is in violation of State and Federal regulations for failure to collect a bacteriological sample for the month of June 2000.

In order to prevent further violations from occurring, reporting of test results will be planned for the middle of each month which will allow time to complete any sampling and testing within the required time. The sample for July 2000 has been tested and found to be negative for coliform bacteria.

Should you have any questions concerning this matter, please feel free to contact Harry Knight at 301-895-3144.

NOTICE TO
ALLEGHENY POWER CUSTOMERS

Allegheny Power has contracted to maintain portions of its rights-of-way with an aerial saw consisting of fifteen 24-inch rotary blades powered by a motor and suspended on a vertical boom beneath a helicopter. This maintenance method allows for the quick, safe, and efficient trimming of trees along our transmission lines. The aerial saw will be operating for approximately three weeks from late July to early August in the following counties in Maryland.

Garrett County
(Pruntytown – Mt Storm, 500 kV Line)
Portions of a transmission line starting at the Maryland State Line south of Redhouse, Md., west of St. Rt. 219, and heading in a southeasterly direction. The line runs parallel with Cash Valley Road and crosses St. Rt. 219 south of Redhouse. The line then continues southeasterly crossing "The Little Mountain," "Backbone Mountain," Table Rock Road, Wilson Corona Road, and finally the North Branch of the Potomac River into Grant County, West Virginia.

Garrett County
(Albright – Mt Zion – Beryl, 138 kV Line)
Portions of transmission line starting at Maryland State Line west of Herrington Manor State Park and heading east, crossing Sanders Lane, passing through the southern end of the State Park property. The line continues easterly, crossing Herrington Manor Road and passing through the center of Mt. Nebo Wildlife Management Area. The line then continues east, crossing St. Rt. 219, Kings Run Road, Sand Flat Road, Pysell Crosscut Road, Turkeyneck Road, and St. Rt. 495 north of St. Rt. 135. The line then heads over Backbone Mountain, crossing St. Rt. 135 near the junction of St. Rt. 38, and enters a substation on Mt Zion Road. After leaving the Mt Zion Road Substation, the line heads east to the Potomac River, crossing below Jennings Randolph Lake Dam.

(Albright – Oak Park – Elk Garden, 138 kV Line)
Portions of transmission line starting at Maryland State Line west of Herrington Manor State Park and heading east across Senders Lane, passing through southern end of the State Park property. The line continues easterly crossing Herrington Manor Road, then bears southeasterly crossing Oakland Sang Run Road, Hooppole Ridge, St. Rt. 219, Broadford Road, and into Oakpark Substation next to Broadford Lake. From Oakpark Substation, the line heads southeast across Broadford Lake, crossing St. Rt. 135 northeast of Mountain Lake Park. The line continues southeasterly, crossing Deer Park Hotel Road, Backbone Mountain, Eagle Rock Road. The line then runs parallel to Upperman Road and North Hill Road before crossing the North Branch of the Potomac River and into Elk Garden Substation in West Virginia.

Allegany County
(Mt Zion – Beryl, 138 kV Line)
Portions of a transmission line starting at the Potomac River, crossing west of McCoole, Md., and heading northeasterly and parallel with St. Rt. 220 and the top of Dan's Mountain. The line crosses Culvert Hollow, Dry Run, southeast of Pond Hill, Deep Hollow, and Toms Hollow. The line then makes a 90-degree right turn, crossing St. Rt. 220 south of Danville, over Fort Hill, and into Black Oak Substation.

RESIDENTS OF MTN. LAKE PARK

The Town of Mtn. Lake Park will conduct a public hearing to obtain views of citizens on COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AND HOUSING NEEDS, and to offer citizens the opportunity to review an application which the Town of Mtn. Lake Park proposes to submit to the State of Maryland. The hearing will be held at the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall on Tuesday, July 25, 2000, beginning at 5:45 p.m.

The Maryland Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program is a federally sponsored program designed to assist units of general local government with activities directed toward neighborhood and housing revitalization, economic development, and improved community facilities and services.

Maryland's Program is administered by the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), in close cooperation with the Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED).

Interested residents, particularly low to moderate income residents and senior citizens, are urged to attend this meeting and offer written or oral comments.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

50TH ANNIVERSARY

The children and grandchildren of Scott and Dean Sisler invite family and friends to share in a celebration of their parents' 50th wedding anniversary. An open house will be held at the Scott Sisler home in Aurora from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, July 29.

AMBOY FESTIVAL

An annual festival will be held at the Amboy United Methodist Church fellowship hall in July 29. Baked steak dinners and hot sandwiches, plus homemade ice cream, cakes, and pies will be available. Entertainment will be provided by J.C. and the Boys. The public is welcome.

WAYBRIGHT-BENNETT REUNION JULY 23

The annual reunion of the Waybright-Bennett families will be held this Sunday, July 23, at the Mt. Grove pavilion. The picnic lunch is at noon and everyone related, plus any friends, are welcome to attend.

VFW AUXILIARY MEETS

The Aurora-Terra Alta VFW Ladies Auxiliary held its regular meeting on July 10 in the post home. Betty Sereno, president, called the meeting to order with seven members present.

Officers for 2000-01 have been elected and installed. The general orders were read by secretary Margaret Sypolt. The $16 annual fee is to be sent to Linda Snyder, treasurer. The auxiliary voted to take action in all committees, despite the small membership.

An annual picnic is set for Aug. 19 at the Terra Alta Community Park. Food will be served from 12:30 until 2 p.m. VFW and auxiliary members are welcome.

District president Rose Mary Knight will make a regular inspection visit on Aug. 14 at 11 a.m. Members are asked to be present to meet with her at that time.

"MIRACLE OF CHRISTMAS" PRESENTATION SET

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora, AAL Branch 9783, is sponsoring a chartered bus to the Sight and Sound Millenium Theater in Lancaster, Pa., to see "The Miracle of Christmas" on Oct. 21. The cost is $60 per person and does not include meals. There will be stops for lunch and dinner. Those who would like to go are asked to let Delores Stemple know by Aug. 1. She may be reached at 735-5187, and the money will need to be given to her by Sept. 1. All are welcome to participate.

MT. GROVE VFD EXPRESSES THANKS

The Mountain Grove Volunteer Fire Department expressed thanks to the community for its support with the ramp dinner in May, and the brush fire on Slaubaugh Road in June, when Thomas and Aurora VFDs and Union Ambulance responded.

Members also announce that they are again in the midst of planning for the annual Potato Festival to be held Sept. 9 and 10.

MOUNTAINEER 4-H

The Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club is selling Pizza Hut cards as a fund-raising effort. When using the card, participants will receive a free medium one-topping pizza when they buy a large pizza at the regular price. The card costs $12 and can be used 36 times, lasting through June 2001, for either dine-in or carry-out. To purchase a card persons may call Renee Mullenax at 735-6281 by July 28.

Josh Mullenax attended Alpha I State 4-H Camp at Jackson's Mill July 10-15. Attending Preston County 4-H Camp for older members July 9-14 were Craig Rembold and Tracy Teets. All are mountaineer members.

AG, FORESTRY HALL OF FAME

Two names locally familiar were among those of eight enshrined into the West Virginia Agriculture and Forestry Hall of Fame, during a recognition dinner ceremony on July 8 at Jackson's Mill. Richard K. "Dick" Waybright of Ravenswood, serving since 1980 as W.Va. Forestry Association's executive director and former extension agent, is one of those. The other is William E. "Pete" Walker of Shenandoah Junction, a statewide leader in the dairy industry as holder of various offices in the W.Va. Holstein Association, president of the W.Va. Dairy Show and Festival at Jackson's Mill for more than 25 years, and who has received the Distinguished Service Award form WVU Gamma Sigma Delta Ag Honor Society.

Others who were enshrined were Albert E. Grafton of Heaters, professor at Glenville State College; Alan R. Miller of Upper Tract for efforts in control of forest insects; Reita Jean Marks of Morgantown for her work in Extension, particularly 4-H and youth; and Charles R. Hall of Horner for management and protection of forests in West Virginia.

Among those attending the dinner in honor of these inductees were Dayton and Betty Bolyard, Crystal and Cora, all of Eglon, friends of Pete Walker.

CLASS OF '65 MEETS

A dinner was served last Saturday evening at the Aurora fire hall for the following members of the Aurora High School class of 1965 who attended their reunion: local residents Everett and Shirley (Dumire) Blamble; Stanley and Evonna Moats and son; Selma Auvil Cummings and brother Kenneth Auvil; Guy and Shirley Lipscomb; Allen and Carolyn Mullenax; Erwin and Mary Stemple; Don Beckman and Beverly "Kitty" Myers; Rodney and Sherri Hauser, Oakland; Joyce Rinehart Huffman, Tennessee; Junior Rinehart, Yakima, Wash.; Scott and Sharon Teets, Knoxville, Tenn.; and Erma Rinehart Kennedy, Myrtle Beach, S.C.

KEPPLE BIRTH

Mark and Lisa Kepple of Wheeling announce the birth of their first child, a son, on July 11. He was 21½ inches long at birth and is named Mark Ashton.

The paternal grandparents are Mark and Judy (Teets) Kepple of Shepherdstown. The local paternal great-grandparents are Hancell and Mildred Teets of Aurora.

On Saturday, July 15, the grandparents and great-grandparents were joined by Scott and Sharon Teets for a visit to the new baby and his parents. The latter also visited Saturday with Scott's parents, Ellis and Marie Teets, Silver Lake.

REUNIONS

A covered dish lunch is set for July 29 for those who fit into the Myers, Gnegy, Lantz, Wotring, and Hauser families. Table service will be supplied for the 1 p.m. meal. Those attending are asked to bring pictures and family tree information, if possible.

The Aurora High School class of 1960 reunion is Saturday evening, July 29, at the Union Ambulance squad hall.

ALUMNI WEEKEND

Aurora High School and Union District elementary schools invite everyone to come for a reunion this weekend, whether or not they attended one or any of these schools. On Saturday evening, July 22, there will be a reminiscence period from 7 until 9 p.m. at the Aurora Community Building. On Sunday, a 1 p.m. dinner is planned at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. Table service and beverages will be provided. Those attending are asked to bring covered dishes and join in that special time. A memorial service for those who've died during the past year will be included in the business session.

PERSONAL MENTION

Wade and Mary Harsh of Eglon visited recently with their son, Tim Harsh, in Boston, Mass. While there, they saw Plymouth Rock, boarded the replica ship "Mayflower," and also visited Plymouth village and plantation.

Curtis Teets of Eglon underwent out-patient surgery July 11 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He is recuperating at his home.

Bruce Teets was an outpatient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for surgery on July 12. He is recovering at his home.

Michele O'Connor, Aurora, has been undergoing various diagnostic tests at Morgantown, and is continuing her employment as she is able.

THE CONNORS TO APPEAR AT ROLLING ACRES - The Connors, a gospel music duo from Sutton, W.Va., are scheduled to appear in concert during the 16th Rolling Acres Summer Gospel Jubilee, set for July 27-30, near New Creek. The mother-daughter duo will perform on stage on Friday, July 28, at 6:30 p.m. Also scheduled to appear during the jubilee will be The Dodds Family from Fulks Run, Va., the Dominion Trio of Roanoke, Va., and The Reeds of Mt. Storm, W.Va. All services planned during the event will be held in a large pavilion in The Rolling Acres Gospel Music Park, located on the banks of New Creek in the Laureldale area on Rt. 93, off Rt. 50, approximately 10 miles south of Keyser. A freewill offering will be received at each service. Camping is available with electric and water hookups. The concession stand will be open each evening of the gospel sing, and it is suggested participants bring lawn chairs. For information about camping or the jubilee, persons may call Gene or Shirley Cathell at 304-788-1117.

Dr. Jack and Carla Rodman and their children of Sarasota, Fla., vacationed with her parents, Carlton and Jean Skipper of Kingwood. her brother Brent Skipper, and his sons Brandon and Brady, Aberdeen, were also visiting. They, along with the following, met for a Friday evening picnic at the Skipper trailer near Aurora: Ron and Avenell Parsons; John, Shirley, and Steve Parsons; Leonard, Tammy, Daniel, and Michael Parsons; Jim and Cheryl Parks; Ruth Parks; and Kathy Hardesty.

Visiting Monday to Wednesday with Ellis and Marie Teets were their daughter and her family, Bitsy Shepherd, Andrew, Stephen, and Elizabeth, Evergreen, Colo., and Matthew Reish, another grandson of Harrisonburg, Va., who was returning to Colorado with his aunt.

Richard Hesse, Gortner, is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital following repair of a fractured hip received in a recent fall.

Willard Feather, Aurora, underwent surgery Sunday for repair of a hip fracture resulting from a Saturday evening fall.

David Layman of Eglon was transported by ambulance Sunday evening to Ruby Memorial Hospital, but was treated and has returned to his home.

Rhonda Stieringer Bailey was a surgical patient last week in Garrett County Memorial Hospital and has returned to her home in Maryland. She is the daughter of Ted and Barbara Stieringer, Aurora.

Delbert and Madeline Sims, Warren, Ohio, were weekend guests of his sister, Jessie Winters, Eglon, and all attended the Sunday Bowman-Sims reunion.

Here for the Saturday birthday celebration of Homer Myers and his wife Marguerite, Aurora, were their children, Robert and Patience Myers, Houston, Texas; James and Carola Myers, Brownsville, Texas; and Alan and Mary Teets, Middletown, Del.

Guests of Jerry and Barbara Hauser, Cash Valley, were Denise Teets and her friend Zack.

Nancy Williams, New Raymer, Colo., is visiting in Aurora with her father, Paul Stemple. Mr. Stemple reportedly received minor injuries in a Sunday fall and was treated at Garrett Memorial Hospital.

An Outer Banks, N.C., vacation was taken the week of July 1 to 8 by Ben and Opel Myers, Aurora, and their family: Angela, Richard, Victoria, and Bethany Stevens; Jerry, Jeannie, Benjamin, Cody, and Tanner Myers; and Mike, Sue, and Hannah Myers.

Aaron Laymen, Countersport, Pa., was a weekend visitor with his parents, David and Lois Layman, Eglon.

Ruth Allman returned Monday to her Eglon home after being hospitalized at Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Penny Robinette and children of Aurora visited recently in War, W.Va., with her parents.

Evans Clan To Meet August 5

The descendants of Daniel and Edna Evans will hold their family reunion Saturday, Aug. 5, at Arnolds Park in Leadmine. A picnic lunch will be shared at noon, for which persons are asked to bring a basket. Table wear, napkins, and cups will be provided.

Persons are also asked to bring photos for "show and tell," plus items for the raffle table.

All relatives and friends are invited to attend. For more information, persons may telephone Betty Neel at 304-478-2919, or Barbara Evans at 304-478-3532.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOL. NO. 123 OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, JULY 27, 2000 PER COPY 47¢ Printed on RECYCLED NEWSPRINT

NO DROUGHT THIS YEAR — Thanks to lots of rain this summer, the surroundings in Garrett County are lush and healthy, with flowers dotting the countryside, and grazing horses (there's one in the background here) finding their fill. These thistles look almost frosty, and judging by the covers needed in bed each night, one might think the temperatures had indeed dipped to 32 degrees, but the flowers are actually just soaked in dew. At long last, farmers on the mountaintop are having a good year, unlike their counterparts in the south, where water is scarce and the air is too hot. Rain is expected here for the rest of the week, but only intermittently. Not a bad summer, all told.

Funds Approved For Acid Mine Remediations

Senators Paul S. Sarbanes and Barbara A. Mikulski announced this week that the U.S. Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement (OSM) has approved $160,000 in federal funding for the Western Maryland Resource Conservation and Development Council. The money, which is provided under the OSM's Watershed Cooperative Agreement Program, is to be used for two acid mine drainage remediation projects in Garrett County.

Two $80,000 grants will partly fund the Kempton Mine Shaft Project and the Teets Acid Mine Drainage Project.

"Acid mine drainage is the most serious environmental problem facing Western Maryland and these funds will help reverse the damage done to Garrett County's streams," said Sarbanes, who has visited acid mine remediation efforts and has sponsored a symposium in Western Maryland to discuss ways to improve the conditions of contaminated waterways. "It is crucial that we marshall the resources and the partnerships necessary to protect and improve human health and the quality of the environment in the BOSLEY NAMED SOFTBALL PLAYER OF YEAR — Southern High School pitching ace Jennifer Bosley has been named the All-Area Softball Player of the Year for the second consecutive season in a poll of area high school softball coaches. Only a sophomore, Bosley notched a 14-3 record this season, averaging almost 11 strikeouts per game, walking only nine batters in 128 innings, and recording a minuscule 0.49 earned run average. She also was the Rams' top force at the plate, batting .368 to lead a powerhouse SHS lineup. Bosley and senior teammate Jennifer Teagarden, who tallied a 6-0 pitching record and outstanding statistics at the plate and at second base, were both named to the All-Area first team, along with Northern High School senior shortstop Mimi Harvey, who batted .387 on the year. See sports pages for details.

Governor Appoints Five To Serve On Deep Creek Policy, Review Bd.

Governor Parris Glendening yesterday announced his appointments to the 10-member Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board. The board will work with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources on matters relating to the lake's Natural Resources Management Area, including its program management, maintenance, budget, and funding.

Deep Creek Lake has year to permanently protect and preserve its natural resources for the enjoyment of future generations," Glendening said. "At the same time, we must continue to meet the needs of area residents, business owners, and tourists."

Those appointed by the governor are John M. Forman, board chairperson, woodlands manager for Wood Products Inc. in Oakland; Greig Johnson, business manager of Arrowhead, Garrett 8 Cinemas, and the Uno Restaurant; Barry H. Weinberg, a career Justice Department official and election system consultant from Bethesda, who also maintains a home in Swanton; Ursula A. Franklin, a former Cumberland City council member who has been active in Allegany County tourism and cultural programs (she resides in Cumberland); and James J. Kline, Hagerstown, president and tournament director of the Maryland Bass Federation.

Also serving on the board will be Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards, representing the county's legislative district, as well as appointees from the Garrett County commissioners, the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association, and the county's chamber of commerce.

The policy and review board is to work with the DNR over the next year to develop a Deep Creek Lake Recreation and Use Plan. One of the first issues to be discussed is the conservation easement issue concerning the buffer strip around the lake. Agreement

Friendsville To Host 21st Annual Homecoming Celebration Aug. 4-5

Friendsville's 21st annual Homecoming Celebration will begin on Friday, Aug.4, at 7 p.m., with a parade starting at the west end of town and ending at the Friendsville Community Park. Immediately following the parade there will be entertainment on the outdoor stage provided by DVK Entertainment and Karaoke with the Best." A variety of food and craft vendors will be on the grounds throughout the evening.

The first Friendsville 2-Mile Fun Walk will be held at the Community Park on Saturday, Aug. 5, at 8 a.m. This event is sponsored by The Friendsville R.A.D. Group. Details and additional information can be obtained by contacting Brenda Frazee at 301-746-5476.

Beginning at 1 p.m. will be registration for the Friendsville Days 2000 Bike Rodeo. The rodeo will start at 1:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department, this event is open to ages 3-15 years. Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad has donated 100 bike helmets to the first 100 registered bikers. Free bike inspections and helmet fitting will be provided.

The celebration will also include the second annual Car and Truck Show and Flea Market, which is coordinated by Pat Reip-Dice and Sharon Hoover. The show and flea market was a big success last year, and it is anticipated that additional entrants will participate this year. Dash plaques will be given to the first 50 vehicles registered, along with awards for Sponsor's Choice and People's Choice. Persons may contact Pat at 301-262-4260 or Sharon at 301-746-5707 for details.

Stage entertainment will be provided throughout the afternoon by DVK Enter-

Fricks Crossing Bridge Closing Until Mid-Sept.

The bridge that carries motor vehicle traffic on Fricks Crossing Road as it traverses the CSX rail line, located between Maryland Highway and Garrett Road south of Deer Park, will be closed by the railroad company at 8 a.m. this coming Monday, July 31.

The bridge, which is being taken down and replaced, will remain closed until the new structure is completed in mid-September, according to a CSX spokesperson.

"At this point we're projecting a completion date of September 14," said Charles Wagner, CSX bridge foreman.

Travelers seeking an alternative route of access to Garrett Road may utilize Bowmans Springs Road to the east of Fricks Crossing Road, or take Gorman Road to Garrett Road to the west of Deer Park.

Electrical Fire Causes $25,000 Damage To House

A fire believed to have been caused by an electrical malfunction resulted in an estimated $25,000 in damages to a Deep Creek Lake house early Tuesday. Volunteer firefighters from Deep Creek, Oakland, Accident, and Deer Park fire departments were summoned at 3:50 a.m. to respond to 346 Skippers Point Road.

Brian Miller, son of owner David Miller, Ashburn, Va., told fire officials that he was awakened by smoke detectors and then fled the two-story chalet without injury. The fire apparently began in the wall on one side of the house. Miller said that the electric breakers at the residence had been

Third Street Bridge Closed Following Audit

The CSX bridge on Third Street in Oakland has been closed to traffic following a state bridge audit and inspection. According to Fred Polce of the Garrett County Roads Department, a state bridge audit inspector deemed the structure unsafe for vehicular traffic, recommended that it be closed, and contacted Polce's office to erect barriers.

The state-contracted engineering team from Kennedy, Porter, & Associates Inc., Hampstead, performed the semi-annual inspection on the Third Street bridge and determined that the north abutment is eroding, as well as the south abutment bulkhead, causing the bridge to be unsafe.

"The south abutment bulkhead is split in two with heavy internal decay. The south abutment bulkhead appears to be unstable, and the remaining resistance cannot be determined," the inspectors' letter to the Garrett County engineer, Dwight Emory, stated.

KPA opined that the bridge could be on the verge of imminent collapse. "It is KPA's opinion that the bridge be immediately closed to all traffic and detour across the railroad be set up," the inspectors stated.

The memorandum to Polce from the office of the county engineer on July 17 noted the "need to act quickly" to notify county commissioners and Oakland officials.

A detour at the site was established by Oakland officials and traffic rerouted. At this time there is no information available on future action to be taken regarding repairing, rebuilding, or reopening the bridge, according to Oakland mayor Asa McCain. "It is a town road, but the bridge belongs to CSX," McCain noted.

State highway officials have been asked to check on the synchronization of the traffic lights in the vicinity of the detour to maintain a continuous traffic flow.

NRP Seeks Leads In Hit-And-Run Boat Accident

An early Sunday morning hit-and-run boat accident on Deep Creek Lake remains under investigation by the Maryland Natural Resources Police, according to the state's Department of Natural Resources.

The 2:45 a.m. accident occurred in the McHenry Cove when a 28-foot pontoon boat under the operation of Kevin Gloecki, McHenry, was struck by a runabout boat traveling at 30-35 miles per hour. The second boat nearly hit one of four passengers of the pontoon boat who were swimming in the water at the time. The runabout then continued on southbound along the lake and turned east to travel under the Deep Creek Bridge, which carries Rt. 219 over the lake. No one was injured in the incident.

The runabout is described as light purple in color and approximately 20 feet in length. Persons with information about the accident are asked to call the NRP at 301-777-7771.

Garrett CC Alumnus Named Head Basketball Coach At Tulane Univ.

Shawn Finney, a 1982 graduate of Garrett Community College who played for the Lakers' men's basketball team and served as the squad's assistant coach for one season, has been named the men's head basketball coach at Tulane University in New Orleans. The NCAA Division I school introduced the signing of the 37-year-old Finney to a five-year contract during a press conference in New Orleans last week covered by the national sports media.

"Shawn is a hard worker who played point guard for us, and he was our team captain his sophomore year," remarked Garrett head coach Dennis Gibson, who was a GCC assistant coach when Finney played for the Lakers, and who later gave the Mullins, W.Va., native his first coaching opportunity. "One of the first things I remember about Shawn is when very early in his freshman season he noticed a quote about dedication that had been left on a table by a member of an opponent's team. He picked it up and has told me he has carried it in his wallet ever since.

"Shawn had a number of great traits as a player here that have helped him as a coach, including always looking out for his teammates and wanting to know how he could help them perform better. I knew he'd be an asset here as an assistant because I can be a pessimist and he's an optimist, and that can work out to be a good combination."

Finney played two seasons as a guard for the Lakers before moving on to complete his undergraduate education at Fairmont (W.Va.) State College, graduating in 1985 with a bachelor of science degree in business administration. He subsequently earned a master's degree in sports management from Tulsa (Okla.) University in 1992.

A member of the men's basketball team at Fairmont State, Finney earned a starting guard assignment for his entire senior season. Following graduation he returned to Garrett County to accept Gibson's invitation to join him as assistant coach. Finney helped Gibson coach the 1985-86 Laker squad, then departed to serve as an assistant coach for Pikeville (Ky.) College for the 1986-87 campaign, where he helped coach the Bears to a 21-10 record.

After one season at Pikeville, Finney moved on to work as an assistant coach

Sally Taylor To Present Little Yough Concert Friday Evening

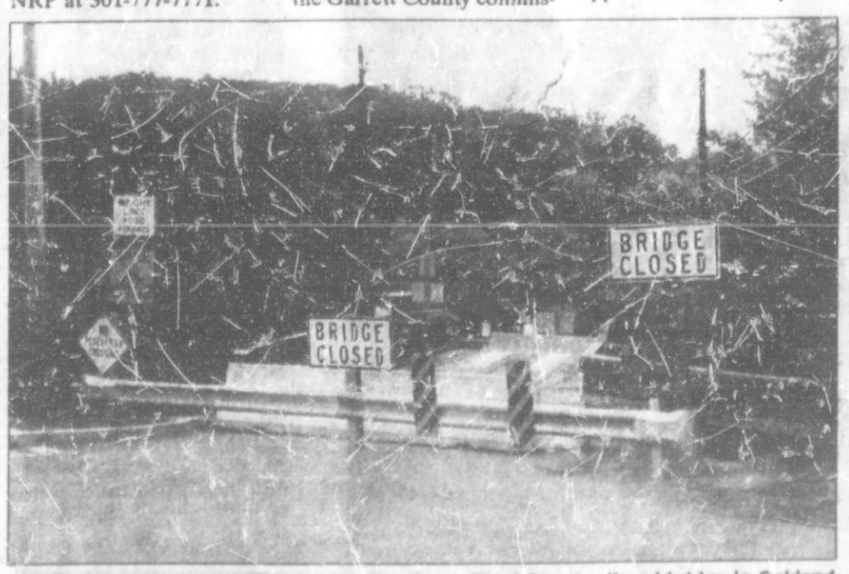

Despite being the daughter of two of the world's best known performers (James Taylor and Carly Simon), Sally Taylor is an independent artist in her own right who has completed three national tours and over 200 shows with her band, which consists of bass, drums, and guitar. Taylor will perform in downtown Oakland on Friday, July 28, as part of the Little Yough Summer Music Festival concert series.

Taylor's first album, Tomboy Bride, was recorded in a small house in the hills of Colorado on some equipment she borrowed from a friend. In its first year out, it sold over 7,000 copies. She said that the recording was meant to be "just for some friends and family for Christmas." She and the band are currently working on independently promoting their next album, which can be obtained only on the Internet at her web site: www.sallytaylor.com.

Taylor and her mother, Carly Simon, co-wrote and sang a duet for the movie Anywhere But Here, which starred Susan Sarandon. She also has a song in the current Farrelly brothers' movie, Me, Myself, and Irene, starring Jim Carrey.

"I'm so lucky to be blessed with these guys (in the band) and with these audiences that keep on showing up and staying and pushing us to go farther and far-

BRIDGE CLOSED INDEFINITELY - The South Third Street railroad bridge in Oakland has been closed indefinitely by CSX after state inspectors rendered it unsafe. Drivers on Third Street or Oak Street wishing to travel that direction should ignore the detour sign (which does not lead drivers across the tracks and back onto Third Street), travel one more block west on Oak Street, turn south (left) onto Second Street, proceed one block to Water Street, turn left onto Water Street, and go one block to Third Street. See story with details about the bridge closing.

Drs. Herman Impressed With People, Progress In Estonia

Estonia, a small country on the shore of the Baltic Sea, has become a familiar name in Garrett County since Garrett Community College president Dr. Steve Herman has made several trips there in conjunction with the Maryland National Guard's efforts to further education and economic development in that country that was freed from Russian domination 12 years ago when the Iron Curtain fell.

Most recently, Herman and his wife, Dr. Gail Herman, internationally known story teller and specialist in gifted and talented education, completed an explor- [illegible] towns and universities in Estonia. Dr. Gail Herman's assignment was to pursue prospects for educational, cultural, and arts exchanges between Maryland and Estonia. She also spoke to the AAUW in Tartu and performed for developmentally challenged people in Tapa.

While in Estonia, the Hermans met with administrators and faculty of universities, officials from the Ministry of Education, and heads of regional business centers. In the capitol city of Tallinn, which the Hermans found to be one of the best preserved medieval cities in Europe, they spoke to faculty and administrators of the Pedagogical University about American community colleges and Small Business Development Centers. They said they were impressed with the Estonian people, who have a 95% literacy rate and who are actively working to preserve their culture no longer dominated by Russia.

From the university city of Tartu where they watched children folk dancing in the streets, they traveled to Valga City and Valga County, designated a sister county to Garrett because of its demographic and geographic similarities. They were [illegible] scribed by them as a "beautiful hamlet" and now linked with Grantsville, and Otepaa in the lake district, linked with McHenry. They met with the principal of the Gymnasium at Viljandi, sister city to Frostburg, and with the mayor of Tapa, sister city to Cumberland. In the near future, mayors of these Garrett County towns are expected to visit Estonia as guests of the Maryland National Guard to further develop the relationships. Of all the states, Maryland has the largest percentage of residents of Estonian descent and the Baltic country.

As a result of this trip, a group of students from Estonia is planning to come to America and enroll at GCC this fall. Efforts are now under way to find suitable housing for them. The students all speak English, according to Herman, and will be willing to do household chores in exchange for their room and board. Interested persons should contact the GCC president's office at 301-387-3056.

About the Estonian students who are planning to come to GCC, Dr. Herman said, "I had the opportunity to meet with these students while I was in Estonia, and I am now working diligently to help them come here. They will be a great addition to our [illegible] er dimension to the education students receive here."

CORRECTION

The Pontiac Grand Am advertised for $13,600 in the Oakview Motors, Inc. advertisement in the 7/13/00 & 7/20/00 editions of THE REPUBLICAN was incorrectly identified as a 2000 model. It should have been a 1999. We regret the error and any inconvenience this may have caused.

Taylor Pre-Show To Be Given By Jimmy Flanigan

Sally Taylor will appear Friday at 7 p.m. the Oakland pavilion as part of the Little Yough Summer Concert Series, and providing a pre-show concert for her will be Garrett County native, Jimmy Flanigan.

Flanigan has been performing professionally for more than 10 years, appearing regularly with his group Boathouse. He will give a solo act Friday, beginning at 5 p.m. at the pavilion.

He will play classic and modern rock tunes, as well as some original material to be heard publicly for the first time.

Guests are invited to bring lawn chairs and picnic baskets to the evening event. Refreshments will be available.

Theft Conviction Results In Five-Year Jail Term

An Oakland man was sentenced by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge James Sherbin to five years in the Department of Corrections for the charge of felony theft. Ralph Thomas Lloyd, 22, had pleaded guilty in April to being in possession of a chainsaw reported stolen during a January 1999 burglary at Sisler Lumber Company.

Of the five-year term, Sherbin suspended all but 18 months. The defendant will serve that time in the Garrett County Jail. Upon his release, he will be on supervised probation for three years, with conditions including restitution payments, according to a report from the state's attorney for Garrett County.

An assault charge against an Oakland man was placed on the stet docket last week by agreement of the state's attorney, acting at the request of the victim and the defendant. George Andrew Romesburg, 38, was arrested on two counts of second degree assault in February. The arrested followed an incident during which the complainant in this case become involved in a dispute between Romesburg and his estranged spouse, according to the report.

Oakland Police Report Assault In Local Park

Oakland Police reported an assault at Broadford Park on July 4. Cpl. Alexander, who responded to scene, said the victim alleged that Mark James Park, 35, Oakland, had grabbed her by the arm and hit her several times. Alexander said he observed that the victim had injuries.

Personnel from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office located Park a short [illegible] charged with second degree assault and held on a $1,500 bond.

Driver Charged With DWI

Oakland police charged Carl Wesley Tyler, 41, Uniontown, Pa., with driving while intoxicated on July 8. Pfc. C. Feller reported he was waiting for traffic to clear, to pull onto Third Street from a parking area, when a vehicle, which was southbound on Third Street, traveled onto the shoulder of the road, nearly striking the front of Feller's patrol car. Feller stopped the vehicle on N. Fourth St., and said that upon making contact with the driver, a smell of an alcoholic beverage was detected.

Tyler performed field sobriety tests which Feller said were not performed satisfactorily, resulting in Tyler's arrest. Feller reported that after he placed Tyler in the back seat of the patrol car, Tyler starting hitting his head against the side window of the car and spitting. Tyler then was able to get one handcuff in front of him, Feller said. Feller then unlatched one handcuff, attempting to place the handcuffs back on Tyler properly, when Tyler allegedly started to struggle, attempting to get away.

Tyler was again restrained and placed in the patrol car, where he began kicking the door. Tyler was held on a $2,500 bond.

DUI/DWI

William Patrick Murray III, 38, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving an unregistered and uninsured motor vehicle, and driving with a suspended and revoked license on July 9.

Jamie Aaron DeBerry, 22, Oakland, was charged with driving while intoxicated and negligent driving on July 16.

GLAF BARBERSHOP EVENING FEATURING JOKER'S WILD — The blended sound of the Joker's Wild Barbershop Quartet and the Mountainaires Barbershop Chorus will be heard in the Garrett Community College auditorium as the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival presents a barbershop concert on Saturday, July 29, at 8 p.m. The concert is sponsored by the First United Bank and Trust. Joker's Wild won the 1994 International Quartet Competition of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, and has since been featured in concerts and shows throughout the world, including most of the 50 United States, Canada, and numerous European countries. The group has also performed on the television show Good Morning, America. The members are Steve Iannacchione, tenor; John Clunies, lead; Steve Lagters, baritone; and Dave Kindinger, bass. The Mountainaires Barbershop Chorus of Fairmont, W.Va., will sing a wide variety of musical selections in the all-American style of four-part a capella barbershop harmony. Admission to the Joker's Wild and Mountainaires Chorus concert is $10 for adults and $2 for youths 18 and under. According to Beth Johnson, GLAF executive director, the tickets for this program are selling swiftly. Persons should call the GLAF office number (301-387-3082) to find out if the program is sold out. If no one is in the office, a message about ticket availability will be on the answering machine, Johnson said. Following the concert at GCC, the singers will proceed to Pizzazz Pizzeria at the Wisp Resort for an "afterglow." Tickets to this added portion of the show are $7 per person. The singers will continue to perform at the restaurant with impromptu arrangements in a relaxed atmosphere, a GLAF spokesperson said.

GCNTF Searches Uncover Drugs, Result In Charges

Five individuals were charged with drug offenses recently by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force as a result of two separate searches, according to Sheriff Dick Sanders.

Joseph Winston Merritt, 37, Grantsville, was arrested this week by task force detectives following an investigation that had been undertaken after he reportedly provided suspected marijuana to a confidential police informant.

A search warrant was obtained, and a search of Merritt's residence followed. He was subsequently arrested and charged with two counts each of distribution of marijuana and possession of marijuana. An existing bench warrant charging Merritt with failure to appear for an Allegany County court hearing has also been served.

Merritt remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center on an $11,000 bond.

Earlier this month, a consent search of a Glendale Road rental vacation home was undertaken after the task force received information that possible drug violations were occurring there. An ensuing consent search revealed a quantity of suspected marijuana and drug paraphernalia at the residence. Charged on criminal summonses with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were Adam Smith, 23, Gambrills, and Laura Fleming, 21, James Postick, 20, and Jeremy Stagno, 20, all of Glen Burnie.

A Garrett County district court date is pending for each of the four suspects.

The fire was brought under control quickly. A hole burned through the roof of the house, but a spokesman for the Deep Creek VFC said that, once the roof was repaired, the structure could again be occupied. There was significant smoke and heat damage in the house as well.

Also called to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported. Fire units remained on the scene for over two hours.

Foresingers To Perform Musical At Penn Alps

Music at Penn Alps will present a musical, Menno Heirs, on Saturday, July 29. It is based on the Unpartheyisches Gesangbuch, an early American old order Mennonite hymnal, which was published in 1804, during the administration of President Thomas Jefferson.

Through the musical, the Foresingers from Pennsylvania Dutch country will share some of the varied heritage of early German settlers in the United States, especially that of the Mennonites. It is the only performing group to include some Amish tunes in its performances.

The musical will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville.

Hymn singing of the colonial and early American period was primarily an oral tradition. Organs and pianos were not affordable for most people, and hymns lacked the type of notation used today. The style is similar to chant. Menno Heirs combines traditional oral and current musical styles, using instruments symbolic of elements common to the settlers' everyday lives.

The Foresingers is a musical project of Harmonies Workshop of Leola, Pa. The group has recorded several CDs, including Menno Heirs and Gesangbuch. This unique work may be of special interest to those interested in the Mennonite culture of Grantsville and its surroundings. Several members of the Foresingers ensemble are relatives of Della Miller, manager of Grantsville's Casselman Inn.

Miller's daughter, Dorcas Lehman, plays tone blocks; director Glenn Lehman is Miller's son-in-law, and her granddaughter Sarah plays the harp.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporations and individuals. This concert is sponsored by the Casselman Inn. For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats so ticket holders are encouraged to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

GCCAC Plans Homeownership, Home Repairs Workshops In Grantsville

In an effort to reach more Garrett County individuals who wish to own homes or who wish to make repairs to their current residences, the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. (GCCAC) is offering workshops in Grantsville next month. The workshops will offer information about the process of becoming a homeowner, as well as the availability of low-interest loans for home repairs.

"We have a significant amount of money right now to lend to people who want to make repairs to their homes," said Dawn Eichorn, who works with Debbie Swiger in the GCCAC's First Time Homeowner Program. "So we are basically offering two services: One, to help people become homeowners; and two, to help present homeowners make repairs to their homes that will improve their living conditions."

The Grantsville workshops are slated for August 14 and 21. On the 14th, the First-Time Home-Buyer Workshop will begin at 6 p.m., and the Home Repair Workshop will begin at 7:30 p.m. On the 21st, just the homeownership workshop will be held, beginning at 6 p.m. These sessions will take place at the Grantsville Senior Center.

In order to apply for GCCAC home-buying financing, attendance at the First-Time Home-Buyer Workshop is a requirement. The program assists low- to moderate-income individuals in purchasing their first homes, Eichorn said.

"The first step to becoming a homeowner is to attend the workshop," she said. "By offering our workshops in Grantsville, we hope we can extend our services to more Garrett Countians."

Since 1994, GCCAC has helped over 121 families obtain houses, and has granted over 171 home rehabilitation loans. The payment schedules for the families vary, based on the family's income and ability to pay.

The income requirements for both programs are as follows: One person living in a home would have to make $26,750 or less; two-person family, $30,600 or less; three-person family, $34,400 or less; four-person family, $38,250 or less; five-person family, $41,300; six persons, $44,350; seven persons, $47,400; and eight persons, $50,550.

In addition to attending the GCCAC workshops and being within the income guidelines, a prospective homeowner must have a dependable source of income, must have a good credit history, and must be purchasing or building a home within Garrett County, among other requirements.

The rehabilitation loans are arranged with families for repairs to the home that will improve the structure, such as septic tank repairs, roofing, electrical repairs, furnace improvements, or window replacement. Remodeling for aesthetic purposes only would not be eligible, Eichorn said.

In addition to the Grantsville workshops, the GCCAC offers the sessions regularly in Oakland. To obtain more information about the program, persons may call 301-334-9431 (or toll-free 888-877-8403), ext. 160.

"People are often surprised that they are eligible for our loans," Eichorn said. "We encourage those interested to at least give us a call to find out if we can assist them."

Woman Charged For Possession Of Switchblade Knife

A Virginia woman was charged with possession of a switchblade knife and driving on a suspended license after a Friday evening traffic stop, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

At approximately 9:30 p.m. a deputy arrived to assist an Oakland City police officer on a traffic stop along Fittsburgh Avenue in Mtn. Lake Park. The driver of the stopped car, Alicia Jean Upole, 18, Winchester, had reportedly almost hit the Oakland officer's vehicle while traveling on the roadway. He had stopped the vehicle, and an ensuing computer check revealed that Upole's driver's license was suspended.

When the deputy asked Upole if she was carrying any weapons, she produced a knife. Upon examination the deputy ascertained that the instrument was a switchblade knife that opened with a spring assist when a hidden button was depressed.

After the arrest, Upole was released when she posted a $500 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

DWIs/DUIs

Several individuals were arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI) or driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) this week. They were: Donald Lee Clark Jr., 28, Terra Alta, W.Va.; Gary Blake Pennington Jr., 32, Bayard, W.Va.; Adrienne Nicole Gadow, 25, Westminster; and Roman Rudolf Dudeck, 28, Dallas, Texas.

Deputies Arrest Three Va. Men On Drug Charges

Three men traveling home to Richmond, Va., following a weekend rock concert in Preston County were stopped near Gorman early Monday morning by Garrett County sheriff's deputies and arrested on a variety of drug offenses after a series of searches uncovered suspected cocaine, marijuana, and a third suspicious substance.

At approximately 2 a.m. DFC Robbie Zimmerman stopped a silver Toyota van on George Washington Highway near Wilson Corona Road. The van matched the description of a suspect vehicle wanted in connection with a theft of cigarette cartons from the Oakland BFS that had occurred a short time before. Although the stolen items were not recovered, a computer check revealed that the driver, John Matthew Washburn, 19, was driving on a suspended license.

After arresting Washburn on the driving violation, DFC Zimmerman and a second deputy who had arrived as a back-up unit, conducted searches that uncovered two bags Washburn was carrying on his person, each of which contained an unknown white powdery substance.

A search of the van uncovered two backpacks, each of which appeared to contain drugs. The first backpack belonged to passenger Adam Charles Stitzer, 18, and it contained small Tupperware bowl containing suspected marijuana. The second backpack belonged to the other passenger, Micah Andrew Souder, 19, and it contained two bags of suspected marijuana and two bags of an unknown white powdery substance, one of which later tested positive as suspected cocaine in tests conducted by the deputies.

An additional search undertaken as Washburn was being booked by correctional officers at the Garrett County Detention Center revealed that Washburn was wearing a money belt that contained a small bag of an unknown white powdery substance in its interior zippered compartment.

With the exception of the suspected cocaine discovered in Souder's backpack, field testing proved inconclusive for each of the other bags of white powdery substance discovered during the incident.

At this point charges of "possession of a non-controlled substance (non-CDS) reasonably believed to be a controlled dangerous substance" have been filed against each of the three men, who reportedly told deputies the substance was a "homebrewed" concoction of several different chemicals. The contents of those bags have been forwarded to the Maryland State Police laboratory in Pikesville for further analysis.

The total list of charges faced by the suspects are as follows: Washburn, possession of a non-controlled substance and driving on a suspended license; Souder, possession of marijuana, cocaine, and drug paraphernalia; and Stitzer, possession of marijuana and a non-controlled substance.

The men were released from jail after each posted a $500 bond set by a district court commissioner.

"Senator Sarbanes and I fought for this money to stop the contamination of our streams caused by the acidic run-off from the Kempton Mine Complex," said Mikulski.

The Kempton mine shaft sealing project is the result of the efforts of the Western Maryland RC&D and other partners who have joined together to work to eliminate a major source of acid mine drainage, the senators reported. The acid mine drainage ranges in volume from 50,000 to 100,000 gallons per day entering Kempton abandoned mine complex and ultimately flowing into the North Branch of the Potomac River.

The Teets acid mine drainage remediation project is located in the Cherry Creek area. Cherry Creek is the main tributary flowing into Deep Creek Lake. The project involves the construction of a holding pond near the source of the acid mine drainage and installation of a treatment system at the site.

No Surprise to Us...

The World Health Organization recently conducted a study that measured the health status of 191 industrialized nations, using an indicator it calls the Disability Adjusted Life Expectancy (DALE). The indicator was not just the average mortality rates in each country, but included a health quality factor; that is, it was a measure of healthy living as well as longevity.

The WHO officials said that one of the "major surprises" of the study was the rather modest position of the United States — 24th. They were said to be "perplexed" by the relative poor showing of America, considering the fact that it is, in many ways, the single most advanced nation in the world. Americans spend twice as much per capita on health care as any other industrialized nation, our membership in health clubs and spas leads the world, we do more dieting and drink more Slim Fast than anyone else on the planet, and we have a health support group for persons enduring everything from heart disease and cancer to toenail fungus.

Some of us, however, are not perplexed in the least about the ranking of the U.S. In fact, it is a little surprising we didn't rate even lower. Just take a quick look at the lifestyles of a majority of our citizens.

The majority of us are overweight, because of our gorging of Big Macs and a lack of physical activity. The rapid pace of our daily living often creates tremendous stress, which can result in a myriad of problems such as heart disease, cancer, mental illness, and suicide. We are a violent society, as we lead, by a huge margin, most other nations in the number of homicides, the majority of which are committed using guns that are illegal in those other nations. We still smoke a lot of cigarettes and drink far too much alcohol, despite all of our knowledge about the effects of such behaviors. We are a promiscuous society, thus diseases like AIDS are taking a significant toll. Health insurance is far too expensive for a large number of our citizens. Even though we are among the wealthiest nations, we still have many pockets of extreme poverty, such as in many of our inner cities and on Native American reservations.

No, we're not the least bit surprised with the results of the WHO survey. The sad part is, each and every one of the above conditions can be addressed and vastly improved. Acts of Congress could make a significant impact, but much can be done by individuals. How? Simply by each one of us taking responsibility for our own health, setting good examples for our children, and being caring and generous toward those who are less fortunate.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I read with interest the editorial you wrote from Russia in the July 13th edition of The Republican (online edition). I would just like to express to everyone at The Republican how much I have enjoyed the website. I am sure many others from around the world who once called Oakland home have also enjoyed this site, and it would be interesting to know just how far this web site has reached.

The Glimpse Of The Past and 100 Years Ago are great features and would be useful for students studying local history. A special "thank you" goes to Doug Leitzel for his hard work and always being willing to answer any questions concerning the web site.

God bless and, again, thank you for your efforts with bringing the website to us each week.

To the Editor:

In regard to the picture of school bus 74 in The Republican on Thursday, July 21:

My husband, James Guthrie Sr., drove that bus for Gary Kamp, contractor for the Garrett County bus system. He drove that bus for 11 years, hauling children to Beall High and Frost Elementary Schools in Allegany County, and Route 40 School in Garrett County.

Mr. Kamp called my husband on Friday evening and asked him if he remembered that bus. They both said they couldn't believe this.

Mr. Kamp had taken this bus to an auction, it was sold, and that was the last he ever knew of it, until sometime later a lady called him about the bus and she told Mr. Kamp she was from Honduras.

Seeing this picture in the paper brought many memories back to my husband, who has been off the bus for seven years.

I thought this would interest people who were wondering about this picture.

To the Editor:

The Oakland Rotary Club recently operated our trailer at several events that benefit local charities, such as the Relay for Life, Dove Center, Big Brothers, etc. We do many such community events during the summer and fall.

At two recent events we had two very troublesome things happen. At the rodeo, someone took two of our full propane tanks and replaced them with two empty ones. At the First United Golf tournament benefiting the Dove Center, someone stole our electrical adapter for our main power.

The Oakland Rotary Club gives over $50,000 back to the community each year. We have many fundraisers in concert with several charities and members spend a significant amount of their personal time putting "service above self." When incidents like this happen, it is not only hurting the Rotary Club, but is taking money out of the pockets of the many organizations that we help. Even more disturbing is that this type of thing is happening here in Garrett County.

To the Editor:

I just wanted to alert people that there seems to be a pack of wild dogs living in the woods on Ginseng Hill. Early last week they approached me as I was working in the back of my house; I scared them off. They reappeared on Friday, but only briefly, and I did not get the opportunity to take a photograph as I had intended. I now keep my camera along with certain other protective devices nearby.

There are four of them. Three are black/brown and the fourth is a lighter color and no, they are not bears—I am absolutely certain of that. Also, they did not appear to be full-grown, but nonetheless were fairly big. They did snarl and act aggressive the first time until I scared them off. Also, I might add that I have seen evidence that they (or perhaps other dogs) have visited during the night.

I reported this to the DNR and I do understand that there is not much that they can do at this time. Those of you who like to walk through those woods should be careful. And by the way, Ginseng Hill lies between Sang Run Road and Hoyes Run Road and stretches pretty much down to Oakland Sang Run Rd.

Sincerely,
George Falter

ther," Taylor said. "They remind me again and again that this stuff, this music stuff, isn't about candy coating art with glitter to feed to one's ego. It's about sharing time and space, and giving it up to the audience, those friends you've never met but have always known because you see yourself in them. It's about letting go of the ownership of your art and your fear and your heart, because giving love is the only thing that makes complete sense."

Taylor's concert at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland, which is sponsored by Rob Michael and State Farm Insurance, will begin at 7 p.m. Admission is free.

Her show will be preceded by a concert by Jimmy Flanigan, a Garrett County native. See separate story.

Listening To The Music Of The Mountains

It was a "just right" kind of summer day — enough sunshine for warmth and enough breeze for comfort. It was a "just right" kind of day for lazing by a split-rail fence listening to the mellow seasoned voices blend in the four-part harmony and the resonant sound of the mandolin, banjo, aand fiddle. Babies supported in arms of laughing mothers bounce to such sounds and toddlers stop their running now and then to do a bit of fancy footwork.

It may sound a bit too idyllic to be real, but it isn't, or more correctly, it wasn't.

The bluegrass festival last weekend at Puzzley Run Folklife Center brought together people from various locations with varying vocations. What everyone had in common was an appreciation of the tradition of the stringed instrument in our rural mountain heritage.

People who had never met before, climbed out of vehicles, toting instruments — some beautifully handcrafted others a bit worse for the years of travel. Groups formed, merged, and reformed mixing and remixing the instruments and voices. Introductions were made and the music would begin.

It was a day to be savored in memory.

MOWING

Among countrymen it is commonplace of summer to say, "I was doing some mowing, and I got to thinking." There is a wondrous isolation about the activity of mowing, whether it be cutting hay or cleaning the hedgerows or merely cutting the grass in the front yard.

Mowing requires some skill and some attention, but because a certain rhythm develops after a round or two, the mind becomes free for other considerations. A recent argument with a family member or friend can be viewed from a new perspective. A thorny knot can begin to be untied.

Mowing is as restful as work gets. That being said, mowing is also a perilous occupation, and almost more perilous for the experienced mower than for the novice. Experience makes us think we know what we are doing. That confidence can lead to the taking of risks which can lead to a sudden death.

For all who were nodding their heads at the account of the rhythmic peace in mowing, there are others for whom the image of mowing carries them back to that awful moment of finding a loved one who had not come in for supper, and never would again.

I had a wonderful day of mowing last week. Our family has acreage in the Conservation Reserve Program which has to be mowed once each year and tree plantings which need multiple mowings each spring and summer. The mild weather reduced the stress of running the Ferguson 35.

I have never before mowed the stream buffer in a single day. This year I did, two hours in the morning, three hours in the afternoon, and an hour after supper. It all went like clockwork. You know you are having a good day when you drop a peanut butter cracker on the floor, and it lands peanut butter up. That was the kind of day I had.

I was able to observe the various trees and shrubs I have planted over the years. There are a locust grove and a pine grove which are now 11 years old. A walnut grove planted two years ago is just overtopping the grasses. A pine buffer is coming along.

The whole length of the stream on our property, about 3/8 of a mile, shows the fruits of plantings going back to the summer of '85, silky and gray dogwoods, sycamores, elder and service berry, blackhaw, smooth alder, and another half dozen varieties that I have forgotten.

While I was mowing a memory came to mind of my time in the Carpathian mountains of western Ukraine two years ago. The subsistence agriculture of that remote region was powered by humans and horses. The hills were home to a marvelous permaculture of indigenous grasses and a beautiful red clover which the mountain people cut for hay.

The farmer had a scythe, the blade of which was sharp enough for shaving. He worked harder than I ever have in mowing. There was a beautiful oneness of man, his simple but superb tool and the earth which yields a living to the people of that valley generation after generation.

I wonder if he goes home of an evening with the words, "While I was mowing, I got to thinking."

The Barak-Arafat talks were under way while I was mowing. I have a suggestion for negotiators at peace talks of the future, that they have tractors and mowers ready for the principal negotiators. They would benefit from a break in their talking to do something practical in which, through a regular rhythm of work, they discover something being accomplished not all at once, rather, mower width by mower width.

Mowing is a metaphor for what they are trying to do through talk, an endeavor in which peace and peril are mixed together, inextricably perhaps, and yet in a way that makes progress possible.

As you can see, while I was mowing, I got to thinking.

Local Youth Survives Surgery Because of Blood Donations

by Laura Shook

Cody Ferguson was only 10 years old on January 28 when he entered Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. The Garrett County native suffers from muscular dystrophy, a disease that has been gradually deteriorating his youthful muscle tissue. An eight-hour surgery was scheduled to prevent any further scoliosis of the spine. While the surgery isn't usually done until children are older, Ferguson needed it now. The disease was ravaging the young man, and only the operation could enhance his life. However, something went wrong.

The operation was proceeding smoothly until the 7½-hour mark. As they were checking the procedures, a monitor suddenly indicated the possibility of nerve damage. His blood pressure plummeted. The bleeding grew more intense. A procedure that should only require two units of blood now needed eight to 10. In all, before Ferguson could leave, he was transfused with 17 units of blood.

"It was touch-and-go for around the first 12 hours," said Susan Newton, Ferguson's mother. "I thought I was going to be planning a funeral. That's how grave the situation was."

It was also just the beginning.

According to Newton, Cody's body was swollen beyond recognition.

"His eyes were swollen shut," Newton stated. "He was so brave."

For four days the 10-year-old recovered in the intensive care unit. Then, after he had stabilized, Ferguson was transferred into another unit of the hospital where he could be watched for signs of infection. Gradually, he began to heal. A child became a child again.

"He's a great kid," Newton commented." [There was] lots of back pain, and pain in the legs afterward. He had a real rough time for a couple of weeks, but he's doing wonderfully now," she continued.

Newton is grateful for the blood that permitted her son to once again enroll in school, laugh, and enjoy his childhood.

"I never thought in a million years that because of someone else's blood my son's life would be saved," Newton stated. "We were fortunate that they had enough blood to take care of him. I don't know where any of that blood came from, but if hadn't been there I wouldn't have my son today."

According to American Red Cross statistics, 1 out of 10 hospital patients will need blood. In fact, every two seconds someone uses blood. Today, the community blood supply is experiencing a shortage as usage outpaces donations. Some reasons for this include advances in medical technology that have resulted in more surgeries being performed, which has increased blood usage. Also, cancer patients now have longer life spans and frequently require more blood products.

"Most everyone knows someone who has had a joint replacement or some type of heart surgery. This is the norm. Twenty years ago, this was the exception," stated Suzan Clemens, as American Red Cross donor field representative who works with the Garrett County community blood drives.

"It takes 24-48 hours from the time blood is donated for it to be transported, tested, and separated into components before it can get back in the hospitals. That's why it is so important to have a constant community supply," Clemens explained, which is why Newton wants to return the favor.

"There are some people in our community who are going to need this [blood]," Newton said.

An American Red Cross blood drive is being held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, August 4, at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland to honor Cody and his tenacious fight for life during those winter days.

And what are Newton's words of advice to potential donors?

"Don't wait until it's a personal story."

Read. Then Recycle.

GENEROSITY of persons willing to donate blood on a regular basis saved the life of a young Garrett County boy early this year when delicate surgery to relieve some of the effects of muscular dystrophy suddenly required the transfusion of 17 units (pints) of the precious substance. Cody Ferguson, 10, is pictured above left with his little brother Travis and Elizabeth Huxford, local coordinator of blood donor services of the American Red Cross. The next bloodmobile visit to Garrett County will be Friday, Aug. 4, at the Oakland Elks Lodge.

Oakland Visit Of Bloodmobile Nets 94 Units

The Oakland American Legion hosted an American Red Cross bloodmobile visit on Friday, July 7. Presenting donors totaled 108, and 94 units of blood were collected. The drive exceeded its goal of 80 units. First-time donors included Verna Fisher, Kyle Snyder, Richard DeBerry, Anna Marie Hill, and Dwight Yoder.

The following individuals were volunteers: Elizabeth Huxford, Roger Uber, Rosalie Baker, Barb Sweitzer, Artie Dixon, Shirley Panther, Russell McConnell, Mary Rodeheaver, Jean McConnell, Linda Wieland, and Mary Kay Chaudrue.

Donors who reached gallon donation marks at the visit were: Clara Artice and Chelsea Brenneman, one gallon; Bill Riggs, four gallons; Donna Lee Shagren, five gallons; Gene Helbig Jr. and Clarissa Harris, six gallons; Paul Shogren, nine gallons; Butch Miller, 11 gallons; and Doug Buckley, 12 gallons.

The women's Civic Club of Oakland sponsored the can-teen. Cookies were donated by the Ottenbein United Methodist Church Women of Swanton.

The next bloodmobile visit in Oakland will be held at the Oakland Elks Lodge Friday, Aug. 4, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The goal for this drive is 110 units.

Bloodmobile Nets 41 Units

Zion Lutheran Church hosted an American Red Cross bloodmobile on Friday, June 30, when 41 units of life-saving blood were collected from 44 presenting donors. The drive exceeded its goal of 40 units.

The following individuals were volunteers: Rev. Wilfred Karsten, Mabel Fike Mildred Haenftling, Caroi Edmiston, Theresa Haenftling, Charlotte Sebold, Arlene Georg, Louise Edgar, Linda Oester, Earl Haenftling, and George Edgar.

The next bloodmobile scheduled at Zion Lutheran Church will be held Friday, Aug. 25, from noon to 5 p.m. The goal for this drive is 40 units.

Sec. Of State Touring Length Of Nat'l Road

Secretary of State John T. Willis has "hit the road" for weeklong tour of the nation's first federally funded interstate highway, the National Road. The trip will include meetings with elected officials and community groups, and tours of historically significant landmarks, while highlighting efforts to achieve "All American Road" designation for the route.

"The National Road plays an influential role in Maryland's history, as well as the history of our nation," said Willis. "Like many Marylanders and many Americans, I can trace my heritage along the National Road's path. I am fortunate to have the opportunity to travel the length of this significant road."

Willis began his journey in Cumberland and passed through Grantsville. He will visit National Road locations in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, and Indiana, before reaching the end of his trip in Vandalia, Ill.

In Maryland, a National Road Partnership Team, consisting of representatives from the Maryland Department of Planning, the State Highway Administration, and the Office of Tourism and Historical Trust, is working with a Citizens Advisory Group to develop a Corridor Partnership Plan. The purpose of the plan is to balance conservation of the road's intrinsic qualities with its use and enjoyment, Willis explained. The Maryland Corridor Partnership Plan is part of a larger initiative to achieve an All-American Road designation for the entire 600-mile Rt. 40 stretch.

"The National Road is a wonderful complement to Governor Glendening's Smart Growth efforts. The project supports the preservation of each community's unique cultural and historical resources, including traditional town centers and scenic open spaces. At the same time, the National Road brings communities together to develop a corridor-wide strategy for tourism and economic development. The combination of local initiative and regional cooperation can have a monumental impact," said the secretary.

In Maryland, the National Road runs from Baltimore's Inner Harbor through Ellicott City, Frederick, Hagerstown, Hancock, Flintstone, Cumberland, Frostburg, and Grantsville. President Thomas Jefferson mandated the creation of the road in 1806. Spanning a distance from Baltimore to the western frontier in St. Louis, the National Road was a primary route for pioneer trade and expansion. In the 1920s, the road was renamed Route 40.

Garrett County Represented In National Road Plan Development

The Maryland National Road Corridor Partnership Plan, currently being developed, will benefit from the input of three Garrett County residents. Lindy Moebs of Grantsville, Rev. John Grant of Oakland, and Joe Connor of Keysers Ridge, are part of a statewide citizens' advisory team for this long-range project to develop a plan for enhancing the historic National Road, to encourage heritage tourism and historic and cultural preservation.

The National Road (Route 40) slices through northern Garrett County on its route from Baltimore to points west. "This road is a key piece of transportation history for our nation," Moebs said, adding that this project will help protect much of the local heritage.

Currently designated by the state as one of about 20 scenic byways, the National Road could potentially earn the status of a National Scenic Byway, Moebs explained. The plan that the partnership will create over the next 16 months will be used to support the application next June for federal status for the National Road. "This will increase grant-funding opportunities for communities developing heritage-related businesses long the road," she noted.

The group met twice in Hagerstown in recent weeks to begin the multi-faceted plan. "People attending the meetings have various interests in the project. The State Highway Administration is concerned with signage and safety along the route; Maryland Historical Trust is interested in preserving historic sites along the road; and people from the economic development offices are looking for tourism opportunities," Moebs said.

In addition to the officials and committee members attending the meetings, there have been home owners from along the National Road whose families helped to create the history of the area. "I see this as a great opportunity for Grantsville to get recognition and funding for developing businesses while preserving history and heritage," Moebs stated.

Future committee meetings will be held in cities along the National Road. In late, September meetings are scheduled in Frederick and Cumberland. A web page in also being developed at this time.

In Loving Memory of William (Bill) R. Peterson
May 14, 1929, to July 30, 1999
Taken from us one year ago, we love and miss you tremendously!
Kathy, Sharon, Clark, Amy, Loren, Lori, Sheri, Dave, Michael, Kathleen, Glenn, Ryan, Jordan and Aidan, and the rest of the entire family—You are forever in our hearts.
Forever In My Heart
You were taken from us quickly, no chance to say good-bye, you were gone before we knew it and only God knows why. We miss you more than words can say, our hearts still ache with sorrow, without you in our lives today what becomes of tomorrow. We think of you in silence, we often speak your name, now we have cherished memories and your picture in a frame. Your memory is a treasure with which we'll never part, until we meet again you're safe within our hearts.
Joyce Boyce

by Joan Sussman

I don't think too much has been going on in Bittinger the past week, just the ordinary things of living, like grass growing and having to mow it, and mowing our hay field. Our family decided to take down our last big prime hay field this past weekend in spite of pretty questionable weather forecast. It has already gotten a good bit of rain on it with no good drying weather in the coming week. It is cool and damp right now and is supposed to continue the rest of the week. However, it is great weather for lawn and garden growing, but we could use more sunshine to push the tomatoes along. I know it is good for the weeds, which pretty much have choked out everything in my little garden.

We did get a good bit of beautiful broccoli for dinner the other evening. I decided to not harvest a big perfect shaped head of broccoli, hoping that it may hang in there until fair time. That is one vegetable that I have never won a ribbon for in the fair. I also have some beautiful leaf and head lettuce. If the weather continues as it is, they might make it for another two weeks. My flowers are almost nothing except for the most beautiful tiger lily stand I have ever seen.

Meanwhile, in our barn the cousins' market hogs are coming along nicely. They spend all their time eating and making manure, as the kids can well tell you. They keep the kids busy cleaning the pen. Claire and Blakely, after a hard morning's work, filled a huge wheelbarrow with pig manure. Then the pigs promptly knocked it over and they had to fill it up again. Finally they got safely out of the pen. Then they were kept busy trying to take the odor off themselves and their clothes.

Many think that the money the 4-Hers get for their market animals at the fair is easy money, but think again! Most of the kids never spend their money, but sock it away in their college accounts. So, if you attend the auction at the fair, don't be afraid to bid high. Think about those beautiful girls, Blakely and Claire, trying to haul out hundreds of pounds of pig manure while their peers are swimming, running around visiting their friends, or surfing the Internet. They deserve a good bidding war for their hard work, not to mention their tears, because they get so close to their animals. You can't get any better meat than those raised with love, sweat, and tender loving care. If you feel guilty about eating meat because of the alleged reporting of inhuman conditions on factory farms, you can eat your hams without a twinge of guilt. 4-H market livestock live the best possible life for animals.

Now my daughters are constantly borrowing my art supplies for their fair art entries. These weeks when nothing much is going on is the best time for kids on summer vacation to just run around and get close to each other and all their cousins.

Besides this wet weather being bad news for the hay crop, it is good news for the earwig population. They are everywhere. They ate almost a whole broccoli plant, with just the stem and the leaves' veins left, and they are so creepy looking. It is not just our place that is infested, as Marci and Sally Poholsky said they are everywhere at their places too.

Saturday evening dinner guests of Dave and Nancy Beachy were Ferne Beachy, Blair Buckel, Sam, Cindy, Aaron and Lea Stanton, and Lenny, Sally, and Torrey Poholsky. Torrey's and Dave's birthdays were celebrated.

Lea Stanton, Towson, spent the weekend with Sam and Cindy Stanton. Sunday lunch guests of the Stantons were Lucretia and Clay Stanton, Blair Buckel, and the Poholskys.

Ruth DiPaolo and Beulah Moon attended an organ recital and hymn sing on Sunday evening at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. Geoffrey Simon, organist and choirmaster of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Bethesda, was the guest organist. This was his ninth recital at St. Mark's. He will return for another performance at Autumn Glory time.

Doug Collins of Bittinger was involved in an accident while he was loading a tractor on his work pickup on Elder Hill. While he was still on the tractor, the truck rolled away and hit a tree. Luckily, Doug jumped off before impact, injuring his ankle. They still do not know whether it is a severe sprain or a fracture.

Pete and Linda Buckel attended a retirement dinner for Bob Shimer, Westernport, past chief deputy fire marshall of the state of Maryland. Also attending from Bittinger was Dave Ramsey, as well as many representatives of Garrett County fire departments. Linda said it was like the Who's Who of the Fire and Rescue teams there. Bob trained many of the original members of the Bittinger Fire Department, including, of course, Pete. Pete said that Bob was very supportive of our fire department. The dinner was held at the Cumberland Holiday Inn on Friday evening.

Kim Powell will hold her annual yard sale this Saturday. It is always one of the best yard sales around.

Lenny, Sally, and Torrey Poholsky recently visited with Michael Scheffres and family, Rockville. Torrey played in a junior league baseball tournament in Tanneytown on Sunday. Baseball is over and junior varsity soccer will soon begin.

The stray mother cat who gave us a litter of kittens thankfully has moved down to the Poholskys and presented them with another litter down there.

We still have an adorable black tailless male kitten, trimmed with white feet and chest. We thought we had found a new owner, but they only wanted a female. He is so playful and right now he is wrestling with a hair band around our living room floor. The girls named him "Beauty." Please, someone adopt him soon.

Tom, Cheryl, and Tim Glotfelty have returned home after spending last week vacationing in Ontario, Canada.

Descendants of the late Elwood and Beatrice Glotfelty gathered for a covered-dish family get-together at the home of Tom and Cheryl Glotfelty and sons, Taylor and Tim Saturday evening. Guests also enjoyed a hay ride, and roasting hotdogs and marshmallows over an open fire. The children especially liked the baby turkeys, bunnies, and goats.

Lisa and Dwaine Platter, Adam and Amanda, Smithsburg, spent the weekend with relatives here, and visited their uncle and aunt, Floyd and Carol Platter, near Keyser's Ridge. Carol died Monday morning after an extended illness.

RECEIVE 50-YEAR AWARDS - Two members of Oakland Lodge #192, Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons, were awarded 50-year Masonic membership pins at the lodge's annual picnic, held Sunday at Deep Creek Lake State Park. On hand to make the presentations to Robert D. Bittle and Carl P. Rebele was Bonnie G. Owens, Deputy Grand Master of Masons in Maryland. Pictured from left above are: Don Forrester, Worshipful Master of Oakland Lodge #192; Marian and Robert Bittle; Ann and Carl Rebele; and DGM Owens.

Appointed To Serve As GOP Alt. Delegate

Brenda Butscher, Mtn. Lake Park, has been appointed to serve as an alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention, where she will serve as an alternate to delegate Charles Johnson of Cumberland.

"I was honored when the Bush state chairman, Ellen Sauerbrey, informed me that I would be an alternate delegate," Butscher said. "I am looking forward to the excitement of the National Republican Convention in Philadelphia next week." She will be joined at the convention proceedings by her guest, Sheila O'Neil, councilwoman for the town of Loch Lynn.

Butscher has attended six Republican national conventions as a delegate or alternate. She also attended the 1980 GOP convention that resulted in Ronald Reagan's first successful bid for the White House.

Active in the Republican Party for many years, Butscher has campaigned and worked for many national, state, and local candidates. She was a delegate for Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford, George Bush, and Ronald Reagan. She campaigned in western Maryland with George W. Bush for President George Bush.

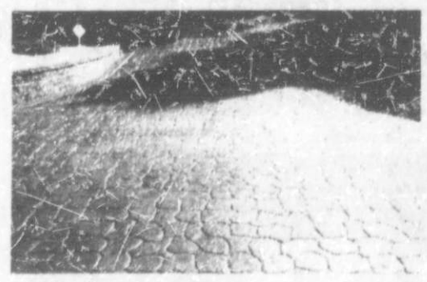

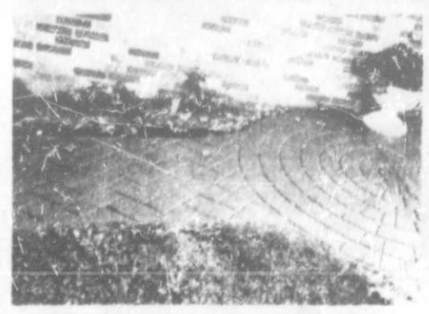

Butscher is the director of the Bush Campaign in Garrett County and may be contacted at 301-334-5151 by persons interested in receiving Bush campaign materials or in volunteering for the campaign.

ACTOR AT ALZHEIMER CONGRESS - Barbara Pilgram, executive director of the Alzheimer's Association, was among several representatives of the Western Maryland Chapter who joined actor David Hyde Pierce for the recent World Alzheimer Congress in Washington, D.C. The 10-day conference, which welcomed more than 5,000 researchers, physicians, and caregivers, provided an international forum through which research findings and recommendations about treatment and care of individuals with Alzheimer's disease were shared. David Hyde Pierce, co-star of the television series "Frasier," is a member of the National Alzheimer's Association's board of directors and serves as National Memory Walk Chairperson.

ADVANCE DIRECTIVES are now available at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The advance directive allows an individual to legally appoint a health care agent who will have the authority to make decisions for that person should he or she be unable to express previously documented wishes. Full instructions, forms, and wallet cards are contained in an advance directive packet, shown above, which is available at the hospital's information desk. Interested persons can obtain further information by calling the GCMH social services office at 301-533-4311.

Senior Expo Provides Info., Prizes, Services

The Senior Expo sponsored recently by Community Action's Area Agency on Aging drew nearly 100 participants. The event offered opportunities for senior citizens to learn about products, services, and organizations available to them. Representatives from 25 agencies, businesses, and organizations were on hand for the first such event.

Each agency or business hosted a booth providing extensive information, including handouts, brochures, and flyers, about the services they provide and free blood pressure screenings were available.

Throughout the day, names were drawn for the door prizes provided by the agencies and local businesses. Prizes awarded during the day included gift certificates to local restaurants, passes for the Western Maryland Scenic Railroad, books, floral arrangements, T-shirts and caps, and blood pressure kits.

Southwest Airlines donated gift certificates, valued at $300, to the Agency on Aging to be used for the grand prize drawing. The winner was Mary Helen Strawser, Oakland. Strawser stated that she has a granddaughter in Arizona and would use the certificates to visit her.

In addition to the door prizes provided by the exhibitors, the following businesses donated gifts to be drawn: Leone's at Silver Tree, McClives, Cornish Manor, Western Maryland Scenic Railroad, UNO's Restuarant, Garrett Cinema, Green Acres, and the Book Mark'et.

"We also said a special 'thank you' to St. Peter's Church for generously donating its Social Hall for the event. We were very pleased with the turnout for our first expo," stated Adina Brode, AAA director.

"The agency has finally seen a long awaited project come to fruition. We plan to continue to sponsor an expo on an annual basis. The information provided about businesses, agencies, and programs that offer services and products for seniors and the maturing population is invaluable," she added.

Brode noted that a goal of the AAA is to provide the community members with information they may need before they are faced with a crises situation.

Serious Fun Camp Slated In Bittinger

The final session of the Serious Fun Day Camp, sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department, will be held at the Bittinger fire hall from July 31 through August 4. The cost for the session is $5 per person, which includes breakfast, lunch, and a snack.

Activities are planned for the campers from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. For more information or to register, persons may call 301-334-8122.

Alexander Named Honorary Chair Of Memory Walk

The Alzheimer's Association, Western Maryland Chapter, has named Allegany College of Maryland president Dr. Donald L. Alexander as honorary chair of its 2nd annual Cumberland Memory Walk. This is Alexander's second year serving in this role for Memory Walk.

Memory Walk is the Alzheimer's Association, Western Maryland Chapter's primary fund-raiser, which raises funds to support services the organization provides to local families caring for loved ones with Alzheimer's disease.

The walk will be held on Sunday, Oct. 1, from 1 until 4 p.m. on the campus of Allegany College of Maryland, and will feature a wide range of entertainment, prizes, and refreshments for participants.

The presenting sponsor of the Cumberland Memory Walk is Devlin Manor Health Care Center.

For additional information about Memory Walk 2000, persons may contact Pamela Dalton at the Alzheimer's Association at (800) 696-6830 or visit the Chapter's web site at www.alzwmd.org.

Arthritis Group To Hold Meeting

The Garrett County Arthritis/Fibromyalgia support group will meet in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board Room on Tuesday, Aug. 1, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. The guest speaker for the evening will Eric Cvetick, RN, of the Garrett County Health Department will discuss flu and pneumonia vaccinations.

This group meeting is open to everyone, and there is no charge for attendance. For more information, persons may contact Vickie Insley at 301-334-9767.

Information On Medigap Available

A Medigap policy, designed to fill the gaps in the original Medicare plan coverage, must follow federal and state laws. In most states, including Maryland, the policies offered must be one of 10 standardized policies, so that persons can compare them easily.

Those who are in a Medicare managed care plan or have Medicaid do not need a Medigap policy. In fact, it is not legal to sell someone a Medigap policy in either of these two situations.

For more information on Medigap policies, persons may call the Senior Health Insurance Assistance Program (known as SHIP) at Community Action Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or 888-877-8403.

Right Step Sets Grand Opening

The Right Step drop-in center will hold a grand opening ceremony tomorrow, Friday, at 2 p.m. at 426 Weber Road in the Midway Plaza. The center will offer a variety of activities and opportunities for consumers of mental health services.

ARROWHEAD EMPLOYEES CERTIFIED IN FOOD SAFETY — Food handlers at Arrowhead Market recently participated in an updated 16-hour food sanitation certification training at Garrett Community College, co-sponsored by the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and the Environmental Health office of Garrett County. The training materials, provided by the National Restaurant Association Educational Foundation, reflected the most recent food safety updates in the foundation's ServeSafe program. The 16-hour certification training, as well as an optional 2-hour participation certificate training, is available to any food establishment upon request. For further information, interested persons may contact Irmgard Koscielniak, extension educator and nationally certified food safety instructor, or Tina Buckel, assistant director of Environmental Health and co-instructor for the training. Pictured from the left are Koscielniak, Arrowhead employees and class participants Stacy Dolan, Roger Sisubaugh, and Joseph Liebon, plus Buckel. Not shown are fellow Arrowhead participants Rick Sines, Stuart Hamill, and Kathy Eddy.

Miss Williams, Mr. Harman Exchange Vows In May Event

Rebecca Lee Williams and Robert Keith Harman exchanged their wedding vows on Saturday, May 6, at the Tabernacle Church in North View, Mo. The bride's parents are Boyce and Sheila Williams, of Marshfield, Mo., and the groom's parents are Rev. Cathy and Robert M. Harman, of Friendsville.

The Rev. Bob Dillion performed the ceremony, and the bride's father escorted her up the aisle of midnight blue bows. The matron of honor was Beth Luginsky, sister of the bride. Valerie Hunt and Julie Drew, both sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Kaylee Hunt was the flower girl, and Cole Hunt was the ring bearer.

The best man was Joe Drew, youth pastor at the groom's home church and brother-in-law of the bride. Darcy Alexander, friend of the groom, was the groomsman. The ushers were Daniel Williams, brother of the bride, Brady Hunt, brother-in-law of the bride, and Brian Luginsky, brother-in-law of the bride.

The bride a white satin dress, overlaid with pearls, and a long sheer lace veil with a headband of white flowers and pearls. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids wore midnight blue satin overlaid with midnight blue flowery lace floor-length dresses. The flower girl carried a basket of daisies and wore a white satin dress overlaid with sheer white lace.

The groom, best man, groomsmen, and ushers wore midnight blue tuxedos with white shirts. The ring bearer wore a tan suit with a white shirt.

The ceremony was performed in the church building under an S-swirled white archway adorned with midnight blue bows and yellow daisies. The music was played by Ray Perryman, friend of the bride. During the ceremony, Julie Drew sang "I Will be There," and Valerie Hunt sang "The Love of My Life." Michael Perryman, friend of the bride, videotaped the ceremony, and Jim Miller Photography of Springfield, Mo., took the photographs.

The reception was held in the church reception hall, and a second reception was held later at the Church of God in New Martinsville, W.Va., where the groom's grandparents reside. The couple honeymooned in Branson, Mo., and have taken up residence in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Garrett County Wins District, To Vie For State Legion Title

The Garrett County American Legion baseball team will be gunning for a state championship because of a victory this past week in a best-of-three series with Fort Cumberland, which gave Garrett County the Mountain District title. The local team won the first game in the series, 14-4, last Thursday at Garrett Community College, dropped an 8-5 decision on Saturday at Legion Field in Cumberland, and won the rubber game on Sunday, 13-3, also on the GCC diamond.

Garrett County's players and their coaches, Jim Bosley and Phil Carr, will enter the eight-team state tournament this Friday at McCurdy Field in Frederick, where they will meet the Washington/Frederick county champion at 4 p.m.

In this past week's Mountain District playoff, Garrett built a 5-0 lead in Thursday's game, Fort Cumberland rallied for three runs, and then Garrett County surged for five runs in the bottom of the sixth and three insurance runs in the seventh to secure the 10-run-rule victory.

Keith Parks and Nathan Sleeman led off Garrett's five-run sixth with back-to-back singles. Ricky Reams followed with a sacrifice bunt, on which there was an error, allowing Parks to come home. Josh Bosley followed with a two-run single, and Mike Shahan and Jordan Uphold each singled home runs.

Justin DiSimone went the distance on the mound for Garrett County, allowing just four hits, walking only one batter, and fanning six. Matt Wright was tagged with the loss.

Bosley led Garrett County offensively with two doubles, two singles, and four RBI. Parks had a triple and a single, Shahan and DiSimone each hit a double and a single, and Uphold finished with two singles.

Wright rapped a double to record Fort Cumberland's only extra-base hit.

Garrett never led in Saturday's second game, as Fort Cumberland built a 5-0 advantage by the end of the fourth inning and curtailed rally attempts in the late innings.

Fort Cumberland's three-run fourth inning was highlighted by a solo home run by Kevin Beem, followed by a bases-loaded fielder's choice hit by Justin Shellhaus and a sacrifice fly by Eric Periozzo.

Garrett County trailed 8-3, rallied for two runs in the top of the ninth, and had the winning run at the plate, but reliever Jacob Kagey recorded a strike-out to end the game and earn a save. Tony Fetters, who pitched the first seven innings, recorded the win. He scattered six hits and struck out four.

Leading Cumberland's 12-hit effort were Chris Smith with a double and two singles, Matt Wright with a double and a single, and Garrett Seward with two singles.

Garrett County finished with nine hits, with Jared Fike rapping a solo homer in the eighth, a double, and two singles. Nathan Sleeman finished with a solo homer in the fifth, plus a double, and Christian Warfield added a double and a single.

The score of Sunday's third and deciding game was knotted at 2-2 after the first inning, but Garrett County took the lead for good with a single run in the bottom of the second. The local team added three runs in the fourth, two in the fifth, and three each in the sixth and seventh to allow the game to be called because of the 10-run rule.

Nathan Sleeman ripped a triple and three singles to lead Garrett County's 14-hit afternoon. Shahan hit a double and two singles, DiSimone added a pair of singles, and Warfield smacked a solo homer in the fifth.

Tony Fetters and Matt Wright each recorded a double and a single in Fort Cumberland's eight-hit effort.

Going the distance on the mound for Garrett was Josh Bosley, who struck out four and issued two walks.

Jim Bosley and Phil Carr, respective head coaches of Southern and Northern high schools' programs, consider the Garrett County team an underdog in the Maryland State American Legion Tournament.

"The Washington/Frederick county championship team draws from seven or eight high schools of all sizes, while we have just two single-A high schools to fill our roster," Bosley said. "So right away we are at a disadvantage. But we have a very good team that, we believe, has the potential to win some games at that level if we play to the best of our ability."

The Washington/Frederick team currently holds a 24-8 record, while Garrett County's overall mark is 16-9. If Garrett wins Friday's game, the next encounter will be at 4 p.m. on Saturday against the winner of the Greenbelt-Severna Park game. Since it is a double-elimination tournament, if Garrett loses, it will meet the loser of the Greenbelt-Severna Park contest at 9 a.m. Saturday. The tournament will take five days to complete, with each team playing only once each day.

Bosley said that Justin DiSimone will most likely be the starting pitcher in Friday's opener.

American Legion baseball is open to players ages 15-18.

Six Lakers Receive All-JUCO Honors For Outstanding Year

GARY LEE

JASON DIANGELO

DAN KOCHENDERFER

Six members of the 2000 Garrett Community College baseball team were named this past week to the All-Maryland Junior College Athletic Conference (JUCO), Division I, teams for their outstanding play this past season. Five of them were named to the first team, while one received second-team honors.

Named to the first team were pitcher Brian Melnyk, catcher Gary Lee, infielder Chad Cooper, and outfielders Jason DiAngelo and Dan Kochenderfer. Infielder Matt Mills was named to the second team.

Melnyk, Kochenderfer, and Mills were featured in The Republican last week for also being named to the All-Region XX squad.

Melnyk, a 6-2 lefthander from Colliers, W.Va., had a 4-2 record and an ERA of 2.56 this past year for Coach Ed Wildesen and the Lakers. He recorded 65 strike-outs in 45 and 2/3 innings. He will continue his athletic and academic career this fall at West Virginia University.

Kochenderfer, Lewistown, Pa., completed his freshman season with a .367 batting average for GCC, with seven home runs, 40 RBI, and 42 runs scored.

Gary Lee, the starting catcher for the Lakers, had a .381 batting average as a sophomore with 51 hits, including seven home runs, two triples, and 12 doubles. He recorded 43 RBI and 46 runs scored in 134 at-bats. He plans to attend Duquesne University this fall.

DiAngelo, who just completed his freshman year, finished with a .355 batting average with 59 hits, 55 RBI, and 44 runs scored in 166 at-bats. He had nine home runs, three triples, and 17 doubles, as well as a dozen stolen bases.

Cooper, also a freshman this past year and starting shortstop, finished with a .354 batting average with one homer, four triples, and 13 doubles. He had 57 hits, 33 RBI, and scored 40 times in 161 at-bats, plus had 18 stolen bases..

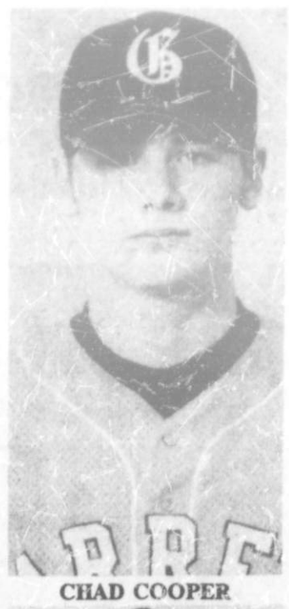

Mills, who will also be back on the Laker diamond next year, hit .370 this past season with 51 hits, including 11 doubles. He recorded 31 RBI and scored 41 runs.

"I was very pleased that we placed more players than any other college on the first-team All-JUCO," stated Coach Wildesen. "This is a fine tribute to these players and to our program, and shows that we are respected by the other college coaches in the conference."

Hagerstown Community College placed four on the first team, Anne Arundel CC and CCBC Essex each placed two, and Allegany, which won the JUCO title, placed only one player (pitcher Jerry Fulton).

SHS Volleyball Meeting Slated

Care, Prevention Athletic Injuries Class Scheduled

The Care and Prevention of Athletic Injuries is the name of a class that will be taught next week by Sue Newton, volleyball coach at Southern High School. The class is required by the Garrett County Board of Education for all persons wishing to coach an athletic team.

The class will meet from 6 to 9 p.m. at Southern High School on July 31, Aug. 2, and Aug. 3, plus one additional day to be announced. The cost is $50. To register and/or obtain more information, persons may telephone Newton at 301-533-3241.

Christian Men's Softball League Holds Tourney

The Garrett County Christian Men's Softball League held at tournament at Broadford Park on July 22, and Crellin United Brethren captured first place. Bethel United Methodist was second, followed by Glade Mennonite and Pleasant View Baptist.

In regular doubleheaders, Crellin Assembly of God and Cornerstone Assembly of God split a twinbill, Bethel UM swept both Oak Park Church of the Brethren and Crellin Assembly of God, and Crellin UB took two from Cornerstone Assembly of God.

Crellin edged Cornerstone, 24-23, in the first game, and Cornerstone won the second contest by the same margin, 20-19. The respective winning pitchers were Bob Murray and Rick Durst. Jerry Durst and Carl Durst each hit two home runs for Cornerstone, and Jonathan Lease had one for Crellin.

Mike Fazenbaker was the winning pitcher for Bethel UM in its 16-1, 26-4 sweep of Oak Park. Terry Chapman paced the offense with two homers, while Kevin Artice hit one for Oak Park.

Bethel's 13-8 and 26-4 victories over Crellin AG were both pitched by John Sharpless. Terry Chapman hit a pair of homers, and teammates Ryan Adams and Jason Barnard each hit one.

Crellin UB topped Cornerstone twice, 26-10 and 12-3, with Farron Hershman recording both wins on the mound.

In the regular league standings, Bethel remains on top with a 19-2 record, followed by: Crellin UB, 17-3; Crellin UM, 16-4; Mt. View, 13-5; Maple Glen, 10-6; Glade Mennonite, 12-9; Cherry Glade and Maranatha AG, 6-10; Gortner and Pleasant View, 4-10; Cornerstone and Oak Park, 5-13; Nazarene, 3-11; and Crellin AG, 1-5.

Baseball Camp Slated At GCC

Garrett Community College will host the Northern Virginia Baseball Academy next week, which is open to local youth ages 8-16 who wish to attend on a day-camp basis. The cost is $250, which includes lunch.

The staff of the camp includes Brian Snyder, general manager of the NVBA, who is a former collegiate, Pan American Games, and professional pitcher, along with several other collegiate coaches and former collegiate-level players. Videotape analysis, fundamental drill work in offense and defense, specialty training, and on-field games will be included in the daily curriculum. Each player will receive a written evaluation and personal videotape.

Local youth interested in registering for the camp (check-in is set for Sunday, July 30, at 2 p.m.) should telephone GCC coach Ed Wildesen at 301-387-3025.

Oakland All-Stars Set To Compete For State Title

The Senior Division All Star team from Oakland swept the state semi-final series from the Elkton All Stars last weekend at Joe Cannon Stadium in Harmans. The series win sends the Oakland squad to the state title game for the second year in a row. The local All Stars were defeated in last year's state title game by the Cambridge All Stars.

The Oakland team came out swinging in the first game against Elkton and scored two runs in both the first and second innings to take a 4-1 lead. Ricky Reams, Joel Helbig, and Brad Palmer each recorded singles in the first inning, while Chad Panther hit a double in the second on the heels of singles by Ryan Ewing and Chris Remley. Elkton scored three times in the third and had rallies in the fifth and sixth innings, but outstanding defensive plays by Steve Eiswert, Chad Kroll, and Tobi Stoner ended the sixth-inning threat. Oakland tallied 14 hits to go with the complete-game pitching effort of Bryson Meyers.

The second game of the series saw the local squad fall behind 4-0 after two innings, and not gain the lead until the bottom of the seventh inning. Bryan Hauser pitched a complete game and held Elkton to two runs in the next five innings. The All Stars found themselves trailing 6-4 as the bottom of the seventh started with walks to Reams and Helbig. The next batter was Meyers, who hit a three run walk-off homer to win the game and sent the Oakland crowd into a celebration. The team only recorded five hits, but Meyers' home run proved to be the difference as Oakland won by a 7-6 score.

"Bryson had a great weekend and really stepped up his game. He pitched a gusty game on Friday and came back with a home run we'll always remember," stated manager Doug Copeland.

"One of our goals was to win the title and bring it home to Oakland. We are very close to attaining that goal. We must play up to our potential and we will be fine. This is a great group to work with,"Copeland added.

The Oakland All-Stars return to Joe Cannon Stadium on Monday and Tuesday to play for the state championship. Monday's opening game of the best-of-three series is set for 7 p.m., while Tuesday's game will start at 1 p.m.

SYLVAN CROWNED SOFTBALL KING — Sylvan Manufacturing's girls' softball team took the Garrett County 15 & Under League championship last weekend by beating regular season first-place finisher Rush Excavating by a 13-6 margin in the playoff final. Winning pitcher Stephanie Brenneman hurled the Sylvan squad to the crown in the championship contest, which came on the heels of the semi-final round that saw Sylvan vanquish the Westmar Angels 24-3, and Rush rumble over Sisler Lumber by a 25-2 margin. Sylvan's team is pictured above, and kneeling in the front row are Kayla Nazelrod, Rikkilee Rose, Kristen Miller, Brandi Arnett, Sarah Brenneman, Ashley Dick, and Cory Lewis. Standing are Coach Jim Brenneman, Natalie Rohrbaugh, Sarah Bittinger, Kendra McLaughlin, Julia Bosley, Coach Lisa Brenneman, Nikki Raynovich, Stephanie Brenneman, Jasmine Scheffel, and Coach Al Rohrbaugh. Rush and Sylvan had battled for top honors throughout the regular season, mounting respective records of 13-2 and 11-2. Rounding out the standings were Westmar at 7-5; Sisler at 6-9; Stewart Funeral Home at 5-9; and the Accident Angels at 0-15.

Co-Ed Softball Tourney Slated In Crellin Area

A weekend co-ed softball tournament has been set for Saturday, Aug. 5, and Sunday, Aug. 6, at the Crellin ballfield. Each competing team must have an equal number of men and women on its roster. The entry fee is $65 per team along with the donation of two 12-inch softballs. A pre-tourney drawing to determine the playing brackets will be held on Thursday, Aug. 3, at the Mtn. Top Softball League field located at Broadford Park.

Area Speedway Review

The New Somerset County Speedway

Heat races in all three classes were just barely completed when the rain started to fall last Friday night at the New Somerset County Speedway in Meyersdale, Pa.

Tomorrow night drivers will run the features which were cancelled because of rain last week, as well as an all new schedule of racing. The gates at the track open at 5 p.m., with hot laps starting at 7 and races beginning at 7:30. General admission is $5 for adults, $3 for those 10 to 14, and free for children 9 and under. For cars and drivers the pit fee is $15, and $12 each for additional crew members. For additional information, promoter George Hilliard can be reached at 814-662-2169.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park

Four first-time winners took the checkered flag last Saturday night at Roaring Knob Raceway Park in Markleysburg, Pa. The winners were Wayne Jordan of Dilliner, Pa., E-Mods; 14-year-old Mike Hay of Somerset, Pa., in the Classic Lites (Dwarf cars); Gary Tonkery of Fairview, W.Va., in the Late Models; and Scott Spade of Farmington, Pa., in the Pure Stocks.

The following were the top five finishers in each division.

E-Mods: Jordan, first; Alan Malone, second; Mark Baylor, third; Bud Cutlip, fourth; and Buck Goodwin, fifth.

Classic Lites (Dwarfs): Hay, first; Frank Dunkle, second; Eric Hay (Mike's father), third; Jeff Barclay, fourth; and W.L. Stile, fifth.

Late Models: Tonkery, first; Jeff Thomas of Oakland, second; Jeff Ferguson, third; Scott Miles, fourth; and Ray Gibson, fifth.

Pure Stocks: Spade, first; Jeff Kesling, second; Greg Hauger, third; Jim Bendishaw, fourth; and John Redshaw, fifth.

4-Cylinders: Jason Bonkoski, first; and Dale Miller, second.

In the Late Model class, Gary Sisson of Uniontown, Pa., took the Hard Charger Award for moving up 12 positions. Other hard chargers for the night were Greg Hauger, Pure Stocks; Mark Baylor of Kingwood, W.Va., E-Mods; and Eric Hay, Classic Lites.

Because of the rainout Wed., July 19, the Summer Sizzler 75 has been rescheduled for Wed. Aug. 2. Starting at 7 p.m., the gates will open for the pits at 4 p.m. and the grandstands at 5 p.m. This Sat., July 29, the track will host five divisions of racing. For more information, call 724-329-0306, or look on the World Wide Web at www.roaringknob.com.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Fans at Interstate 79 Speedway almost saw five non-stop features last Friday evening as four of the five went green flag to checkered without a caution. Winning the features on a beautiful summer evening were Nolan Dalton, Mark McGill, Ron Parrish, Jeff Kesling, and Dave Summers.

Nolan Dalton, last year's Late Model point champ, has been shut out this season so far, but finally found Victory Lane on Friday evening. Paul Wilmoth placed second, with Butch McGill, Scott Miles, and Gary Dalton rounding out the top five. Gary Dalton picked up the Hard Charger Award, and heat wins went to Tim Dohm and Nolan Dalton.

Mark McGill of West Union, W.Va., picked up his second win of the year in the Semi-Late division. McGill held off M.T. Hall, L.C. Powers, Chris Smith, and Roy Gibson. Heat winners were Powers and McGill.

Ron Parrish of Fairmont, W.Va., captured his fourth win in the Modifieds. He held off Dave Defibaugh, Brent Trimble, Kenny Rogers, and Vic Vandergrift, who rounded out the top five. Defibaugh and Parrish picked up earlier heat wins.

The Pure Stockers were the only ones to have cautions in their feature event. Jeff Kesling got out front and went for the win over Ron Howard, Jay Martin, Jon Wamsley, and Jim Byers. Kesling and Pam Coffman were heat winners.

For the sixth time in a row, 4-Cylinder driver Dave Summers took the checkered flag ahead of Mike Simpson, Mike Lewis of Oakland, Sonny Crayton, and Gary Lester. Summers also took the heat win.

Tomorrow night will see five-division racing at I-79. Gates will open at 6 p.m. with racing action at 8 p.m. The big Enduro was rained out last weekend and has been rescheduled for Sun., July 30. Gates will open at 4 p.m. with the 200-lap race beginning at 6 p.m.

SHS's Bosley Named Area Softball Player Of Year For Second Time

Teammate Teagarden, NHS's Harvey Also Recognized

Jennifer Bosley has been named the Area Softball Player of the Year for an unprecedented second consecutive year, a distinction made even more striking when one considers that the Southern High School pitching ace and slugging star was only a sophomore this past season.

Bosley is joined on the All-Area first team by her senior teammate Jennifer Teagarden, also one of the area's top pitchers and one of the top-fielding second basemen in the region, as well as a fine hitter in her own right, and Northern High School shortstop Mimi Harvey, one of the WMIL's top batters and a slashing baserunner on a Husky squad noted for its aggressiveness on the basepaths.

Bosley and Teagarden's honors come in the wake of a stellar season during which they hurled the Rams through a 20-game win streak to take the region championship and advance all the way to the Maryland State Class 1A softball title contest, which Southern lost in a eight-inning, 2-1 heartbreaker to Rising Sun. SHS completed the year with a superb 20-3 record, with Bosley picking up 14 of those wins and Teagarden taking credit for the other six as she amassed a perfect 6-0 record.

Over the past two seasons Bosley has ruled the pitcher's mound in a way rarely seen before on tri-state diamonds, softball or hardball. This season the right-hander twirled her way to a 14-3 record, striking out 196 batters over 128 innings while walking only nine batters, and compiling a mind-boggling 0.49 earned run average.

Noted for being a perfectionist on the field, Bosley bore down even harder during the Rams' post-season run to mow down batter after batter, registering five wins and only one loss, giving up just two runs on a total of 12 hits, and striking out 60 batters in just 39 innings. She whiffed 14 Hancock batsmen in the regional quarter-final and blazed her way to an 11-strikeout no-hit triumph over St. Michael's in the state semi-final.

Bosley has perfected a wide variety of pitches to give her an arsenal rarely seen across entire pitching staffs. Her fastball, clocked at better than 60 miles per hour, was deadly in its accuracy, and her curveballs, screwballs, risers, and even an odd knuckleball or two froze opposing batters like deer in the headlights. The 16-year-old was also Southern's leading hitter, taking top honors in nearly every offensive statistic. She recorded a .368 batting average, going 25-for-68 at the plate with nine doubles, five triples, and one home run, and drove in 21 runs and scored 25 times to boot. She practically always was able to get the bat on the ball, as she struck out only three times on the year.

Bosley shared Player of ment and hopefully winning."

As mentioned previously, Jennifer Teagarden was the other half of a Rams' pitching duo that left opposing batters shaking their heads on their way back to the dugout; however, the senior was singled out for All-Area first team honors for her skills at second base and at the plate. She helped anchor one of the area's best defensive infields with an outstanding .880 fielding average, and she batted .289, lacing two triples and four doubles. She drove home 16 runs and scored 18 times.

Shortstop Mimi Harvey helped lead the Northern Huskies with a .397 batting average, which matched teammate Brooke Butler's mark for team-high honors and was good for fifth in the WMIL and 15th in the area. A long-time team leader for head coach Lynn Brenneman's squad, the senior stroked six doubles, a triple, and a home run, and stole 14 bases. NHS recorded an 11-10 mark on the year, and came on strong in the latter weeks of the season. The Huskies drew a fifth-place ranking in the post-season All-Area coaches' poll.

Several other Garrett County standouts earned post-season All-Area honors. Named to the All-Area second team were Southern's Stacy Scripp, a junior outfielder who batted .365 and scored 13 runs, and sophomore shortstop Ashthe Year honors last season with Fort Hill's Carrie Liller, batting .415 and recording an 11-2 pitching record with 155 strikeouts and just 16 walks. Over her first two seasons of high school softball, she has put together some staggering numbers — a 25-5 record, 351 strikeouts and only 25 walks in 203 innings, and an 0.65 ERA.

With a Garrett County family surname that seemingly carries the local weight of major league baseball's Griffeys, Jennifer is the second Bosley to take an All-Area honor in as many weeks, as her second cousin, Josh Bosley, was recently named All-Area Baseball Player of the Year. "Bosley—The Next Generation" has been preceded by a group that includes current Ram softball head coach Dave Bosley (Jennifer's father), and two of her uncles, current Ram baseball head coach Jim Bosley and current Ram basketball head coach Tom Bosley.

"I didn't think I was going to win it again," Jennifer Bosley, known as a team player, offered of her individual Player of the Year honor before quickly moving on to the accomplishments of the entire Ram squad. "This year was a lot of fun because we played really well as a team. Obviously, making it that far was a very good accomplishment. We were really grateful just to be there. We all have a goal of making it back to the state tourna-ley Liller, who batted .358 and scored 30 runs. Earning honorable mention recognition were Northern first baseman Butler, a sophomore who stole 16 bases and whose .397 batting average shared the Huskies' team lead, and SHS senior catcher Jennifer Sanders, who recorded a .345 batting average and proved a steady backstop noted for her skill in helping get the most out of her stellar pitchers.

Volleyball League Results Announced

Final standings in the Mt. Top Women's Volleyball League for the 2000 season showed the team sponsored by Roger Sines Construction in first place. Allegheny Welding and Machine was second, followed by WKHJ Radio, S&H Marina, Snazzi Stitches, MisFits, Crickrats, and Aces Wild.

Roger Sines Construction also won the league tournament, with Allegheny Welding and Machine in second; however, Snazzi Stitches placed third.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

A BEAUTIFUL WEEKEND FOR SAILING

By Dan Muss

My wife and I missed the racing on Saturday, we were off at a workshop for our other hobby, playing music of the medieval, renaissance, and baroque periods on copies of original instruments. We had a great time, but we missed a great day of sailing on Saturday. I was told that the wind was moderate and relatively steady with blue skies.

The weather channel called for light wind out of the east on Sunday and they were right on the money. Race Commander Frank Wolffe set a nice course up through the slot; he was able to provide at least enough wind to keep the sailboats moving by some kind of mysterious invocation. He makes this invocation while looking up to the sky; stretching out his arms and making some kind of grunting noise. We all assume that he can do this because he's a lawyer.

Before a race each participating sailboat is required to hail the committee boat and give them their sail number and to announce which fleet they are racing in. The results then are recorded with the sail numbers so that there is sometimes an uncertainty about who was in the boat unless this reporter is out there looking around. This past Saturday the committee must have been very busy at the finish because I had no specific names associated with the boats, so some of the names listed below are really guesses.

A couple of our old champion sailors returned this weekend. Terry Bell skippered John Meredith's boat and won with John as his crew; Pete Nickleson raced after many years on the shore, but did not place.

Saturday, First Race

Flying Scots A Fleet: first place, Terry Bell with crew John Meredith; second place, Jane and Dave Mahan, co-captains; third place, Don Griffin with crew Barbara Griffin.

Flying Scots B Fleet: first place, Meredith Dodd with crew Carey Dodd; second place, Lee Coraor with crew Joan Coraor; third place, Gary Schubert with crew Alice Rosanski.

To enter the contest, register your catch at Johnny's Bait House, Route 219, south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge. The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

Physicals Set For Fall-Sport NHS Huskies

Physicals, which are required of all Garrett County high school athletes, will be provided free of charge to Northern High School students who plan to participate in fall sports. Dr. Dan Miller will make those physicals available on Tuesday, Aug. 8, at his office in Oakland, according to Northern athletic trainer Terry Stough.

All athletes must have their physical form completed and signed by a parent or guardian in order to receive a physical on that date. Youth planning to participate in football should report to Dr. Miller's office at 1:30 p.m., followed by soccer athletes (boys and girls) at 2:30 p.m., and volleyball, golf, and cheerleading athletes at 3:30 p.m.

Named Coach

at Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, Va., where he worked for three years before accepting an offer from Tulsa head coach J.D Barnett in 1990. Later, when Tubby Smith arrived to take the reins of the Golden Hurricane program, Finney was retained to serve as Smith's assistant. The pair guided Tulsa to consecutive "Sweet 16" appearances in the NCAA Tournament on the strength of a 23-8 record in 1993-94 and the following season's 24-8 mark.

Smith took Finney with him when he departed from Tulsa to take the head coaching slot at the University of Georgia (Athens) in 1996. Finney was instrumental in the Bulldogs' "Sweet 16" NCAA tourney appearance that first season as the team mounted a 21-10 record. The following season Georgia notched another NCAA berth with a 24-9 record, although the Bulldogs were eliminated in a first-round upset.

When the University of Kentucky, which has one of the most prestigious men's basketball programs in NCAA history, came calling for Smith before the next season, he insisted on taking Finney along as his assistant. The duo struck gold in their first year with the Wildcats, recording a 35-4 tally in advancing to the 1998 NCAA title contest, where the blue and white rebounded from a 10-point halftime deficit to beat Utah 78-69.

Finney continued his duties as assistant coach and recruiter for Smith over the next two seasons, as Kentucky mounted a 28-9 record for the 1998-99 season and a 23-10 mark last year, earning two more NCAA tourney invitations. The pair's three-association at Kentucky ended with a stellar 86-23 record, good for an outstanding .789 winning percentage.

"Shawn has been the glue to the success I've experienced at Tulsa, Georgia, and Kentucky," Smith commented of his former bench partner. "He's been with me since day 1 of my college head coaching career. I'm excited that he's getting this opportunity to lead his own program at Tulane. He's one of the rising stars who has prepared for this day by coming up through the ranks and paying his dues, first as a graduate assistant, then as an administrative assistant, on to becoming an outstanding recruiter. His youthful presence and his ability to communicate will allow him to recruit and coach the top talent and be successful in Conference USA."

Finney becomes the 21st head coach in the 90-year history of men's basketball at Tulane. The Green Wave went 20-11 last season, won the national division of Conference USA, and advanced to the first round of the National Invitational Tournament. He succeeds Perry Clark, who resigned after 11 seasons to take the head coaching position for the University of Miami Hurricanes.

Although Finney already wears an NCAA championship ring, his former mentor at GCC looks for even more successes ahead. "Shawn wanted to start out at a high level, and this is a great opportunity," said Gibson, who remains in close contact with Finney. "It will take him a couple of years to get the Tulane program where he wants it, but he has a vision and the determination to make it a reality. Very few people understand the time commitment it takes to be a Division I coach, and he's got what it takes. Shawn's smart and he's learned a lot from Tubby Smith, who is one of the best. He's also very well-spoken, honest, and forthright. People pick up on that and trust him, and that's always helped him as a recruiter. He'll be going after the kinds of players he wants, and he'll be able to get them.

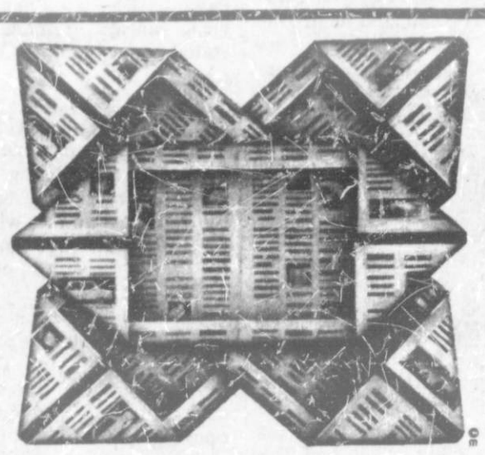

"The Conference USA is one of the toughest conferences around, with other schools like Cincinnati, Louisville, and Memphis — but Tulane will be happy with the choice of Shawn Finney to guide its program."

GCC Students Earn Scholarships

TERRY BEACHY

AMANDA GREGORY

CHRIS BITTINGER

APRIL ENLOW

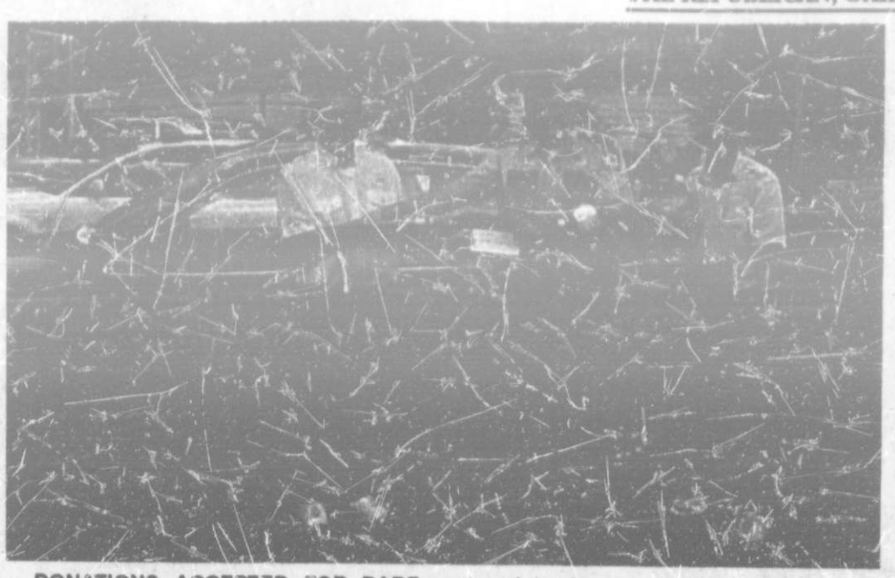

Four Garrett County residents have recently been awarded scholarships by the Garrett Community College Foundation to attend the college this fall, according to Bretta Rinehard, advancement officer. Two of these students have received the Daniel E. Offutt Achievement Award, a new scholarship designated for an agricultural management major and a computer science major, and the other two students have received the Hazel Fratz Wright scholarship.

Terry Beachy, wife of Keith Beachy of Grantsville and mother of Sandra and Andrew, has received the Daniel E. Offutt Achievement Award. She is a graduate of Northern High School and will be entering her second year in the Business and Information Technology program at GCC. When she completes the associates' degree she plans to transfer to a four-year university and obtain a degree in computer technology.

Amanda Gregory, daughter of Jeffrey and Janet Gregory of Oakland and 2000 graduate of Southern High School, has received the Daniel E. Offutt Achievement Award for an agricultural management student. In high school she was an officer in the Oakland FFA chapter for four years. When she completes her education, she plans to be a farm accountant or an artificial insemination specialist.

Chris Bittinger, son of Wayne and Marilyn Bittinger of Oakland, has been awarded the Hazel Fratz Wright scholarship. He is a 1998 graduate of Southern High School, where he played baseball and basketball, and participated in forestry competition. At GCC he is enrolled in the agricultural management program-horticultural concentration. and is continuing to play baseball. His future plans are to own and operate a landscaping and greenhouse business. His interests include hunting, fishing, woodworking, landscaping, and working with plants and flowers. He has a twin brother who attends Alderson Broaddus College.

April Enlow, daughter of William and Kristen Enlow of Friendsville and 1998 graduate of Northern High School, has also received the Hazel Fratz Wright scholarship. In high school she was FFA president, ran track for four years, and was named Most Valuable Hurdler and Student Athlete of the Month. She was a member of the honors chorus, Most Valuable Member of the FFA judging team, and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students. At GCC she is majoring in agribusiness and is a member of the college AG Club. She plans to obtain a four year degree in agronomy. She lives with her family on a dairy farm and she enjoys hunting, swimming, skiing, and archery.

Grants To Help Law Officers Protect Victims

Sheriff's offices and local police responsible for handling ex parte and civil protective orders may now access $2 million in state grant funds to improve their operations with a goal of ensuring those orders are promptly and properly entered in the criminal justice computer system.

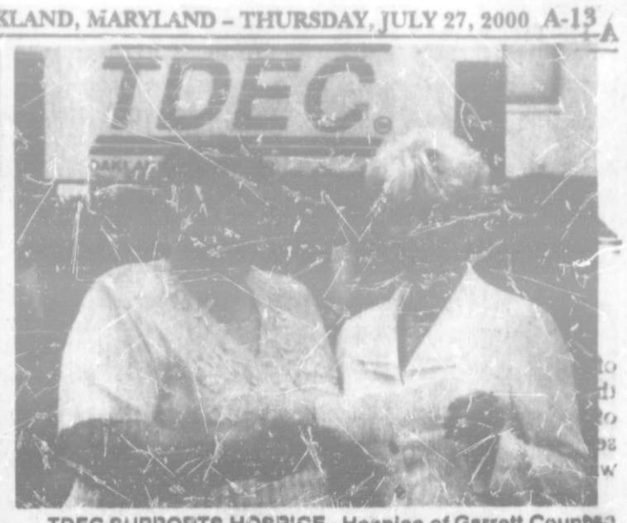

Announcing the grant program at the Maryland Sheriffs' Association meeting today, Maryland State Police superintendent Colonel David B. Mitchell said the financial assistance is to be used to improve the entry, service and monitoring of ex parte and protective orders. It is not to be used to supplant existing operations, but must be totally devoted to enhancing existing efforts.

"This funding provides resources where they are currently needed the most," Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend said, adding: "We must ensure equipment and procedures are in place statewide to assure that victims of domestic violence who obtain ex parte and protective orders will receive the highest possible level of attention and protection by our criminal justice system."

Ex parte and protective orders most often involve incidents of domestic violence. They are issued by the district and circuit courts and contain case-specific orders intended to protect the victim(s). It is necessary that the orders be entered into the Maryland Inter-Law Enforcement System (MILES) and National Crime Information Center (NCIC) as soon as possible to notify other police departments and their officers who may have contact with the respondents.

For example, these systems are checked by the Maryland State Police li-

Police NASCAR To Help Teach Highway Safety

As a result of private contributions and initiative, a promotional NASCAR has been added to the fleet of vehicles used by the Maryland State Police. Last week, Col. David B. Mitchell unveiled this authentic stock car, which will be displayed at community events across the state to boost safety education programs. The car is marked with reminders that aggressive driving is for professionals on a race track.

A spokesman for the state police explained that the concept behind the state police project is to capitalize on the widespread interest in NASCAR to help focus public attention on safety programs such as DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education), the aggressive driver reduction campaign, and the Maryland Center for Missing Children.

A public awareness poster created earlier this year featured a police trooper with NASCAR driver Bill Elliott. The message stated: "Drive Like the Pros and Buckle Up. Don't Be an Aggressive Driver. It Will Get You Nowhere FAST." The posters were "popular," Mitchell explained, so the theme was expanded upon and developed into the Nascar project.

"This vehicle will be available for display at fairs and for parades. Organizations may request the NASCAR for special occasions. All they need to do is to contact the commander of the local barrack, who will put in the request," the spokesman said, adding that he hopes Garrett County will find use for the NASCAR.

The car body was donated by Monster Racing School, which is headquartered in Baltimore. Other businesses and individuals contributed parts, accessories, and labor. "No public funds went into this project. It was all accomplished through donations of materials and lots and lots of time," the spokesman stated.

Organizations interested in requesting the NASCAR may contact the Lt. William Lucas at Maryland State Police, Barrack W, 67 Friendsville Rd., McHenry, MD 21541.

Driver Charged After Dennett Rd. Collision Friday

A West Virginia woman faces charges in connection with a Friday afternoon rear-end collision near Oakland that slightly injured a juvenile passenger riding in her car, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Belinda D. Metheny, 41, Terra Alta, was traveling south on Dennett Road in her Dodge Intrepid at approximately 3:36 p.m. when a Dodge van she was following slowed down to avoid striking a dog that had run into its path at the approach to Highland Drive. Metheny reportedly failed to observe the van slowing down, and her car struck the van, which was being operated by Georgia L. Durst, 64, Mtn. Lake Park.

A 10-year-old juvenile girl riding with Metheny at the time of the collision suffered minor injuries and was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department was also summoned to the scene. None of the other individuals involved in the accident, Durst and a juvenile passenger in the van, nor a second juvenile passenger in the Intrepid, sustained injuries.

Metheny has been charged by sheriff's deputies with failure to give full time and attention to her driving.

Gnegy Promoted To Captain At Sheriff's Office

Larry Gnegy, a 25-year law enforcement veteran who has spent the last 20 years serving with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, has been promoted to the rank of captain by Sheriff P.R. (Dick) Sanders Jr. Gnegy will serve as administrator of the Garrett County Detention Center, overseeing the jail's daily operations as well as providing supervision and administrative functions.

A 1968 graduate of Southern High School, Gnegy served with the Oakland City Police Department for five years before being hired as a sheriff's deputy by Sheriff John Evans in 1979. During his career, he has been assigned to regular police patrol duties as well as criminal investigations. He has assisted in the development of the GCSO's Domestic Violence Awareness Program, and has been involved in writing and managing a number of grants. He is a certified intoximeter operator and has been certified through the Maryland Police and Correctional Training Commission as a police and correctional training instructor.

Gnegy has been actively involved in the operation of the county's detention center for the past two years. His responsibilities have included policy development, upgrading the agency's rules and regulations, and working with state agencies to ensure the jail's compliance with state and federal regulations.

Gnegy and his wife Wanema reside in the Loch Lynn area.

Hotspot Program Nets Grantsville Arrests Saturday

Three Grantsville residents, one adult and two juveniles, were charged with trespassing Saturday afternoon by a deputy assigned to the Grantsville Hotspot Program, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

At approximately 3:40 p.m. a vehicle operated by Steven Michael Hammerbacher, 18, was observed parked in the lot of First United Bank, which was closed for business at the time. The deputy spoke to Hammerbacher and his 16- and 13-year-old passengers, and Hammerbacher reportedly admitted to being aware that he was not allowed in the bank lot.

Hammerbacher was subsequently arrested for trespassing, and at the time of the arrest he allegedly cursed loudly enough for passing motorists and nearby citizens to overhear, which drew him an additional charge of disorderly conduct. The two juvenile passengers, each of whom had been warned by the same deputy to avoid trespassing at the bank earlier that same day, were both charged with trespassing as well.

Hammerbacher was later released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance. The two juveniles were released into the custody of their respective fathers, and their cases will be processed by the Department of Juvenile Justice.

Technology Camp Sessions Slated At Middle Schools

The Garrett County Board of Education is offering for the first time a technology camp at the middle school level. Two sessions are scheduled: one at Northern Middle School, August 7-11, and one at Southern Middle School August 14-18. There are still openings available for students who have completed grades 6, 7, or 8 in the last school year.

Students attending either session will meet from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day. Modeled on the elementary school technology camps, the middle school sessions will offer an opportunity for students to expand skills and apply them in "real life" situations, coordinator Chuck Trautwein explained.

LEGO™ building components will be used to construct machines controlled by use of computers while students explore math, science, and technology concepts related to the machines they build.

Tuition to attend the weeklong camp is $50 per student, with financial assistance available for those students qualifying for the free or reduced-lunch program. For more details or to register for the camp, persons are asked to contact Cheryl Gnegy at the board of eduction offices at 301-334-8926 or via e-mail at techcamp@ga.k12.md.us.

Youth Injured In Accident At 219 Intersection

A 15-year-old passenger was injured in a two-vehicle collision last Friday at the intersection of the National Pike and Route 219. The 11 p.m. accident involved a 1986 Chevrolet Beretta operated by David Eugene McKenzie, 40, Meyersdale, Pa., and a 1997 Jeep driven by Cindy Ann McKenzie, 18, Frostburg.

According to a report filed by Tfc. B. Broadwater at the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police, David McKenzie, who was northbound on Route 219, fell asleep, crossed the center line, and struck the southbound vehicle operated by Cindy McKenzie.

A passenger in Cindy McKenzie's car, Kara Nicole Keaner, was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland for treatment of injures. She was later released.

Police charged David McKenzie with negligent driving and failure to drive right of center.

Car Hydroplanes

A one-vehicle accident on Route 495 last Friday resulted in head injuries to the juvenile driver, who was operating a 1986 Ford Escort. According to a report by Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack, the vehicle, which was northbound near Brenneman Road at 11:45 p.m., hydroplaned on the wet road surface, crossed the southbound lane, struck a ditch and then overturned.

Northern Rescue Squad transported the youth to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where he was admitted for treatment.

CDS Arrests

David Evan Conaway, 24, Albuquerque, N.M., was charged with possession of cocaine, possession of marijuana, and possession of paraphernalia following a traffic stop on I-68 July 20.

Tfc. J.F. Broadwater reported that Conaway, operating a 1990 Honda CRX, was stopped at 11:41 a.m. for a speeding violation on I-68 near the Casselman River. A consent to search the vehicle was obtained and the CDS was allegedly located in the vehicle.

Russell William Frazier, 24, Towson, and Stephanie Anne Blades, 19, Baltimore, were charged with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia following a traffic stop on I-68 near the Casselman River on July 22.

TEXAS BAND SHOW TO BE AT FAIR — An act titled the Texas Band Show will present concerts at the 44th annual Garrett County Agriculture Fair, slated for Aug. 13-19 in McHenry. The group will give its concerts on Thursday, Aug. 17, at 8 and 9:30 p.m. on the 4-H stage. The men in the band have been performing together since 1988, presenting an act that "utilizes the best techniques of old-style comedy/variety shows, blended with modern technology, musicianship, and cutting-edge humor." Featured in the show will be ventriloquism, family-oriented comedy, and music. Admission to the performances is covered in the $6 fair entrance fee, which also includes parking, all race track events, and carnival rides.

Tfc. B.A. Broadwater reported that he stopped a 1996 Saturn, which was traveling 84 mph in a 65 mph zone.

Broadwater said that "furtive" movements on the part of the vehicle occupants led him to request a search of the car. Consent was given and the above mentioned CDS was discovered, he said.

DWI/DUI

The following individuals were charged with driving while intoxicated or driving under the influence of alcohol: Christopher Scott Hintz, 37, Oakland, July 23; Arlinda Sue King, 21, Friendsville, July 19; and Jerome Sines, 21, Friendsville, July 18.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

90TH BIRTHDAY OPEN HOUSE

An open house is planned on Sunday, July 30, at the Aurora fire hall, to honor Gladys Lockhart, Amboy, on her 90th birthday. Her family invites everyone to come from 2 until 4 p.m.

AMBOY FESTIVAL

The Amboy United Methodist Church will host its annual festival beginning at 5 p.m. on July 29. Full steak dinners, hot sandwiches, homemade ice cream, cakes, and pies will be available for sale. Entertainment will be provided by J.C. and the Boys.

50TH ANNIVERSARY FOR SISLER COUPLE

The children and grandchildren of Scott and Dean Sisler, Aurora, invite everyone to a Saturday, July 29, celebration of their parents' 50th wedding anniversary. There will be an open house at the Sisler home from 2 until 5 p.m.

AURORA CEOS

Mary Radford conducted the opening devotions using Psalm 143:10 and a meditation for the June 20 meeting of the Aurora CEOS held in the home of the president, Delores Douglas.

The subject of "Famous Women of West Virginia" was addressed by Alice Penzo.

The Continuing Education chair, Ressie Conrad, reported that the Read Aloud tea had better attendance this year. The international student will be in Preston County on July 27 and 28. Items were donated to the "Be Smart, Eat Smart" program.

Wilda Stemple, reporting for Family Life Committee, noted the purchase and donation of the book "Stone Fox" to the Aurora school library. Nina Layman will be responsible for a heritage display for the August meeting. Dorothy Spaid showed 100-year plus dishes that had belonged to her late husband's aunt, Allie Fike. Mary Radford reminded the group about the creative writing and feature article contest.

Several members ordered Preston County CEO shirts. Reports from those participating in the Relay for Life and who attended the area meeting were given. The club is planning to sell tickets for the Buckwheat Festival car and hopes to have a sign prepared for the town signboard. Martha Bolyard was selected as the member to be "showcased" by the club.

Kathy Hardesty showed a pen holder made from plastic canvas as her special feature. Dorothy Spaid won the pig-in-the-poke.

A picnic planned for July 18 at Herrington Manor was held instead at the Union Ambulance squad hall with Sheridan and Nina Layman, Janice Tackett, Keith and Delores Douglas, Ressie Conrad, Wilda Stemple, and Kathy Hardesty in attendance.

Responsibilities for the Aug. 22 meeting include Virginia Martin for the special feature, Wilda Stemple the lesson, and Mary Jane Hanline the devotions.

MAPLE GROVE MISSIONARY EMPHASIS

Jason Skipper and Leonard Snyder will be sharing their experiences in Sucre, Bolivia, at the Maple Grove Assembly of God Church, Accident, at 7 p.m. on July 29. Everyone is invited to attend.

Missionaries Tim and Michelle Zello will speak about their work in Russia at the 10:30 a.m. morning worship on Sunday, July 30. And Sunday evening at 7 p.m., Delton and Marilyn Watts will tell about their work in Texas at ICI University. All are invited to each of these sessions.

AURORA PIONEERS AT OLDER CAMP

Attending Preston County Older Members 4-H Camp, July 9-14, from the Aurora Pioneer Club were Rebecca Fint, Hannah Myers, Neil Mersing, Kendra and Eric Durst, Jessica Callahan, and Tracey Fields. Stacy Fint taught a class and Opal Myers was a cook. Becca Fint served as chief of the Mingo tribe, Hannah Myers as sagamore for the Delaware tribe, and Jessica Callahan was sagamore for the Cherokee tribe.

Kendra Durst received a blue and gold award. Her brother Eric was designated "Health H." Neil Mersing received a green and white felt award. Tracey Fields received an OMC Scholarship Challenge. Hannah Myers was awarded her Charting pin. Designated as "Head H" was Jessica Callahan.

AHS CLASS OF '60 HAS 40TH ANNIVERSARY

Their 40th anniversary of graduation was celebrated Saturday evening, July 22, by the Aurora High School Class of 1960, with a roast beef dinner served at the Union Ambulance squad hall. Of the 19 class members present, three attended for the first time.

Those attending were James and Deloris Slawter, Stephen and Susan Hauser, Thomas and Carolyn Wotring, Franklin and Wilda (Harsh) Blamble, and Terry and Phyllis Vandevender, all of Aurora; James Stanton of Trenton, N.J.; Carolyn (Shaffer) Spencer, Mary (Wotring) Delaney, Mary (McBride) Calcamp, and Bernard and Carolyn Ball, all of Horse Shoe Run; Sam and Linda (Sisler) Terrant, Terra Alta; Jerry and Barbara Hauser, Ronald and Patricia (Martin) Stemple, and Rhonda (Slaubaugh) Thomas, all of Oakland; Alan and Mary Teets, Middletown, Del.; James and Carola Myers, Brownsville, Texas; Lowell and Georgia Parsons, Belmont, W.Va.; Lawrence and Kim Hauser of Blissfield, Mich.; Esther (Snyder) Boggs, Parkersburg; and teachers Martha Bolyard and Virginia Martin.

James Myers won a handmade doily from the "good luck" plate number. James Stanton, Tom Wotring, and James Slawter knew how many were in the graduating class (32). Jim Myers was longest retired, Jim Myers guessed the date of graduation, and Bernard Ball guessed the day. The class motto was remembered by Lawrence Hauser, but no one remembered who had given out diplomas. Of pictures sent by each member of early childhood, Lawrence Hauser was able to identify the largest number. Tom Wotring and Pat Stemple, teachers from the class, led everyone in a Hula dance, enlarging on the evening's theme and décor.

The next reunion is planned for July 20, 2002.

ALUMNI WEEKEND

A small attendance at the July 22 Aurora High School alumni reunion in the Aurora Community Building was enlarged by a July 23 attendance of about 55 at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building for a covered dish dinner and afternoon of visiting and viewing historic school items. There was also a display by Alice Penzo of community historical interest.

A memorial service was held for those who died during the past year. Planned by Lois Strawser, Virginia Martin, and Martha Bolyard, the service included a lighting of candles and reading of names of the deceased, along with hymns and readings.

A question from Paul Stemple concerning the start-up date of a county bus brought the answer "1933" from Grace Bachtel. Jack Adams has donated a basketball uniform including jacket for display. Alice Penzo announced that she and Carolyn Wotring are in the planning stages of an historical drama for next summer. The senior citizens Sunday at the Buckwheat Festival will this year honor veterans, who are asked to attend. Also at this time those who were elected to serve as princesses at the Buckwheat Festival for 1943; and who did not get to serve, will be honored. Lois Adams of Aurora served as an alternate for that class and will be among those recognized. Veterans who have a story to tell from their time in service or combat, may contact Beverly Conley in Kingwood who is preparing a collection of such experiences.

Officers of the organization will be retained for another year. They are: James Slawter, president; Alice Penzo, vice president; Jean Winters, secretary; and Dorothy Spaid, treasurer.

Prizes went to Paul Stemple as the eldest student present and Betty Fint as the youngest. Wanda Melton was the youngest to become a teacher. Nancy Stemple Williams, Colorado, traveled the farthest to attend. Paul Stemple had the most children present who had attended Union District schools (two). The Jesse Gnegy children, Paul, Grace White, and Ruby Rembold, represented the most siblings present from one family.

An offering was taken to finance the organization for another year.

MARTINS WILL CELEBRATE 25TH

The 25th wedding anniversary of Tom and Debbie Martin will be celebrated with an open house at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building in Aurora from 2 to 4 p.m. on July 30.

They were married June 21, 1975, at the Aurora Church by the Rev. Harding Nelson.

The family invites all friends and relatives to attend, and requests that gift be omitted.

Those unable to attend but wishing to send cards may address them to P.O. Box 306, Rowlesburg, WV 26425.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Hancell Teets, Aurora, were in Morgantown last Monday and Tuesday for a regional meeting of soil conservation districts at the Holiday Inn.

Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club members Josh Mullenax and Ashley Bachtel were recently in Morgantown for state horticulture judging competition. Competing individually, Josh placed first in junior judging, and Ashley was second in the senior division.

Local students at Fairmont State College who have been named to honors lists include Rhett Beckman and Rebecca Wotring, both named to the president's list. Rhett is the son of Russell and Donna Beckman, Eglon; Rebecca is the daughter of Tom and Carolyn Wotring, Aurora. Lori Dixon, daughter of David and Virginia Dixon, Amboy, and Josh Eskridge, son of Janie Eskridge, Eglon are both on the dean's list at FSC.

Jay Lambert, Aurora, returned to his home on Monday from Monongalia General Hospital, where he recently underwent major surgery.

Rhonda Stieringer Fox underwent surgery in Lorton, Va., July 3. Her mother, Barbara Stieringer, and sisters, Mary Radford and Shannon Stieringer, were with her at the time. She is reportedly expecting to undergo further treatment. Her sister, Patty Arbogast, Horse Shoe Run, was a surgical patient recently at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Wanda Melton of Buffalo was a weekend visitor in Aurora with her brother and sister-in-law, David and Delores Stemple.

Bruce, Mary, Shawn, and Craig Rembold were weekend guests of Bruce's mother, Eileen Rembold, Pittsburgh.

Dorothy Spaid returned last Tuesday to her home at Aurora from a two-week cruise and sight-seeing tour to Alaska.

David and Wilma Mae Teets also returned last week from two weeks in Alaska, where they and their daughter, Mary Lou Miller, Goldsboro, N.C., visited the latter's son and family, Steven and Amy Lantz, and their new daughter, Ashley Michelle. The Teets family also visited with Rick and Annie Lantz who took them on a sight-seeing tour of the state. Returning to Goldsboro, they spent a day with their daughter there before coming to their home at Horse Shoe Run.

Michele O'Connor was hospitalized last week at Ruby Memorial Hospital for further tests and treatment and has now returned to her home on Mtn. Top.

Clifton "Buck" Arnold, Aurora, underwent recent out-patient surgery on Tuesday at Ruby Memorial Hospital and is recuperating at his home. His mother-in-law who had been reported as critically ill, is now reportedly better and able to return to the nursing home.

Dave Collins, Horse Shoe Run, went to Presbyterian Hospital in Pittsburgh for further tests last week.

Melvin Ray Frantz was recently injured at his base in Korea but is reportedly doing limited service while awaiting surgery.

Steve Stemple and Marjorie of Elkins took his father, Paul Stemple, Aurora, for a physician visit in Morgantown Friday and spent the weekend here.

Lynn and Charlene Woodall of Atlanta, Ga., were here for the July 23 reunion of the Wilbur and Bessie Evans family and were guests of her uncle, Elbert Lewis, Aurora.

Kirk, Anita, and Becky Lantz, Aurora, visited last week with their sons, Brian and Jeremy, at Statesville, N.C.

While the Ben Myers family vacationed in the Outer Banks area during the July 4th week, they celebrated birthdays for Victoria Stevens, and Ben, Jerry, Cody, and Sue Myers.

Ken and Pauline Hauser of Willowick, Ohio, and their son Bud, of Mentor, Ohio, were weekend guests of David and Wilma Mae Teets, Horse Shoe Run, and attended the Hauser reunion held Sunday at the Farmers' Wildlife Park, Horse Shoe Run.

Teacher Sparks Community Effort; Ricky Fike's Dream Comes True

by Peggy Santamaria

One Garrett County teacher recently helped business owners and neighbors learn more about the difference that a caring community can make. It all started with a letter written by Northern High School teacher Cindy Downton to an area business owner. Downton was reaching for something special for one of her students.

The recipients of the letter were Bill and Kathy Sweeney, owners of the NAPA Auto Parts store in the Grantsville. The message contained "a somewhat unusual request," Downton wrote. She was seeking help from the Sweeneys to make a wish come true for her student, Ricky Fike, who daily faces the challenges of muscular dystrophy.

Ricky, at 16, is a devoted fan of the NASCAR circuit and avidly tracks the career of driver Rusty Wallace. "While I do not personally follow the NASCAR races, I recently found out that NAPA sponsors both these races and cars," Downton's letter noted.

Wanting to find a way to provide Ricky the opportunity to attend a NASCAR race, Downton asked for the Sweeneys' help. "This would be an adventure he could share with his friends and ," Downton said.

"We had never had a request like this. So I made a few phone calls to see what we could do. Cindy Downton had asked for tickets for a race. But when I learned that Rusty Wallace was Ricky's favorite driver, I thought, 'Well, let's just see if we can take this a little further,'" Kathy Sweeney said.

Joining Downton and the Sweeneys in this endeavor to get Ricky to the races, was Scott Rodeheaver, owner of Lake View Auto Parts, another area NAPA dealer. "I know Ricky and his mother Sheri. But I didn't know this was going on until the Sweeneys got in touch with me. I was glad to get involved and we decided to split the cost," Rodeheaver said.

Next, the Sweeneys contacted Vince Kubistek, sales manager for the NAPA Altoona Distribution Center, Duncanville, Pa., who, in turn, contacted Denis McGlynn, president of the Dover Downs International Speedway in Delaware. Kubistek asked McGlynn if he could facilitate this joint effort to send Ricky to a NASCAR race.

He suggested to McGlynn that the MBNA Platinum 400 event, slated for June at the Dover, Del., track, would be the most appropriate time and place for Ricky and his . And so it was accomplished. Tickets to the race and the appointment to meet Wallace were arranged for the Fike .

Ricky knew nothing about the plans being made to send him to the sporting event. His mother had the fun of telling him that, not only would he go to a NASCAR race, but would meet Rusty Wallace. "He was really excited about it," Sheri said.

In a flurry of excitement Ricky, his dad, and his brother were "off to the races" in Dover. "It was a guy thing," his mom explained.

Watching the game and meeting Wallace really made Ricky happy, his mother reported. But Ricky was not alone in feeling good about this experience. "We were tickled to able to do this," Kathy Sweeney said. Rodeheaver also stated that he "was really happy to be able to do this for Ricky." Sheri Fike was very touched, she said, by the concern of everyone involved in a happy and memorable experience for her son. "It was just great," she said.

Downton reflected on the ease and speed with which this idea became a reality. "It was great to see how quickly this came together. It took just one phone call and a letter for other people to get involved. I was amazed at how quickly our community repsponded with offers to help. And this is one of the best things about living in Garrett County," she said.

Workman Named To Who's Who

Phillip (P.J.) Workman Jr., son of Phil and Debbie Workman of Friendsville, has been nominated to Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1999-2000, for the second year in a row. Approximately 20,000 schools are represented by their outstanding students. Only ½ of 1% of all high school students are honored for two or more years.

Workman, a 2000 graduate of Northern High School, plays American Legion baseball and is enrolled in the general studies at Garrett Community College for the fall of 2000. He plans on transferring to Fairmont State College in the fall of 2001, hoping to earn an associate's degree in computer aided drafting. He is a member of the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren.

Aerial Saw Being Utilized To Clear Along Power Lines

Allegheny Power is using an aerial tree-trimming saw, suspended from a helicopter, to maintain portions of its rights-of-way along high-tension power lines located in the southern portions of Garrett and Allegany counties. The electric utility has contracted with Aerial Solutions to carry out the tree-trimming operations, which began this week and are slated to continue through the middle of August.

Suspended on a vertical boom beneath a helicopter, the fifteen 24-inch rotary blades of the aerial saw are powered by a motor and allow for the "quick, safe, and efficient trimming of trees," said James B. Kauffman, director of operations support for Allegheny Power. "On accessible lines, traditional tree-trimming crews use bucket trucks and climb each tree individually. The helicopter speeds up the trimming process dramatically, resulting in significant cost savings. Lines in remote areas that would take a climbing crew days to complete can be trimmed by the aerial saw in a few hours."

The helicopter also eliminates the need for workers to enter private property to reach rights-of-way, Kauffman explained. "We don't need to make repeated trips with heavy equipment across private property, which eliminates the possibility of damaging private lands."

Perhaps the most significant value to aerial trimming is safety. "A single pilot maneuvers the helicopter and boom along the right-of-way. As a result, there's no need for workers to climb as many trees near energized conductors, which reduces the numerous chances for accidents," Kauffman said.

For more information about Allegheny Power's 2000 Aerial Saw Program, interested persons may call the utility company toll-free at 1-800-ALLEGHENY (1-800-255-3443).

The work areas that include sections of Garrett County are as follows:

- Pruntytown, W.Va. — Mt. Storm, W.Va.

Portions of a 500 kV transmission line starting at the Maryland state line south of Redhouse and west of Rt. 219, and heading in a southeasterly direction. The line runs parallel with Cash Valley Rd., crosses Rt. 219 south of Redhouse, then continues in a southeasterly direction as it crosses Little Mountain, Backbone Mountain, Table Rock Rd., Wilson Corona Rd., and the North Branch of the Potomac River before crossing into Grant County, W. Va.

- Albright, W.Va. — Mt Zion Substation — Beryl, W.Va.

Portions of 138 kV transmission line starting at the Maryland state line west of Herrington Manor State Park and heading east. The line crosses Sanders Lane, passes through the southern end of the state park property, crosses Herrington Manor Rd., and passes through the center of Mt. Nebo Wildlife Management Area. It continues eastward, crossing Rt. 219, Kings Run Rd., Sand Flat Rd., Pysell Crosscut Rd., Turkeyneck Rd., and Rt. 495 north of Rt. 135. The line then traverses Backbone Mountain, crossing Rt. 135 near the junction of Rt. 38, before entering a substation located along Mt. Zion Rd. After leaving the substation the line heads east to the Potomac River, crossing the river below the Jennings Randolph Lake Dam.

- Albright, W.Va. — Oak Park Substation — Elk Garden, W.Va.

Portions of 138 kV transmission line starting at Maryland state line west of Herrington Manor State Park and heading east across Sanders Lane, passing through the southern end of the state park property. The line continues easterly, crossing Herrington Manor Rd., then bears southeasterly as it crosses Oakland Sang Run Rd., Hooppole Ridge, Rt. 219, and Broadford Rd., before entering the Oak Park Substation next to Broadford Lake. From the substation, the line heads southeast across the lake, crosses Rt. 135 northeast of Mtn. Lake Park, and continues in a southeasterly direction, crossing Deer Park Hotel Rd., Backbone Mountain, and Eagle Rock Rd. The line then runs parallel to Upperman Rd. and North Hill Rd. before crossing the North Branch of the Potomac River and into Elk Garden Substation in West Virginia.

POKEMON: THE MOVIE 2000

Rated G - Running Time: 1:41 - Released 7/21/00

Whether you call it Pokémon: The Movie 2000, or Gekijouban Pocket Monsters: Minna no Pokémon X: Lugia Bakutan (its official title), or even Pocket Monsters The Movie: The Phantom Pokémon: Lugia's Explosive Birth (yes, that really is one of the titles listed), it can only mean one thing: another orgy of kids screaming out unintelligible names, wallowing in Pokémon merchandise purchased from fast food establishments, and collecting inexplicably important trading cards. What it can't mean, under any circumstances, is a well-crafted children's movie. No, the movie is secondary, simply a device used to sell more Pokémon, introduce new Pokémon, and keep the name "Pokémon" in the public consciousness. Have I said it enough yet?

That said, I must admit that this film, directed by Kunihiko Yuyama and Michael Haigney, has a little more going for it than its predecessor. The animation still doesn't pretend to be anything but line-on celluloid and the characterizations are still limited to the depth of the screen, but there is some kind of cosmic harmony to the idea, and, I must say, some beautiful music featured.

Preceding Lugia's Explosive Birth (I'd hate to be the obstetrician for this one) is a short feature which has Pikachu (Ikue Otani) and pocket monster pals battling against the weather, all winning their names and doing their various singular activities. Although each character can only say his own name, it's not necessarily a rule that he must say his whole name; each syllable can be said in any order or combination, or even over and over. This results in Pikachu uttering the phrase "Pee-Pee" or "Ka-Ka" on more than one occasion. It is unknown whether this was written into the script this way or simply Otani's subtle commentary on his profession.

After the short, the feature begins with Pokémon-trainer Ash (Veronica Taylor) and his friends Misty (Rachael Lillis), Brock (Eric Stuart), and, of course, Pikachu, traveling on a vacation in the tropical Orange Islands. Among these are three mythical islands of fire, ice, and lightening, where three powerful flying Pokémon live. According to legend, if these three warbirds are ever captured, there will appear a fourth and most powerful creature, the "great guardian" Lugia. Unbeknownst to our friends, a villain with an elaborate flying machine has planned to catch the three beasties and therefore have Lugia as his own. Only "the chosen one" can deter him from doing so, and that person is Ash. A melee ensues.

Apart from the villain's digitally rendered but aeronautically impossible flying machine, which stands out in sharp contrast, the animation of this film is nothing better than vintage Flintstones. Surprisingly, Pikachu has very little to do with the plot, so die-hard fans may be disappointed. On the other hand, I daresay die-hard fans could not possibly be discriminating enough to notice, given most of them are still in diapers. ★★½

WHAT LIES BENEATH

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:06 - Released 7/21/00

A good thriller's success rests primarily on three factors: the believability of its plot, the effectiveness of its special effects, and its star's ability to scream. What Lies Beneath, the new ghost-torments-married-couple story written by Sarah Kernochan and Clark Gregg and directed by Robert Zemeckis (Contact), has two of the three elements handled pretty well. The effects are good and Michelle Pfeiffer's screams are passable. From the standpoint of plausibility, it maintains a good rating until the final reel, when most horror thrillers lose it and [illegible]. Harrison Ford's character in particular is terribly conflicted and, toward the end, potentially schizophrenic.

The action takes place in a small Vermont town where noted physicist Norman Spencer (Ford) and his formerly famous cellist wife Claire (Pfeiffer) live, having just sent their only daughter off to college. Alone during the day in their cozy house, Claire starts having strange experiences. She thinks she witnesses a murder at the new neighbors' home, she thinks she sees a body floating in the lake, she keeps forgetting to tell Norman to fix the front door. She tries everything from witchcraft to Ouija boards to exorcise the spirit that plagues her, and finally discovers the whole truth and her husband's involvement in it.

Besides Ford's character being inconsistent, the story is also full of red herrings, one of which is so monumental and so badly explained it practically derails the suspension of disbelief. It doesn't help that this story is none too terribly similar to last year's Kevin Bacon film Stir of Echoes, which handled the material much better. But faults in the script are partially overcome by Zemeckis's skillful directing, slowly, subtly raising the tension and, therefore the hairs on the back of our collective necks. Pfeiffer, who is on screen for practically the entire film, is suitably buggy, although neither she nor the script adequately brings out the terrible experience in her past that is supposed to account for her pre-existing psychotic condition. In addition to hers, there are also a couple of really enjoyable supporting performances by Joe Morton as the psychiatrist and Diana Scarwid as Claire's best friend.

But toward the end of the film, the script goes over the top and Ford, Pfeiffer, and Zemeckis go right over with it. All the old trite horror hallmarks come to bear, including the killer-not-staying-dead routine, the victim intentionally going into unwise places, and a ridiculous, heavy-action finale. Despite its promising start, I left this film with one impression: never engage in underwater tai chi fights with dead women. ★★★½

LOSER

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:37 - Released 7/21/00

Written and directed by Amy Heckerling (Clueless), Loser reminds me of a successful intercontinental airline voyage: uneventful, predictable, and boring, lumbering toward its inevitable destination without even any good scenery to look at along the way. Reuniting two of the young actors who starred in American Pie (Jason Biggs and Mena Suvari), Heckerling presents an eminently run-of-the-mill teen romance full of characters about whom it's hard to give a damn. Biggs and Suvari are both adequately likeable (in the same way one likes warm milk before bed), but Heckerling's script doesn't give them the means to recognize what we all see from their first meeting. The thrilling moment when they finally realize they're meant for each other could easily be missed by audience members digging for the last kernel of popcorn, a prospect much more tantalizing.

Paul (Biggs) is first seen surrounded by his loving family wishing him well as he leaves for college in New York City, with his father (Dan Aykroyd) assuring him that "people are basically good." Paul has been reared as an all-around nice guy, a fact that will prove to be his undoing when he arrives in the Big Apple. As the script repeatedly points out, literally and figuratively, New York is a cesspool of iniquity and a den of thieves, where no one is friendly or kind to his fellow man. Paul is out of place among his beer-guzzling, drug-taking roommates (Thomas Sadoski, Zak Orth, and Jimmi Simpson), who not only prevent him from getting any studying in, but make fun of him for his dress and his midwestern expressions. Of course, being a nice guy, Paul takes the personal attacks in stride, but worries that he'll lose his scholarship if he doesn't maintain his grades. In response to his concerns, his roomies kick him out. The only one who is nice to Paul is Dora (Suvari), his 20th-C. Lit classmate who is similarly put upon. However, Dora is not romantically available because she is dating the professor (Greg Kinnear), with whom she is "madly in love" despite the fact that he treats her like dirt and uses her as a cook, maid, and sex toy. Gee, I wonder what possible complication could come from this intricate premise.

Throughout its 97-minute running time, the aptly called Loser is a poorly executed, shoddy affair. [illegible] clunkily ill-thought-out details are a veterinarian's office whose set design features shelves of interestingly-shaped, unmarked glass bottles filled with variously colored liquids, the protagonist's use of the "F-word" as the moment he becomes a hero, and a misspelled word in the closing summation. What's more, there are numerous overdubs (where a character's language is "cleaned up" despite his lips saying something else) as if Heckerling decided at the last minute to leave out the sex and go for the PG-13 rating, but forgot about all the foul language. Biggs and Suvari strain admirably to make it look like they can't foresee the patently obvious conclusion in store for them. The one actor who actually seems to put something into his character is Kinnear, whose Professor Alcott is interesting and well-rounded, even humorous. Although he is supposed to be the one we despise most, his character is much more intelligent and easily identified with than all the others combined.

If you're planning to see Loser, you might want to take your favorite pillow along so you can at least get some shuteye during the trip. ★★

State Forestry Board Awarded Grant For Camp

The Maryland Forestry Boards Foundation has received a $5,000 grant from the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency for a one-week summer camp program for 48 high school students statewide interested in pursuing careers in forestry or other natural resource management fields.

The camp will provide hands-on environmental experiences in Savage River State Forest. Each county and Baltimore city will provide two students who are recruited by local boards through school systems, ecology clubs, and other environmental organizations.

"This type of training program will provide positive outdoor experiences for students that will enrich their lives and educate them about potential careers in forestry and protecting the environment," said Bradley Campbell, regional administrator for EPA's mid-Atlantic region.

EPA's education grant program is designed to stimulate grass-roots environmental education. Nationally, EPA awarded more than $2.5 million in environmental education grants in 2000 to schools, civic groups, and non-profit organizations.

For more information on this grant, persons may contact Nan L. Ides at (215) 814-5546. EPA's regional Internet home page also has general information on the grants: http://www.epa.gov/region03.

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

The town meeting was held Tuesday, July 18.

- A local business owner thanked the mayor and council for placing additional trash cans on Maple Street, where littering is a problem. He noted that a number of youth are gathering along Maple Street nightly.
- The sheriff's office and state police have been notified of incidents of vandalism to street signs and a hit-and-run incident, which damaged a vehicle on Morris Avenue. Local residents are encouraged to contact the police when they see any vandalism occurring.
- Terry Spear of the fire department updated the mayor and council on the schedule of events for Friendsville Days, slated for August 4-5. He noted that this year's parade will be held Friday evening.
- The mayor and council donated $450 to sponsor the Saturday evening entertainment during Friendsville Days.
- The construction of the new Little League field is scheduled to begin. The sand and clay are being donated by Keystone Paving. The county roads department is donating hauling services.
- The snake problem along Walnut Street near Bear Creek was reported to the Department of Natural Resources. That agency cannot remove or exterminate the snakes but said that property owners in that area should keep brush trimmed back, move mulching away from foundations, and allow as much sunlight into the area as possible.
- The Census Bureau as well as the mayor and town council encourage residents who have not completed their Census 2000 forms to do so as soon as possible. Funding for numerous local projects is based on the results of the census.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, Aug. 7.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Tuesday, July 25.

- Circuit Rider Wendell Keaton held a public hearing for citizen response to the proposal that the town access CDBG funds to purchase the property currently belonging to the business El Lobo's and demolish the building. There was no adverse response to the proposal.
- The mayor administered the oath of office to recently elected council members Lou DiCarlo, David Gangler, and Fred Callis.
- A property owner in Oak Park requested and was granted permission to use a sewer tap that is already on the site.
- Representatives from the Oak Park Church of the Brethren discussed plans to close two existing entries to their parking facilities and open other ones onto town roads. The church agreed to be liable for any problems resulting from such construction.
- Discussion of sewer tap use resulted in the decision that once purchased, sewer taps cannot be transferred to any other property.
- Fiber-optic filming of town sewer lines revealed an undersized pipe in one section of the system. This will be replaced.
- The mayor announced the names of the committee members who will review the town charter for possible revisions. Don Sincell, Anne Forrester, and councilman Learey will sit on that committee.
- The dates for town meetings will change to the second and fourth Wednesdays in the month, beginning with on August 23.
- Glenn Tolbert was selected from among the applicants to enforce various town building ordinances.

The next town meeting will be held Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Vietnam War Vets Recall Mother's Steady Love During Turbulent Times

by David Foster

There's a lighthouse on the hillside that overlooks life's sea.
When I'm tossed it sends a light out that all might see, and the light that shines in the darkness
will safely lead us o're,
yes the light from that old lighthouse
that stands there on the shore. . . .
—From the church hymn "The Lighthouse"

Garrett County's young men across the generations are known for extraordinary sacrifices made during times of war throughout the 20th century, answering their country's call to risk life and limb far from home. Among the 58,220 names carved into the black granite wall at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial are the names of 16 young men who as boys studied in classrooms, played on ballfields, and fished the waters in and around Friendsville, Deer Park, and other towns. They also bowed heads around the altar in churches and around the table in homes that dot our landscape — homes with walls and dressers that still bear pictures of young men who never came home, frozen forever within the frame at the age of 18, 19, or 20.

Among the dozens of other local families who sent their sons to Vietnam, but were blessed with their safe return, was the family of Genevieve Friend in Oakland. Genevieve gave not one, but two of her boys to the U.S. Army's Vietnam forces — Dick and Mike, both of whom still make Garrett County their home.

"At the time Dick volunteered in 1966, I thought about it a lot, and made up my mind that he would come back OK," Genevieve, a spry, petite octogenarian said during a recent conversation at her kitchen table. "Then when Mike volunteered in 1968 I did the same thing. I thought about my boys every day they were over there, and I did a lot of praying. I had to have faith in the Lord that they would both safely return home."

Genevieve's ironclad faith had been tempered three years prior to Dick's Army enlistment when her husband Arnold, father to their four children (Annis, Darvin, Dick, and Mike), was killed when his small plane crashed near Deep Creek Lake. "Because our dad had been gone, Mom was already the foundation of our family at the time we went to Vietnam," Dick said. "She gave us inspiration, something to look forward to, when just the thought of getting home was enough to keep you going over there."

"I went into town at 5 in the morning to see Dick off when he first joined the Army," Genevieve recalled of that day in early January when her son boarded a bus in front of the local Selective Service office, located in the Professional Building along Second Street. "I had some tears come to my eyes, but didn't let him see because I knew it would be hard on him as he was leaving. I came home afterwards and cried by myself. We wrote to each other a lot during his training, and one time when Dick was home on furlough he told me he was being sent to Vietnam; that was very hard to hear, but I had to have faith that he'd be coming back someday."

After reluctantly seeing her son off to serve in the overseas conflict, Genevieve, in the way mothers do, continued providing strong support while keeping her worst fears to herself. "I wrote to Dick over once a week, and received a letter from him three or four times a month," she recalled.

"Mom's letters were the most important thing to me over there," Dick observed. "You have to understand the big picture. If our unit was out in the field, the daily mail call was chaos — it resembled a playground scene with little kids, or baby birds waiting to be fed. It was our only connection to the outside world, and when they'd call out the names, soldiers would grab for their letters. Then the chaos would melt away as each soldier split off into a private spot, sometimes behind some equipment, to read. You'd hear a laugh break the silence if a letter contained a funny story from back home, or a new joke, or you might hear some sniffling and see a big tough guy with tears in his eyes if there was a picture included of his wife and kids, especially if there was a new baby back home.

"Mom's letters were always upbeat, and gave the news on what was going on back home, which helped us keep our heads together," Dick said of himself and his brother. "Believe me, you never could forget for a minute that you were 10,000 miles from home; however, she'd never include anything that might make you worry, never any complaints or sadness that might call our full attention back to her and make us let our guard down over there. She knew what she was doing, even if it was tough on her."

Perhaps the most difficult moment for Genevieve came in late May of 1967, when she received word that Dick had been wounded in action — and escaped death by the thinnest of margins — when he single-handedly thwarted a Viet Cong ambush of his unit along a jungle jeep path. "On Sunday, May 21, I was at my family's home church in Cuzzart, W.Va., when I got the feeling something was going on with Dick," she said. "The next day I was getting ready to go to work at the Southern High cafeteria when the telephone rang shortly before 7 a.m. A military person asked if this was the Genevieve Friend residence, and my heart sank for a moment, but he quickly told me that although Dick had been wounded he would be OK. I thanked the gentleman and left for work; there was nothing more I could do, and working all the time helped keep my mind off things."

A few days later Genevieve received a six-page letter from her son that he had written from his hospital bed in Vietnam the very same day she had first learned of his wounds. The letter detailed the events of the ambush, but throughout reassured her that he was doing fine and there was no need to worry. "Well Mother, it was a very rough and tough thing to go through, but remember my name is Friend and we don't run and we can do it," Dick wrote.

"I can remember coming home from work and pulling that letter from Dick out of the mailbox," Genevieve recalled. "I was home by myself, and sat down at the kitchen table to read it. I was very thankful and relieved to see that he was OK enough to write, although it worried me to think of what it might do to him when he had more time to think about what he had done. Still, he did what he had to do, and I was just glad he was alive. I immediately wrote back to say I was glad he wasn't hurt too bad and hoped he'd be coming home real soon. Then I went on to give him the news on his family and friends back home here in Oakland."

SERIOUS FUN WAS ENJOYED BY ALL - Young people in the Bloomington area participated in a weeklong camping experience provided by the Garrett County Health Department. One in a series of camping sessions being held in communities around the county, the Bloomington Serious Fun Day Camp included breakfast, lunch, snacks, and activities for participants. Campers pictured in the back row from left are Brandi Bittinger, Sarah Bittinger, Tyler White, and Nicklaus Bateson. In the second row are Shelly Moreland, Lindsay Montgomery, Tammy Plummer, Kirstin Brashear, Emma Liller, Bethany Moorehead, Josh Ellixson, Matt White, Mark Bittinger, J.D. Simpson, and Cory DePalma. In the front row are Samantha Plummer, Ashley Harvey, Donald Liller, Sam Moorehead, Michael Gibbon, Brooke Baier, J.P. Baier, health department employee Kendra Todd, and Miranda Evans. Also pictured are several volunteers from the Bloomington VFD and Tri-towns Rescue Squad.

Vets Recall

Genevieve had already begun receiving newspaper clippings from across the country from strangers that reported on Dick's actions, which earned him the award of the Distinguished Service Cross for Valor, the Army's second-highest medal, and the Purple Heart. Even her son Mike, who was stationed with the Army in Germany at the time, informed her that he had seen Dick's exploits detailed in a magazine there. "I was pleased to see Dick was being recognized for doing his duty as a soldier, but what I really wanted was to have him home. I just had to keep my faith that he'd make it out OK," Genevieve said.

"One day the news finally came, when he wrote a letter to say he was coming home. He came into the Oakland train station after midnight, and we [five family members and one photographer from The Republican] were there to meet him. He gave us all a big hug, and I can't tell you how happy I was to see him.

Genevieve's concerns over what the effects of the war on her son were underscored by her observations of him after his return. "He was nervous when he came back, real nervous. He wouldn't talk about the war at all, but he always wanted to watch the evening news on TV when a story on Vietnam came on. He'd edge up in his chair, lean closer to the television and get real quiet, especially since Mike had gone over to Vietnam just as he had gotten back," the mother said.

"If something was happening on the news," Dick recalled, "she'd ask me 'Now where's that?' or 'Is that were Mike is?' I'd always say 'no,' even though I knew some of the attacks being described were directly on his post at Cu Chi. It was part of protecting her, like she did for us, because neither Mike nor myself ever let on about some of the worst things we saw over there — still, she always knew more than she let on. One Christmas, years later, she just up and said to me, 'You couldn't fool me, I knew when you were keeping things from me.'"

"If Dick or Mike had written in more detail about what they were going through it would have worried me a lot more," agreed Genevieve. "We all kind of protected each other. Still, things had gotten even tougher when Mike had gone off to serve in Germany while Dick was still in Vietnam, because then I was alone. The nights were lonesome, and in the winter everything was still. Even with the TV on it was still lonely.

"No sooner than when Dick got home, Mike was sent over there. My faith was still working for Mike, though; since Dick had gotten home safely I just knew Mike had to get home. When he finally did, I was just glad to have my boys back together again.

"My heart goes out to those mothers who didn't have their sons come home," Genevieve said softly. "Sometimes when I think back on those days, I wonder how I even got through it all — I think it was through faith."

Genevieve ended our conversation by saying that her favorite church hymn was "The Lighthouse." The words sum up her faith, and without her saying it, one can see that they sum up the role of any mother with a son or daughter far from home serving his or her country.

If it wasn't for that lighthouse, where would this ship be...
But my mind goes back to that stormy night when just in time I saw the light
The light from that old lighthouse that stands there on the shore.

Grants To Help

cousing division when conducting a background check on someone attempting to purchase a regulated firearm. Maryland law prohibits the respondent in an ex parte or protective order from purchasing a regulated firearm. When the order is in the MILES/NCIC systems, it will be revealed during the background check and the respondent will be prohibited from purchasing a firearm.

To fund the grant program, Governor Parris N. Glendening placed $200,000 in the state budget as a result of the successful passage of House Bill 101, sponsored by Delegate David Boschert during the 2000 Maryland General Assembly session.

A total of $1 million from the state's Ceasefire funding will be committed to the fund, as will $800,000 in funds which will be awarded by the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention.

Delegate Joan Cadden, chairperson of the Maryland House of Delegates Subcommittee on Public Safety, was instrumental in ensuring additional funds were made available. "I believe this funding is a giant step to a quicker response for domestic violence issues by improving technology in the sheriffs' offices and courts statewide," Cadden said.

Funds obtained must be used on items or services directly related to ex parte and protective order operations. Law enforcement officials can purchase equipment, such as computer software and pay for training or overtime for data entry or service personnel.

Those obtaining funds will coordinate their use of the money with the Task Force on Law Enforcement and Court's Maintenance of Ex parte and Protective Orders in order to ensure system compatibility and to assure the safety of family violence victims.

This task force, made up of representatives of each element of Maryland's criminal justice system that deals with protective orders and domestic family violence issues, has been working since last September to implement strategies that result in an efficient, coordinated process that provides the highest possible level of protection for the victims of family violence.

Grant applications will be due in the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention in one month. They will be reviewed by the Ceasefire Council and be issued by mid-September. A strict grant monitoring program has been established and will be coordinated by a project director in the Maryland State Police. Grant awards are for one year.

Oakland Man Sentenced For Resisting Arrest

An Oakland man was sentenced to a one-year jail term in Garrett County District Court for resisting arrest in the wake of a suspected assault last November.

Jeffrey Chandler Bell, 46, pleaded guilty to the resisting arrest charge and was handed the jail term by Judge Ralph M. Burnett, while additional charges of second degree assault and destruction of property were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office. The charges stemmed from an incident at an Oakland residence where Bell had allegedly become irate and grabbed a woman by the shoulders and destroyed a houseplant. He struggled with Garrett County sheriff's deputies as they tried to place handcuffs on his wrists.

In other district court news, another Oakland man was handed a three-year jail term after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana and driving while under the influence (DUI) of the drug.

Gerald Allen Coddington, 30, pleaded guilty to the charges before visiting judge Paul Stakem, who handed down a one-year sentence, suspending all but 90 days, levied a $1,110 fine, and imposed three years of supervised probation. Coddington was arrested by Maryland State Police troopers in March after a traffic stop along Maryland Highway in the Mtn. Lake Park area, initially undertaken in connection with an inoperative tag light, resulted in failed sobriety tests and the discovery of a bag of marijuana in his pocket. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Jack Alfred Kight Jr., 22, Mtn. Lake Park, was sentenced to 15 days in jail by visiting judge Timothy Finan after he pleaded guilty to resisting arrest and three counts of destruction of property. Sheriff's deputies arrested Kight after a March incident when he reportedly destroyed an antique gasoline pump, a Coke machine, and several mailboxes along Oakland Drive. He was handed a 60-day sentence with all but 15 days suspended, placed on two years' supervised probation, and ordered to pay $80 in restitution. An additional charge of disorderly conduct was not prosecuted.

Gary Michael Thomas, 48, Oakland, who had entered a "not guilty" plea to a second degree assault charge, was nonetheless convicted by Judge Burnett and handed a 30-day suspended sentence and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. Thomas's May arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he had allegedly assaulted two patrons of the Aquarium Lounge bar, located along Garrett Highway in Oakland. A second assault charge, as well as a charge of disorderly conduct, was not prosecuted.

William Michael Dillon, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to possession of the drug ecstasy, and was handed a 90-day suspended sentence, fined $405, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation by Judge Stakem. A March search of Dillon's residence by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force located an ecstasy tablet and a pipe bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue. Additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

Melissa Ann Anderson, 19, Kitzmiller, pleaded guilty to possession of drug paraphernalia and was fined $255 by Judge Burnett. Anderson's December arrest by sheriff's deputies came in the wake of an October incident during which she was observed with a metallic smoking pipe bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue.

Gary Robert Wade Jr., 20, Cameron, W.Va., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia and was handed a probation before judgment by Judge Stakem, who also imposed a $910 fine and an 18-month probation term after Wade also pleaded guilty to speeding, driving on a revoked license, failure to display a license, and willfully disobeying a police order.

Each charge stemmed from Wade's January arrest by state troopers after he was stopped for speeding along Interstate 68 near Grantsville. A search subsequent to the stop located marijuana in his vehicle.

Omjasisa Kentu, 21, Philadelphia, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a probation before judgment, while a second guilty plea to a driving while suspended charge resulted in a conviction. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $610, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation.

Kentu was arrested by state troopers in January after he was stopped for speeding along I-68 near Grantsville. An ensuing search uncovered marijuana in his pocket. Additional charges of speeding, driving on an expired license, and not wearing a seatbelt were not prosecuted.

Judge Stakem handed down a stet ruling in the case of Donna Rae Wheeler, who faced charges of resisting arrest and disorderly conduct that had been filed by sheriff's deputies at the time of her May arrest. Wheeler refused to cooperate with authorities when the driver of a vehicle she was riding in was stopped on suspicion of driving while intoxicated (DWI) along Youghiogheny Drive. She refused to cooperate with the investigating deputies, to the point of reportedly cursing them, refusing to produce identification, and physically resisting their efforts to place handcuffs on her.

Ernest Wayne Welch, 37, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling by Judge Burnett on a second degree assault charge. Welch had been arrested by state troopers after an April domestic altercation at the Grantsville residence of his estranged wife.

James Webster Reeves, 45, Friendsville, was handed a stet ruling on charges of felony theft, forgery, uttering, and writing bad checks which resulted from his March arrest by state troopers for endorsing a check on a closed account by signing someone else's name.

Shawn Louis Smith, 22, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling by Judge Finan on a charge of violating an ex parte order. His September arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he had reportedly made telephone calls to an ex-girlfriend in violation of an existing court order.

Steven Bhupendra Doctor, 39, Potomac, pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, fined $305, and placed on 18 months' supervised probation. The charges stemmed from Doctor's May arrest by sheriff's deputies following a traffic stop along Sand Flat Road. Additional charges of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession were not prosecuted.

Richard Bevan Orr, 21, Oakland, was not prosecuted on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, DWI, and several other traffic offenses related to an April traffic stop by sheriff's deputies.

Chad William Campbell, 21, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second degree assault charge that had stemmed from his April arrest by sheriff's deputies following a domestic altercation.

Carol Lee Murphy, 54, Oakland, was deemed not guilty of second degree assault after a hearing before Judge Finan.

Todd A. Whitacre, 31, Kitzmiller, was deemed not guilty of second degree assault by Judge Burnett.

DWIs/DUIs

A number of DWI/DUI hearings took place in district court recently, in addition to the afore-mentioned cases.

Ronald Edward Crosby, 38, Gormania, W.Va., who had pleaded guilty to DWI, attempting to elude police by failing to stop and driving with a revoked license, was handed a five-year jail sentence by Judge Burnett, who suspended half of that term. Crosby was also fined $1,600 and placed on three years of supervised probation.

Charles Melvin Culp Jr., 37, Oakland, was sentenced to 28 days in jail after being convicted of DWI, with credit for time already served. He was also fined $555 and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Jacob Edward Helbig, 23, McHenry, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $300, handed a 30-day sentence, of which all but two days were suspended, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 60 hours of community service.

Kenneth Wayne Pierce, 37, Salisbury, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $555, handed a 60-day suspended sentence, and placed on 18 months' supervised probation by Judge Stakem.

Jeffrey James Hamilton, 37, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $405, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation.

Terry Alvin Lewis, 25, Swanton, pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ by Judge Burnett, fined $355, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 60 hours of community service.

Lorne Clifford Brenneman, 26, Swanton, pleaded guilty to DWI and received

"Look at these large tomato plants! We must support those heavy branches so they don't break away from the vine and die. We need something strong to hold them up while the tomatoes ripen."

Nature teaches us about our Creator and how God has created us for His purpose. If we are to flourish and prosper, we must remain attached to our Creator. Diverging from His loving care, our life become fruitless and our spirit withers. In John 15:5, our Lord tells us..."I am the vine, you are the branches. He who abides in me, and I in him, he it is that bears much fruit, for apart from me you can do nothing."

How do we remain close to God? Certainly we come to many obstacles in our path. The storms of life can make our branches heavy, threatening to break them away from the vine.

Know that the Creator is always near to support us and to protect us from spiritual decay. Look to him as you worship each week in His House. Your spirit will flourish and your life will be ripe with love and satisfaction.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALLHOUSE

STRONG ENOUGH
July 30, 2000

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 6:10-24
Devotional Reading:
John 14:15-27.

The world in which we live is a dangerous place. Daily, it is filled with temptations, snares, and trials. Even in one day's time, how often we find our commitment to Christ being put to some kind of test?

In a book I use for my daily devotions there is a prayer, the Mozarabic Sacramentary, "Grant us, O Lord, to pass this day in gladness and peace, without stumbling and without stain, that, reaching the eventide victorious over all temptation, we may praise you, the eternal God, who dost govern all things and art blessed evermore; through Jesus Christ, thy Son, our Lord. Amen."

When I first came across this prayer, I thought it a bit overdramatic or pessimistic. It seemed that my normal days were not burdened with "stumbling" and "stain"—at least not on a daily basis. Over the years, however, I have become more realistic about the subtle pitfalls that lie in wait for us each day. When I go to bed, if I truly examine my day in the light of Christ's presence, I find that almost always I have done what I ought not to have done and not done what I should have done.

Living the Love

Sin is not just a matter of not living up to a set of rules, but of failing to live the love of Christ in every situation. I may keep all the major rules, but fail to truly follow Jesus in the myriad of everyday choices and challenges: the time I give to others, the ways in which I respond to them, my willingness to give my attention to those who want it, the way I drive my car, my attitude when I'm shopping—well, you get the idea. Every day of my life—and yours—is chock full of challenges to my Christian discipleship.

Life requires an enormous amount of spiritual strength. Ephesians recognizes that need: "...that you may be able to stand against the

A House Divided transcends movie cliches

Jennifer Beals and Sam Waterston

A woman of mixed race fights to keep her rightful inheritance in A House Divided, an unusually moving Showtime movie premiering Sunday, July 30.

Jennifer Beals (The Twilight of the Golds), Sam Waterston (Law & Order) and Lisa Gay Hamilton (The Practice) star in the fact-based drama, which also features Tim Daly (Wings). John Kent Harrison (What the Deaf Man Heard) is the director.

Based on a book by historian Kent Anderson Leslie, A House Divided relates the story of Amanda America Dickson (Beals), the daughter of wealthy antebelium plantation owner David Dickson (Waterston) and Julia (Hamilton), a slave he raped.

Because she is born with fair skin, Amanda is raised and educated by her devoted father and grandmother (Shirley Douglas) as if she were white. Amanda discovers the truth of her heritage only as she reaches adulthood during the Civil War, and she becomes estranged from her family.

Years later, Amanda learns that her father has died and left her his considerable fortune, but bitter white family members decide to contest the will. Amanda hires attorney Charles Dubose (Daly) to handle her case in a trial that also reconciles her with Julia.

It's a very human, character-driven story that is surprisingly free of ponderous "issues" and, blessedly, antebellum cliches. Beals says as soon as she read the Leslie book a few years ago, she realized the family drama of Amanda, David and Julia transcended its Civil War setting, and she pleaded her case to Showtime executive Jerry Offsay after she did The Twilight of the Golds for the premium channel.

"He told me Sam Waterston had bought the rights and pitched the movie to him, but said he was concerned that they had so many Civil War and slavery stories in development," Beals says. "I told him, 'This isn't just a story about slavery. It's really a story about the history of the United States and how we come to know who we are and where are the boundaries of love.' "

"Jennifer brings tremendous passion to the role of Amanda," director Harrison says. "Her own mixed heritage is something that she has been dealing with all her life, and this provided a chance to look at it."

While the movie was filmed in the Canadian province of Ontario, Beals headed south to the story's setting of Sparta in central Georgia, visiting the Dickson plantation where the real Amanda had lived 150 years earlier. She brought back samples of the red clay earth in the area to give production designer Susan Longmire a better sense of place, and taped many hours of conversation with Sparta locals.

As a result of that, A House Divided is one of those very rare Southern dramas in which the characters speak with particular but unstrained accents.

"I didn't realize how differently people sound (from one another in the South)," Beals muses. "I didn't think at first to take class into consideration, but there are certain accents in any region where privilege usually brings ease into the voice. It's a different sound. You can't just do 'a Southern accent'; it has to be very specific to your character."

Ultimately, it is that painstaking yet seemingly relaxed and unforced attention to detail that helps distinguish A House Divided in its consistently strong and flavorful performances, as well as its convincing set and costume designs. Don't miss it.

Lambert Named To Who's Who

Brett E. Lambert, a junior at Southern High School, has been included in the 1999-2000 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students. Only 5 percent of all high school students receive the annual award, and approximately 20,000 schools are represented across the nation.

Lambert is a member of the Southern Garrett marching band, jazz band, concert band, and pep band. His hobbies are fishing and hunting. He is the son of Gene and Joanne Lambert of Oakland.

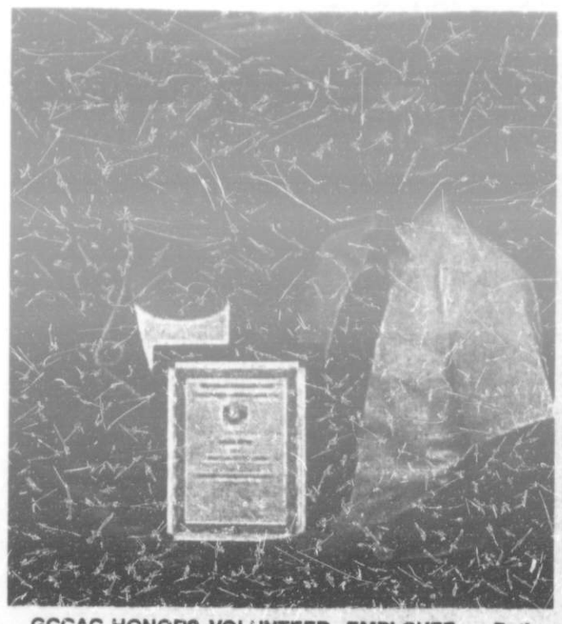

Literacy Council Members Attend All-Day Workshop

Line officers of the Literacy Council of Garrett County recently attended an eight-hour workshop presented by the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc. and the Governor's Office for Children, Youth, and Families. The council members met with other county agency personnel, both from Garrett and from surrounding jurisdictions.

The workshop highlights were focused on performance accountability, decision making, and budgeting of targeted funding. It was held at the Discovery Center, Deep Creek Lake State Park, on July 19. It was presented by the highly acclaimed Mark Freidman of the Fiscal Studies Institute.

The Literacy Council is a group of volunteers who provide one-on-one tutoring to those who cannot read or who read a below a normal level. The program is free of charge. Anyone who knows of citizens in need of tutoring or who would like to become a tutor may call 301-334-8606 for further information.

GCCAC HONORS VOLUNTEER, EMPLOYEE — Both a volunteer and an employee of the Garrett County Community Action Committee were honored recently at the annual conference of the Maryland Association of Community Action Agencies (MACAA). Debbie Wilt, pictured above with GCCAC president Duane Yoder, was named the Garrett County Community Action Committee's MACAA 2000 Volunteer of the Year. Lori S. Tichnell, pictured at right with Yoder, was named the GCCAC MACAA 2000 Employee of the Year. Both women received the honors at the May conference. Wilt is the president of the Head Start Policy Council and a member of the GCCAC board of directors. She is also a volunteer at the Accident Head Start Center. She lives in Accident with her husband Gary and their four children. "Volunteering is not work — it's a pleasure," Wilt said. Tichnell has been employed by the GCCAC since September 1990. She was hired as an accounting clerk and now holds the position of finance systems manager. The staff of GCCAC extended congratulations to both women for their achievements.

Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8483 Reports On Projects, Donations

The Lutheran Brotherhood Branch #8483 of western Maryland/West Virginia has published the following list of accomplishments for the year 1999. All members said they were "very grateful" for what the Lutheran Brotherhood does and has made available to them. "We appreciate and are grateful for the challenges offered to us, motivating us to volunteer service for others," said a representative for the group.

•Disaster Relief: Matching funds of $1,000 were designated to Tracey Stutzman Malloy, Cumberland, who developed common variable immunodeficiency disease. A total of $6,953 was raised.

•Branch Challenge Fund: Matching funds of $1,000 were allocated to the Grantsville PTA for playground equipment. Matching funds of $1,000 were designated for Clary Street Learning Center, Keyser, W.Va., for disability playground equipment.

•Respecteen Service Project: The youth group from the River Street Children's House, Elkins, W.Va., held a community cleanup to help the elderly in the area. $500 was allocated.

•Friends in Deed: Branch volunteers and Potomac Council #757 BSA made tables for their camp in Oldtown, using $400 for materials.

•Branch volunteers and the sewing group in Cumberland purchased $200 in materials and made bibs, lap robes, and quilts for Devlin Manor Nursing Home and Brandenburg Center.

•Accident Cultural and Historical Society and the brotherhood branch purchased ribbons and supplies for the IDEA art exhibit in Accident. $521.74 was the cost.

•Branch volunteers, along with community women in Friendsville, spent $200 for food and prepared breakfasts for area shut-ins for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

•Other donations by volunteers included:

$200 in food to the Union Rescue Mission, Cumberland.

$195 in food for the Interfaith Food Pantry, Cumberland.

$400 for paper and help in making Braille Bibles in Accident.

$200 in food to the Tri-Towns Food Pantry, Westernport.

$205 in food for the food pantry in Davis, W.Va.

$400 in materials and assistance to the community women in Bittinger, who were making quilts for the House of Hope and Lutheran World Action.

$400 in miscellaneous items needed at the Dove Center, a domestic violence program.

Branch #8483 includes 30 churches; 29 churches used congregational matching funds totaling $12,678. The branch has invested a total of $15,349.57 in projects this year.

On Dean's List

Five Garrett County students were among those named to the dean's list at Western Maryland College, Westminster, for outstanding academic achievement during the spring 2000 semester. Inclusion on the list requires a minimum 3.4 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, with high honors earned for a GPA of 3.6 to 3.79, and highest honors earned for a GPA of 3.8 to 4.0.

Receiving honors (GPA 3.4 to 3.59) were Brooke A. Brenneman, daughter of Donna Jo and Gerald Brenneman, Grantsville, and Sarah E. Fike, daughter of Suzie and Carl Fike, Mtn. Lake Park. Earning high honors were: Jennifer A. McKenzie, daughter of Judy and Olin McKenzie, Frostburg (Garrett County); Melanie G. Cook, daughter of Donna and John Cook, Oakland; and Michael J. Paesani, son of Darlene Tuel, Oakland, and Michael Paesani, Chesapeake, Ohio.

Western Maryland College is a private, independent college that emphasizes high standards and achievements in the liberal arts and sciences.

On Dean's List

Brandi Frazee has been named to the dean's list at Towson University. She is the daughter of Brenda Frazee, Friendsville, and the late Timothy Frazee. Frazee ended the spring semester with a GPA of 3.97 to earn this recognition. She is entering her third year of college, majoring in occupational therapy.

Throughout the school year, Frazee also participated in intramural sports, including indoor volleyball and softball. She is a class representative for the Student Occupational Therapy Association (S.O.T.A) at Towson and worked during the school year for the Housing and Residence Life Department. Frazee, who is a graduate of Northern High School, will enter her Level I internships this fall and begin to get experience in the occupational therapy field.

On Dean's List

Several Garrett County students were among the 265 named to the dean's list at Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland, for outstanding academic achievement during the spring 2000 semester. To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must earn at least a 3.8 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, and be enrolled in at least five semester hours of course work.

Local students named to the list were: Mabel K. Debastiani and Jill E. Speicher, both of Accident; Chelsea C. Brenneman, Grantsville; Erica L. Stahl and Nicholaus G. Stonesifer, both of Oakland; and Donald W. Taylor and Holly G. Wilson, both of Swanton.

DCL LION WENZEL EARNS MAJOR AWARD — The Melvin Jones Award, the highest award bestowed by the Lions Club International Foundation, was presented recently to Deep Creek Lions Club officer Tom Wenzel. The distinguished award, named after the founder of Lions International, which has been in existence since 1917, honors recipients "for acts of generosity, compassion, and concern for others." Wenzel was recognized for the many Lions Club public service programs he chairs, including the annual Blind Skiers program, which brings young students from the Maryland School for the Blind to Garrett County for a skiing vacation at the Wisp. Wenzel and his fellow Lions also inaugurated the Blind Campers program this month, which brings the school's youngsters to Deep Creek Lake State Park for a stay that includes outdoor camping, swimming, boating, fishing, cookouts, and storytelling around the campfire, all under the guidance of Lion volunteers. The Jones award was presented during the ceremony pictured above, as Lions district governor Margarito Ochoa, left, of Thurmont, and DCL Lions treasurer Jeff Nelson, center, present the plaque to Wenzel, a past president of the DCL Lions who currently serves as the club's third vice president.

Herrington Manor SP Joins "Clean Marina" Program

Herrington Manor State Park has joined forces with recreational boating facilities across the state with the signing of the state's "Clean Marina Pledge," the first step toward receiving official recognition as an environmentally responsible marina through the Department of Natural Resources' Maryland Clean Marina Initiative. Now in its second year, the clean marina initiative promotes the voluntary adoption of measures to reduce pollution from marinas, boatyards, yacht clubs, and recreational boats.

"Herrington Manor State Park's boat launch is striving to protect the resource that supports the recreational boating industry in Maryland — clean water," a DNR spokesperson said. "By signing the clean marina pledge, manager Steve Hamilton has committed to do his part to 'keep Maryland's waterways free of harmful chemicals, excess nutrients, and debris.'"

Marine facilities, such as public boat ramps, that are not true marinas can become a Clean Marina Partner by concentrating on two main areas: minimizing waste and educating customers about environmentally friendly boating practices. Full-service marinas, in contrast, can achieve full standing as certified Clean Marinas by implementing measures to control pollution associated with vessel maintenance and repair, petroleum storage and transfer, sewage disposal, solid, liquid, and hazardous wastes, and storm water runoff, as well as maintaining proper overall facilities management procedures.

Recognized Clean Marina partners may use the Clean Marina logo in advertising and on letterhead, and will be promoted in Clean Marina publications, exhibits, and on the program's web site. The goal of the Clean Marina program is to certify 25 percent of Maryland's 600 marinas as Clean Marinas by 2004; to date, 17 marinas have earned the certification. For more details on the Maryland Clean Marina initiative, or to order free pollution prevention materials for boaters, interested persons may call DNR toll-free in Maryland at 877-620-8DNR, ext. 8770, or consult the DNR boating web site atwww.dnr.state.md.us/boating.

Antiques by Ralph and Terry Kovel

The living room in every middle-class home of the 1930s featured a radio. A large cabinet in the William and Mary revival style or a pseudo-Deco style was kept at one end of the room and surrounded by chairs and a sofa. The family would gather around and listen to the latest shows. When television was introduced in the 1940s, the rich bought the tiny-screen sets, put a large magnifying glass in front of the screen and invited friends over to view the wondrous new invention. By the 1950s, the television became part of the furniture and was often hidden behind the doors of a special cabinet. Some sets were cased in large pieces of modern furniture. The massive set had a dominant presence in the room. The screens became larger and larger, and the cases were less important. Today, some of the newest sets are so thin that they can be hung on the wall like a picture. Collectors of electronic items want any that look different. Most TV sets looked like a box with a screen set in it. One set looked like a box with a screen perched in another box on top. A favorite style was a box with a set-in screen, standing on four thin, tapered, very '50s-looking legs. A 1970s set that looked like an astronaut's helmet was popular. But a few TVs featured strange geometric shapes and colors that were suited only to the most high-style rooms.

Pet Care
by Peter Edwards

A friend says his cat, Belle, has suddenly decided to use a corner in every room in the house as her litter box, instead of using the box itself.

A few questions of my friend elicited some clues as to why Belle doesn't tinkle where she used to.

• A recent renovation project changed Belle's litter box from a place where she enjoyed privacy to a more open spot. I suggested that my friend move the box to a more secluded area and see if that helps.

• My friend changed the litter from one that had no scent to one that does. It's possible that Belle might find the scented product irritating and, if so, she might be avoiding it.

• Belle could have a urinary problem. She may not be able to control her bladder long enough to get to her box and will use whatever corner (privacy again) is closest. Belle should have a complete checkup by her veterinarian.

• Belle's owner should be sure her litter is absolutely clean. Today's clumping formulas are deceptive. You may think the box is clean because you've removed urine clumps or feces. But the box still needs regular scrubbing with hot soapy water. Cats can smell what we don't see and will avoid a dirty box.

From the Saddle Bag: Ernie in Colorado says his brother adopted a feral cat he found in his garage and the cat is doing just fine, but he wants to know if he should let his children play with it.

Well, Ernie, feral cats never become tamed tabbies. The cat may be just fine with your brother, but he could be "spooked" by your kids and lash out to defend himself.

To Barbara in Ohio: Yes, some communities do stop motorists who have an unsecured animal in the car. In the case of an accident, the animal could be thrown forward and not be killed, but cause injuries to others as well.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL.

On July 19, 1799, during French Gen. Napoleon Bonaparte's Egyptian campaign, a group of his soldiers discovered a black basalt slab inscribed with ancient writing near the town of Rosetta, north of Alexandria. It became known as the "Rosetta Stone" and was inscribed by priests of Ptolemy V with an identical text in Egyptian hieroglyphic, demotic and Greek, thus holding the key to solving the riddle of hieroglyphics. ... On July 19, 1848, at the Wesleyan chapel in Seneca Falls, N.Y., the Woman's Rights Convention — the first of its kind ever held in the United States — commenced with almost 200 women in attendance. ... On July 23, 1903, The Ford Motor Company sold its first auto, a Model A that Henry Ford himself designed. ... On July 21, 1925, in Dayton, Tenn., the so-called "Monkey Trial" ended with John Thomas Scopes convicted of teaching evolution in violation of Tennessee law. Scopes was ordered to pay a fine of $100, the minimum that the law allowed. ... On July 22, 1933, just before midnight, American aviator Wiley Post completed the first solo around-the-world flight when he returned to Floyd Bennett Field in New York after seven days, 18 hours and 49 minutes. ... On July 21, 1949, by a vote of 82 to 13, the U.S. Senate authorized U.S. participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and allocated funds to be used toward the establishment of the military alliance. ... On July 17, 1955, Disneyland, Walt Disney's amusement metropolis, opened. It covered 160 acres of Anaheim, Calif., and cost $17 million to build. ... On July 18, 1969, shortly after leaving a party on Chappaquiddick Island, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts was driving with a companion when he took a sharp right turn off the paved road and plunged off the narrow Dike Bridge into a pond. Kennedy managed to escape the automobile, but his passenger, Mary Jo Kopechne, drowned. ... On July 20, 1976, on the seventh anniversary of the Apollo 11 lunar landing, the Viking 1 lander, an unmanned U.S. planetary probe, became the first spacecraft to successfully land on the surface of Mars.

GETTING DOWN AND DIRTY; MIDYEAR MAINTENANCE

Ready to dig out your flashlight and tool kit? Summer is the best season to make repairs around the house and to maintain larger items like appliances and central air units.

You've probably got a laundry list of maintenance issues that piled up over the winter and spring seasons. With July's hot, sunny days finally here, it's time to pull out the list. And while you're checking off the items, make sure you address some critical maintenance issues as well:

• Schedule annual inspections and cleaning of any items that are impractical to service during winter. This includes the septic tank, your home's heating system and the chimney and fireplace.

• Clean the inside of your toilet tank to remove mineral deposits and mold that can cause damage to the rubber seals and metal hinges.

• Air out musty furniture, bedding or camping gear by taking them outside on a dry, sunny day. Place them on the deck or driveway.

• Crawl under the house — and alongside it — and check for wood rot or other signs of decay.

• Climb onto the roof and check for damage to shingles, flashing and gutters. Summer is the best time to patch and seal the roof, especially since the cements and sealers used bond much better in the heat.

• Paint radiators, registers and heating-system baseboards now, so that the paint has time to cure before you turn the heater on in the fall. Flat black paint helps radiators heat areas more effectively.

• Clean the kitchen exhaust fan and filter, making sure to get grease deposits off of the fan and motor assembly.

Many of these items seem time-consuming. It's true that you'll spend at least a couple of weekends crawling, climbing and scrubbing around the house, but if you create a schedule that's not overly ambitious, and stick to it, you'll have your house ready for winter before the first leaf falls.

New Dimensions Now Accepting New Applicants

The New Dimensions Displaced Homemaker's Program of Garrett Community College is accepting new program participants for FY2001. New Dimensions is a displaced homemaker program designed to help the homemaker deal with immediate crisis, increase self-confidence, and develop the skills needed to support herself and her family.

To be eligible for the program, one must be a Maryland resident over 30 years of age; must have performed primarily as a homemaker; must have depended for support on the income of a family member and lost that income because of separation, divorce, death, or disability of that family member; must be underemployed, not gainfully employed, or would have difficulty finding employment; or must have depended on TCA and no longer be eligible for TCA, or must currently be receiving TCA and have been receiving TCA for 24 months or longer.

New Dimensions can offer program participants the following services: individual and career counseling; Career Path class; career development workshops; assistance in obtaining education and training; monthly support groups; and referral to community agencies.

New Dimensions can help program participants obtain a graduation equivalency diploma (GED); explore and develop vocational interests and expand job options; identify work needs, motivation, and marketable skills; investigate and evaluate occupations, training programs, and sources of financial aid to attend college; and review employment options.

New Dimensions can provide the following financial assistance for program participants who are income-eligible: tuition/books, transportation, emergency car repairs, work uniforms, and other emergency expenses.

For information about the program or to determine eligibility, persons may call 301-387-3071 Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or visit the New Horizons/New Dimensions office at GCC in Room 302. The project is funded by the Maryland Department of Human Resources, Community Services Administration.

Deep Creek Lake Listings: 1-800-544-2425 · Oakland & Garrett County: 301-334-1500

Auditions Set For Seascape At Our Town

Auditions have been announced for the Our Town Theatre production of Seascape, in the OTT basement from 7 to 10 p.m. next Tuesday, Aug. 1, and Wednesday, Aug. 2. If auditioners cannot make either of those times, they may schedule a special session.

Jane Avery, the director of the play, has expressed a need for four actors, two males and two females (all between the ages of 18 and 60). Seascape will be presented on September 14, 15, and 16 at 8 p.m. at the theatre. All tickets will be $5.00.

"Playwright Edward Albee won a Pulitzer Prize for Seascape back in the early '70s," noted Avery. The play has an absurdist's look at life — two humans converse on a sand dune with two sea lizards about the unfolding of their societies.

"I think it's a wonderful piece," said Avery. "It has humor and a lot of message; it could be considered experimental and it is a very different type of theatre for us."

Questions concerning auditions and/or the production should be addressed to Avery at 301-334-5640.

McNeill's Rangers To End Season

The original outdoor musical/drama, has been playing Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights at the Larenim Park Amphitheatre near Burlington, W.Va., and this weekend, July 27, 28, and 29, is the last chance to see the production.

McNeill's Rangers is based on the true story of John Hanson McNeill, his son Jesse, and their band of rebel rangers who wreaked havoc on the Union army during the last days of the Civil War.

Starring as John Hanson McNeill is Don Whetzel of Romney, W.Va., and "Hanse's" wife Jemima is portrayed by Patricia McConnell of Westernport.

Returning for their second year as the young and daring Jesse McNeill and his "intended," Sarah, are Jared Lancaster of Rawlings and Lauren Brandon of Kirby, W.Va.

Michael Hartman of Cumberland is the director of the production, and Lauren Brandon is the musical director.

Tickets are $10 for regular admission (advanced) and $8 for students and senior citizens. Tickets purchased at the gate on the nights of the performances will be $1 more. Thursday is Family Night, with tickets (all seats) $8.

Advance tickets may be purchased at Linda's Hallmark or the F&M Bank in Keyser, the Bank of Romney in Romney; SBV Liquidators (The Outlet) in Petersburg; and the Book Center in Cumberland.

For more information about either of the productions or group rate prices, interested persons may call 304-788-0458.

Grease! To Be Next Offering Of WVP Theatre

West Virginia Public Theatre (WVPT) will present the musical Grease! August 1-6 at the Creative Arts Center located on the Evansdale campus of WVU in Morgantown, W.Va.

Cristin Mortenson, playing Sandy, makes her debut at WVPT after performing this role with the Westchester Broadway Theatre. Mortenson has also starred in Andrew Lloyd Webber's The Phantom of the Opera and in Oklahoma! opposite Rue McClanahan from "The Golden Girls."

Christopher Lynn continues with the season at the WVPT as Danny Zuko, having previously performed the lead in She Loves Me. Lynn played Raoul in Andrew Lloyd Webber's The Phantom of the Opera in Switzerland and performed in the European tours of West Side Story, Sunset Boulevard, and Cabaret.

Performances of Grease! are scheduled for 8 p.m. August 1-6, with matinees on Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday at 2 p.m. Tickets are $22 for the general public; $21 for senior citizens, students, WVU faculty and staff; and $10 for youth 12 years and under.

Advance tickets may be purchased at the WVPT Box Office located at the Creative Arts Center or by calling the WVPT locally at 599-6785 or toll-free at 1-877-999-WVPT. Visa, MasterCard, and Discover are accepted.

GROUP TO PRESENT SOUTHERN GOSPEL MUSIC - The Brothers, a Southern Gospel music group from Front Royal, Va., will present a program Sunday, Aug. 6, at 6:30 p.m. in St. John's Lutheran Church, Addison, Pa. Formed in 1980, the quartet has performed in concert across the United States and at the White House. The public is invited to attend this musical event.

Dance Performance Scheduled At FSU

Frostburg State University's Summer Dance Retreat will present a performance of student compositions this Friday, July 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Dance Studio of FSU's Cordts Physical Education Center. The event is free and open to the public.

Dance legend Pearl Lang and her students at the retreat will be presenting a demonstration. Lang is an internationally esteemed dancer, choreographer, and teacher, according to Barry Fischer, dance instructor at FSU. She was the first dancer that Martha Graham allowed to perform Graham roles. Lang danced these roles from the Graham Repertory for 30 years to critical and audience acclaim. She was present when Graham created nine of her works, and she experienced the changes of technique required for each piece.

Lang formed her own dance theater in the 1950s, choreographing 56 works which are also performed by the Netherlands National Ballet, Boston Ballet, and the BatSheva Company in Israel.

For 13 years, Lang taught at Yale University School of Drama, the Juilliard School, and the Neighborhood Playhouse, She is a senior instructor in the Graham Technique and dance composition at the former Martha Graham School of Contemporary Dance in New York City.

Included among her many citations and awards are two Guggenheim honors for choreography, the Martha Graham Award for Performance in Choreography, and an Honorary Degree of Fine Arts from the Juilliard School in 1995.

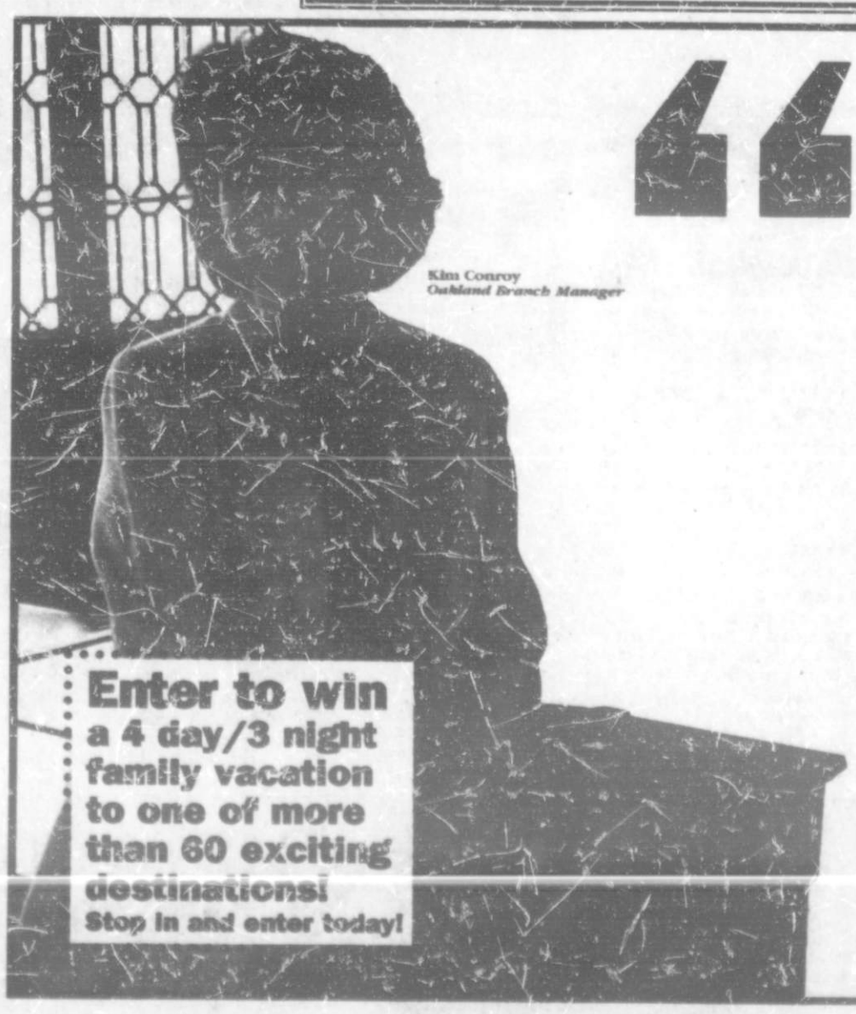

For more information on Friday's demonstration, persons may call FSU at 301-687-3163.

The storytelling will get under way at 8 p.m. Persons are invited to bring a story to share or just listen.

Fitness, Arts, Movement Camp Hosted By GCC

With the theme "Retro Groove 70s," the sixth annual Fitness, Arts, and Movement Camp held last week at Garrett Community College attracted 42 students who participated in various art forms and fitness activities throughout the week and the final production on Friday.

Sponsored by the Garrett Community College and Brenda's Body Shop, the camp was co-directed by Ann Wellham and Brenda Brosnihan. Instructors for the camp were: Margaret Quinn, movement arts; Brenda Brosnihan, production arts; Doug Gaither, visual arts; Deb Clatterbuck, swimming; Amy Sutton, arts and crafts; and Phil Chandler and Chris Moore, ropes course. The Garrett County Arts Council helped to fund the camp, and Ben Sincell, GCC professor of speech and theatre, did the lighting for the production.

Campers were divided into four groups, each led by two or three counselors. Counselors were: Andrea Savage and Leslie Gaither, group one, Smiley's; Leigh Ann Schefft and Jessica Crosco, group two, Flower Power; Evie White, Tasha Blackmon, and Brianne Meyers, group three, Peace; and Mike Fratz and Jessie Railey, group four, Yin Yang.

Highlights of the Retro Groove production were the appearance of the USA Varsity Sportaerobic Champions Amanda Bell, Jessie Railey, and Heather Henline, and the Varsity USA Champion Marlana Beitzel.

Because of the success of the first six camps, dates have already been set for next year's camp, according to Wellham. The 2001 Fitness, Arts, and Movement Camp will be held on the GCC campus July 9-13. Anyone desiring further information may call Wellham at 301-387-3052.

PASSING ON A MUSICAL HERITAGE - Fiddlers, pickers, and strummers, reared in the traditions of stringed instruments and mountain music, shared their gifts of melody and harmony as they gathered in informal groups on the farmland and in the 19th century barn of Puzzley Run Folklife Center, Grantsville, last weekend. The was the second annual bluegrass festival held at the center to provide area musicians the opportunity to demonstrate their skill and carry on the tradition of the old-time music. Those who came to watch and listen joined in on familiar gospel songs and hummed along to foot-tapping tunes. Whether they were seated on the grass in the shade of an ancient locust tree, leaning against the split rail fence, or tucking into a slice of peach pie while listening to music in barn, those attending this event spoke of "enjoying both the bluegrass and the gospel music." Others mentioned the "beautiful country setting," the "clean atmosphere," and the "many great people." Many musicians at the festival, such as those pictured here, had never played together or even met each other before, yet easily they blended instrument and voice in traditional spirited melodies.

CAMP COUNSELORS - The sixth annual Fitness, Arts, and Movement Camp was held last week at Garrett Community College and attended by 42 area young people. The staff provided instruction and opportunities in movement arts, production arts, visual arts, swimming, arts and crafts, and rope instruction. Counselors at the camp are pictured above. In the front row, from left, are: Brenda Brosnihan, co-director; Jessie Railey, and Andrea Savage. In the second row are: Amy Sutton, Mike Fratz, Tasha Blackmon, Leigh Ann Schefft, and Brianne Meyers. In the back row are: Doug Gaither; Ann Wellham, co-director; and Jessica Crosco. Not present for the photo was Evie White. See story for details.

SWANTON

OTTERBEIN UM CHURCH

The United Methodist Women served a dinner for Habitat for Humanity workers on Tuesday evening at the Swanton Community Center. Rev. Ball, pastor of Otterbein, joined the 43 workers for the dinner.

Those from Otterbein who attended the Brotherhood breakfast in Grantsville last Saturday morning were Richard Gerlach, Orval Teets, Dave Coleman, Bennie Beckman, and Brian and David Schofield.

Day Camp Agape will begin Monday, July 31, and continue each day through August 4. Information and registration forms may be obtained from the director, Linda Fleming, at 301-387-6118. Camp begins each day at 9:15 a.m., and ends at 2:30 p.m.

Carl Lee, lay speaker, spoke at the 11 a.m. worship service last Sunday. Rev. Ball and his wife Maxine were attending a family reunion.

PERSONALS

Orval Teets attended the Retired Railroaders' breakfast at the Shrine Club in Cumberland last Thursday.

Mary Louise, David, and Holly Wilson visited Addy Wilson in Graham, N.C. Addy had moved from Reidsville, N.C., recently.

Visitors of Mareva and Orval Teets recently were Caroline and Dan Hutson on Thursday, Fannie and Bob Rizer on Friday evening, and Freda and Glen Teets and Linda and John Fleming on Saturday.

Josh Teets and his brother Matthew visited their grandparents over the weekend. Josh returned home to Chesapeake, Va., Monday evening, but Matthew will be spending another week here.

Ellida Schofield and Mary McKennett of Frederick were weekend guests of Mary June Harvey.

Mary June Harvey was a guest of her daughter, Sandy Schofield, for a birthday breakfast at a local restaurant. Mary McKennett and Ellida Schofield accompanied them.

Linda Fleming, and April and Janet Tichnell visited Chris and Ellen Riley last Wednesday in Mt. Airy.

University Of Maryland Urban Forestry Curriculum Begins

Nearly eight out of 10 Maryland residents live in urban settings. A growing percentage of these individuals recognize the importance of urban forests, which cut energy needs through the shade they provide, reduce runoff, provide wildlife habitat and enhance property values. With this recognition comes an increased demand for trained individuals to manage urban forest ecosystems.

The University of Maryland is addressing the demand with the addition of an urban forestry concentration to the Natural Resource Sciences undergraduate program in its Department of Natural Resource Sciences and Landscape Architecture. Beginning this fall students in the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources can begin taking courses leading to a bachelor of science degree with a concentration in urban forestry. This program will complement the thriving urban forestry program of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service, which has been a national leader in the development of efforts to protect trees in urban settings.

The new urban forestry curriculum meets the demand for trained tree care professionals in an increasingly urban state, as well as the entire Mid-Atlantic region. Its development was spearheaded by an Urban Forestry Steering Committee composed of University of Maryland faculty and representatives of public agencies and private tree care companies.

"It was a unique circumstance to be approached by forestry leaders and potential forestry employers with a plan to meet an educational need in the state by adding four core forestry courses to other existing courses essential to the urban forestry curriculum," said Dr. Thomas A. Fretz, dean of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

State Forester Jim Mallow expressed pleasure that a state-based educational institution will be involved in essential forestry education. "The addition of an urban forestry program at the University of Maryland goes a long way toward protecting and maintaining Maryland's trees for the future," he said.

For more information about the urban forestry curriculum, interested persons may contact Dr. Joe Sullivan, assistant professor, Natural Resource Sciences and Landscape Architecture, by calling him at 301-405-1626, js128@umail.umd.edu, or Kathy Hunt, administrative assistant, Natural Resource Sciences and Landscape Architecture, 3013-405-4355, kh26@umail.umd. Details about the DNR Forest Service urban forestry program can be obtained from Jim Mallow at 410-260-8501.

Senate Votes To Repeal "Death Tax"

Farm Bureau's long-sought goal of repealing the federal death tax moved closer to reality last week as the Senate approved legislation, 59-39, to repeal the tax by 2010.

The measure, which passed the House last month, totally eliminates death taxes by 2010. At that time, $5.6 million of assets per family would retain stepped-up basis, which would protect families from high capital gains taxes.

American Farm Bureau Federation President Bob Stallman said the organization is "very pleased" with Congress's action. He called the administration's veto threats "unfortunate and unwise" and he urged President Clinton to sign the measure.

Hay Cutting Is Delayed By Wet Weather

Cutting of hay has been delayed compared to last year and the five-year average because of the wet weather this summer, said Ray Garibay, state statistician with the Maryland Ag Statistics Service. Clover and other hay, 2nd cutting, is 62% cut, 15 points lower than last year. Clover and other hay, 3rd cutting, is 14% cut, 20 points lower than last year and 3 points lower than the five-year average. Alfalfa, 2nd cutting, is 84% cut, 15 points below last year and 4 points below the five-year average. Alfalfa, 3rd cutting, is 26% cut, 3 points below last year, but 6 points above the five-year average.

Cucumbers are 52% harvested, 6 points higher than last year and 8 points higher than the five-year average. Potatoes are 72% harvested, 18 points higher than last year and 25 points higher than the five-year average. Snap beans are 36% harvested, 2 points lower than last year and 3 points lower than the five-year average.

Topsoil moisture is 2% short, 81% adequate, and 17% surplus. Subsoil moisture is 1% very short, 3% short, 91% adequate, and 5% surplus. Month-to-date precipitation ranged from 2 inches in Carroll to 6.5 inches in Talbot County. High temperatures for the past week ranged from 78 degrees on Wednesday to 89 degrees on Tuesday.

Crop progress for the week which ended July 22, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows.

Crop harvesting: cantaloupe 29, 20, 31, 34; cucumbers 52, 45, 46, 44; lima beans 25, 20, 9, 6; peaches 18, 15, 21, 18; potatoes 72, 51, 54, 47; snapbeans 36, 30, 38, 39; sweet corn 33, 22, 35, 31; tomatoes 21, 13, 26, 20; watermelons 13, 9, 15, 16.

Crop progress: field corn, silked 62, 51, 65, 55; sorghum, headed 25, 12, 17, 13; soybeans, bloomed 29, 20, 37, 26; soybeans, setting pods 12, 9, 14, 8.

Hay harvested: other hay, 2nd cutting 62, 53, 77, 62; other hay, 3rd cutting 14, 7, 34, 17; alfalfa, 2nd cutting 84, 75, 93, 88; alfalfa, 3rd cutting 26, 17, 29, 20.

Crop conditions for the week which ended July 22, listing the crop and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, in that order, are: corn 1, 1, 7, 50, 41; range and pasture 1, 2, 8, 69, 20; sorghum 0, 5, 5, 48, 42; soybeans 2, 2, 12, 47, 37.

Maryland Crop Production Increase Expected

Based on the July yield survey for conditions around July 1, Maryland farmers are expecting a winter wheat yield of 63 bushels per acre, up 3 bushels from the 1999 winter wheat yield, according to the National Agricultural Statistics Service. Harvested acreage is up 5,000 acres from last year. This year's production is up by 915,000 bushels because of the increased acreage and improved yield. According to the Maryland Crop Progress Report, as of July 10, 80% of the winter wheat acreage had been harvested, which is 23% higher than the five-year average at this time.

For barley, yield is forecast at 84 bushels per acre, an increase of 5% over last year's final estimate of 80 bushels per acre. Barley harvested acreage for this year indicated no change from last year's level. However, this year's production level of 4.2 million bushels is nearly 5% more than the final 1999 production level of 4.0 million bushels. From the current Maryland Crop Progress Report, barley harvest is virtually complete.

United States winter wheat production is forecast at 1.59 billion bushels. This is down 2% from last month and down 7% from 1999. The U.S. yield is now forecast at 44.9 bushels per acre, down 1.8 bushels from last month. States declining from June are: Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Texas, and Wyoming.

Summer potato production is forecast to decline from 18.9 million to 18.1 million pounds in 2000. States with higher expected production of summer potatoes this year include: Alabama, Colorado, Delaware, and Virginia. Fall potato production has not yet been estimated, but harvested acreage is expected to increase from 1.17 million acres in 1999 to 1.20 million this year, with Idaho, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Washington all increasing.

June Milk Production Up 2.8%

The National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS), Agricultural Statistics Board, U.S. Department of Agriculture released the June milk production figures on July 17.

Milk production in 20 major states surveyed during June totaled 12.1 billion pounds, up 2.8 percent from production in these same states in June 1999. The May revision represented a decrease of 0.2 percent, or 28 million pounds, from last month's preliminary production estimate.

Production per cow in the 20 major states averaged 1,546 pounds for June, 30 pounds above June 1999.

The number of cows on farms in the 20 major states was 7.81 million head, 65,000 head more than June 1999 and 10,000 head more than May 2000.

April-June milk production was up 2.6 percent across the United States.

The quarterly production of milk for the U.S. was 43.1 billion pounds, 2.6 percent above the April-June period last year. The average number of milk cows in the U.S. during the April-June quarter was 9.21 million head, 58,000 head more than the same period last year.

Dairy Product Prices Highlighted

The National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS), Agricultural Statistics Board, U.S. Department of Agriculture has released dairy product price highlights for the past week.

Cheddar cheese prices received for US 40-pound blocks averaged $1.18 per pound for the week ending July 8. The price per pound increased 3.3 cents from the previous week. The price for US 500-pound barrels adjusted to 39 percent moisture averaged $1.20 per pound, up 2.1 cents from the previous week.

Butter prices received for 25-kilogram and 68-pound boxes meeting USDA Grade AA standards averaged $1.17 per pound for the week ending July 8. The U.S. price per pound increased 0.2 cents from the previous week.

Nonfat dry milk prices received for bag, tote and tanker sales meeting USDA Extra Grade or USPH Grade A standards averaged $1.01 per pound for the week ending July 8. The U.S. price per pound decreased 0.4 cents from the previous week.

Dry whey prices received for bag, tote and tanker sales meeting USDA Extra Grade standards averaged 18.9 cents per pound for the week ending July 8. The U.S. price per pound increased 0.4 cents from the previous week.

4-H BROILER SHOW RESULTS - Sixteen Garrett County youth recently participated in the annual 4-H/FFA Broiler Show at the Garrett County Extension Office. Southern States Oakland Cooperative Inc. donated the chicks to the participants, who raised them for eight weeks. The dressed bird samples were judged on several factors, including feed-to-meat conversion ratios, weight, and appearance. Participants had to present two dressed bird samples and turn in a record sheet to complete the project. The participants, pictured above are: (front row, left to right) Shaun Adams, Grantsville 4-H, 5th place Junior; Rachel Skipper, Red House 4-H, 1st place Junior; and Henry Smearman, Snowy Creek 4-H, 3rd place Junior. Home Vegetable Gardening Tips

Perpetual spinach, mountain orach and Swiss chard are good heat-tolerant salad greens for Maryland. "Grand Rapids," "Red Sails," "Deer Tongue," "Slobolt," "Bronze Arrowhead," and all oak-leaf type lettuces are some of the heat-tolerant looseleaf lettuce varieties that can be sown now. Keep them fertilized and watered and covered with a shade cloth or grow them in containers in the shade if possible.

Seed for fall crops of broccoli and cauliflower should be sown in containers by the 4th week in July. Late crops of squash, beans and cucumbers can be direct sown through the end of July.

A large suppiy of rainfall coupled with an overabundance of nitrogen from manure or fertilizer has caused many tomato plants to grow rampantly with few fruits on the lower half of the plant. Do not fertilize healthy tomato plants that have large, dark green leaves. Lop off the tops of tomato plants that grow out of bounds. They will produce laterals branches and fruit later in the summer.

Blossom-end rot of tomato, pepper, and squash may be observed now. The bottom end of the fruit bottoms becomes brown and rotted. Promptly remove any fruits that have blossom-end rot or are badly malformed. The disease is caused by a lack of calcium in developing fruits and is brought on by dry conditions. Water your plants deeply and regularly and keep them mulched. Tomato plants may need 1-2 gallons of water each at least twice a week during droughty periods.

Early blight of tomatoes is appearing in many gardens. Small, irregular brown lesions with a yellow halo develop on lower leaves. The spots have a bulls-eye pattern. They will enlarge and entire leaves will turn yellow and then die. Defoliation can then lead to sunscald of tomato fruits. Remove badly infected lower leaves, keep a thick organic mulch around plants and avoid overhead watering. Applications of tri-basic copper or chlorothalonil will slow down severe infections.

Are your cucumber vines beginning to wilt and die? They are infected with bacterial wilt, a fatal disease transmitted by cucumber beetles to cucumber and muskmelon plants. Cucumber beetles are either yellow with 11 black dots or yellow with 3 black stripes. They have a wide host range and begin to feed on all plant parts of all members of the cucumber family as soon as plants emerge. There is no cure for the disease. Pull up and dispose of vines. Controlling this pest early in the season is very important. Row covers can be used to cover plants to deter cucumber beetles or you can apply a labeled insecticide. Remove row covers when cucumber family plants begin to bloom. "County Fair" is an excellent hybrid variety with in-bred resistance to bacterial wilt disease.

Squash vine borers are hatching out and boring into squash and pumpkin vines. Monitor plants for signs of wilting and entrance holes on lower stems. You may see sawdust-like grass around the hole. Stems may contain more than one larva. They can feed inside the stems for up to 2 weeks. Here's the easiest and surest method of control: cut a slit above the hole with a razor, remove the 1-inch-long white larva with a brown head, and mound up soil around the wound.

The adults, larvae and eggs of the Mexican bean beetle can be handpicked. The adults have 16 spots, coppery-colored wing covers and resemble ladybird beetles. The adults and larvae skeletonize bean leaves. A parasitic wasp, known as Pediobius faveolatus, is an excellent biological control agent for the Mexican bean beetle. You can actually purchase these beneficial insects from the Maryland Department of Agriculture and release them into your garden.

Biological Control of the Corn Earworm:

The corn earworm, Helicoverpa zea, is a serious pest of field crops and vegetables in Maryland. In late summer, adult earworm moths shift their attention from fields of drying corn and start laying eggs in soybeans, where they can cause serious economic losses. The pupal stage of corn earworm goes virtually unchallenged by natural enemies in this area. The Maryland Department of Agriculture is attempting to introduce a new parasite, ichneumon promissorius, an exotic species that attacks earworm pupae. This parasite is from Australia, where it parasitizes over 20% of a closely related species of earworm. Over 3000 I. promissorius were raised and released in Maryland in 1999. More releases are scheduled for 2000. We will also survey for overwintering parasites to see if establishment has begun to occur. This project is funded in part by the Maryland Soybean Board and the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board.

Shopping for Hay Prices?

The Internet web provides excellent up-to-date information on hay prices across the country. The address is http://www.ams.usda.gov/lsg/mncs/ls-hay.htm. Also another good address for a wide selection of agriculture items is http://www.agnr.edu/users/MontCty/links.htm.

NASS Reports On Chicken & Egg Production

Maryland laying flocks produced 72 million eggs during May 2000, of which 65 million were table eggs and 7 million were hatching eggs, according to a report released by the National Agricultural Statistics Service. The average rate of lay was 70.5%. The average number of layers on hand during May 2000 was 3,295,000. On June 1, 10% of the layers in Maryland were being molted and 32.5% of all layers had been through a molt.

U.S. egg production totaled 7.11 billion during May 2000, up 2% from the 6.94 billion produced in 1999. Production included 5.97 billion table eggs and 1.14 billion hatching eggs, of which 1.07 billion were broiler-type and 68 million were egg-type. The total number of layers during May averaged 327 million, up 2% from the total average number of layers during May 1999. May egg production per 100 layers was 2,176 eggs, up slightly from 2,166 eggs in May 1999. Egg-type chicks hatched during May totaled 40.9 million, up slightly from May 1999.

Eggs in incubators totaled 33.4 million on June 1, down 11% from a year ago. The May 2000 hatch of broiler-type chicks, at 775 million, was up 1% from May of the previous year. There were 639 million eggs in incubators on June 1, up slightly from a year earlier. Leading breeders placed 7.44 million broiler-type pullet chicks for future domestic hatchery supply flocks during May, down 4% from May 1999.

Glotfelty Named Among Who's Who

Taylor J. Glotfelty, a recent graduate of Northern High School, has again been recommended to receive honorary award recognition, and to have his biography published in the 1999-2000 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Approximately 20,000 schools are represented by their outstanding students, and only ½ of 1% of all high school students are honored for two or more years. Glotfelty has been commended for his consistent commitment to excellence, making him eligible for scholarships and national recognition through complimentary book distribution to approximately 15,000 colleges, libraries, high schools, and youth groups. Who's Who is the only student recognition program favorably reviewed by the American Library Association.

Glotfelty participated in the ECAP (Early College Admissions Program) at Garrett Community College while completing his senior year at Northern High School, acquiring college sophomore status. He has been a past honor roll student, and while at Northern was a member of both the Science Club and Ski Club, and assisted with performances of the Northern High School Band. He has been an active member of Accident Zion Lutheran Church and the Youth Group. He is a ski instructor at Wisp Resort in McHenry, and is employed during the summer months at S&H Marina on Deep Creek Lake. He plans to attend Garrett Community College another year before enrolling in the Engineering Department at West Virginia University in Morgantown.

Glotfelty resides along Rock Lodge Road with his parents, Tom and Cheryl Glotfelty, and his brother Tim. He is a grandson of Jim and Donna Glotfelty, and Herbert and Mary Harman, all of near Accident.

CUB SCOUTS CAMP OUT — Cub Scout Pack 31 took its annual trip recently, as the Cubs spent three days camping at the Seneca Shadows Campground, located near Seneca Rocks, W.Va., in the heart of the Monongahela National Forest. A variety of educational and entertaining activities kept the Scouts hopping throughout the weekend, including performances of Appalachian folk music, campfire singalongs, a hike to the north peak of Seneca Rocks, a softball game and a picnic lunch, a program titled "Creek Livin'" presented by West Virginia University intern Doug Downs, swimming, a hymn sing, and a tour of Seneca Caverns. Pictured from the left are, in the first row, guest Joshua Bernard, Cub Scouts Matthew Bernard, Nick Mellinger, Brian Berghiem, William Goldsborough, Matthew Broadwater, Devin Callis, Jeff Rush, Andrew Dale, Andrew Sweltzer, Jeramy Sharpless, Nathaniel Walkling, Brennon Pritt, Nick Sharps, and Tyler Ewing. In the second row are guests and parent chaperone Mike Bernard, Jim Walkling, Elaine Bernard, Becky and Randy Mellinger, Pamela Goldsborough, John Sharpless, Fred Callis, Audrey Dale, Julianna Sharpless, Ethan and Tina Walkling, Dan Broadwater, Wendy Sweltzer, Tammy Ewing, Andrea Dale, Jeff Rush, Stefanie, Dakota, and Mike Pritts, and Dan Ewing. Not pictured is Pack 31 member Dylan Paugh. The pack's next summer activity will be a stargazing event at Rocky Gap Manor State Park. Boys in grades 1-5 interested in participating in that program or in joining the Cub Scouts may contact Jim Walkling at 301-334-5295.

Mountain Lake Park Observer

by Dan Whittelsey

Several weeks ago I reported on the Town Council elections, and how particularly poor the turnout was.

You will remember that Mr. DiCarlo almost lost his seat to Mr. Michaels. Mr DiCarlo has a long record of doing things for the community and would have been an unfortunate loss. The close call was because of the low voter turnout. While Mr. Michaels might make an exciting newcomer to the council, he has not shown his interests or his abilities for the job. Only six votes decided the difference, or to put it another way, only three people had to switch from one candidate to another to force a run-off.

That is as much as I am going to say about why you should vote. This column does not intend to be a lesson in civics. All of you readers deserve better than that. You know why you should vote, and why you didn't. So what can be done about it?

VOTER REGISTRATION DRIVE

The town council and the mayor should determine an appropriate week to hold such a drive. During the week, cards of all non-registered voters should be made up. Calls should be made to these voters by telephone or direct solicitation. They should be encouraged to vote. Mailers should be sent out advising residents when, where, and how they can register. The registration drive should be advertized. A number of volunteers will be needed.

It may not be proper for the town to hold such a drive. In that case a local citizens' group could be organized to hold and finance the activity.

The point is to rally the community behind such an effort and have a more democratic process.

DNR Seeks Adult Volunteers To Visit Classrooms

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources is recruiting adult volunteers for its Teaching Environmental Awareness in Maryland (TEAM) program. TEAM volunteers, charged with teaching children how the health of the Chesapeake Bay can be restored, have visited more than 160 classrooms in schools across Maryland since 1998.

TEAM was created in response to increasing requests by teachers asking DNR to provide environmental programs to students. The free program offers three different classroom presentations, including a watershed program about the Chesapeake Bay, its inhabitants and nonpoint source pollution. The other two programs focus on horseshoe crabs, including their life history and anatomy, followed by an advanced program where students study the effects of humans on the horseshoe crab populations, their uses, and management of the fishery. All programs feature hands-on activities.

DNR provides a comprehensive, hands-on training on bay issues. The training begins in September at the Patuxent National Wildlife Visitors Center in Laurel, and continues through December. Certain training sessions are mandatory, others are flexible. Field work will be a part of training. Volunteers will complete training before the holiday season and enter classrooms beginning mid-January 2001.

Volunteers should be outgoing, with a strong desire to protect natural resources and the bay. No prior teaching experience is necessary. For more information and an application, interested persons may contact Matthew Chasse at 410-260-8828 or by e-mail at mchasse@dnr.state.md.us. Information and applications also are available online at www.dnr.state.md.us/education/teamdnr.

GRANTSVILLE

W.O.W. MEETS

The Woodmen of the World Lodge 41, Grantsville, met on July 10 at the Woodmen Hall for a family picnic.

The meeting opened with prayer, followed by the meal and the business meeting.

James Guthrie opened the meeting, followed by the pledge to the flag and business reports.

Four flags were recently presented to the Grantsville Cemetery, the town council of Grantsville, the park, and the Crespuw Memorial.

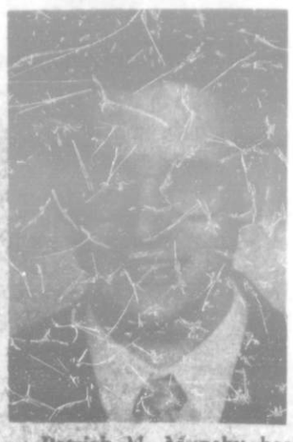

It was also noted that any organization in need of an American flag may contact Jack of the Woodmen members.

Plans were discussed for the banquet in October, youth camp, senior camp in October, and upcoming meeting agenda.

It was noted that James and Lillian Guthrie, J. Mike Walker, and Janie Pope attended the event for the former state manager, Billy Groce and wife Kathy, at the home of field representative Burton Lytle and his wife.

DO YOU KNOW THE WARNING SIGNS OF A STROKE?

Knowing the warning signs of a stroke, reacting quickly, and getting to a dedicated stroke center are proven ways to improve your chances of recovery from a stroke.

Stroke is the nation's number one cause of serious adult disability and the third leading cause of death. That's why we created The Stroke Center at West Virginia University—a center devoted to the prevention and state-of-the-art treatment of strokes.

SYMPTOMS OF STROKE

SUDDEN WEAKNESS OR NUMBNESS ON ONE SIDE

SUDDEN LOSS OR DIMMING OF VISION

LOSS OF SPEECH OR TROUBLE TALKING

TROUBLE UNDERSTANDING SPEECH

SUDDEN SEVERE HEADACHE

UNEXPLAINED DIZZINESS OR SUDDEN FALLS

We have assembled a dedicated team of physicians, 24-hour emergency services, and the latest drugs and committed to improving the quality of stroke patients' lives.

Fast response is critical—try to get to a stroke center within three hours of the onset of symptoms.

It could determine how you spend the rest of your life.

OAKLAND HIGH CLASS OF 1938 GATHERS — Members of Oakland High School's class of 1938 marked their 62nd year anniversary with a class reunion recently at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. The 21 classmates who gathered with family and friends shared treasured memories and renewed old friendships, and noted the fact that to this point the class has lost only 28 of 89 graduates. Seated in the first row are, from the left, Betty Thrasher, Helen Henline, Thea Crowe, Helen Winters, Mary June Harvey, Lucille Shorb, Helen Fike, Laura S. Forman, Stella Shaffer, Delle Gross, and Louise White. Standing are Fred Tichnell, Dwight Shank, Ervin Smith, Bob Henline, Chester Mosser, Ken Martin, John Sharps, Ross Crowe, and Tom Stevenson. The class of 1938 is already making plans for next year's reunion, which will take place on June 16, 2001, at the same location, although the time is being changed to noon.

GRANTSVILLE
by Aaron L. Wilhelm, reporter

Members of the Grantsville 4-H Club decided during the July 3 meeting to leave for the trip to Kennywood on July 11 at 8 a.m. from Grantsville Elementary School. The club discussed making improvements to the frequently used food booth, and also decided to buy a new microwave.

A possible fall trip to Washington, D.C., was also discussed. Because of the success of the previous fund-raiser at the Friendsville overlook during the July 4th weekend, the club discussed continuing participation at a later date.

No demonstrations were given this month; however, demonstrations will be given next month by Mark Franklin, Sara Green, and Autumn Rizer.

BITTINGER
by Darryl Glotfelty reporter

The Bittinger 4-H Club has been very busy planning summer activities and working on livestock projects.

Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty completed their broiler project, which started April 14 and ended June 13 with the broiler show. At the show each participant turned in a project book and presented two dressed chickens. The books and bird samples were judged.

Darryl won second place and Elliot won fourth place in the junior category.

The members visited Goodwill Nursing Home on June 30 to entertain them with songs and smiles. At the May meeting, Linda Towers of Chestnut Ridge Green House helped club president Robbie Glotfelty make a large planter of flowers to present to the residents of Goodwill Nursing Home. The planter has thrived, and the club members said they appreciate Linda's demonstration.

On May 20, Blakely and Robbie Glotfelty, Jody Brenneman, Andrew Hady, Claire Sussman, and Matthew Bass cleaned trash from Route 495, starting at Brenneman's Store, for Adopt-A-Highway. Adult supervisors were Rodney Glotfelty, Vicki Teets, and Don Sealing.

The Hershey Park trip was on July 7. Members and parents were be treated to a bus trip to the amusement park. Each member was allowed to invite a friend. Everyone was said to be enthusiastic except Darryl's mother, who is afraid of roller coasters.

All members with livestock projects reported to the weigh-in at the fairgrounds on June 10.

This year camp Algawa was held June 25-29. Matthew, Emma, and Scott Bass, Meredith, Claire, and Caity Sussman, Darryl, Elliot, Robbie, and Blakely Glotfelty attended from the Bittinger 4-H Club. Camp was reported to be "a blast." Activities included crafts, hiking, swimming, canoeing, marksmanship, cabin skits, songs, competitions, and the closing campfire. Old friendships were renewed and many e-mail addresses were exchanged before the group departed Thursday night.

This month the club will be busy with various beef, swine, poultry, lamb, and garden projects. And, of course, the fair booth committee will meet and begin work.

This summer 4-H members are taking on a lot of responsibilities, working on family farms and gardens as well as in the community.

SNOWY CREEK
by Stacy Glover

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club held its annual campfire meeting on July 13, at the residence of Nancy House. There were 23 members, 20 adults, and two guests present.

Ann Sherrard gave a talk about the benefits of 4-H. Nancy House was our campfire storyteller. The members that will be showing animals at the fair attended weigh-in on June 9 and 10. Members who attended the Broiler Show on June 13 were: Stacey Glover, Sr. Div., 1st Grand Champion, David Smearman, Int. Div., 1st, and Henry Smearman, Jr. Div., 3rd.

The Adopt-A-Highway crew cleaned up on June 16. The club had a fundraiser by selling refreshments at the Youghiogheny Overlook on June 17 & 18.

Congratulations to Randi Rodehaver who attended the District Livestock Show on June 16 and received champion in Intermediate Showmanship, and 3rd in the light-medium weight class. Willy Gallagher attended 4-H camp, which was held June 25-29. Our club also took a rafting trip on June 30.

Eleven members, 10 adults, and nine guests attended the Livestock Workshop at Glover Farms on July 9. The beef presentation was given by Chuck and Christa Hayes; Sheep, Tammy Holler and Shannon Pepe; and Swine, Shannon Pepe.

The Booth Committee had its meeting on July 12. The theme for this year is " Hooked On 4-H." The club also voted to put our float in the Friendsville Days parade on August 5. Wanda Guard passed out the Fair Premium Books and the by-laws. Our next meeting will be on August 17 at the Garrett County Fair.

TRAILBLAZERS
By Emily Cosner

The July meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H club was held July 12. A brief meeting was held in the parking lot of Yough Glades Elementary School before we cleaned the highway.

We discussed the Livestock Association meeting held recently. Jennifer Cosner reported on 4-H Camp and how much fun it was. We were reminded of fair cleanup at 2 p.m. and the livestock orientation meeting at 7 p.m. on August 9 at the fairgrounds. We also discussed our camping trip, which was held July 14-16, and our fair booth.

After the meeting we did our Adopt-A-Highway project. Thirteen members helped clean up the highway: Ryan Sines, Nick Rush, Travis Sines, Laura, James, and David Hebb, Angie Beckman, Emily, Sarah, and Jennifer Cosner, Susan and Diana Mayfield,

Our next meeting will be August 19 at 10 a.m. at the chicken BBQ pavilion at the fair.and Cody Ferguson.

NORTH STAR
by Jerry Cosner

North Star 4-H club met June 13 at the Accident Fire Hall. There were six members present. They welcomed 11 new members to the club. The new members were oriented into the North Star Club. Plans were finalized for the trip to Kennwood on Saturday, July 8.

North Star Club met again July 11 at the Accident Town Park West. Roll call required each member to name his/her favorite car. There were seven adults and eight members, two guests, and one new member present.

The Fair Booth Committee was formed and decided to meet at Rachel Schmidt's house on Tuesday, July 18. Rachel is chairman of the committee.

A Clover group was formed, with Ellen Truman and Bonnie Haenftling as leaders. The Clover Buds are planning to march in the fair parade.

Each member is supposed to have a demonstration prepared for the next meeting, which will be at the Accident fire hall on September 12. There will be no August meeting because of the fair.

CIVIC CLUB INSTALLS PRESIDENT — The Women's Civic Club of Oakland recently elected its new president. Outgoing president Martha Jachowaid, left, is shown with newly elected president Anne Forrester, who was installed as the club's 41st president. Jachowski served as president from 1990 to 1994 and from 1996 to 2000. Formed in 1911, the Civic Club promotes artistic, humanitarian, and educational efforts in Garrett County. The Civic Club disbursed over $8,000 to community groups early this spring from the proceeds of its annual Autumn Glory Antique Show.

DCVFC Auxiliary Schedules Dinner

The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company Auxiliary has slated an "all-you-can-eat" spaghetti and meat-ball dinner for tomorrow, Friday, July 28, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the DCVFC fire hall in McHenry.

The menu will also include bread, salad, dessert, and beverages. Takeouts will be available. The cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children, with proceeds going to the fire company auxiliary.

Jerry Merrick Is Honored By Realtors Assn.

Jerry Merrick, a mortgage lender with Keystone Financial Mortgage, Deep Creek Lake, was recently named Affiliate of the Year by the Historic Highlands Association of Realtors. The presentation was made at a special dinner at the Cumberland Country Club.

According to a spokesperson for the association, Merrick earned the honor for his contributions to the real estate industry. He attended all of the functions sponsored by the association, participated in all of the community service activities (with Union Rescue Mission and the American Red Cross), and worked on the website development committee. "Jerry's lending knowledge and superior service make him an asset to our association," the spokesperson said.

Merrick has completed GE Capital Mortgage Bankers College, RMC Construction Lending course, Maryland Bankers Association and American Bankers Association courses, Success 1997-2000, Tom Hopkins Executive Time Management course, Dale Carnegie sales course, and MGIC Self-Employed Clinic.

As a pre-certified mortgage banker, Merrick had loan production of $9.7 million in 1999 and closed loan volume of $8.7 million, while maintaining a customer satisfaction rating of 96%. He writes a weekly column to educate consumers on the loan programs that are available to them. He also pre-qualifies and provides loan counseling to those unsure of their home-buying ability.

Merrick is a member of the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity board of directors and St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. He is an American Red Cross volunteer and donates time to activities that involve the Association of Realtors.

He and his wife Suzette reside in Mtn. Lake Park with their two children, Marley and Brady.

DCL LIONS INSTALL NEW OFFICERS — The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club has installed its new officers for the 2000-2001 term, including its first woman president, M. Sue Shockey. The DCL Lions merged with the DCL Lioness Auxiliary last year, and in the first election of the combined organizations, Shockey (who was the last Lioness president prior to the merger) was unanimously elected the club's president. She succeeds five-time Lions president Del Carpenter, who helped found the club in 1971 and who also served as its first president. The new DCL Lions Club officers are shown above: from the left in the first row are Lion Tamer Mary Ann Fink; board members Jane Frawley, Goldie Shugars, and JoAnne Glotfelty; treasurer Jeff Nelson; Shockey; and Carpenter. In the second row are board member Bea Crosco; first vice president Bill Thoman; second vice president Richard Buckingham; board member Ed King; assistant treasurer Shirley Panther; and third vice president Tom Wenzel. Not pictured are secretary Nita Roberts, board member Jonathan (Smiley) Kessler; and Tail Twister Dave Wheeler.

NHS Class Of 1975 Reunion Set At Silver Tree

The Northern High School class of 1975 has slated its 25th year anniversary reunion for Saturday, Aug. 19, at the Silver Tree Complex Lakeside, located along Glendale Road near Deep Creek Lake. The social hour will begin at 6 p.m., and a buffet dinner, catered by Taste Unlimited, will be served at 7 p.m. Sounds Fun Entertainment will provide dance music from 8 p.m. to midnight. A variety of prizes will be awarded throughout the evening.

The cost is $25 per person. Invitations have been mailed to all graduates of the class of 1975, and faculty and administration, past and present, from NHS are invited to attend the event, where the dress will be casual.

For reunion tickets and further information, interested persons may contact Gene Rodeheaver, senior class president of the class of 1975, at 301-371-5427. The deadline for registration is Friday, Aug. 4.

Named To Who's Who For Third Consecutive Year

Catherine Donaldson, a 2000 graduate of Southern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for the third year in a row. Only ½ of 1 percent of all high school students are honored for more than one year, according to an organization spokesperson.

Donaldson will be attending Western Maryland College, Westminster, this fall, where she will major in communications. She received a Western Maryland College Grant and academic scholarship. The daughter of Thomas and Jo Donaldson, Deer Park, the student has been active in the Ecumenical Youth Ministry, Garrett County Pipes and Drums, Country Kids 4-H Club, Our Town Theatre, SHS chorus, and the St. John's Episcopal Church choir. Along with other EYM area young people, she is currently in Nicaragua for two weeks to help build a workshop and repair the kitchen at the Los Quinchos girls' home.

State Park Programs

HERRINGTON MANOR/ SWALLOW FALLS

The following activities have been slated by Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls state parks for the coming week of Saturday, July 29, through Friday, Aug. 4. Further information on any of these events can be obtained by calling the park office at 301-334-9180.

A hike to the old beaver dam will depart from the Swallow Falls office at 2 p.m. on Saturday. An astronomy program is slated to take place in the Swallow Falls amphitheater at 9 p.m. that evening. Telescopes will be provided, although participants may bring their own as well.

Sunday's schedule features a natural history hike that will depart from the Swallow Falls concession building at 1 p.m.

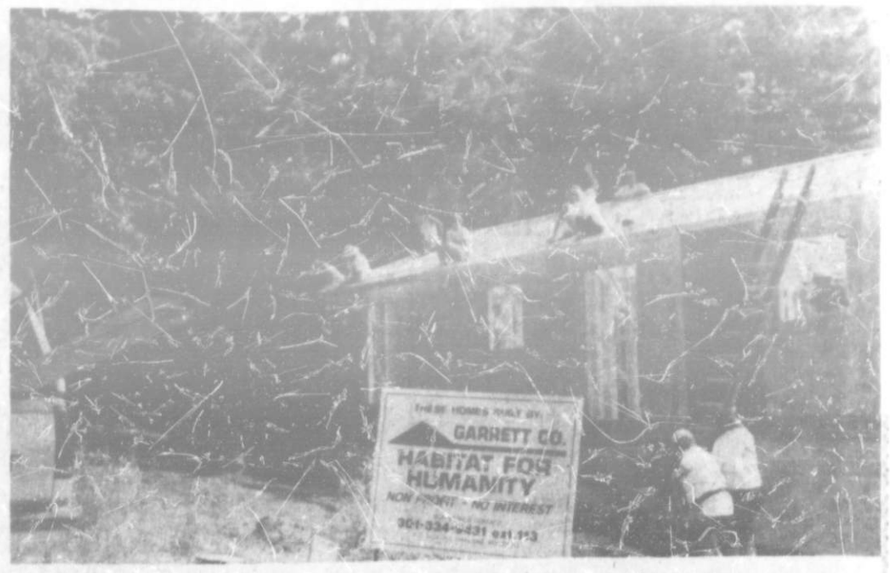

A butterfly walk will take place Monday, and is set to depart from the concession building at 12:30 p.m. A scavenger hunt will get under way at the Herrington Manor office at 2 p.m.

Tuesday's activities include an 8 a.m. bird hike and a 10 a.m. hayride to the Bicentennial Tree. Both excursions will depart from the Herrington Manor office. Space is limited for the hayride, which has a $5 fee per participant, and registration may be made by calling the park office on weekdays. A Junior Ranger program will take place from 1 to 3 p.m. for youth ages 8-14. A $2 fee is required.

Wednesday's activities include a 9 a.m. canoe tour of Herrington Manor Lake, for a fee of $5 per participant. Registration is required and may be made by calling the park office, and participants will meet at the concession stand. A black bear program will be presented at 1 p.m. at the Herrington Manor nature center. A T-shirt art activity is slated for 3 p.m. at the Herrington Manor office at a cost of $1 per person.

A children's craft activity will get under way in the Herrington Manor nature room at 10 a.m. Thursday morning, at a fee of $2 per participant. At 7:30 p.m. that evening a twilight hike will depart from the Herrington Manor concession building for a 1½-mile excursion to view an active beaver colony in Garrett State Forest.

A caravan to the Lost Land Run area of Potomac State Forest, which will include a hike to Cascade Falls, will get under way at 9:30 a.m. Friday, departing from the Herrington Manor office. At 1 p.m. an edible plants program will be presented by a park naturalist at the Herrington Manor office.

VISITORS ASSIST WITH HABITAT PROJECT — Two local Habitat for Humanity projects received volunteer assistance from three visiting church groups recently, as members of Oak Dale-Emory United Methodist Church in New Castle, Pa., Damascus United Methodist Church in Damascus, and New Covenant Evangelical Presbyterian Church in Olney were on hand to help share in the labor. The volunteers constructed stairs, set wiring, and hung drywall at Habitat's 38th house project in Mtn. Lake Park, and are shown above as they set trusses at house #39 in Oakland, where they raised the house from the floor joists and were beginning to install roof sheeting by the end of the week. "All this work was done under the direction of Don Little, who came out of retirement and really got us out of bind when our first building supervisor abruptly left the job," observed Wayne R. Johnson, executive director of Habitat's Garrett County chapter. "We're working toward a September completion and dedication of both homes. Both families and their friends are working diligently along with local volunteers to make this happen."

On Dean's List

Janet Cook, daughter of John and Donna Cook, Oakland, has been named to the dean's list at Allentown College of St. Francis DeSales in Allentown, Pa., for outstanding academic performance in the spring 2000 semester. She is enrolled in the performing arts curriculum.

Cook has accepted a transfer merit scholarship and the Marvin Perry Academic Scholarship to attend Goucher College in Baltimore this fall. She will be a sophomore, majoring in choreography/dance education.

A 1999 honor graduate of Southern High School, Cook is employed at Unc's Restaurant, Deep Creek Lake.

Alexander Family Plans Reunion

The members of the Alexander family, who are descendants of Andrew and Susan (Beegley) Alexander, will hold a family reunion on Saturday, July 29, at 12:30 p.m. at the Accident Community Park. All relatives and friends are invited to attend and bring a covered dish to share.

Summer Youth Program Funded In Grantsville

Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. Community and Emergency Services was recently successful in obtaining funding for a summer youth program in Grantsville through the Department of Juvenile Justice. This is the third consecutive year the grant has been obtained.

The program began on July 3 and will operate until August 23, offering recreational and educational activities. The program is being held at the Grantsville Senior Center. There are 40 students enrolled.

Some of the activities that the students will be participating in are swimming lessons at the YMCA and the Junior Ranger program at the New Germany State Park, instructed by Eric Savage, naturalist. A reading program will be held over the next eight weeks. As their service project, the youths will be hold Park Clean-Up Day at New Germany State Park.

"The students attending the after-school program had been anxiously awaiting the news," said Linda Green, program director. "They were asking in March if there was going to be a program and if they could enroll. I believe that this shows the caliber of program that has been offered for the past two years."

Karen Wood, program coordinator, and the students who attended the after-school program together selected the activities that would be offered.

Students interested in earning service learning hours or additional information may contact Wood at 301-387-9157.

On Dean's List

Bowie State University's Western Maryland Program recently announced the names of area students on the dean's list for the spring 2000 semester. Garrett County residents who earned dean's list standing are Reba Gerard and Zanea Mullenax.

The BSU western Maryland bachelor of science program is offered in Allegany and Garrett counties through evening classes. Information about the program may be obtained by calling 301-784-2008 or 301-784-5340.

Oak Park Church Will Sponsor VBS

Renewal Services, Homecoming Set At Meadow Mtn.

REV. GLEN SELL

The Meadow Mtn. Mennonite Church, 6117 Bittinger Road, Swanton, will have renewal services and a homecoming celebration August 10-13. The history and work of the church will be presented at the Saturday evening, Sunday morning, and evening services.

Special speaker Glen Sell will deliver a message each evening, Thursday through Sunday, beginning at 7 p.m., and on Sunday morning at 10 a.m. There will also be special singing at each service.

On Sunday, August 13, there will be a fellowship meal at noon. Persons are asked to RSVP to 301-245-4224 by August 1. The Sunday afternoon service will begin at 1:30 p.m., when several members of the congregation will present their memories of different aspects of the church.

Rev. Sell, Manheim, Pa., is a graduate of Eastern Mennonite University and Seminary in Virginia and holds a degree in nursing from Rosewood State Training School in Maryland. He began his ministry in 1955 and has served as an itinerant evangelist in addition to having interim pastoral responsibilities at several churches in the states of Maryland and Pennsylvania. Since 1985, he has been employed as an evangelist, newspaper columnist, family counselor, and teacher under the auspices of Gateway Evangelistic Ministries.

For 12 years, Rev. Sell was employed for six weeks each year as a visiting instructor at the Rosedale Bible College in Ohio. Since 1990, he has also given considerable time ministering in the country of Wales. His work is both international and interdenominational. He has done extensive writing, and he was the announcer or speaker for several religious broadcasts.

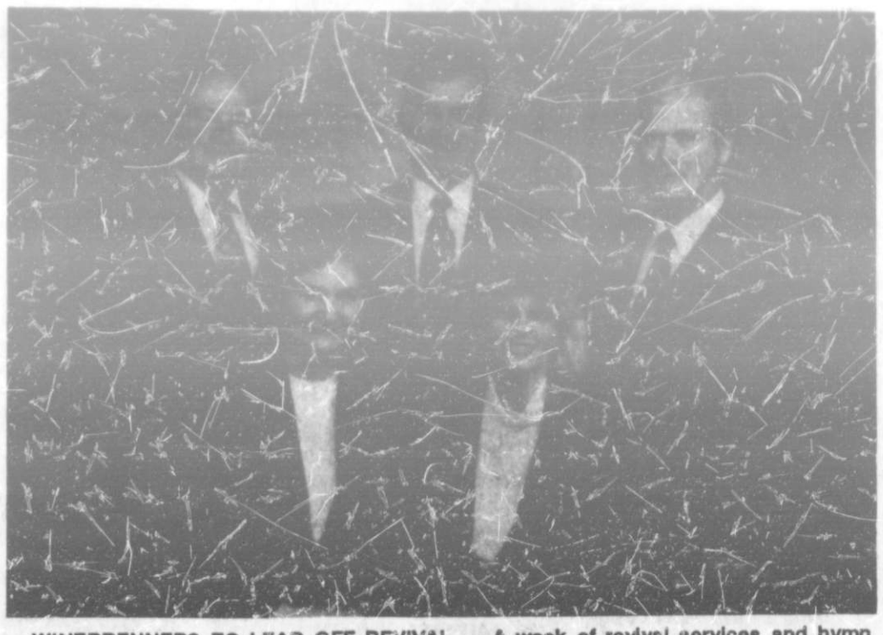

Pastor Duane Frederick and the congregation invite the pubic to attend.

Back-To-School Dance Scheduled

A back-to-school dance will be held at the Accident fire hall on Saturday, Aug. 12, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. The event is being sponsored by the Accident Community Planning Group.

There will be a $1 cover charge per person. Music will be provided by a disc jockey, and there will be dime tossing, pictures, refreshments, and door prizes of back-to-school items.

Persons desiring more information may telephone Virginia Fike at 301-746-8944.

WINEBRENNERS TO LEAD OFF REVIVAL — A week of revival services and hymn sings will get under way at the Laughlin Church of the Brethren this Sunday, July 30, at 7:30 p.m., when the Winebrenners (shown above) present their gospel message in song. The evangelistic services continue at 7:30 p.m. each evening, July 31 - Aug. 4, with guest speaker Donald Matthews, worship leader Rev. Ross Glotfelty, and special music. A special communion service is slated for 7 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 6. The Laughlin Church of the Brethren is located six miles west of Grantsville along Amish Road.

Matter No. 072468
7/13-27 (3)

NOTICE TO ALLEGHENY POWER CUSTOMERS

Allegheny Power has contracted to maintain portions of its rights-of-way with an aerial saw consisting of fifteen 24-inch rotary blades powered by a motor and suspended on a vertical boom beneath a helicopter. This maintenance method allows for the quick, safe, and efficient trimming of trees along our transmission lines. The aerial saw will be operating for approximately three weeks from late July to early August in the following counties in Maryland.

Garrett County
(Pruntytown – Mt Storm, 500 kV Line)

Portions of a transmission line starting at the Maryland State Line south of Redhouse, Md., west of St. Rt. 219, and heading in a southeasterly direction. The line runs parallel with Cash Valley Road and crosses St. Rt. 219 south of Redhouse. The line then continues southeasterly crossing "The Little Mountain," "Backbone Mountain," Table Rock Road, Wilson Corons Road, and finally the North Branch of the Potomac River into Grant County, West Virginia.

Garrett County
(Albright – Mt Zion – Beryl, 138 kV Line)

Portions of transmission line starting at Maryland State Line west of Herrington Manor State Park and heading east, crossing Sanders Lane, passing through the southern end of the State Park property. The line continues easterly, crossing Herrington Manor Road and passing through the center of Mt. Nebo Wildlife Management Area. The line then continues east, crossing St. Rt. 219, Kings Run Road, Sand Flat Road, Pysell Crosscut Road, Turkeyneck Road, and St. Rt. 495 north of St. Rt. 135. The line then heads over Backbone Mountain, crossing St. Rt. 135 near the junction of St. Rt. 38, and enters a substation on Mt Zion Road. After leaving the Mt Zion Road Substation, the line heads east to the Potomac River, crossing below Jennings Randolph Lake Dam.

Garrett County
(Albright – Oak Park – Elk Garden, 138 kV Line)

Portions of transmission line starting at Maryland State Line west of Herrington Manor State Park and heading east across Sanders Lane, passing through southern end of the State Park property. The line continues easterly crossing Herrington Manor Road, then bears southeasterly crossing Oakland Sang Run Road, Hooppole Ridge, St. Rt. 219, Broadford Road, and into Oakpark Substation next to Broadford Lake. SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE FEE-SIMPLE DWELLING 125 WALNUT STREET FRIENDSVILLE, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND 21531

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Joanne Paugh and Herbert B. Paugh to First Equity Title Corporation, Trustee, dated December 17, 1997, and recorded in Liber 728, folio 397 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Deed of Trust having appointed Carrie M. Ward, Alan D. Levenstein and Alan S. Weiner, Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the County aforesaid, default having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON MONDAY, JULY 31, 2000 AT 1:00 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett County, Maryland, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $6,000 will be required at time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, certified check, or in other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine acceptable, in their sole discretion. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. Balance to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within the specified period stated, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to them, the Substitute Trustees will declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorneys' fees and all other charges incurred by the Substitute Trustees. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to the day the funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder, there shall be no abatement of interest caused by the delay. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, Condominium fees and/or Homeowners Association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. The Substitute Trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids, withdraw the property from sale, postpone and advertise the property for sale at a later date. Neither the Substitute Trustees nor any other party guarantees or covenants to deliver or to in any way obtain possession of the premises for any purchaser. In the event the property is occupied by tenants, the Substitute Trustees assume no responsibility for security deposits or other monies paid by the tenants to anyone. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees or the noteholder. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale. The property is sold in an "AS IS" condition without express or implied warranty or representation including, but not limited to description, fitness, use for a particular purpose, construction, environmental condition, zoning, habitability, merchantability and/or compliance with building codes or other laws. The Substitute Trustees, their attorneys and/or the noteholder shall not be liable individually or otherwise for any matters relating to this sale or the property.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF FRIENDSVILLE
ORDINANCE 2000-1
ORDINANCE OF VACATION

On July 1, 2000, the Mayor and Town Council of Friendsville adopted the above Ordinance after due public notice. Adoption of the Ordinance has resulted in the Town vacating any claim to ownership to that portion of Third Avenue which is described in detail in the body of the Ordinance. This platted but unimproved right-of-way is now closed to public use.

A copy of the entire Ordinance is available for review at the Friendsville Town Hall, 313 Chestnut Street, Friendsville, Maryland.

Spencer R. Schlosnagle
Mayor

Gray to the trustee or trustees named therein, JEFFREY B. FISHER, MARTIN S. GOLBERG and CRAIG INGRAM, ESQUIRE, having been substituted as trustees in the place and stead of the trustee or trustees originally named by Deed of Appointment of Substitute Trustees duly executed and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, with all of the powers granted to the trustee or trustees originally named therein, including a power of sale upon default, and default having occurred in the terms and conditions thereof, the said Substitute Trustees will sell at public auction at the courthouse entrance of the

CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY AT THE ROTUNDA
AT OAKLAND, MARYLAND, ON WEDNESDAY, August 2, 2000, AT 2:30 PM,

all that property described in said Deed of Trust, as follows:

All that parcel of land known and designated as Lot No. 16, The Gleanings II, Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland, which is described as follows:

BEGINNING at a 5/8 inch iron pin set, in the division line between Lot 16 and 17 of Gleanings II, said point of beginning also standing, South 82 degrees 29' 05" West, 102.72 feet from the westerly margin of a right-of-way to "King of the Hill"; thence continuing by a new division line South 82 degrees 29' 05" West 184.03 feet to a 5/8 inch iron pin set; thence continuing with said new division line, North 05 degrees 51' 26" East, 555.26 feet to a 5/8 inch iron pin set, in the southerly margin of a right-of-way, thence continuing with said right-of-way and said new division line, South 88 degrees 05' 08" East, 180.70 feet to a 5/8 inch iron pin set; thence leaving said right-of-way and continuing by said new division line South 05 degrees 51' 26" West, 537.13 feet to the place of beginning containing 2.2450 acres, more or less.

SAID LAND AND PREMISES being in the sixth Election District of Garrett County, Maryland, and being improved by a Dwelling bearing the street address of 281 Gleanings Drive, McHenry, Maryland 21541. Subject to all covenants, restrictions and easements of record, if any.

TERMS OF SALE. A cash or cash equivalent deposit of $10,700.00 will be required at the time of sale, the balance to be payable in cash within ten (10) business days after ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, with interest on said balance from the date of sale to date of settlement at the rate of 8% per annum. Failure of the purchaser to settle will result in resale of the property at the risk and cost of the purchaser, or forfeiture of deposit at the election of the Substitute Trustees, who specifically preserve all legal and equitable remedies available to them. The Substitute Trustees reserve the right to waive the deposit requirements if the noteholder is the purchaser. Sale is "AS-IS" and Substitute Trustees make no warranty of any kind whatsoever regarding the physical condition, physical description, or title to the property. Taxes, rents, annually payable public charges and assessments, including the front foot benefit charges of the appropriate governing agency, if any, and condominium fees and/or homeowner's association dues, if applicable, will be adjusted to the day of sale and thereafter assumed by the Purchaser. All costs of conveyancing, including transfer taxes and recordation taxes, will be paid by the Purchaser. The purchaser's sole remedy in the event the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey marketable title is the return of the deposit. Upon return of the deposit, the sale shall be null and void.

PERSONAL

PERSONAL -- Prayer of the Blessed Virgin. (Never known to fail) Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh star of the sea, help me and show me here you are my mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3 times). Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days and then you must publish it and it will be granted to you. Grateful thanks. Vacation Homes – Hot Market At Deep Creek Lake, Too!

Deep Creek Lake, Md. - The hot vacation home real estate market has been a headline topic during the past month in several publications, including both the Wall Street Journal and Barron's. The common theme seems to center on the sensational aspect of the priciest properties that have sold in Nantucket (25 waterfront acres with a tear-down house at $19.5 million) or Newport, Rhode Island (a 29-acre estate selling for a record $10.85 million).

Both articles also refer to reports from the National Association of Realtors regarding a 9.3% increase in the number of second-home purchases in 1999 over the previous year.

These statistics bring credence to a forecast by Kiplinger's in 1995 that the demand for second homes would be strong through the year 2010. That prediction was based upon a study of demographics relating to the "babyboomers"-currently people who are between the ages of 36 and 54-who both desire and can afford a vacation home and who are thinking ahead to an active retirement.

Enhancing the baby-boomer effect are two additional factors: the 1997 tax law change that exempts up to $500,000 in capital gains on the sale of a principal residence and the astronomic gains reaped in the stock market over the past few years. (The tax law change enables a homeowner to trade down to a smaller primary residence when the children leave home and use the proceeds to buy a second home without owing any tax on the first $500,000 of gain per couple.)

What do these reports mean to the real estate market at Deep Creek Lake and the surrounding countryside? Is Deep Creek Lake enjoying the same appreciation in value and is there a similar demand for its second home market? Most definitely!

The market at Deep Creek Lake has seen an amazing number of cash transactions over the past two years. Individuals and families are using both the 1997 tax law changes with respect to gains on a principal residence as well as other tax law provisions known as "Section 1031 Tax Deferred Exchanges." (In a "1031 exchange", any investment or business real estate may be exchanged on a tax deferred basis for any other type of business or investment real estate.) For example, a small apartment building in the city can be exchanged for a vacation rental home on or near the lake.

Record sale prices have been recorded at Deep Creek Lake as well as the prestigious resorts such as Vail and Pebble Beach. The first single family home at Deep Creek Lake to be sold at $1,000,000 took place in 1997. Since that time, other homes have sold from $1.2 to $1.735 million. No longer do appraisers raise their eyebrows when asked to appraise a large, custom-built home on the waterfront. It is no longer unusual to see properties sold in the seven-digit range. Long & Foster Realtors is proud to have marketed and sold each successful sale in the million+ price range in the Deep Creek market.

What if you can't afford or choose not to spend that much money on your vacation or retirement home? No problem.

A review of the properties offered in Garrett County through MRIS, the multiple listing service handling the region, shows that an A-frame with three bedrooms and lake privileges can be purchased for as little as $79,900, with a nice selection of properties in all price ranges, up to a manor estate of over 18,000 sq. ft. offered at $1.395 million.

What about new home construction? The local Assessment Department office reported that over 100 new homes in the Deep Creek Lake area were added to the property tax rolls in the second half of 1999. Many new homes are currently under construction during the 2000 building season (365 county building permits have been issued since 1/1/2000). Lakefront lots have traditionally been in short supply at Deep Creek Lake. Now the demand has pushed the prices to new highs, with a record sale of $405,000 for a homesite. However, lakefront lots with shallow water depth are available from $64,900. Market predictors expect that a half-million dollar lot sale is less than one year away.

Should you buy now? That depends. We believe there probably will never be a better time to buy. Property values are expected to grow throughout the next 10-year baby-boomer demand cycle. So.... if your family finances permit and you have dreamed of owning a vacation home, why not take advantage of the benefits of anticipated market appreciation?

Numbers to help you understand the market in Garrett County follow:

From January, 1999 through June 3, 2000, data from MRIS shows that 583 homes were sold in Garrett County. The average price in 1999 was just over $155,000. The average price for the first five months of 2000 had increased by over 25% to $195,000. For building sites in the same period, a total of 302 homesites or acreages were sold at average prices that increased by 17% from $63,620 to $74,800.

The chart below illustrates the market as offered on June 12, 2000 in the Deep Creek Lake waterfront, and data compiled from recent sales.

Price Range	# of homes currently AVAILABLE	# SOLD in 1999	# SOLD in 2000 (1-1 – 6-1)
Under $100,000	24	54	20
$100,000 – $150,000	20	66	29
$150,000 – $200,000	14	24	16
$200,000 – $300,000	33	39	12
$300,000 – $400,000	24	32	12
Over $400,000	23	22	17

Nordic Log Homes

McHenry, MD 21541

Dear Kurt,

The purpose of this letter is to tell you how happy we are with our Nordic Log Home. As Gerri told you, many years ago the National Bureau of Standards did research on the energy efficiency of log homes. She was working for the division that did that research at the time. They found that a log home offered the best energy efficiency of any type of home. This is very impressive information; especially when one is building in Garrett County!

We checked with many log home manufacturers before deciding on a Nordic/Ketchdin log home. Another thing that sold us on your log homes was the option of having cedar. We also found that your log home packages offered more "standard" items; items that other log home packages have as "options." We found early on to pay attention to the lists of "standard" versus "options" and found that with the other packages many items one would assume to be included were actually options and the price of adding them in made the log home too expensive. You offer a quality log home at a very good price. Not to mention the fact that they are beautiful! We are very glad we decided to buy a Nordic home. The quality and price can't be matched or beat by any of the other log home manufacturers. We know—we spent a lot of time making comparisons.

We would also like to thank you for the manner in which you have handled everything. The log home was delivered on the day it was scheduled for. You explained everything to us. You even took a plan we had from a magazine and altered it to our needs and budget. Everything promised with the package came with it. You have always been pleasant, helpful, and knowledgeable. We have, and will continue, to recommend you to everyone we meet interested in a log home.

Sincerely,

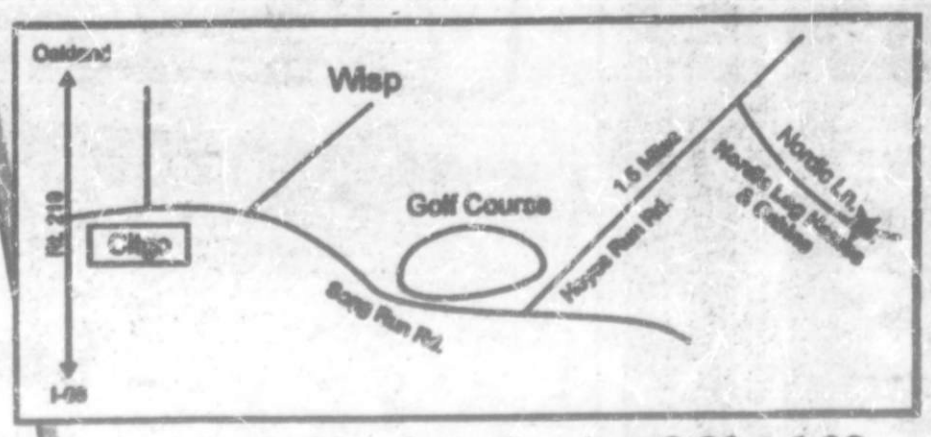

Jake and Gerl Smith

"...you and Anna did a great job in finding us the perfect piece of property in Deep Creek when the realtors could not."
—Jim & Doreen Bitowf

"...from the northern white cedar logs to the wonderful windows to the special stair railings & spindles, every item that came through Nordic Log Homes has exceeded my expectations."
—Laurel Munk

"...we looked at every log home company in Deep Creek Lake and by far, yours was the best package for the price. I would recommend Nordic Log Homes to anyone."

Little Yough Music Series To Feature Jen Chapin Saturday

The second installment of the Little Yough Summer Music Festival in downtown Oakland will take place this Saturday, July 1, when noted New York City-based singer/songwriter Jen Chapin performs in a 7 p.m. concert at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion adjacent to the town parking lot. Chapin's appearance is being sponsored by GCNet.

Garrett County native Diane Hubka, a jazz singer/musician and recording artist who now resides in New York City as well, will present an opening act concert shortly after 5 p.m. that evening in the "pocket park," located along Second Street at the foot of Alder Street. Hubka, who has performed several times before in Oakland, including at a Save Oakland Station benefit, was nominated for the Debut Album Award by the American Jazz Writers Association last year.

Jen Chapin brings a wide scope of musical and life experiences to bear in her songwriting and live performances. The 29-year-old, who was born and raised on Long Island, N.Y., is the daughter of poet, teacher, businesswoman, and social activist Sandy Chapin and her late husband Harry Chapin, the legendary singer/songwriter who devoted much of his music to raising awareness of and money for a variety of social justice causes. Her uncle is Tom Chapin, a noted folksinger in his own right.

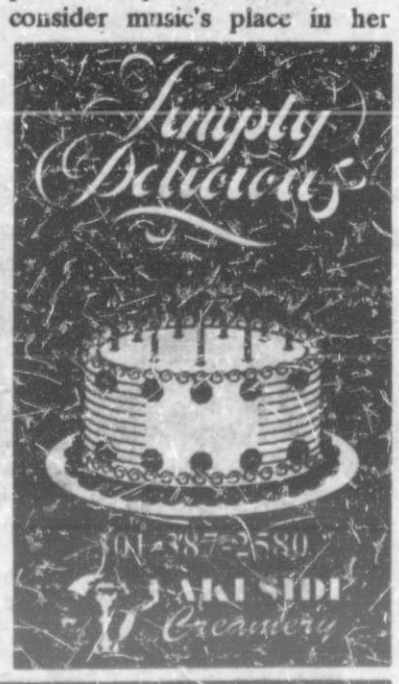

"My parents, and an extended family that includes many musicians, writers, painters, and academics, have left me with a fertile legacy," Jen Chapin reflected, "the most valuable aspect of which was the message that the creation of something that wasn't there before is a worthwhile task."

Chapin obtained an undergraduate degree in International Relations from Brown University, Providence, R.I., and during her academic career at Brown she also studied in Zimbabwe and Mexico. While in Providence she had her first real exposure to jazz, and started to consider music's place in her own life. By the time of her graduation from Brown, she had decided to decline a slot in the master's program in the university's School of Education to enter the Berklee College of Music in Boston for undergraduate study.

"I have been a singer since childhood, and have dabbled at playing the flute and other instruments, but in a sense my enrollment at Berklee marked my first identification of myself as a musician," Chapin said. "I came to school with basic theoretical knowledge and several of the first songs I had forced myself to write with these rudimentary tools. My objective was to get more tools to write with, through studying ear training, jazz harmony, improvisation, and arranging."

In 1995 Chapin settled in New York City and developed curricula for a middle school general music program and a high school course, "History of Black Music," which she taught at a Brooklyn school. Teaching music helped her develop her ideas, and she began to assemble a loose community of local musicians that continues to provide her with inspiration and encouragement.

Chapin has performed throughout the United States and Europe. Although she is often backed by a five-piece band, for her Oakland appearance she will be accompanied by acoustic bass player Stephan Crump, who also happens to be her husband.

Admission to the performances of Chapin and Hubka, and each concert of the Little Yough Summer Musical Festival, is free of charge. An added feature of the evening, and of all Little Yough series performances, is the planned "street festival" setting of downtown Oakland. Merchants will be open for extended shopping hours, and food and craft vendors will be selling their goods from tables lining the brick sidewalks beginning early on in the day and continuing throughout the family-oriented events.

The Little Yough Summer Music Festival series is sponsored by the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA), in conjunction with a number of local businesses and the Oakland Rotary Club.

Erick Friedman To Bring Chamber Players Back For 2000 GLAF Season

The Deep Creek Chamber Players will return to Garrett County in August to present two concerts featuring five world-renowned musicians. The concerts are part of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival season line-up, and will be held on August 18 and August 19 in the Garrett Community College auditorium, both beginning at 8 p.m.

Erick Friedman, violin virtuoso, returns for his 14th summer in Garrett County, heading up the musicians for the chamber events. A world talent, Friedman is considered one of the finest violinists of our time. Having studied with the [illegible] Heifetz, Friedman has carved out a career of international dimensions, appearing as a guest soloist with most of the world's great orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic and the National Symphony, as well as with the orchestras of New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Miami, Detroit, Indianapolis, the Berlin Philharmonic, Orchestre de Paris, and many other major organizations. He has recorded several CDs on major labels, and has received rave reviews from critics around the world.

"A revelation — a model of eloquent virtuosity," stated a Dallas Morning News critic.

"Mr. Friedman is a superb artist. There was in his artistic individuality and inspired eloquence an unmistakable quality of greatness," said a London Daily Telegraph writer.

Friedman and Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, a Garrett County native, became partners in music nearly 16 years ago when they met at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas. They both acted on a dream to bring orchestral music to a rural area, namely Garrett County, together building the foundation for the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. For 13 years, the two presented the Symphony at Deep Creek, which was discontinued this year.

The Chamber Players will present two concerts of varied offerings, featuring Friedman, violin; Lu Sun, violin; Jesse Levine, viola; Stephen Kates, cello; and Ian Hobson, piano. (As the concerts near, career information on each of these accomplished musicians will be published in The Republican newspaper.) The programs of each evening are tentatively planned as follows:

Program I

Friday, August 18

Terzetto in C Major, Op. 74, Antonin Dvorak; Six Etudes, Op. 10, Frederic Chopin; Arabesques on the Blue Danube, J. Strauss-Eyler; Caprice No. 20, Op. 1, Niccolo Paganini-Fritz Kreisler; Concerto (second movement), Carl Goldmark; Introduction and Tarentella, Pablo de Sarasate; and Piano Quartet in G Major, Johannes

July 2000 marks the sixth season for the Maryland Humanities Council's Chautauqua in western Maryland, and the first year for an expanded celebration called the Chautauqua Arts Festival. Eight days of free events will take place under a big tent on the lawn of Garrett Community College July 1 through July 8.

A full schedule of events is planned, including special music by both visiting and local groups, four historic figure presentations, a celebration of literacy and storytelling, and the premiere performance of the Garrett Concert Band, among other activities.

The festival is co-sponsored by Garrett Community College (GCC), the Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC), and Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF), in cooperation with the Maryland Humanities Council and with special funding from Bell Atlantic and the Sprenger-Lang Foundation.

The chautauqua tradition in Garrett County can be traced back to the turn of the century, as an annual summer chautauqua flourished in Mountain Lake Park. Taking its name from a lake in New York State, the original Chautauqua (shuh-taw-kwa) began in 1874 as a training course for Sunday school teachers in New York. In 1878, the chautauqua movement expanded its philosophy of adult education to include an appreciation for the arts and humanities. By 1904, chautauqua events became national, as part of the Lyceum movement, bringing lectures and entertainers to towns across America. By the end of the 1920s, chautauquas were a thing of the past.

Today, nearly 100 years

RENT-A-CHEF

FROM DALLAS TO DEEP CREEK

I have enjoyed cooking for over 25 yrs in restaurants from Dallas to Deep Creek. I have studied under 3 Master Chefs. Holding the position of Executive Chef in a restaurant is an accomplishment and has many rewards, but too often I did not get to interact with the people for whom I cooked. Hence, Rent-A-Chef came to be. To most people what I do is labor intensive, but to me it is a labor of love. Cooking is an art and your kitchen is my canvas. So lets get together and create a masterpiece.

THE BARBARA MARTIN TRIO will kick off the Chautauqua Arts Festival on the Garrett Community College lawn on Saturday, July 1, at 7:30 p.m. The group will present a folk concert featuring folk artist Marc Carraway. The specialties of the Barbara Martin Trio are folk songs and blues music. A "finger-picker" and blues stylist, Martin has appeared at the Kennedy Center and at festivals and universities across the East Coast. She has been nominated for the contemporary folk female vocalist with the Washington Area Music Awards. Sit back and enjoy the music, as the sixth annual chautauqua gets under way.

later, the chautauqua has come back to life, as families gather together under a "big tent" to once again be educated and entertained. Theodore Roosevelt once dubbed the chautauqua tradition as "the most American thing about America."

tional songs centered around his own songwriting. His plays guitar, harmonica, mandolin, fiddle, and banjo.

Local artists will perform for all ages on Sunday, July 2, with "A Celebration of Garrett County Literacy Arts — Readings and Storytelling." Stories for children will begin under the big tent at GCC at 2 p.m. Different yarns will be spun at 7:30 p.m. for adults, and children "who can listen like adults," a spokesperson said. Dr. Gail Herman, resident of Garrett County and nationally known storyteller, will serve as the master of ceremonies for the two programs.

Groovement will take the stage on Monday, July 3, at 7:30 p.m. This group "has taken the Washington, D.C., area by storm as one of the hottest performing attractions," the spokesperson said. "The audience will be wowed not only by the foot stomping, high-energy action, but also by the jazz, hip-hop, and pure expressions of the spoken word." Groovement is presented by the African Continuum Theatre and funded by the Sprenger-Lang Foundation.

The premiere performance of the Garrett Community Concert Band will take place on Tuesday, July 4, at 7:30 p.m. At least 25 local musicians have built upon the success of the Autumn Glory Oktoberfest Oompah Band, and have joined to form an ongoing community band that will perform year-round. Under the leadership of Jerry McGee and Fred Stemple, the band will kick off the annual July 4th celebration at Deep Creek Lake.

The July 4 concert is to include music with an "Americana spirit," with music by composers such as John Philip Sousa. "Americana" refreshments will be available. After the concert, which is slated to run from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m., the day will culminate with fireworks over Marsh Mountain. The display can be viewed for the college lawn.

The theme for July 5 is "Maryland in the Civil War." This will mark the sixth season for the Maryland Humanities Council's Chautauqua in western Maryland. Four evenings will feature scholars who will take on the personas of celebrated historical figures. Local artists will take the stage first at 7 p.m., followed at 7:30 by the Chautauqua characters.

The schedule is as follows: July 5, Hammers & Strings' "old time" music, followed by "An Evening with Clara Barton," portrayed by Mary Ann Jung; July 6, Ellinor Benedict, fiddie, followed by "An Evening with Harriet Tubman," portrayed by Gwendolyn Briley-Strand; July 7, JoAnn Fletcher, soprano, followed by "An Evening with William Lloyd Garrison," portrayed by Doug A. Mishler; and July 8, Sang Run band performing Celtic music, followed by "An Evening with Abraham Lincoln," portrayed by Richard Johnson.

All events are free, with donations accepted to offset the expense of the tent. Each day, ice cream and refreshments will be provided by Lakeside Creamery. For further information, persons may call the GCAC at 301-387-3121 or GLAF at 301-387-3082.

THE TOWN OF ACCIDENT-FLOWERY VALE — Accident is located on busy Route 219 about 5 miles north of Deep Creek Lake in a scenic farming valley dating back to 1800. The oldest known structure, the Drane House, has been restored. Sites of the two earliest frame structures used by Lutheran congregations for church services have been marked by stone markers in Zion Cemetery and St. Paul's New Cemetery. The 76-year old yellow brick schoolhouse is now a handsomely remodeled complex, composed of the Flowery Vale Senior Center and Valley View Apartments.

A lovely park and picnic pavilion, plus Town View Village, another apartment complex for the elderly, occupy the site of the famous Speicher Horse Barn which housed imported Belgian and Percheron horses. The historic Kaese's Mill still stands along the Bear Creek-Fish Hatchery Road, appearing much as it did when constructed in 1868.

Accident has traditionally observed the Fourth of July with picnics since back before 1900. It is the main event that serves as Accident's Homecoming Day, drawing large crowds of relatives and former residents. Grocery stores, library, post office, doctor and dentist, churches, garage and automobile dealership, service stations, schools, public water and sewerage systems, well-kept private homes, and excellent roads provide the elements that make Accident a most desirable rural village.

B&O RAILROAD STATION IN OAKLAND — One of the oldest stations in the country, this Queen Anne-style station was built in 1884 after the B&O had developed a resort clientele for Oakland and Garrett County. The ground the station stands on was used by the B&O Railroad as early as 1851.

The Oakland station is now listed in the National Registry. It is distinguished by its incised brick, picturesque massing and the mixing of building materials characteristic of this disappearing building style. It was built by the Baltimore firm of Baldwin and Pennington, which constructed a similar station in Laurel, Maryland, in 1884.

It is located in Oakland, near the intersection of Second and Liberty streets.

BRADDOCK'S ROAD — Built by British General Edward Braddock's army in 1755, under the direction of the aide-de-camp George Washington, the road really is an improvement of the old Indian route Nemacolin's Trail. The General died along this route while retreating from near Fort Du queane (Pittsburgh) to Fort Cumberland, after a crushing defeat by a small force of French and Indians.

Braddock's Road became a major route west until it was abandoned in the 19th century with the construction of the National Road (Route 40).

The road is most readily

CASSELMAN HOTEL — The Casselman Hotel commemorates the great days of the National Pike. Located on Main Street (old Route 40) in Grantsville, the hotel, still in operation, was first opened as a drover's inn in 1824. Many of the early features of the building have been preserved; to the modern traveler, the hotel offers all of the modern conveniences. The hotel has been in operation for 175 years and is one of the outstanding landmarks within Garrett County's boundaries.

During the heydays of stage coach travel on the old National Road, there was never any doubt about how far Casselman Inn was from the major cities of Cumberland and Wheeling. Situated on the edge of the highway, and directly in front of the Inn, was a cast iron mileage marker with the miles noted at 25 Cumberland on the west face and 106 Wheeling on the east face.

THE OAKLAND TRAIN STATION, built in 1884, stands along the former main line of the B&O Railroad which in bygone days carried countless passengers seeking an escape from their sweltering city homes. Currently in the closing stages of a major renovation project, the Victoria-era station is slated to open in early October, just in time for the annual Autumn Glory Festival, set for Oct. 12-15. The Save Oakland Station project has been bolstered by historic preservation grants and a number of fund-raisers that have had the support of the entire community. To make a donation to the effort persons may contact the town's city hall at 301-334-2691.

Like the sturdy red brick building which is now called Casselman Motor Inn, the cast iron mileage marker is still there today. Close examination reveals that the east and west faces of the marker have two more towns listed in addition to Cumberland and Wheeling. Frostburg is on the west face and Petersburg on the east face (Petersburg is the old name for the present-day Addison, Pa.)

During the Civil War, some of the inns on the National road served as hospitals for soldiers convalescing from battle wounds. Thus, from time to time, the Casselman Inn became a make-shift hospital, generally for men wounded in the battles around Winchester, Va.

With a little imagination, a modern traveler can imagine recovering soldiers helping each other to chairs and sitting in the sunshine on the spacious front lawn of the Casselman Inn.

CASSELMAN RIVER BRIDGE — At the time of its construction, this was the largest single-span stone arch bridge in the United States (80 feet). Built in 1813 of beautiful native western Maryland stone, it served traffic on the nation's first federal highway.

Once a part of the National Pike running between Cumberland and Wheeling, W.Va., it provided an improved method of transportation for drovers, freighters, wagoners, horsemen, stagecoach passengers and pedestrians when the western frontier was the Alleghenies.

While watching its construction, people speculated that the bridge would collapse when the supporting timbers were removed. To avoid having the general public as an audience should the bridge collapse at the celebration planned for the removal of the supports, the contractor loosened them the night before the ceremony. The next day, he stood under the bridge during the ceremony to prove its worthiness. The graceful stone arch has stood for the past 185 years as one of Garrett County's most photogenic as well as historic sites.

The bridge was closed to traffic in 1953 and restored with funds made available by the state of Maryland. In 1964, the Department of Interior designated the bridge a Registered Historical Landmark.

A beautiful setting for a summer cookout or outdoor get-together, there is a picnic area with fireplaces and other facilities alongside the bridge. The bridge is located along

THE ORIGINAL CASSELMAN RIVER BRIDGE, a Registered Historical Landmark, was the largest single-span stone arch bridge in the United States at the time of its 1813 dedication. An integral part of the National Pike, the bridge and the nation's first federal highway carried settlers to the west and the fruits of their labors back to eastern cities and ports. The bridge is located on Route 40 just east of Grantsville, near the Spruce Forest Artisan Village and Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop.

CHURCH OF THE PRESIDENTS IN OAKLAND—All three of the presidents Grant, Harrison and Cleveland—who preferred Garrett County to any other place for their vacations — attended services in this stone building at the corner of Second and Liberty streets in Oakland.

This church dates to 1868 when John W. Garrett had it built as a memorial to his brother, Henry S. Garrett. The brother had originally planned the church, but died before his intentions could be carried out.

Rowlesburg, W.Va., as a source of bulding stones for bridges and tunnel liners. Mr. Garrett chose this same sandstone for the church building in Oakland, and it was shipped to the town by rail.

For a number of years, the Garrett Memorial Church functioned as a community church. In 1903, it became a worship center for the local Presbyterian congregation, who took on the responsibility for maintaining the building. Although a strong congregation at the beginning of its tenure in the Memorial Church, the membership dwindled to only a handful of people, and it ceased to function as a congregation in 1935.

Three years later, it became the center of worship for the congregation of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, which now has possession of the building. This group completely renovated the 100-year-old build-

ACCIDENT'S DRANE HOUSE is one of the few original frontier log homes remaining in western Maryland. It was built in 1787 by William Lamar, who relinquished title to his brother-in-law James Drane in 1903. The restored home is located at the end of Cemetery Road on the northeastern end of Accident. Presidents Grant, Cleveland, and Harrison attended worship services in this building. President Arthur attended services there prior to his election as president.

With a history of famous people attending services, Garrett Memorial Church is now called "Church of the Presidents."

DRANE HOUSE — Built in the late 1700s just east of Accident, the Drane House is one of the very few original frontier plantation homes remaining on Maryland's Tableland. It is the key to Accident's past and the living history of tobacco-growing days in the uplands.

Although the log cabin is now known as the Drane House, it was actually built about 1797 by James Drane's brother-in-law, William Lamar. He relinquished title to Drane for the surrounding land and cabin in 1803. Both men attempted to inaugurate tobacco farming on this part of the Maryland frontier. After several unsuccessful seasons, Drane abandoned the idea of growing tobacco and settled for the type of farm crops best suited for the Garrett County weather.

When the last tenant vacated the property in 1952, the Drane House had set a record for "the longest continuous occupancy of any house in the county."

Viewed as a historic landmark, a group of people in Accident banded together for the purpose of saving the deteriorating, two-story log building. Grants were obtained from the state of Maryland, and the physical restoration work began in October 1991. However, before this work could start, a required archaeological site survey had to be conducted around the building. Most of the artifacts recovered by the archaeological team were those expected, a series of household items associated with 150 years of occupancy.

Yet, one item was found which definitely tied the Drane House to the "frontier of the late 1700s." This was an 1780 era Spanish coin bearing the inscription "Carolus III." The coin recalled a common practice along the American Frontier of the late 1700s and early 1800s; that of using British or Spanish coins as a medium of exchange in place of the inflated paper money issued by the new United States government.

Since the cabin was almost 200 years old, some of its logs had to be replaced as a part of the restoration work. The building was dismantled and new logs put in here and there to replace the old ones. A unique part of this log replacement work was the use of old-style tools such as the adze and double bladed axe to shape the new logs to the correct dimensions. The restoration work was completed in 1994, and over

The Drane House is located at the end of Cemetery Road, which runs past the Zion Lutheran Church on the eastern edge of Accident. The house has now been restored and is opened for tours upon request by calling the Accident Town Hall Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 301-746-6346. Admission is free, and visitors are invited to visit this important part of Garrett County's past.

FRIEND FAMILY ASSOCIATION'S NATIONAL HERITAGE MUSEUM AND LIBRARY—The museum depicts the history of Friendsville, first settled by John Friend in the early 1760s. The museum and library contain artifacts of early Indian dwellers, 700 general genealogical books, and files on most local families in addition to the Friend family. The museum is located along Maple Street in Friendsville and is open on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, noon-3 p.m., May-November, or by appointment. Visitors desiring additional information may contact Ina Hicks at 301-746-5615.

FRIENDSVILLE — The site of the first settlement (Selbysport is the oldest town) in Garrett County, Friendsville was named for John Friend Sr., who came to the area in 1765 and bought the land from the Indians. When the C&O Railroad was built in 1890, the town became an important shipping point for lumber products.

Friendsville, located near Exit 4 off Interstate 68 along the Youghiogheny River, is now most noted for its popular annual fiddle and banjo competition and the Friendsville Days summer celebration (see Schedule of Events). It is also the home of the Friend Family Association's National Heritage Museum and Library.

GARRETT COUNTY HISTORICAL MUSEUM — Located along Second Street in downtown Oakland, the museum can be identified by a large sign over the doorway saying "Garrett County Historical Society and Museum." The building serves as the headquarters for the Garrett County Historical Society as well as a 10-room museum displaying artifacts from Garrett County.

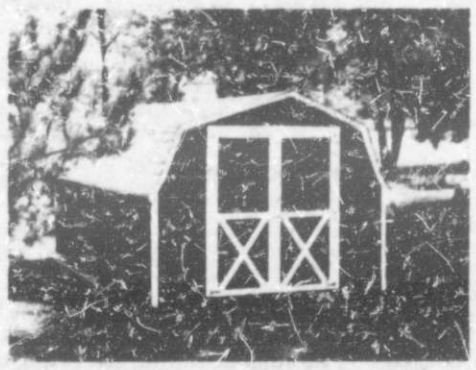

Formed in 1941, the Society accepted the challenge of recording the history of Garrett County and the immediate surrounding area which had an influence on the county's history. The Society publishes collected historical information in its quarterly publication, The Glades Star. (The magazine's name recalls a Garrett County newspaper by the same name which was published at the time of the county's formation in 1872.)

After the Society's formation in 1941, it soon became apparent that recording county history also included the preservation of artifacts. In November 1969, the Society opened its first museum, and it served as a center for visitors to the building as well as people interested in the genealogical library. After 25 years, the building became so crowded that it was necessary to have a larger one, and the Second Street property was purchased.

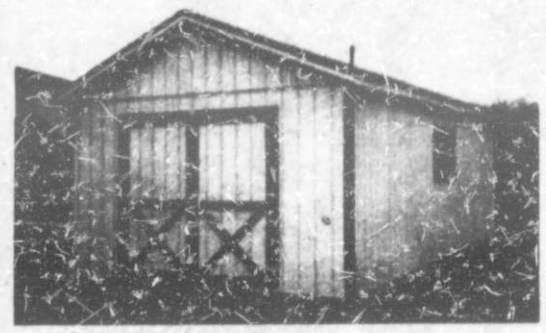

Many artifacts which are important to the historical and cultural development of Garrett County are preserved in the museum's collection. They are tastefully displayed in 10 different rooms.

One particular display, the Indian artifact collection, has arrowheads which date back to the Archaic Period of Indian culture. They are from a shelter cave in the northern part of the county where a small group camped each year during the summer.

Contained in the military collection are uniforms, guns, and all types of memorabilia from Civil to Gulf war times. A display in this collection centers on items from the USS Garrett County, an LST which served in the U.S. Navy from WWII to the end of the Vietnam War.

Admission to the museum is free, although donations are gratefully accepted. Please call the museum for hours of operation. Group tours can be arranged by telephoning 301-

GRANTSVILLE — Grantsville is located two miles south of the Mason-Dixon Line on Route 40 off exit 19 of Interstate 68. A pleasant community, Grantsville is the heart of some of the most productive farmland in the region.

As the oldest and most historic section of Garrett County, Grantsville is the site of many historic landmarks. For example, the visitor will find the Casselman Hotel, built in 1824. It was first used by drovers and farmers traveling westward over the National Pike. Still in operation, the Casselman Hotel offers services to today's traveler.

The Casselman River Bridge, built in 1813 along Route 40 east of Grantsville, was the largest single-span stone arch bridge of its kind at the time of construction. The bridge offers excellent photographic opportunities, as well as picnic facilities in a charming setting.

One of the oldest grist mills in Garrett County is Stanton's Mill, located in Grantsville near Spruce Forest Artisan Village along Route 40. The mill dates back to 1797 and is an interesting stop for any visitor.

Grantsville also boasts Penn Alps, originally an 1818 stagecoach stop along the National Road (Rdute 40), just east of the town. Penn Alps is now a restaurant and craft shop, which is the largest handicraft marketing facility in this mountain region. The adjacent Spruce Forest Artisan Village contains restored log cabins, school houses, a church, and other rustic buildings, which house a variety of working artisans during the year, Monday - Saturday. The village is closed on Sundays.

McHENRY — Named for Col. James McHenry of Baltimore, who was an aide to General George Washington during the American Revolution. Dr. McHenry was a physician, signer of the Constitution, and secretary of war under two presidents. Fort McHenry in Baltimore, site of the British bombardment during the War of 1812, was also named in his honor. On Route 219 at McHenry, overlooking Deep Creek Lake, a memorial plaque has been erected honoring Dr. McHenry.

The settlement was originally named "Buffalo Marsh," since the carcass of a large buffalo was found in the mud there by the first white men who visited the area.

McHenry is the site of Wisp, Maryland's only downhill ski slope; Deep Creek Lake, Maryland's largest freshwater lake and center of the area's recreational activities; Garrett Community College, a fully accredited 2-year learning institution; and the Garrett County Fairgrounds, home of the annual SUSPENDED IN MID-AIR above the courts of the Mtn. Lake Park Tennis Club, a tennis ball prepares to meet its fate at the hand of a ready server. The turn-of-the century clay courts, some of the oldest in the nation, date back to the southern Garrett County town's hey-day as a Chautauqua-type resort. The 78th annual Western Maryland Tennis Championship is slated for Aug. 2-6 at the club, located along Maryland Highway (Route 135). MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK — From 1882 until 1942 the town was a Chautauqua-type resort, having as many as 28 hotels and boarding houses in 1912. Thousands of visitors from all over the East would visit the Park every year to partake of the cool, clean mountain air and the numerous cultural, educational and recreational activities offered by the Chautauqua program.

Wealthy families fortunate enough to own their own homes in the Park would bring their servants, animals, and in later years, automobiles, via the B&O Railroad and spend the entire summer. President William Howard Taft, William Jennings Bryan; and the evangelist Billy Sunday were just three well-known individuals who visited the Park and spoke before huge audiences. Many of the musical, dramatic and oratorical performances were presented in a 5,000 seat amphitheater.

A portion of the Park with a number of Victorian houses has been listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

OAKLAND — Situated on a plateau 2,650 feet above sea level, the county seat was founded 23 years before Garrett County was established. The main line of the B&O Railroad came through Oakland in 1851 boosting the community's development as a commercial center. The railroad was also responsible for the popularization of the Deer Park-Oakland area as a resort in the late 1800s.

Looking back into history for over 250 years, there is an answer to "why" this particular spot in the glade country should become a settlement f and eventually the town of t Oakland. The answer is that it was located at the junction of three major Indian trails which criss-crossed the area. First the Indians traversed these trails; later, white men followed them through the area which is now Oakland.

Passing through the area from the southeast was the famous War Path, which later was cut out to become McCullough Pack Horse Path. It ran from the South Branch of the Potomac River to the Ohio River at Wheeling. Evidence of the trail's popularity is the fact that George Washington chose it on his last trip to this region in 1748.

Seneca Trail was the name given to the north-south Indian path that also came through the Oakland area. Crossing the Glades at its narrowest point, this path intersected the Glades Path and McCullough's Path on the western edge of what is now Oakland. This north-south trail is paralleled by U.S. 219 as it comes through Garrett County.

A third Indian trail, running east and west through the county, was known as the Glades Path. Its western terminus was the point where it intersected the other two on the western edge of the area which is now Oakland. This trail was a popular route followed by travelers since it gave easy access to the Savage River area and the Potomac River valley.

Eventually, the narrow spot in the "Glades Country" became so well known that the settlement which grew up at the intersection of the three trails was first called "Glades." Later, in 1849, when the town began to develop, the name was changed to "Oakland."

Current existing sites of interest in Oakland include the Garrett County Courthouse, built in 1908; the Garrett County Historical Museum on Second Street; the B&O Railroad Station; The "Church of the Presidents" (St. Matthew's Episcopal Church) along Liberty Street; and the Ruth Enlow Library. See other entries for additional information on other attractions.

"OUR FATHER'S HOUSE" LOG CHURCH — Now a mission of the Episcopal Church, this is among the last log churches in the eastern United States remaining in use today. Reportedly built at a cost of $50, it is situated in a shady grove along Route 135 on Backbone Mountain near Altamont.

Services are held from mid-June to Labor Day. Services the rest of the year are held at St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park.

PENN ALPS — This 1818 log building was built as a stagecoach stop along the National Road (Route 40), east of Grantsville and originally called the "Little Crossings Inn." It now serves as a restaurant and craft shop and is the largest handicraft marketing facility in the area.

Penn Alps is adjacent to the Spruce Forest Artisan Village of four log cabins, a plank shed, and numerous other rustic buildings, including Revolutionary War era and 1920 log houses, and the 1835 Miller House, built by an Amish patriarch of the Casselman Valley. The Spruce Forest Artisan Village Summerfest and Quilt Show is held here annually in July, and the craft village is open year-round.

THE SANG RUN AREA — Out of its magnificent resources the county has produced a book which, for a hundred years, has rated as a great hunter's classic. This autobiography is Forty-Four Years of the Life of a Hunter, written by Meshach Browning, Maryland's most noted hunter. His famous rifle is now on display in the Smithsonian Institution.

Meshach Browning settled in this area, known at one time as the "Sanging Ground." His hunts in this region northwest of Deep Creek Lake made him a legend.

In its very name, "Sang Run" contains a reminder of a plant that has long association with American mountain life—that is, ginseng, shortened by the mountaineers to "sang." Its years.

When Jesse Tomlinson built the grist mill in 1797, he took advantage of local geography. The Casselman River in this area makes a ½ mile "U" shaped loop, with the top of the "U" only several hundred yards wide. In the ½ mile distance, the river bottom drops about 20 feet, leaving a high bank at the lower end of the "U."

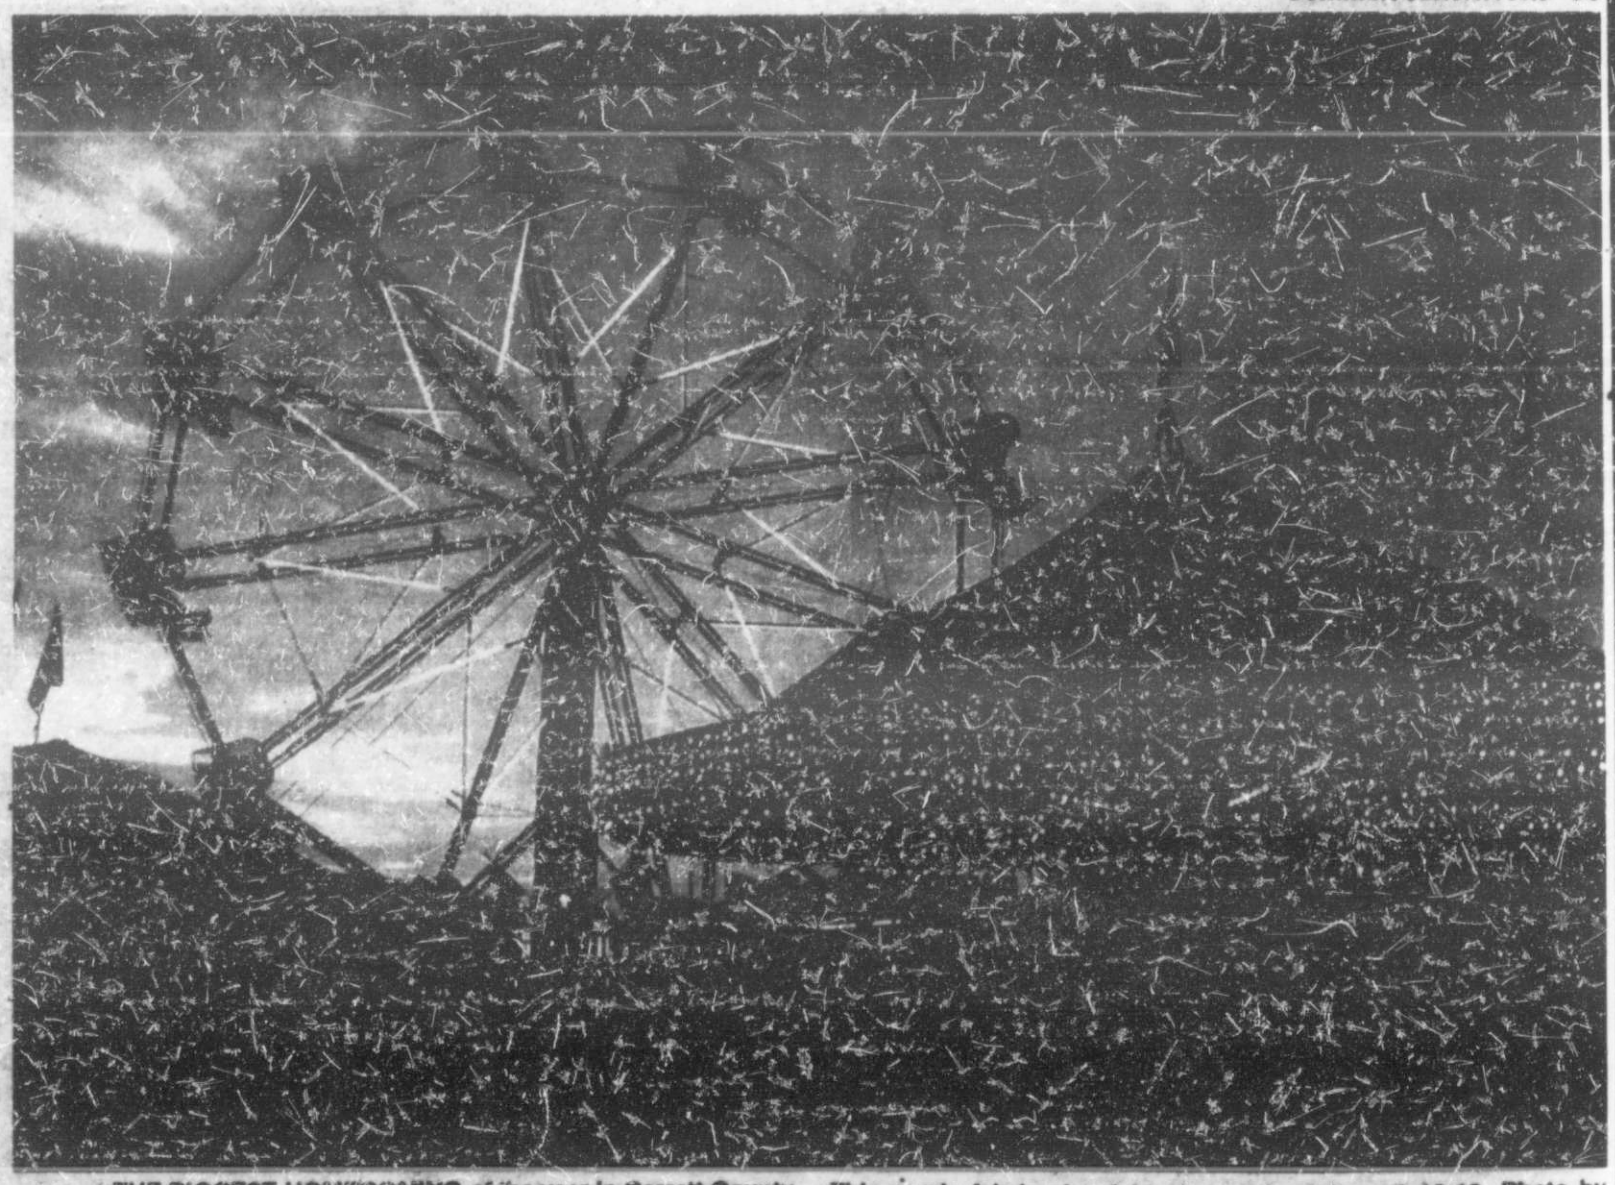

Tomlinson's original plan was to harness the water from near-by Indian Spring Run. However, he soon realized that with a short extension of the mill race, he could tap into the water of the Casselman River at the upper end of the "U." Then, by locating his grist mill on the high bank at the lower end of the loop, he could take advantage of the 20 foot elevation drop to power the waterwheel at the mill.

The result was that even with a low water level in the river during the summer months, there would still be adequate water for operating the mill.

Today, a visitor to the Spruce Forest Artisan Village complex can still see the mill race as it runs under the old National Road, U.S. 40 and Interstate 68.

Stanton's Mill operated as an independent business until three years ago when it was purchased by the Spruce Forest Artisan Village group. At that time, it was the oldest,

THE SPORT OF MOUNTAIN BIKING, whether for challenge or pleasure, is booming here on the mountaintop. Trails of a variety of difficulty levels abound in the many state forests and parks located here in Garrett County, and trailheads are marked along local roadways with brown wooden signs. A biking helmet is a necessity, as is a keen eye that will help seek out the deer and turkey that share their woodland home with riders.

Sally Taylor To Perform In Oakland

Despite being the daughter of two of the world's best known performers (James Taylor and Carly Simon), Sally Taylor is an independent artist in her own right who has completed three national tours and over 200 shows with her band which consists of bass, drums, and guitar. Taylor will bring her talents to downtown Oakland on Friday, July 28, as part of the Little Yough Summer Music Festival concert series.

Taylor's first album, Tomboy Bride, was recorded in a little dilapidated shack in the hills of Colorado on some equipment she borrowed from a friend. In its first year out, it sold over 7,000 copies, much to her surprise and delight. She said that the recording was meant to be "just for some friends and family for Christmas." The album is still only available on the Internet at www.sallytaylor.com and at her live performances. She and the band are currently working on independently promoting their next album, which again can be obtained only on the Web.

Also on her web site, Taylor writes a daily road diary, which has accumulated what is almost a cult following for Taylor and her band. "People often show up at their shows, never having heard their music, but knowing exactly what the band had for breakfast that morning," stated one promoter.

Taylor and her famous mother, Carly Simon, co

Camping, Picnicking, Hiking Available In State Parks

THE RUSH OF WATER paradoxically serves to slow down the mind, as Swallow Falls does for visitors to Swallow Falls State Park in the western end of the county. Garrett County is home to six state parks and three state forests, each of which offers a welcome respite from the working world and an educational window into the world of nature.

Camping In Maryland State Parks

Individual parks vary in times of operation, entrance fee, etc. It is recommended that you call the specific state park for further information. Campers are not permitted to enter the camping area after 10 p.m. Several state park campgrounds accept pets, so call for information. Swallow Falls now has 5 "equipped sites" (tent, stove, lantern, propane provided).

Trailers

Camping trailers up to 29 feet in length are permitted. Electric hookups are available at various state parks. House trailers are not permitted.

Improved Campgrounds

Each campsite allows sufficient room to park one car and a camping trailer, or to park one car and erect a tent up to 16'. (Sometimes off-site parking is necessary). A picnic table and grill are provided at each site, and drinking fountains and water spigots are located nearby. Camping areas contain centrally located wash houses, equipped with toilets, lavatories and showers with hot water available. Laundry tubs are available in some parks during the summer. Deep Creek and Swallow Falls state parks will accept specific site reservations up to one year in advance.

Unimproved Campgrounds

These sites also allow ample room for the parking of one car and a camping trailer, or the erection of a tent; however, in some areas off-site parking may be necessary. Tables and fireplaces are available, and a source of water and a comfort station are within walking distance. Comfort stations are equipped with toilets only.

Cabins

Cabins may be reserved for one week intervals from Memorial Day through Labor Day and for two-night minimum stays for all other months of the year.

Prospective cabin renters may call the park directly to make those reservations. Reservations will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding holidays. Reservations may be made one calendar year in advance of the desired date. Some cabins are handicapped accessible.

Reservations must be accompanied by a non-refundable deposit.

When making reservations the person must provide names, addresses, number of people and telephone number for each of the reservations made. For more information, please call the statewide reservation number: 1-888-432-CAMP.

BACKBONE MOUNTAIN—At an elevation of 3,360 feet, this is the highest point in the state of Maryland. This high point was named for Capt. Charles Hoye, prominent historian and founder of the Garrett County Historical Society.

Backbone Mountain is actually a long mountain in the Allegheny range which begins in the Savage River area and runs southwest into West Virginia. The highest point in Maryland is located in the southern part of Garrett County about 500 feet from the Maryland/West Virginia boundary line.

Backbone Mountain is also the "Eastern Continental Divide." The east side of the mountain drains into the Atlantic Ocean via the Potomac River. The west slope drains into the Gulf of Mexico via the Youghiogheny River, which ultimately feeds the water into the Mississippi River.

Hoye Crest is so near the state line that the best access to it is from the West Virginia side of the line through Monongahela National Forest. An excellent hiking trail about one mile long begins on the east side of U.S. 219 3/8 mile beyond Silver Lake, W.Va. (5 miles south of Route 219 and Route 50 intersection at Red House).

The hiking trail has been cut out from an old lumber road by "High Pointers," volunteers under the direction of Gene and Lillian Elliott of Silver Spring. They put a mail box on the steel pole that supports the historical marker at Hoye Crest. Inside the box are small certificates to prove that the hiker undertook the climb up the mountain trail and suc-

BEAR CREEK FISH REARING STATION — The history of Garrett County is closely associated with its excellent trout fishing. Since the early 19th century, sportsmen have come to the area for trout. Many records of phenomenal catches still exist. At the Bear Creek Fish Rearing Station along the Bear Creek Road near Friendsville, visitors can see the future catches in all stages of growth, from fingerlings up to 14-inch prizes. The pools are located in a green glade with large trees.

BROADFORD RECREATION AREA — A delightful park outside Oakland in Mtn. Lake Park off Pittsburgh Avenue, this area boasts a 138-acre lake with 700 feet of beach. There are a bathhouse, concession building, boat ramp for rowboats, and extensive picnic grounds. The emphasis is on swimming, picnicking and fishing.

THE COVE — Traveling on Route 219, you can see a panoramic view of one of the finest farming districts in the area. At a 2,800-foot elevation on the highway, the Cove appears to be a huge amphitheater, surrounded on all sides by mountain ranges. Farms are laid out in soil-conserving contour strips. During the spring, summer and fall, an artist's painting could not be more picturesque. If traveling south from Interstate 68 on Route 219, the Cove scenic overlook is located on the right just a few miles north of Accident. The view is highly recommended.

CRAFTS—Garrett County offers an abundance of original crafts and handcrafted items, with many places serving as outlets to the countless area craftspersons. All are open to the public, and you are encouraged to visit and see examples of original handcrafted items.

Demonstrations of various crafts are scheduled throughout the year at the Spruce Forest Artisan Village near Penn Alps in Grantsville, where examples of weaving, woodworking, wood carving, basket making, quilting, stained glass making, soap making, teddy bears, herbs, pottery, casting and forging, and many other crafts are demonstrated. Two big craft shows are held during the annual Autumn Glory Festival in mid-

Accident Making Independence Day Homecoming Plans

The Town of Accident will celebrate its annual July 4th homecoming with a full day of activities, from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m.

Opening festivities will begin at 9 a.m. with an ecumenical worship service at St. Paul's Church, followed by the flag-raising ceremony and then the firemen's parade at 11 a.m. Dinners will be served beginning at noon.

Some of the day events include: a craft show and sale, games, horseshoe pitching, military uniforms display, hay wagon rides, Drane House tours, bingo, historic walking tours, and a patriotic program featuring the Accident Concert Band and the Community in Harmony Chorus. A variety of musical entertainment from the Pipes and Drums and the Cadillac Cowboys will begin at noon and continue throughout the day until 8 p.m.

Organizers extend an invitation to veterans of all wars to attend and wear their uniforms so that they can march in the parade.

Another feature will be an art exhibition at the Flowery Vale Senior Center on July 3 and 4 from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and on July 2 from 1:30 until 4 p.m.

A variety of food and beverages will be available during the day, sponsored by the ladies of the community. For further information, persons may call 301-746-6346.

wrote and sang a duet for the movie Anywhere But Here, starring Susan Sarandon. She will also have a song in the new Farrelly brothers' movie, Me, Myself, and Irene, staring Jim Carrey.

"I'm so lucky to be blessed with these guys (in the band) and with these audiences that keep on showing up and staying and pushing us to go farther and farther," Taylor said. "They remind me again and again that this stuff, this music stuff, isn't about candy coating art with glitter to feed to one's ego. It's about sharing time and space, and giving it up to the audience, those friends you've never met, but have always known because you see yourself in them. It's about letting go of the ownership of your art and your fear and your heart, because giving love is the only thing that makes complete sense."

Taylor's concert at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland, which is sponsored by Rob Michael and State Farm Insurance, will begin at 7 p.m. Admission is free.

PANELCRAFT

IT MAY LOOK LIKE MANY OTHER NICE HOMES YOU'VE SEEN, BUT THE BEAUTY YOU SEE IN THIS HOUSE IS NOT ONLY SKIN DEEP!

It's in the walls, floors, ceilings, kitchen, dining room, living room, bedroom, bathroom, den, basement, and attic! It's even in the homeowner's attitude! They Love It!!

Should you take the siding off you would see 7/16 OSB on all the walls, which is the exterior skin of SOLID CORE Structural Insulated Panels. These Panels consist of Polystyrene in various thicknesses, laminated between two pieces of Structure Board.

 The chimney effect of a conventional stud wall has accelerated many accidential fires, causing severe damage if not total destruction. SOLID CORE Construction has proven to be far less fire hazardous!

 POLYSTYRENE is far superior to other insulating methods in terms of R Values, Air Tightness, Vapor Barrier, and Sound Barrier!

 PANEL structures are much stronger than conventional. In fact, panel homes have stood through earthquake activity where other homes right beside them crumbled. This stands to reason with the Unitized Construction!

 PANEL CONSTRUCTION is also faster & easier. Simply set up Panels and be done with it! ANYBODY CAN DO IT!!!

THE CRANESVILLE, SUBARCTIC SWAMP—One of nature's natural phenomena, the swamp covers over 850 acres of land which sprawls across the boundaries of Maryland and West Virginia. Formed during the Ice Age, this remnant of boreal forest produces growth normally found only in arctic regions and offers geologists, biologists and nature buffs the opportunity to observe many rare species of flora and fauna.

The swamp is a true bog, and during the wet seasons traveling to the interior is

Cleaning a deck has never been easier.

Cleaning the underside of a mower deck used to be difficult and time consuming, until now. Introducing three Steiner side discharge mower decks with new and improved features that provide safe, easy access to the cutting blades - while the deck remains attached to the tractor.

In seconds, convenient handles enable you to raise the deck to a 90+ degree angle. For your safety, the deck latches securely in the upright position. The unique Steiner design makes it impossible to drive the blades with the deck positioned for service. And, lowering the deck to resume operation is just as easy and safe.

While adding convenience and safety, these mower decks also provide the features you expect from Steiner, including fast attachment via Quick-Hitch™, excellent flotation and rugged, durable construction that leads to years of service. For a mower that's as impressive as the tractor that powers it, visit us today.

nearly impossible. Visitors may view the perimeter of the swamp from public roads. A boardwalk has been constructed for easy visitor access. To preserve the fragile ecology of the swamp, visitors are requested to remain on the boardwalk or designated paths. Removal of plants and animals is prohibited.

To reach the swamp from Oakland, follow Liberty Street out of town past the Oakland Railroad Station; this becomes the Herrington Manor Road. Go approximately 6 miles and turn left on the Cranesville Road; go 4 miles and just past the Bell Ringer Originals In Wood, turn left on Lake Ford Road at a sign marked "Cranesville Swamp Nature Preserve"; after traveling on this road approximately 2/10 mile, bear right at the fork onto another dirt road; in another 2/10 mile, turn right onto the dirt driveway and follow the driveway past the Preserve entrance sign and turn right into the parking area. To reach the boardwalk, walk past the entrance sign and follow the marked trail under the electric power lines. The swamp is now owned by the Nature Conservancy of Maryland and West Virginia, 2 Wisconsin Circle, Chevy Chase, MD 20815 or P.O. Box 3754, Charleston, W.Va.

DEEP CREEK LAKE — Vacationers will find Deep Creek Lake the center of Garrett County's recreational attractions—the most ideal spot for a summer or winter vacation. The largest freshwater lake in Maryland, it is 12 miles in length with a shoreline of 65 miles covering nearly 3,900 acres.

A wide variety of activities abound, including boating, water skiing, fishing, swimming, hiking, picnicking, sailing, downhill and cross-country skiing, and snow-mobiling.

Guests will find a number of campgrounds in the area. Motels, bed and breakfasts, cottages and condominiums also dot the shoreline, providing excellent accommodations. Many provide dock facilities, sandy beaches and swimming areas. Deep Creek Lake and the surrounding area also boast some of the finest dining establishments in the state.

DEEP CREEK LAKE DISCOVERY CENTER — Nestled along the shores of Deep Creek Lake at Deep Creek Lake State Park is the Discovery Center, an interpretive, environmental center, that is a one-of-a-kind educational venue for children as well as adults. Through hands-on exhibits that showcase the natural resources of western Maryland, families can learn about the flora and fauna, wildlife, cultural and historical heritage that have turned this former coal mining area into a popular modern day vacation

JENNINGS RANDOLPH LAKE — Located southwest of Bloomington, the dam is the third largest of its type east of the Mississippi River. Construction was completed in 1981. The lake is located in Garrett County and in Mineral County, West Virginia, and the dam is built across the North Branch of the Potomac River eight miles upstream from Bloomington. Maryland and West Virginia have a joint law-enforcement compact between both state's Natural Resources Agencies.

The lake is designed to provide water quality and flood control, water supply, and recreation. The full-recreation lake has a surface area of 952 acres, a shoreline of 13.6 miles, and extends upstream from the dam for 5½ miles.

United States Navy Band "Cruisers" To Give Free Concert

Under the direction of Master Chief Musician Gerard J. Ascione, the Cruisers rock ensemble is the newest specialty unit of the United States Navy Band in Washington, D.C. The group will give a free concert as part of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival 2000 season. The show is slated for Sunday, Sept. 3, at Deep Creek Lake State Park, beginning at 4 p.m.

The band, which takes its name from the Navy's versatile, flexible, multi-missioned cruiser ship, performs a variety of music, ranging from classic rock and rhythm and blues to today's "top 40" hits.

The musicians of Cruisers are Kenneth H. Carr, guitarist; John L. Fisher, vocalist; Benjamin L. Grant, bassist; and John T. Parsons, drummer.

Director Ascione joined the Navy in 1977 and was first assigned to the United States Naval Academy Band in Annapolis. While there, he served as a french horn and piano instrumentalist, and was a founding member of the Naval Academy's rock band, The Electric Brigade.

Ascione graduated from the Senior Enlisted Academy in Newport, R.I., in March 1989 and became the director of the Commodores jazz ensemble later that year. He became the director of the Cruisers last year.

As a solo pianist, Ascione performs frequently for the vice president of the United States, the secretary of defense, the secretary of the Navy, the chief of Naval Operations, and others.

Guests are invited to bring their lawn chairs and picnic suppers to the park to relax and listen to the Cruisers perform. The show is sponsored by WestVaco.

MAPLE SUGAR — Sugaring is older than the history of our nation. Indians tapped the trees long before the white man arrived. The art of sugaring is still practiced in Garrett County, basically unchanged from Indian days. Although one may see tractors instead of horses, the production techniques are much the same.

In spite of the fact that a maple must be 40 years old before it can be tapped, many groves still exist in Garrett County. One of the most beautiful is Brenneman's Grove, located near Bittinger. Sugaring takes place in the late winter or early spring, and authentic Garrett County maple products are available from several stores in the area.

OVER THE BOUNDING MAIN — Borne on the mountain breeze, sailboats take to Deep Creek Lake throughout the summer for pleasure sailing and organized competitions. Races take place every Saturday and Sunday from Memorial Day to Labor Day on the southern end of the lake, and may be viewed by spectators boating in that area. In addition to that open weekly series, special regattas are held for the Laser and locally-produced Flying Scot class sailboats at the local, district, and national levels.

slopes covered with giant hemlock, it is an area of noble primitiveness.

The land beside the falls is the site of the 1918 camp of pioneer motor tourists Henry Ford, Thomas Edison and Harvey Firestone. These three titans of American industry, who had the world to pick from, chose to come to this site when they wanted to enjoy themselves. The site of the camp has been marked. The trio returned in 1921.

Situated in a cool, towering forest, the area has complete facilities for camping and picnicking. This 52-foot cataract is highly recommended to the nature lover and camera buff.

MURLEY'S GLADE WALK -- There are over 100 miles of hiking trails in Garrett County. A short one that combines history and primitive beauty is in Murley's Glade of the Snaggy Mountain Recreation area near Herrington Manor State Park. The service road into the area passes through a marsh that has remained almost unchanged for hundreds of years. Wildlife abounds there; there are all kinds of animals and birds.

"STUPID LITTLE BALL, STUPID LITTLE HOLE..." Miniature golf, fondly referred to as "putt putt," can be played at several locations in Garrett County, offering a special outing for mom, dad, and kids of all ages. Photo by John McEwen.

On the Snaggy Mountain Road, two miles from where it intersects with Cranesville Road, there is a parking spot on the right near a sign for the Bicentennial Tree. A short distance over the hill behind the sign, the trail comes to an old road in a primitive woods; many of the oak trees here are over 200 years old.

GLAF To Present Barbershop Music

JOKERS WILD QUARTET

The sound of barbershop harmony will take the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival stage this summer, as the award-winning Jokers Wild Quartet, along with the Mountainaires Barbershop Chorus, will perform on the GCC stage on Saturday, July 29, beginning at 8 p.m.

Joker's Wild was formed in August of 1990 when the original four members met informally at the Buckeye Invitational in Columbus, Ohio, and harmonized together. The sound and enthusiasm of the evening convinced the men to form a quartet to showcase their natural blend.

After winning the Johnny Appleseed District (JAD) Quartet Championship in October 1990, Joker's Wild went on to represent JAD at the 1991 International Quartet Competition of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA), held in Louisville, Ky. After years of growing success, Joker's Wild were named the 1994 International Champions.

Since winning the international contest, the group has been featured on shows and in concerts throughout the world. They have entertained in the U.S., Canada, Germany, Italy, France, and Spain. The quartet has performed on national television and on the radio.

The Mountainaires Barbershop Chorus represents the Clarksburg-Fairmont (W.Va.) Chapter of the SPEBSQSA. The chapter has a present membership of 50 men who work to perpetuate the art of male, four-part, unaccompanied singing.

This show is sponsored by the First United Bank & Trust.

Tickets to the event are $10 for adults and $2 for youth 18 and younger. For more information, persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

State Forests

Maryland state forests have primitive campsites only, without manmade improvements. Potomac/Garrett State Forest offers pine shelters at a $10 fee. Campers may self-register at various sites throughout the area at a $5 fee. Pets are permitted in Maryland state forests.

Season: Open all year, unlimited camping hours, quiet time 11 p.m.

GARRETT STATE FOREST — Mountain forests, streams and valleys make up the 7,400 acres in Garrett State Forest. In 1906 the Garrett brothers of the B&O Railroad fame gave the state of Maryland 2,000 acres of forest land, provided that a state forestry department be established to manage the area. The donated area was originally named Swallow Falls State Forest. The name was changed in 1976 to Garrett State Forest in honor of the donors. Call 301-334-2033.

POTOMAC STATE FOREST — This forest contains 12,400 acres of trees, streams and wildlife. It is located along Backbone Mountain near the headwaters of the historic Potomac River. The terrain is rugged with elevations ranging from 1,800 feet along the Potomac to 2,960 feet on Backbone Mountain. This steep gradient gives rise to numerous fast-falling brooks and streams which feed the river. Several of the larger streams are Schell, Laurel, Lostland Run and Crabtree Creek.

The possibilities for recreation in the forest are for the most part of a primitive nature. It offers scenic vistas, camping, hunting, fishing and nature appreciation. Various activities are offered throughout the year. Feel free to bring your pet. For information, call 301-334-2038.

SAVAGE RIVER STATE FOREST — This is the largest of Maryland's state forests and contains almost 53,000 acres of forestland, streams and wildlife habitat for your enjoyment. This forest is located in Garrett County and forms part of the Appalachian Plateau. Within the Savage River Forest are two state parks — New Germany and Big Run. These are developed recreational areas offering housekeeping cabins, picnicking, improved campsites and other facilities. Also within the forest is the 360-acre Savage River Reservoir.

The forest offers camping, hiking, sightseeing, fishing, hunting, biking and winter sports. Pets are a welcome addition. For information, call 301-895-5759.

PARK WATCH — Maryland State Forest and Park Service has implemented a Park Watch Program. The objective is to encourage park visitors and neighbors to take a more active role in protecting personal property and preserving the park. If you observe any suspicious activity, vandalism or safety hazards, you are asked to report them to the ParkWatch Hotline, 1-800-825-PARK.

The old road follows the route of the ancient Indian War Path combined with McCullough's Pack Horse Trail. During early Colonial days, this path was a route from Virginia to the Ohio River country. George Washington was among the famous persons who traveled over this path. On the night of September 25, 1784, he and his nephew Bushrod were traveling south through Murley's Glade and got caught in a rainstorm. It became so wet they couldn't even light a campfire and had to spend a cold, wet night in the woods.

Naturally, Washington wrote a few terse words in his diary about Murley's Glade, but the seasoned hiker will recognize this as a place of history and primitive beauty.

OAKLAND OVERLOOK — A classic view of Garrett County's seat of government is available by walking the 2/10 mile path to the overlook just off Route 39, west of town. Visitors are urged to park at the Lighthouse office building along Rt. 39 and carefully cross the road to get to the overlook. The view provides a great chance to see the historic courthouse, some of the community's grand old churches and a unique view of the 1884 train station.

PENN ALPS — Penn Alps is an organization dedicated to serving residents of the Allegheny Mountains, with Garrett County lying in the heart of the area served. It operates the largest handicraft marketing facility in this mountain region, in conjunction with a restaurant containing five dining rooms. The Alpine Room, which was added in 1969, is graced by a huge fireplace of stone dressed in 1818, exposed beams and bay windows green with plant life. An upstairs dining/conference room was restored in 1988 to its original 1818 log structure. It is also the home of the Spruce Forest's "Music at Penn Alps" Summer Concert Series.

Situated on U.S. 40, just east of Crantsville, Penn Alps is conveniently located for tourists and has ample parking facilities. Handicraft demonstrations are held at the adjacent Spruce Forest Artisan Village, which is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. year-round.

SAILBOAT RACES — During the season, of Memorial Day to Labor Day, races are held every Saturday and Sunday on the southern part of Deep Creek Lake, and may be viewed by spectators in boats in that area. Even if you are

Healthy Families
Garrett County
Fact Sheet

Healthy Families
Garrett County

Healthy Families Garrett County is a home visitation program that supports and assists parents to foster health, learning and development in their young children. Enrollment is open to expecting parents and families with a newborn less than 3 months of age. Services are offered until the child is age 5.

WHY HEALTHY FAMILIES

- Parent(s) are the first and most important teachers of their young children.
- Parenting is a difficult job, and all parents have stresses, concerns and questions about parenting.
- Parent(s) want to be "better" and do more for their children.
- The most important stages of learning in a child's life takes place from birth to age 3.

WE BELIEVE

- Parent(s) are the strongest influence in their children's lives.
- Parent(s) are entitled to decide what their needs are and what services and programs they want to take part in.
- Children deserve to grow up in healthy, safe, loving families.
- Preventing problems is better than fixing them.

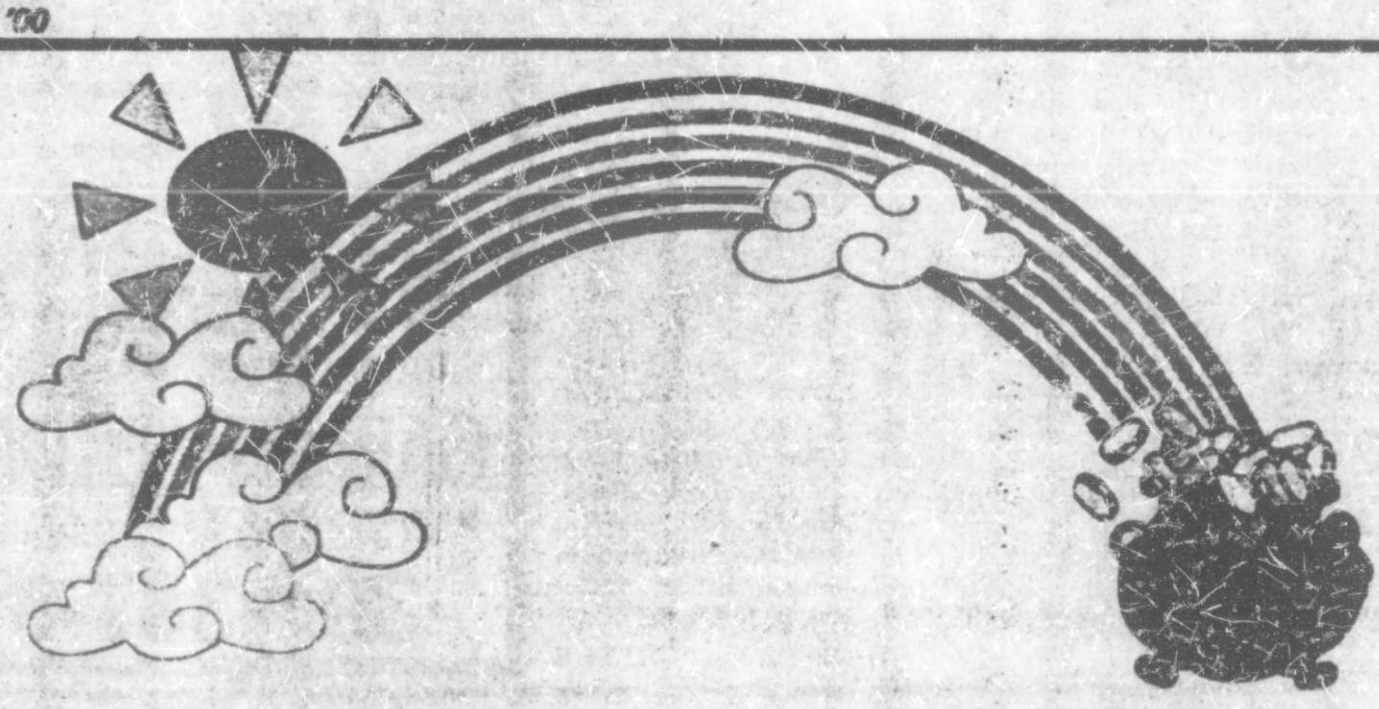

WHAT WE DO

- Give parenting ideas and information:
  - ~How to recognize and care for your baby's needs.
  - ~What to expect as your child grows.
  - ~How to teach while playing with your baby.
  - ~How to make your home safe for your baby.
- Family support:
  - ~Through referrals to other services.
  - ~By helping with a wide range of problems.
  - ~By identifying resources for housing, food, etc.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

- Expecting parent(s) and parent(s) who have a newborn, up to 3 months old. If your child is beyond the age of 3 months, other similar services are available. Please contact our agency for further information.
- Families who have questions about parenting.
- No income restrictions. No charge for services.

Tom Paxton Among Performers Of Little Yough River Festival

Tom Paxton, who will be featured by the Little Yough Summer Concert Series on July 8, has been an integral part of the song-writing and folk music community since the early 1960s and "Greenwich Village scene." And he continues today to influence the "New Folk" generation.

Paxton's songs have addressed issues of injustice and inhumanity as well as the apparent absurdities of modern culture. They have also celebrated the most tender bonds of family, friends, and community.

A Chicago native, Paxton moved to New York via Oklahoma, where he spent his adolescence, earned a degree in drama and discovered folk music. His initial success in Greenwich Village was soon equaled by success in England, the first of many countries to offer a warm welcome to him and his music.

Married 31 years, Paxton

Tom Paxton

and his wife Midge have reared two daughters. All three women, he has said, inspired the writing of songs about love of family and love of life. He has performed thousands of memorable concerts and enjoys the support of countless fans throughout the world.

That those fans continue to seek Paxton is a testament, not only to the quality of his newest material, but to the enduring power of his earlier songs such as "The Last Thing on My Mind," "Ramblin' Boy," "Bottle of Wine," "Whose Garden Was This," and "The Marvelous Toy."

Tom Paxton's place in folk music is secured not just by hit records and awards, but by the admiration of three generations of fellow musicians and fans. An internationally recognized and loved cultural figure, Paxton has always chosen good will over commercial successes. His generosity takes the shape of a benefit concert performance for a little girl fighting leukemia, or a personal note of encouragement to an up-and-coming songwriter. This is the man who wrote and lives the words "Peace will come and let it begin with me" (which Paxton performed in Jerusalem at the time of Arafat's return to the Gaza).

Paxton songbooks, critically acclaimed children's books (available from Morrow Junior Books), award-winning children's recordings, and a catalog of thousands of songs that have been recorded by artists ranging from Willie Nelson to Placido Domingo all serve to document Paxton's remarkable 34-year career.

This free performance by Tom Paxton, sponsored by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, will begin at 7 p.m. on Saturday, July 8, at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland.

BACTERIA In Your Water

What You Need To Know

As a private well owner, you are in a unique position: You control your own water supply. With this benefit come some responsibilities. You are responsible for protecting your valuable ground water resource as well as your family's health.

Occasionally, based on a news report or the color or smell of your water, you may wonder about the safety of your water supply. What do you do? Testing your water for the most common well contaminants is the best course of action. Answers to some questions you may have follow.

How common are water problem?

"Pure" water does not exist. All natural water contains some gases and minerals and is likely to contain some microbial organisms. Most water bacteria are harmless and many are actually beneficial.

I've heard about coliform bacteria. What are they?

Coliform bacteria originate as organisms in soil or vegetation and in the intestinal tract of warm-blooded animals (fecal coli). The many sources of facterial poliution include runoff from woodlands, pastures, and feedlots; septic tanks and sewage plants; and animals (wild or domestic).

Will coliform bacteria make us sick?

Maybe, maybe not. Most coliforms are harmless residents of soil and will not make people sick. Some strains of E. coli, the common fecal coliform bacterium, may be pathogens. Some found in food have been lethal. Their presence should be taken very seriously.

If my water is clear and smells OK, is it safe?

You cannot directly smell unsafe bacteria or protozoa. They can only be detected using tests designed for that purpose. You should check your water quality regularly. Some sources of odors are bacteria or septic, or the presence of chemicals. It is a good idea to take your nose seriously. Have the water tested.

What is the "iron bacteria" problem?

Better described as iron biofouling, the problem popularly know as "iron bacteria" is both complex and widespread. Iron and other biofouling consists of biofilms, which include living and dead bacteria, their sheaths, stalks, secretions and other leavings, and embedded metal hydroxide particles. "Iron bacteria" is one type of biofouling among several, including the characteristic white sulfur slime of sulfur springs. Manganese and even aluminum biofouling is also found in ground water systems. These biofilms are natural and usually harmless. Natural iron biofouling often acts as a preliminary iron filter in wells and therefore can serve a positive function as well. Biofouling can be a nuisance, however. Generally, iron biofouling is the cause of iron buildup in wells and pipes.

If I have bacteria in my well, where do they come from?

Many types of bacteria are native or adapted to saturated sediments and rocks, and are present in significant numbers in most water supply aquifers, even deep formations. Given time and a route (soil and rock provide plenty of both), bacteria will migrate into and take up housekeeping in an aquifer. "Non-native" coliform bacteria or "protozoa" of potenial health concern, such as Giardia and Cryptosporidium, are most likely introduced from the surface..

What do we do about this problem?

If possible, do whatever it takes to correct the problem in your existing system. If necessary, install a new well and water inlet system away from the source of contamination.

What's the best way to maintain my good water supply?

You should have your water tested annually for radon, bacteria, and anything else of concern to you, even if you do not perceive a change in your water. Have your water tested by a qualified laboratory. They are listed in your phone book under "Water Testing" or "Laboratories."

The question of whether or not to have your water tested is a serious one that concerns the health of you and your family. If you obtain drinking water from your own well, you alone are responsible for assuring that is safe.

Where can I get more information?

For more information, contact your local ground water contractor; the U.S. EPA Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 800-426-4791; the National Radon Hotline at 800-767-7236; or the National Ground Water Association at 800-551-7379. LOOK OUT, THE FISH BITE! Garrett County's waterways are teeming with fish patiently waiting for that succulent worm. Deep cool lakes and clear flowing streams make for a fisherman's paradise. The young angler shown above reeled in the large pickerel she's holding, and the two youngsters pictured below would also make Izaak Walton proud with their catches. (A current Maryland fishing license must be possessed by all anglers 16 and older.)

not a participant, the view of dozens of sailboats skimming the lake in competition with multi-colored spinnakers flying is breathtaking.

In addition to the weekly series, regattas are held for Flying Scot and Laser class sailboats at the local, district, and national levels. Garrett County is the home of Flying Scots, Inc., formerly the Gordon Douglass Boat Company, established by the late Gordon K. Douglass, one of America's foremost sailboat designers, who designed the Thistle, the Highlander, and the locally built Flying Scot sailboats.

SAVAGE RIVER & RESERVOIR/SAVAGE RIVER COMPLEX — The Savage River Complex offers 53,000 acres of forestland, streams and wildlife habitat, and includes New Germany and Big Run state parks. Within the forest is the 360-acre Savage River Reservoir. For the whitewater paddler, the Savage, a most aptly named river, is narrow, mean, and harrowing, and almost completely whitewater for 5½ miles. The road from the Savage River Dam to Bloomington parallels the river for most of the run.

One of Maryland's largest, the Savage River Dam is 1,050 feet long, rising 184 feet above the stream bed. Stream flow from the dam is controlled by a concrete-lined tunnel 10 feet in diameter and 170 feet long.

This was the site of the 1989 Whitewater World Championships featuring participants from more than 20 countries around the world, plus the U.S. Canoe & Kayak Team Olympic Trials in May 1992, and it will host future international whitewater races.

The Savage River Reservoir provides excellent fishing year-round.

SIMON PEARCE GLASS BLOWING — At the glass manufacturing facility in Mountain Lake Park, visitors can observe glassblowers at work from an ideal vantage point—a catwalk viewing gallery above the factory floor. A unique ventilation system in the roof over the production area helps maintain a comfortable work environment, despite the intense heat from the glass furnace.

The precision the craft requires is immediately apparent when one observes the glassblowing process. Creating in teams, glassblowers share the delicate tasks of hand blowing and hand finishing. The rough cross underneath each piece of glass, made by the pontil iron that holds it in place as it is finished, symbolizes the unique nature of each piece. For that reason, the cross is left as the Simon Pearce trademark.

SPRUCE FOREST ARTISAN VILLAGE — Original log cabins, as well as numerous other rustic structures, comprise the Spruce Forest Artisan Village, located next to Penn Alps along Route 40 east of Grantsville. Each summer, these buildings serve as work and display areas for craftsmen such as spinners, weavers, potters, stained glass workers, wood sculptors and bird carvers. In summer, the Miller House and Compton School are hosted by volunteers. The Village is open Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. year-round. The Village is the home of the Summerfest & Quilt Show in mid-July.

YOUGHIOGHENY OVERLOOK INFORMATION CENTER — This center features information on all areas within the state of Maryland. Brochures are available at this State center which is open year-round, seven days a week 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

YOUGHIOGHENY RIVER AND RESERVOIR — Maryland's only designated, exciting "scenic and wild river" is the Youghiogheny. Its waters flow through a vast unspoiled area from southern Garrett County to north of Friendsville, where it feeds the Youghiogheny Reservoir, a recreation and flood-control project of the Army Corps of Engineers. The state of Maryland is moving to preserve the Youghiogheny and keep it in its natural state.

A popular location for recreation, Youghiogheny River Lake attracts numerous visitors to the project each year. Boating, fishing, camping and many other outdoor activities are enjoyed by visitors with outstanding facilities provided for the public's convenience.

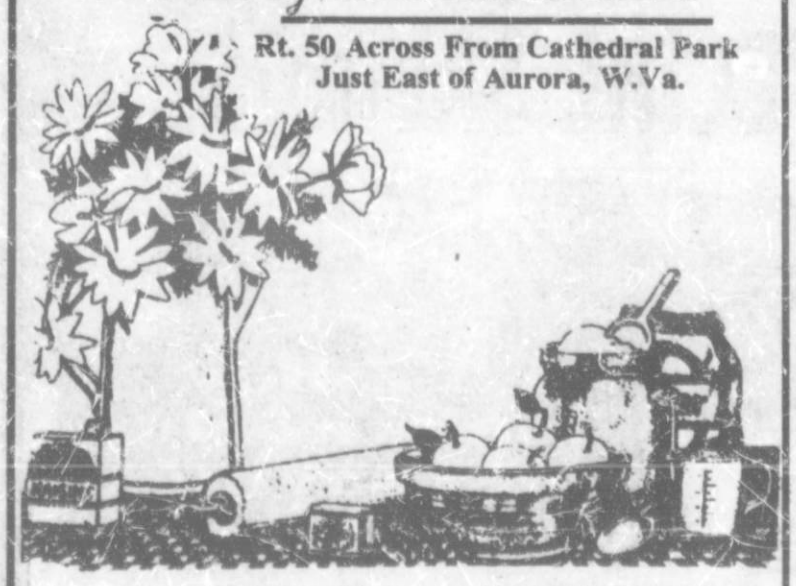

Boaters consider Youghiogheny River Lake, with its 16 mile length and channels up to one-half mile wide, the best power boating and waterskiing lake in western Maryland.

For the fisherman, there are numerous coves and backwater areas along the lake which provide excellent fishing. The lake is inhabited by a large variety of game and panfish and is especially known as a hotspot for walleye and smallmouth bass. The "Upper Yough" area is also very popular for trout fishing.

Swallow Falls State Park on the Youghiogheny River offers several miles of hiking trails as well as camping sites.

"Sweet Honey In The Rock" To Perform

Sweet Honey in The Rock is a Grammy Award-winning African American female a cappella ensemble with deep musical roots in the sacred music of the Black church — spirituals, hymns, gospel — as well as jazz and blues. The group will perform on the GCC stage as part of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival season on Saturday, Sept. 2, at 8 p.m.

The Sweet Honey experience is like no other. Five African American women join their powerful voices, along with hand percussion instruments, to create a blend of lyrics, movement, and narrative that variously relate history, point the finger at justice, encourage activism, and sing the praises of love. The music speaks out against oppression and exploitation of every kind.

The quintet, whose words are simultaneously interpreted in uniquely expressive American Sign Language, demands a just and human world for all.

For ticket information, persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

Gary Cooper & High Noon To Perform At Penn Alps

Gary Cooper & High Noon will bring the lively sounds of bluegrass to the Great Hall at Penn Alps on Saturday, August 12. Featured instruments include the typical bluegrass quintet of mandolin, fiddle, banjo, guitar and upright bass. Following tradition, the group's vocalists sing in the typical "high lonesome" style. These musicians are bluegrass veterans, with more than 161 years of combined experience.

The music begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville, located along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

Leader Gary Cooper (guitar and lead vocals) has been playing bluegrass for over 35 years. A native of the mountains of southwest Virginia, he grew up with bluegrass. Now living in Upper Marlboro, Cooper is a retired professional pilot.

Also singing lead and playing harmony, Pixie Christie volunteers at WAMU radio in Washington, D.C. Born in England, she grew up in New England and attended the Juilliard School of Music. In the late 50s she discovered bluegrass. Christie has been with High Noon since 1994.

Dobro player Joe Jacobs has played bluegrass and country for more than 40 years. A retired Metropolitan Police officer, he lives in Berwyn Heights. He has played and recorded with some of the top Washington area bands.

Bob Wilkerson, banjo, is another 40-plus year veteran of bluegrass who has worked with Washington area bands. A resident of Columbia, he is retired from the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory.

Bassist Joe Prevost has 25 years' experience with bluegrass, and has been with High Noon since 1992. A retired shop foreman for a major steel fabrication company, he lives in Dunkirk.

Brian Dorothy (fiddle and mandolin) has played with High Noon for 15 years. Comfortable with old time, swing, blues and bluegrass, he lives in Silver Spring.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporate sponsors and the generous support of individuals. This concert is sponsored by the Savage River Lodge. For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats, so ticket holders are encouraged to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

Mary Lou Lord To Present Little Yough Folk Concert

Included in the Little Yough Concert Series performance line-up is a concert by Mary Lou Lord, a folk artist with an impressive history of musical success. Lord will perform on the Front Page Stage in downtown Oakland on August 4, with the show beginning at 7 p.m. Her performance is being sponsored by the Oakland town merchants.

As a kid in Salem, Mass., the youngest of five children, Mary Lou was left to the lackadaisical supervision of the teenage siblings while her parents worked the night shift. "There was too much time to think," she said, "so I'd just listen to music to feel better." She cemented her musical career at an early age, earning money as a teenaged DJ at the local radio station. After a stint at Boston's Berklee School of Music, she became a legendary performer in Harvard Square, and at subway stops throughout Boston and Cambridge, eventually expanding her territory to include a few local clubs, selling homemade tapes along the way.

A chance meeting at a Boston party led to the opportunity of placing one of her songs on a KRS compilation. The record gained a lot of attention. Eventually Lord recorded to EPs for KRS, which earned a strong following in the underground music scene, as well as good exposure to the established industry. She soon recorded a full-length studio album with Nick Saloman.

"Mary Lou is one of those rare artists who can speak to you in a voice that both gives comfort and registers pain," a spokesperson said.

The concerts of the Little Yough Concert Series are free to the public.

Deanna Bogart To Perform At Little Yough Fest

Deanna Bogart, singer and musician, will be the Little Yough Summer Music Festival's featured artist on Friday, July 21, in a concert that will mix blues, boogie-woogie, R&B, and jazz.

Music circles have heard and respected the mettle of Deanna Bogart for many years. With her piano, saxophone, and band in tow, she has provided audiences in the U.S. and Europe with an honest, entertaining, energy-to-spare show for nearly a decade. She's been the highlight of many festivals, sharing the stage with the likes of BB King, Buddy Guy, the Neville Brothers, Ray Charles, Little Feat, Ruth Brown, and Sista Monica.

The character and cadence of Bogart's hybridized blues style was assimilated from many Baltimore-Washington, D.C., area bands, including Cowboy Jazz, from 1981 to 1986, and later Root Boy Slim's band, Capitol Offense, whose members included Paul Reed Smith, Scott Ambush, Steuart Smith, and Ron Holloway.

In 1990, Bogart's first solo release, Out To Get You (Blind Pig Records), captured Best R & B album at NAIRD and a Billboard Merit Award for the jazz instrumental featuring Danny Gatton. She has since released Crossing Borders (Flying Fish/Rounder Records, 1992) and New Address (Viceroots/WEA, 1996), and has earned 18 "Wammies" (Washington Area Music Awards) in several categories.

Her first CD for the Shanachie label, The Great Unknown, produced by Robert Cray's producer, Dennis Walker, finds Bogart opening new doors with songs of life and love told through easy-to-relate-to lyrics in her devil-may-care vocal style. Strong and precise performances give these songs a musical substance and maturity. The Washington Post described Deanna Bogart with three words: "Luster, Sophistication, and Soul."

The current line-up for the band is Bogart, Kajun Kelley on guitar, Walt Cosby on bass, and Mike Aubin on drums. This free performance, sponsored by Uno's Restaurant, will begin at 7 p.m. at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion, Oakland.

Cellist Garlick Returns To Penn Alps On July 22

Cellist Glenn Garlick returns to Penn Alps on Saturday, July 22, for a performance with pianist Kathryn Brake. Both musicians are active in the Washington, D.C. area. The concert will include works by Ludwig Van Beethoven, Claude Debussy, and Dmitri Shostakovich.

The performance, which is part of the Music at Penn Alps series, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville, along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

Garlick's eclectic background includes service as a sergeant in the Marine Corps Band and a law degree from the Georgetown University Law Center. He studied cello at the University of Colorado, the Eastman School of Music, and the Catholic University.

As a founding member of the Manchester String Quartet, he has appeared in such notable locales as The National Gallery, the Kennedy Center, the Washington Cathedral, and Dumbarton Oaks. In addition, he has performed with other chamber groups, including the Twentieth Century Consor, the American Camerata, and the Contemporary Music Forum.

Garlick has been a member of the National Symphony Orchestra since 1980, when he was accepted by Mstislav Rostropovich. In 1995 Leonard Slatkin promoted him to assistant principal cellist. He has performed concerto solos with the Arlington Symphony, the Catholic University Orchestra, the Greeley Philharmonic, the Golden Symphony, and the Eastman/Rochester Philharmonic. He has recorded CDs with the Twentieth Century Consort and the American Camerata.

Now an adjunct faculty member at the University of Maryland, Garlick has shared his love of music with students as a teaching assistant with Rostropovich at the Curtis Institute of Music, at the Maryland Summer Institute's National Orchestral Seminar, and at the Congress of Strings. He is president of the Kindler Cello Society.

Active as a recitalist and chamber musician, Brake is comfortable with a wide range of musical styles, and has introduced contemporary composers to audiences. She regularly performs with Musica Aperta and in the Chamber Music Series at the United States Holocaust Museum.

After graduating from the Juilliard School of Music, she earned her master's degree from the Peabody Conservatory. She has won numerous competitions, including the National Young Chopin Competition and the Beethoven Competition. Her appearances include solo and chamber recitals in major U.S. cities and several European countries. Her recordings include an Albany Records release of American music for cello and piano, and a soon-to-be-released CD of the Korngold Piano Quartet and Quintet.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporate sponsors and the generous support of individuals. This concert is sponsored by Hobby House Press.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats, so ticket holders are encouraged to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival To Present Concert By Heawon Kim, Veronica Salas, And Dale Stuckenbruck

Heawon Kim

Veronica Salas

Dale Stuckenbruck

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival is proud to announce an added segment of this year's summer season — a concert presented by three popular musicians who have been integral members of the Symphony at Deep Creek. As the symphony is not performing this year, the three musicians graciously offered to ply their talents in this special performance for the Garrett County audiences. The concert will be held on August 26 at 8 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium.

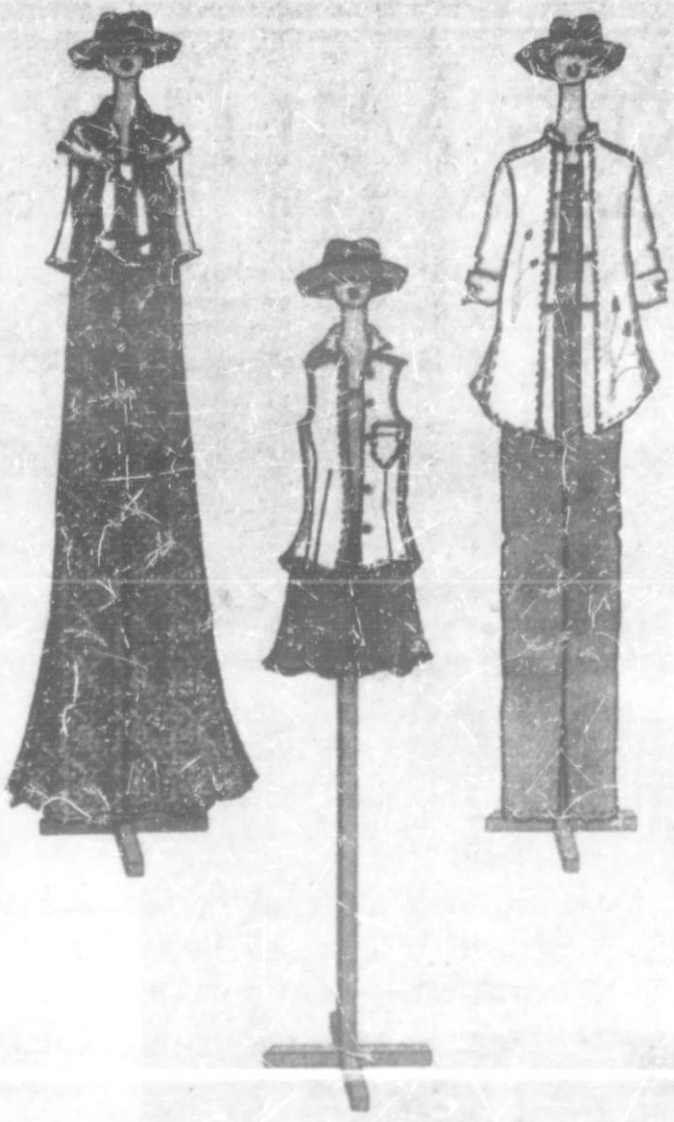

Veronica Salas, Heawon Kim, and Dale Stuckenbruck have been partnering in various prestigious New York chamber organizations such as Rosewood Chamber Ensemble, Pierrot Consort, the New York Virtuosi, and Garrett Lakes Arts Festival with Erick Friedman for as long as they can remember. Such associations are deeply bonding both personally and musically, the essential ingredients to supreme chamber music playing, making it possible for many subtleties to be immediately sensed and perceived ahead of time.

Heawon Kim's auspicious studies began in her native Korea, where she appeared frequently from the age of 7 with the Korean Broadcasting Symphony Orchestra and the Seoul Philharmonic, and most recently with the KBS at the opening of the Seong

Arts Center. Subsequently she won numerous competitions, appearing with these orchestras frequently, as well as on television and radio. Today she is in much demand as a partner in recitals in New York and elsewhere with such artists as Erick Friedman, Sergiu Luca, Marion Davies, Dennis Brott, and her husband, Dale Stuckenbruck. She is on the faculty of the C.W. Post Long Island University, and has appeared in chamber music and concerto work with Friedman with the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

Dale Stuckenbruck enjoys a diverse musical life as soloist, concertmaster, chamber musician, and teacher. Through the guidance of his long-time mentor, Erick nington Chamber Music Conference. She has appeared as soloist with the Aspen Orchestra, Southern California Symphony, New Jersey String Festival, and will be a soloist with the Colonial Symphony in February 2001. Ms. Salas Friedman, he has performed as soloist with the Brooklyn Philharmonic, Philharmonia Virtuosi, New York Virtuosi, New York String Ensemble, Tchaikovsky Chamber Orchestra, and many regional orchestras in the U.S. His recordings include the concerto by Lou Pelosi for CRI, Musical Heritage, SONY, BMG, Vanguard, Kultur Video, numerous films, solo and chamber appearances on CBS, NBC, ABC television, and commercial and public radio stations. Music At Penn Alps To Feature July 1 Performannce By Moore/Better Duo

In a lighter vein, on Saturday, July 1, Music at Penn Alps will present the Moore/Better Duo in a performance featuring an exciting mix of folk songs, traditional ballads, and jazz show tunes from the Americas, arranged for the classic duo of vocals and guitar.

The Duo will appear at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville, located along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

Since their debut as a duo in 1998, singer Eileen Marie Moore and guitarist Don Better have delighted audiences in the Cleveland area with distinctive programs focused on a central theme. Their first program featured folk music from the Caribbean, the British Isles, and the Americas. Current programs include "On the Lighter Side," "A Tour of Spain," "Psalms and Sighs for Lent," and "A Trans-Atlantic Triptych."

A graduate of Indiana University School of Music, Moore teaches voice at Cleveland State University, composes New Music, and implements a program with the Cleveland Opera writing children's operas in local elementary schools. She sings in about a dozen languages.

Fluent in both jazz and classical styles, Better studied guitar on the West Coast and spent much of his career playing rhythm guitar in jazz bands. In addition, he taught classical and jazz guitar at several music schools. Currently he teaches guitar at the Cleveland Institute of Music and performs with the local swing band, The Dukes of Wail, along with several other jazz groups.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporate sponsors, and the generous support of individuals. This concert is sponsored by Allegany College of Maryland.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats so ticket holders are encouraged to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

Spruce Forest Summer Fest Artisans Announced

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, which is located between the historic 1813 Casselman Bridge and the former stagecoach stop now known as Penn Alps Restaurant & Crafts Shop on the Old National Road in Grantsville, will hold its 23rd annual Summer Festival & Quilt Show, July 13-15, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. all three days.

Nearly 100 working artisans, storytellers, musicians, and food vendors will be at work amidst the 75-year-old spruce grove, interacting with thousands of festival-goers at the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday event.

"This event is the non-profit Spruce Forest Artisan Village's largest one each year, and we always look forward to welcoming folks to our festival from all over this region," said village administrator Trish Morgan. "We take great pride in putting on a relaxing, serene festival... with lots of ambiance and artisan interaction, which makes our festival one of the best around. Visitors will find professional-quality artwork and handmade items of exceptional craftsmanship."

Artisans who will be working throughout the three-day festival follow: Pat Anderson and Peg Copeland (tole painting and fabrics); Fred and Sally Basgier (tole painting and sterling jewelry); Jody Best (blacksmith); Raymond and Alta Bender (saw painting); Sue Bittinger (live flowers); Meriam Brode (baskets); Scott Brown and Helen Zeppenfeld (hand-milled soap).

Karin Blizzard (1999 Best Display award winner, pressed flowers); Carl and Dorothy Cathell (wood whittling); Stephen Cross (oak furniture); Jim and Mary Ann Cummings (stained glass); Jim and Judy Dixon (wood baskets, knitwear, and woven goods); Lena Eicher (author/autographs); Barb Englander (fiber arts and buckwheat hull pillows); JoAnn Engle (oil, watercolor and wood painting, and birdhouse gourds); Kathy Evans (spinning, wool garments); Frances Green (photo art); Chuck Hammond (wood crafts); Rebecca Hollenbaugh (tatting); Ann Jones (weaver); Lula and Linda Jane Jones (needlecraft); Lisa Kardel (paper quilts); Serena Keim (hand-dipped candles); Lynn Lais (potter); Beth Lins (soap, solid perfume, and lip balm).

The Lord's Farm (handmade jumpers, dried flower wreaths and arrangements, and crochet and slate painting); Deanna Maginnis (wall hangings/Christmas Santas); Holly Mauk (paper quilling); Jim McNeil (1999 Best of Show award winner, watercolors); Nelda McNeil (oil paintings); Robert and Shirley Melius (handmade, hand-painted wood products); Linda Metzer (jewelry); Jim Mikula (quilts); Dale Miller (blacksmith); Jim and Joan Miller (calligraphy and scherenschnitte); Kathy Miller (painting on rocks, slates, jars, and cans); Rachel Miller (chair caning); Lamao Moua (sand animals, Hmong reverse appliqué and quilts); Michelle Neiderhiser (chip carving).

Dick and Lois Niekamp (18th century gunbuilding and storytelling, and Saturn paint chip jewelry); Peggy Nixon (slate painting); Margot Ours (fibers and fabrics); Peggy Porter (herbs and perennials); Eve Rafferty (woodcarving demonstration); Robert and Kathy Reed (hand-painted silk scarves, papercuttings, photos); Brook Rose (hand-painted items); Dalene Ruhe (terra cotta pottery); Carl and Ruth Schaefer (loomed rugs, placemats, and table runners); Harvey Christie (gourmet foods, jams, jellies, salsa, and dressings); Denise Schmidle (mini- quilts).

Keith Schwartz (leatherwork demonstration); Jerry Smith (hand-painted china and miniatures, and jewelry); Carol Jean Speranzella (jewelry); Connie Stark (teddy bears and herbs); Shirley Tateleba (watercolors, pen and ink, note cards, keelers, and staves); Becky Williams (primitive and Americana and dried wreaths); Gary Yoder (bird art); and Kasia Zywot (porcelain jewelry).

For directions to Spruce Forest or more information about the festival and quilt show, persons may contact Trish Morgan weekdays at 301-895-3332 or visit the village's web site at www.spruceforest.org.

Classical Violin-Piano Duo To Present Concert At Penn Alps

•LEI HOU

Lei Hou and Kwang-Wu Kim, a classical violin-piano duo, will present works by Ludwig van Beethoven, Franz Schubert and Bedrich Smetana on Saturday, July 15, as part of the Music at Penn Alps concert series. The performance begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville, located on Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

Peabody Institute graduates Lei Hou and Kwang-Wu Kim are now enjoying successful careers as classical musicians. Coming from Chicago, Lei Hou is a member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Pianist Kwang-Wu Kim comes from El Paso, where he teaches at the University of Texas and performs with El Paso Pro-Musica. Both are accomplished orchestral and chamber musicians, and soloists.

Before joining the Chicago Symphony, Hou spent six years as a member of the National Symphony Orchestra in Washington, D.C., where she was appointed acting principal second violin by Mstislav Rostropovich. Her solo recitals were broadcast on National Public Radio and WJHU, Baltimore. A founding member of the Aurora Trio, she also appeared with the Washington Chamber Artists. She has also played with the Manchester String Quarter.

Hou has played in music festivals around the United States and in Europe. At the Ravinia Music Festival, she played in an all Mozart chamber music concert with Pinchas Zukerman. Other appearances include Tanglewood, Sun Valley, and the El Paso International Chamber Music Festival.

Born in Dalian, China, she studied violin at the Shanghai Conservatory. A scholarship to the Peabody Conservatory brought her to the United States, where she studied with Berl Senofsky, Earl Carlyss and Sylvia Rosenberg. She earned her bachelor's and master's degrees at Peabody.

Pianist Kim brings a rich musical background to Penn Alps that includes appearances at the Aspen, Tanglewood, and Skaneateles Music Festivals. He also appeared at the Marlboro Music Festival at the invitation of Rudolf Serkin. Orchestral appearances include the Milwaukee Symphony, the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, the Concerto Soloists of Philadelphia, the Baltimore Chamber Orchestra, the Bombay Symphony Orchestra, and the Holberg Orchestra of London.

After earning his bachelor's in philosophy from Yale University, magna cum laude, Kim studied with Leon Fleisher at the Peabody Institute. He then earned his master's and the prestigious Artist Diploma. For seven years he taught at Peabody as associate to Leon Fleisher. In 1993 he earned his Doctor of Musical Arts degree. He is now music director of El Paso's Pro Musica.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporate sponsors and the generous support of individuals. This concert is sponsored by Keystone Financial.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. THROWING SHOES — A popular pastime in Garrett County is tossing the old shoes -- horseshoes, that is. To be an expert at the sport is harder than it appears, as one must have enough power to pitch the thing, but enough aim to put it at the right place. Many town festivals and celebrations include horseshoe throwing in the venue of entertainment.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF THE CREATOR of the Flying Scot, one of the world's finest racing/pleasure sailboats, scores of Scot owners convened at Deep Creek Lake this past weekend to participate in the Sandy Douglass Memorial invitational Regatta. The wind on Saturday and Sunday was too light for the sailors to hoist their brightly colored spinnaker sails, but the sight of the event from the banks of the Deep Creek Yacht Club was still impressive. It was both fitting and not unexpected that the winner of the race was Harry Carpenter, Oakland, owner of Douglass Boat Company and the reigning North American Flying Scot champion, along with his crew/son Jimmy Carpenter. See sports pages for complete results. Driver Charged In Car Crash That Fatally Injures Oakland Teenager

Brandy April Talbot, 15, Oakland, died Saturday, July 29, at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., as a result of injuries sustained as a passenger in a single-vehicle accident on Liberty Street in Oakland, Friday, July 28. The driver, Amanda Lynn Mayle, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested this morning, Thursday, at 10 a.m. by Pfc. S. Fratz of Oakland City Police for homicide by motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Fratz, who investigated the accident, reported that the 1991 Buick driven by Mayle struck a utility pole along Liberty Street near First Street.

Talbot, the daughter of Gloria J. Lewis Miller and the late George W. Talbot, was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital following the 3:15 a.m. accident, and later transferred to Ruby Memorial Hospital.

Charges initially filed against Mayle at the time of the accident were dismissed and further investigations undertaken following the death of Talbot. "Because this accident turned out to involve a fatality, other charges were considered, pending results of the police investigation," said Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County.

A bond hearing for Mayle is scheduled for later today.

A complete obituary for Brandy April Talbot appears in this issue of The Republican.

Bloodmobile To Be At Elks, Not At St. Peter's

This Friday's visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile to Oakland will be at the Oakland Elks Lodge rather than at St. Peter's Catholic Church parish hall, as previously announced by the ARC. Donors will be welcomed at the lodge hall from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This particular blood drive is dedicated to Cody Ferguson, a 10-year-old Oakland boy who received 17 units of life-saving blood during recent surgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

In order to be eligible to donate blood, persons must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, be in generally good health, and not have donated blood for at least 56 days.

According to the ARC, blood supply levels for the region remain "dangerously low," as usage is out-pacing donations.

Four Vehicle Mishaps Injure Nine Persons

Four separate daytime vehicle accidents along Garrett County roads this week resulted in minor injuries to nine individuals, according to the GC Sheriff's Office. All of the accidents were the result of two-vehicle collisions, with one of the drivers in each mishap deemed at fault and subsequently being charged by sheriff's deputies.

The first accident took place west of Oakland at 10:25 a.m. Saturday when a 1991 Ford Ranger operated by Kevin David Shaffer, 21, Oakland, struck the rear of a 1989 Plymouth Colt operated by Katrina Livia Thayer, 34, Swanton. Thayer was slowing down along westbound Hutton Road as she prepared to make a left-hand turn onto Old Crellin Road when the collision occurred.

The passenger in Thayer's Plymouth, Paul Douglas Thayer, 45, was injured in the accident and was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released later that same day. Shaffer was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Hutton Road was also the scene of the week's second accident, when two persons were injured as a result of a 6:47 p.m. collision on Monday. A 1997 Ford Escort operated by Timothy Wayne Miller, 43, Mtn. Lake Park, was stopped in traffic along westbound Hutton Road near Oakland Rosedale Road when a

ARC Approves $750,000 To Expand Industries At Central Garrett Park

Senator Paul Sarbanes and Dr. Jesse White, co-chair of Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC), were visitors at Phenix Technologies in Accident yesterday, along with numerous local officials, to announce ARC's allotment of $750,000 to the county for the further enhancement of the Central Garrett Industrial Park.

Specifically, the money will be used by the county to purchase the 33,000-square-foot Phenix Technologies building, located at the park. This will enable Phenix to construct a new facility and expand its operations, which are already thriving, according to business reports. The company currently employs about 75 people and engages in business with over 60 countries.

Phenix builds high power, high voltage, high current test systems and components, which are used to test a wide variety of electrical circuitry and other high voltage-related items. For example, one item currently being constructed at the company is used to test gloves and other protective wear for electricians. Phenix is one of only four such companies in the world, according to a company spokesperson.

Frank Vitez, president of the company, has expressed the need to expand for the past several years, but monetary constraints have precluded such a move. A joint effort among James Hinebaugh, director of the Garrett County Economic Development Office, the county commissioners, Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, and Sarbanes resulted in an application to ARC for the funding.

"I must say that almost all of the applications received from Maryland are good proposals, and this was definitely one of those," said White as he addressed the officials gathered yesterday at Phenix. "Projects like this one are not only good for communities, but they also reaffirm the purpose of the ARC. Supporting such endeavors is in the nation's interest, and we're with you for the long haul."

When the sale transaction is complete, the county will donate a 22-acre parcel in the COIP to Phenix for the construction of a new, 50,000-square-foot facility. The purchase gives the county an "attractive, ready-to-go building to market new business prospects," said Hinebaugh, "and we get a facility that has been assessed at $900,000 for next to nothing with the ARC funding." He added that his office is already marketing the facility, and that some interest has been generated.

The $750,000 in ARC funds will be matched by a

Feilin Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

The Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department has reported the 10th rabies case of 2000. A raccoon, which was confirmed positive for rabies by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Laboratories, was shot and killed after a vaccinated dog fought with it.

The incident occurred on July 18 on Old Crellin Road, just west of Oakland. There was no human exposure. The dog has received a rabies booster vaccination and will be observed for 45 days.

Residents are reminded not to handle their pets after a confrontation with a wild animal without protective gloves, and to keep their pet confined for at least two hours after exposure the animal.

All ten positive rabies cases this year have been in raccoons, according to health department officials. Pet owners are strongly encouraged to have their animals vaccinated, and to check the expiration dates of their pets' rabies certificates to determine the need for revaccination. The next series of health department rabies clinics is tentatively scheduled for the last week in September.

Driver Arrested At Barrack W While Asking Directions

A West Virginia man was arrested last week, along with his traveling companion, after stopping to ask directions at the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police. According to a report filed by Cpl. D.W. Broadwater, James Michael Courtwright, 32, Cameron, W.Va., arrived at the barrack driving a 1995 Ford Ranger at 11:14 p.m. on July 28 seeking directions to a location in Pennsylvania. It was suspected that Courtwright was driving while intoxicated, the officer said.

Courtwright was subsequently placed under arrest for DWI. His passenger, Diane Lynn Chambers, 35, Waynesburg, Pa., was also arrested for hindering and obstructing a police officer. A search, incident to the arrest, revealed marijuana and prescription drugs for which there was no prescription. Additional charges were then filed against the couple for possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of medication without a pre-

Northern's Pete Stein Places 12th In National Wrestling Tournament

Northern High School can add one more jewel in its already stellar crown in the sport of wrestling, as Husky Pete Stein, Maryland's reigning 103-pound state champion, finished 12th in last week's Cadet/Junior Freestyle and Greco Roman National Tournament in Fargo, N.D. With that finish, among 117 grapplers in the 121-pound weight class, Stein is now ranked among the top 20 wrestlers in that weight class in the nation.

Stein, who will be a junior this fall at Northern, won five matches and lost two in freestyle, and won one match and lost two in Greco Roman competition. He was one of 50 members of Team Maryland in the national event, which was held on 23 full-sized mats in the Fargo Dome.

The son of Duane and Becky Stein, Grantsville, Pete was one of four Huskies who earned state titles in this past spring's Maryland State 1A/2A Tournament. As a team the Huskies captured the team championship by the widest margin in the history of the tournament, even though they represented one of the smallest schools in the state.

Despite struggling all season to keep his weight at 103 pounds, Stein finished his sophomore year with the state title and an overall personal record of 34-2.

"I weighed 123 pounds when the season started," Stein said immediately following the state tournament, "and was well over 103 just before states."

Stein's freshman season with the Huskies was cut short by a broken arm; however, he is already looking forward to defending his state title this winter.

Mary Lou Lord To Give Finale Concert Of Little Yough Series

Included in the Little Yough Summer Music Festival performance line-up is a concert by Mary Lou Lord, a folk artist with a history of musical success. Lord will perform on the Front Page Stage in downtown Oakland (along Green Street) on August 4, with the show beginning at 7 p.m. Her performance is being sponsored by the Oakland town merchants.

As a child in Salem, Mass., the youngest of five children, Lord was often supervised by teenage siblings while her parents worked the night shift.

"There was too much time to think," she said, "so I'd just listen to music to feel better." She cemented her musical career at an early age, earning money as a teenage DJ at the local radio station. After a stint at Boston's Berklee School of Music, she studied sound engineering in England. She then became a well-known performer in Harvard Square, and at subway stops throughout Boston and Cambridge, eventually expanding her territory to include local clubs.

A chance meeting at a Boston party led to the opportunity of placing one of

ALL-STARS TOPS IN MD., OFF TO REGIONALS — The Oakland All-Stars Senior Division baseball team rolled thru Maryland state title this week in convincing fashion by routing Hughesville 18-3 and 12-1. A powerful batting line-up and some fine fielding backed outstanding pitching efforts by complete-game winners Bryson Meyers and Bryan Hauser, and manager Doug Copeland saluted every member of the squad when he said, "All 13 players contributed in the series sweep." The state champs are shown above: kneeling from the left are Ricky Roma, Bryan Hauser, Tobi Stoner, Jay Tressler, Chad Panther, Chris Remley, and Ryan Ewing; standing are assistant coaches Matt Whitacre and Greg Tressler, and Joel Helbig, Chad Kroll, Kevin Gorelski, Brad Palmer, Bryson Meyers, Steve Elswert, manager Doug Copeland, and assistant coach James Burns. The All-Stars will depart from Oakland tomorrow morning for their journey to this weekend's Eastern Regional Tournament in New Jersey, and businesses and residents throughout the county are urged to wish the local youth good luck on their outdoor signs and banners. See page A-10 for further details.

GETTING THE GRAND TOUR — A number of federal, state, and county officials received a grand tour of Phenix Technologies in Accident yesterday, a they discussed the recent Appalachian Regional Commission's (ARC) approval of funds for the business's expansion. ARC is giving $750,000 to Garrett County in order for the county to purchase the current Phenix building. In turn, the company will put in over $2 million to build a new facility close to the current site, and will hire 50 newemployees over the next five years. See story. Pictured om the left are Rudi Kremer, vice president and chairman of Phenix; Frank Vitez, president of the company; Senator Paul Sarbanes; Kevin Frazee, production manager and tour leader; and Commissioner Fred Holliday. In the background are Tim Magrath, assistant to Sarbanes, as he talks with Delegate George Edwards (far right). Also in attendance yesterday at the plant were Jesse White, co-chair of ARC, and Commissioner Ernie Gregg, as well as several county agency and organization leaders.

State Marks 31 Scenic Byways; 6 Meander Through Garrett County

Visitors and residents in Garrett County may find a number of newly installed road markers depicting a cluster of black-eyed Susans and the name of the scenic byway on which the person is traveling. In fact, six such roads in Garrett County are among the 31 new scenic byways announced by the State Highway Administration this week.

Travel routes were selected for this classification not only based on scenic views and lower traffic volumes, but also because of the road's significance in the evolution of the local culture. "Each and every one of these scenic byways has its own unique story to tell and place in our state's history," said Sen. Paul Sarbanes during an opening celebration for the travel routes.

"Recently the concept for the scenic byways expanded to include heritage byways. A 200-page guide book and map have been published, giving directions to and descriptions of these designated routes," explained Fran Ward of the SHA office. She also said that the scenic byways program, which the SHA started in 1988, now extends a total of 1,797 miles throughout the state, with an average byway length of 60 miles.

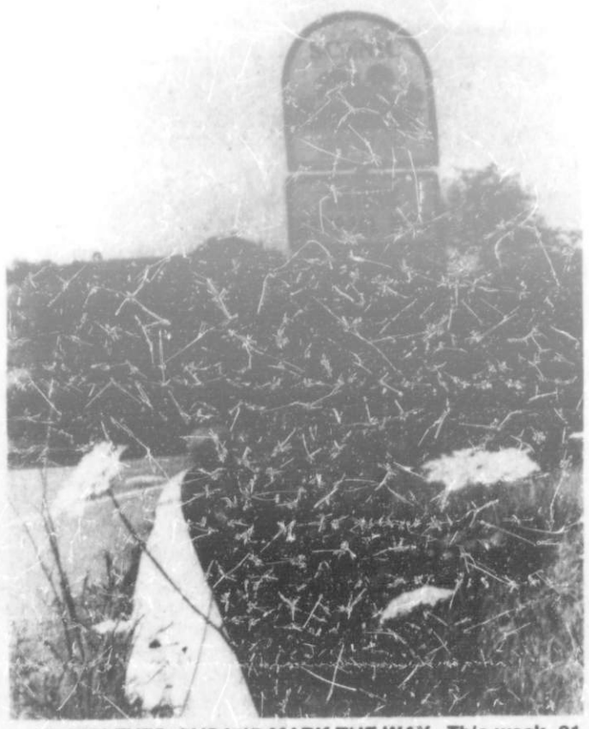

Maryland's Department of Business and Economic Development worked with the SHA to expand the byways project to include heritage trails. With the increase in heritage tourism, these byways may benefit local and state economies, Ward said.

In Garrett County the designated Maryland Scenic Byways are the Coal Heritage Tour, Cunningham Swamp, Savage River Road, The Glades, Historic National Road, and National Freeway. The guide book directing the traveling along each of the byways points out geographical and geological formations such as "ancient swamps and bogs," as well as sites of past structures, including the Deer Park Hotel.

Industries that grew up along these byways are also chronicled in Maryland Scenic Byways. Kitzmiller's history is outlined as it changed from a mill town to a mining-and-coal-transport town. The guidebook also describes nearby Shallmar's history of mining, which spawned a company store, boarding houses, and a power plant to supply electricity.

"The byways provide comfortable half-day trips or full-day trips with some stopping and exploring," Ward noted. The guidebook also suggests side trips in the area through which the byways pass, complete with directions and historical sketches of the vicinity.

The guidebooks are currently available free of charge in the Garrett County Visitor's Center in McHenry. The maps will be available in the near future. Information on the scenic byways may also be viewed on the SHA web site at www.marylandroads.com.

BLACK-EYED SUSANS MARK THE WAY - This week, 31 new Maryland Scenic Byways were delineated with enhanced route markers, such as the one along the National Road pictured above. In addition a 200-page guidebook and map were published describing the sights and the historical significance that earned each route the designation. In Garrett County, six routes now boast the new signage and can be found in the new guidebook, Maryland Scenic Byways. Maps will be available in the near future.

Stop Signs On Second Street To Slow Traffic

Three stop signs have been installed at the intersection of Second and Crook streets in Oakland to break up the traffic flow and to reduce speed of vehicles traveling along Second Street. The installation of the three signs was recommended by the Garrett County Traffic Safety Advisory Committee.

According to town employee Jay Moyer, the town referred the matter to the safety committee for consideration after residents had voiced complaints about the increasing number of vehicles traveling at excessive speed along Second Street in order to avoid the traffic signals on Third Street.

Moyers also said the studies of the traffic patterns in Oakland indicate the Second Street is used a westside bypass and Fourth Street is used as an eastside bypass.

"Residents had requested that stop signs be placed at more intersections, but this was the recommendation of the committee. We will be monitoring the flow of traffic and the effects of the stop signs. There will also be increased police patrol of both Second and Fourth streets," Moyer noted.

Leads Sought In July 27 Burglary At Keystone Lime

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation is seeking information regarding a Thursday, July 27, business burglary at the Keystone Lime Company hot mix plant, located along Sang Run Road. Keystone Lime is offering a $2,000 reward for information that leads to the arrest and conviction of the individuals involved.

Information may be relayed to the GBI at 301-334-1909, or the Garrett County Crime Solvers office at 301-334-1975. Anonymity is guaranteed.

Friendsville Sets Second Annual Car/Truck Show

The second annual Car and Truck Show and Automotive Flea Market will be held on Saturday, Aug. 5, at the Friendsville Community Park from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m., with registration for entrants at 11 a.m. Dash plaques will be given to the first five vehicles registered as well as Sponsor's Choice and People's Choice awards.

This event is sponsored by the Friendsville Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department during Friendsville's annual Homecoming Celebration. "The show and flea market was a big success last year, and it is anticipated that additional entrants will participate this year," said coordinator Sharon Hoover.

For more information, persons may contact Hoover at 301-746-5707.

Auditions For Seascape Moved To Next Week

Auditions for Our Town Theatre's September production of Seascape, originally scheduled for this week, have been rescheduled for next Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 8 and 9, at the theatre, located along Center Street in Oakland. Both will begin at 7 p.m.

Jane Avery, director of the play, said four actors — two males and two females — all between the ages of 18 and 60 are needed. The play, which earned a Pulitzer Prize for playwright Edward Albee, is tentatively scheduled to be presented September 14, 15, and 16.

Persons with questions about the auditions may telephone Avery at 301-334-6643.

Garrett Concert Band Affiliates With GCC College

It was announced this week that the newly formed Garrett Concert Band has become affiliated with Garrett Community College. The band will be under the direction of Jerry McGee, conductor and music director, who is now on the faculty at the college.

The arrangement was finalized by Dr. Stephen Herman, president of the college, who worked with McGee and Fred Stemple, founding conductor, in planning the affiliation. The group will be called the Garrett Community Concert Band.

"This is an exciting development for us," McGee said. "We're very pleased and grateful to Dr. Herman."

GCC students will be able to join the band and receive one college credit for doing so. The band will practice on Tuesday evenings in the college auditorium. The first rehearsal is set for Sept. 5, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"We encourage all musicians to join the group," McGee said. He noted that college students will be required to audition to join, and that high school students are also welcome to do so. Adults are not required to audition.

McGee said he hopes this will mark the beginning of more music opportunities at the college. "We have talked about the eventual development of an entire music program," he said.

The band's next performance is slated for Sunday, Oct. 15, at the college. The concert will begin at 2 p.m. and will be part of the Autumn Glory Festival schedule.

Stemple and McGee, along with a board of several citizens, initiated the development of the band late last winter. The group had its debut on July 4 in a concert of patriotic music, presented as part of the annual fireworks display on Marsh Mountain.

For more information about the band, persons may call McGee at 301-387-6315.

Mill Run Incident Highlights Need For Vigilance

An incident along a rain-swollen Mill Run Creek early Sunday evening could have resulted in tragedy for two families attending a family reunion near Friendsville, but the alertness of those in attendance kept two boys playing in the water out of harm's way.

The event highlights the necessity of maintaining vigilance around flowing bodies of water during summer months when a sudden cloudburst could markedly swell the waters of what had been a calm stream in a matter of seconds, according to a father who pulled his son from the stream seconds before a "wall" water crashed through the area. "If you've never seen a flash flood, you just couldn't have believed it," McHenry resident Dan Daniels said. "Everyone needs to be careful all the time, because we had no warning, nor any indication that anything was wrong until we heard a loud roar coming down the stream."

Shortly before 6 p.m. approximately 100 members and friends of the Vitez family were visiting at a family farm located along Mill Creek, just over two miles east of the Youghiogheny River Lake. "Our 7-year-old son Alexander was playing in the stream along with an older boy," said Daniels, the husband of Cynthia (Vitez) Daniels. The father noted that he was constantly monitoring the pair from the front yard

Pianist Bourdeau To Accompany Flutist Bellavance At Penn Alps

MICHEL BELLAVANCE

Traveling from Canada to perform in the Music at Penn Alps concert series, Swiss-Canadian flutist Michel Bellavance and pianist Marc Bourdeau will offer an eclectic program of music on Saturday, Aug. 5. Both musicians have a great deal of performing experience in Canada and overseas.

Presenting works by Bela Bartok, Francis Poulenc, and four lesser known, contemporary composers, the duo will appear at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville.

A grant recipient of the Canada Arts Council, Bellavance specializes in new and less familiar repertoire. His first CD features work by French and Canadian composers, with one piece he commissioned and premiered. His second recording featured a world-premiere recording of a nocturne by Salomon Jadassohn. Works by composers of Central and Eastern Europe are featured on his third CD.

Bellavance holds degrees from the Hector-Berlioz Conservatoire in Paris, the Geneva Conservatoire, and the Zurich Musikhochschule. Further study included work with Patrick Gallois, Maxence Larrieu, and Andras Adorjan.

Audiences from cities throughout Europe, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Canada, and Washington, D.C., have heard Bellavance in recital, and he has performed on radio networks internationally. He has given workshops and masterclasses in London, Montréal, Switzerland, and France. When not on tour, Bellavance teaches advanced flute at the La Chaux-de-Fonds Conservatoire in Switzerland.

Pianist Bourdeau has performed extensively throughout Canada and the United States, as well as in several countries in Europe and the Far East. He has worked with some of Canada's most promising young artists. A recipient of grants from the Canada and Québec arts councils, he studied with Paul Hamburger and Béla Siki.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporate sponsors, and individuals. This concert is sponsored by Main Street Books of Frostburg. For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats, so ticket holders are encouraged to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

BOE Schedules August Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 8, in the board of education meeting room. The board will meet in closed session from 4:05 to 5:30 p.m. and reconvene in open session immediately thereafter.

The public is invited to attend. Time is set aside at 4 and 7 p.m. for public participation and comment on any topic.

$2K Worth Of Tools Stolen In Grantsville

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation is seeking leads in a felony theft of tools from a detached garage at a Grantsville residence. The theft, which evidently occurred in late May or early June, resulted in a loss of over $2,000 for the tools' owner, Gorden House of Chevelle Drive. Launched this week, the investigation is centering on House's garage, which is located over a small hill behind his residence. Several trails are in a wooded area behind the structure.

Taken from the garage were numerous power and hand tools and accessories, the most valuable being: one dial indicator set in a wooden box, valued at $350; two 2-inch aluminum pipe wrenches (ears chipped on both), with a combined value of $260; One 1-1/4 horsepower 8-1/4 inch Craftsman compound miter saw, valued at $250; one Milwaukee screw shooter, valued at $170; and one complete Fingerhut tool set, valued at $150.

Persons with information on this incident are asked to contact Cpl. Scott Anderson of the GBI at 301-334-1909 or 301-334-1911.

In other criminal investigations, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office is investigating the theft of numerous house and road signs that took place within the Blakeslee development this week. Approximately $1,500 worth of privately-owned signs were taken Monday night.

Among the signs missing, each valued at $126, are 11 hand-painted signs of various colors bearing the following individual names: Hill, Voljack, Case, Zotter, Eades, Miller, Child, Shellum Fondas, Paul, Glowacki, and Higgins. Also taken were three "20-MPH" speed limit signs with a combined value of $120, and three "North Blakeslee" street signs, also with a combined value of $120.

Persons with information on this incident are asked to call the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911.

HEAVEN BOUND TO PERFORM AT FAIR — The gospel group Heaven Bound will be among the variety of musical guests at this year's Garrett County Agriculture Fair, slated for Aug. 13-19 at the county fairgrounds. Based in Kinston, N.C., Heaven Bound was founded in 1976 and has performed continuously since that time. A number of awards and citations have been earned by the quartet, ranging from "top 40" hits to Dove Awards. The singers have been dubbed the "favorite group" in Gospel Voice Magazine, and have appeared three times at Carnegie Hall in New York City. The group members are Ken Eubanks, pianist and group manager; Spike Eubanks, percussion; Derrick Boyd, first tenor; Ron Bright, bass; Bill Shivers, lead; Ronnie Bright, baritone; and Kevin Pulley, bass guitar. The group will perform on Saturday, Aug. 19, at 6 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m., on the 4-H stage. Admission to the performances is covered in the $8 fair entrance fee, which also includes parking, all race track events, and carnival rides.

Coyote Numbers On Rise; "No Cause For Alarm"

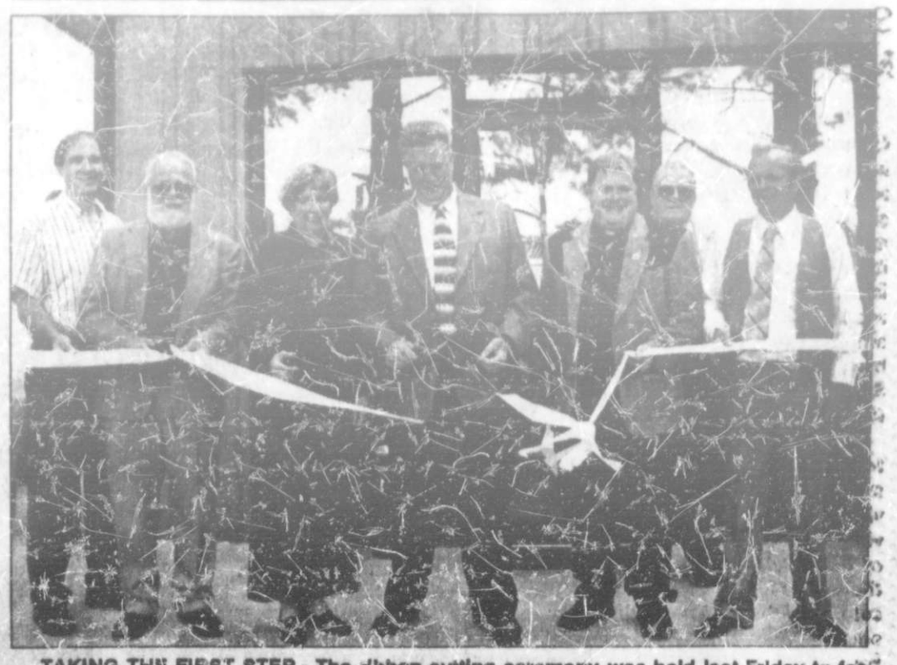

A front-page feature of Friday's issue of the Baltimore Sun drew attention to Garrett County's increasing coyote population in what some outdoor experts viewed as "alarming" terms. "Coyote numbers are going up all across the state," DNR wildlife biologist and coyote monitor Robert Canola stated yesterday, "and people need to be aware of that; however, the Sun article was quite alarmist, and certainly didn't need to be."

Canola, who was quoted in the Baltimore paper as saying that the coyote population will grow by 210 percent over the next decade, said in clarification that "if a complete ban on all hunting and trapping of coyotes were to go into effect tomorrow, the population could conceivably increase by 210 percent; however, we don't see that happening in Maryland.

"People need to realize that the coyotes are here. Nothing can be done about that, but folks shouldn't be unduly alarmed. There are precautions that can be taken to help protect pets and livestock, and people have to be responsible for animals in their care."

Local outfitter Rick Perron, who operates a hunting guide service based in Garrett County with additional excursions into Canada, agreed with the wildlife biologist's assessment. "Sure, the numbers are up, and we saw more coyotes while hunting in Garrett County this past year than ever bef

TAKING THE FIRST STEP - The ribbon cutting ceremony was held last Friday to formally open the Right Step drop-in center in Midway Plaza. The facility will offer people with mental illness a place to gather in an informal setting and share conversations, information, and activities. Currently under the umbrella of Mountain Top Mental Health Associates Inc. (MTMHA), the center is coordinated by president Doug Davis, and publicity director Howard Gerard. Oakland mayor Asa McCain noted that Right Step is "an appropriate name" for this center. "It's been a lot of hard work but it's been satisfying work," said Davis, and he passed on the governor's best wishes. "This is a great accomplishment. I commend you," said Del. George Edwards. In the photo above from left are Edwards, county commissioner Fred Holliday, MTMHA executive director Trish Yoder, McCain, MTMHA committee member Rev. Roland Nairn, Gerard, and Davis.

it Was a Good Day...

Yesterday was a good day for the town of Accident. U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes paid a visit to the town in order to announce that the Appalachian Regional Commission had approved a grant of $750,000 to complete a $3.7 million improvement and expansion project for the Central Garrett Industrial Park. Among the primary beneficiaries of the project is Phenix Technologies, a manufacturer of high voltage, high current, and high power test systems and components. Part of the funding will be used to purchase the company's present building, which will provide the opportunity for Phenix to build a new, larger building, resulting in more capabilities, more business, and more employment.

We wish to make two basic points in this column. First of all, this project is an excellent example of what can be accomplished when private enterprise and government — county, state, and federal — work together toward a common goal. As Sarbanes said yesterday, it is a "win-win" for everyone involved. For their persistence, hard work, and willingness to make whatever compromises were necessary to bring this to fruition, we extend appreciation to economic development director Jim Hinebaugh; the Garrett County commissioners; Del. George Edwards and Sen. John Hafer; various other elected officials at the state and federal level, including Sen. Sarbanes; the many staff people directly and indirectly involved, such as Jesse White of the ARC; and the owner/management of Phenix Technologies. Each and every resident of the county will directly or indirectly benefit from this effort.

Secondly, and speaking of Phenix owner/management, we wish to compliment Frank Vitez, president of the company, and vice president/chairman Rudi Kremer for doing such an outstanding job of creating a company at ground level and in just 12 years making it such an important, international operation. Because of the quality of the products and workmanship, the company has grown under their leadership from 18 employees to 75, and they now have clients in some 60 different countries. We are certain that the best is yet to come.

There have been many good reasons in recent years for Frank to move his company out of Garrett County, but because this has been his home all his life, he has gone the extra mile and made concessions to keep his business here. We, his fellow Garrett Countians, are his people. But he and his company could do only so much on their own to make that possible. Fortunately, the aforementioned agency and political leaders are also now doing their part to keep Phenix in the county.

Yesterday was a good day not just for Accident, but for all of us here on the mountaintop.

A SWIMMING GOOD TIME

by Mary Sincell McEwen

Another chapter of our lives came to a temporary close about two weeks ago, as two of our sons competed in their first swim team championship. Robert and Alex, 8 and 5, were members of the Manta Rays this season for the first time. (Michael, 4, has yet to get across the deep end without gasping for breath halfway, so he wasn't really in the mood to attempt the Olympic-sized pool. Next year, perhaps.)

The swim team thing is an experience, especially in combination with my worry reflex (I'm the Queen of Anxiety). There were four preliminary meets and then the championships, all held at the YMCA in Cumberland. It's a nice facility — I wish we had such a place in Garrett County. When you are new, as John and I were, the first meet is a bit unsettling. For instance, there are strict rules about no snacks in the gym area where the swimmers wait to compete, and we had somehow misunderstood that. In the first 15 minutes we were there, the boys got out their little squeezy drinks (those plastic bottles with colored sugar water in them — great parenting, huh?). As they twisted off the lids, I sensed we were being watched. Suddenly the place erupted in a cacophony of shrill kid voices. "They have drinks! They have drinks!" the youngsters screeched, bounding to the coaches while pointing at our boys, who sat motionless, drinks halfway to their mouths, eyes wide. We briskly ushered them out, drinks and all, and resolved to better scrutinize those rules and regs.

We were taught how to determine the boys' events and write the event numbers on their arms with a marker (they loved that). Then it was time to go to the pool. An absolute din of cheering met our ears in the hot room where the pool was center stage. A gazillion kids of all ages traversed about, dripping wet in their swim suits made for speed. Water accessories were everywhere — towels, goggles, pool sandals, and wilted papers with event schedules on them. John and I found a seat and waited to see our boys. I took it all in, watching parents watching their kids, holding my ears sometimes when the screaming was too intense. I watched one coach stand at the end of the pool and wave her arms wildly at the swimming kids, coaxing them to the end. I thought she looked ridiculous. The yelling seemed sort of useless, too, since the competitors surely can't hear much when they're in the water. So I decided right then and there that I would remain as calm as possible. I would be reserved, make sure the boys knew I was there, and simply will them to do well. Good plan.

The moment arrived. In the midst of a big, loud audience, my little offspring climbed up on that starting block and waited for the signal to go. Yikes! Talk about ulcerville. My brain was racing — "What if he falls? What if he's scared? What if he comes in dead last?" I put on my cool persona, though, casually watching the action, and reminded myself that we were not here to win. We do indeed stress to the boys that they are not out there to compete with other kids. They should simply be competing with themselves, working to get a better time. Yeah, right. I said something like that to a seasoned swim mom and she laughed. "Yeah, you say that to the kids, but you can't help being competitive — that's the reality." And she's right, I admit it. No, I don't want the boys to always think of winning. But I do want them to do their best and if that means besting some other kids, then I'm good with that.

So I'm watching my son. It was Alex first, poised to go

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

When you smell a rat there is usually more than one, which leads me to some observations of the present Garrett County government. Let me point out a few points that are of interest.

It is apparent to me that the county board does not care about women's issues in the least. Take the way they handled the Dove Center. The Dove Center needs and should get financial support from the Garrett County board. So should the employees of the Ruth Enlow Library receive the same compensation and benefits that other county employees receive. There are female county employees who have been pushed or forced from their positions recently and in the past.

It is not only females who are mistreated. Take the recent firing of Mr. Thorne from the roads dept. The board should give thought to firing themselves along with other key people who are responsible for employee mistreatment. There are several labor-related law suits now being brought against Garrett County because the board, along with the county administrator, do not know how to properly deal with employee-related problems. The taxpayers end up paying the bill for these officials' inability to properly do their jobs.

Moving on, what about the paving of Turkey Neck Road? This is a dead-end road. Could the hundreds of thousands of dollars of this cost have been brought about by the friendship of a certain county commissioner and a real estate developer near Steiding Church Road? Nearby the little town of Swanton has a main road in a terrible state of repair and goes unpaved. Also, how about the paving of Rock Lodge Road, which just happens to go past the same county commissioner's residence? Adjacent to Rock Lodge Road is Deep Creek Drive, which is also in a terrible state of repair. It travels for several miles past several marinas, restaurants, and taverns, and ends up intersecting with Rt. 219 near Rt 42.

There have been contracts let to various contractors for work in and around DCL with sewer lines, etc. Is it possible county officials did not know that there could be conflict of interest factors here and that a certain county official could be related to a particular contractor?

You know that it was alleged actions such as these that cost a high Maryland official, a Mr. Agnew I believe, the vice presidency. You, the voters, deserve honest representation from your public officials. Are you sure you're getting it?

Finally, there is a meeting coming up in a few months in Ocean City, sponsored by the Maryland Association of Counties. The Garrett County board has reserved a few dozen oceanfront suites for this four-day meeting, and is treating itself and select county officials and their families to this outing, all expenses paid, and you guessed it, the Garrett County taxpayers pay the bill. Maybe you should ask to go along. After all, you're paying the bill.

Your servant
Harriett King Becker
Rockville

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Commissioners took a very positive action last month in granting local tax relief to farmers who qualify for the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation program. The results of this action will benefit not only the farm owners, but all of us by insuring continued farm production.

The commissioners' action also preserves an important part of Garrett County's heritage.

Farm owners and other land owners who do not meet the guidelines set forth in the new county ordinance because they own fewer than 100 acres or do not meet other criteria may still have options for some tax relief, funding or technical assistance, or estate planning through various other state or federal programs.

Maryland Mountain Trust is working in western Maryland to provide information to help conserve, enhance, or preserve our natural resources and our farm land.

Maryland Mountain Trust can be reached at 301-746-8989 or by mail at P.O. Box 604, Grantsville, MD 21536.

Sincerely,
Marcia Simmers

SPATE OF BIRTHDAY FETES

There are no more birthdays this summer than last (save for the fact that the world population is larger than it was a year ago), but there do seem to be more birthday parties. At very least, I have been invited to more birthday parties.

About once a fortnight I have been turning myself out to celebrate the anniversary of someone's birth. The occurrence of births in summer creates possibilities for different kinds of parties and for different menus. Summer weather permits moving feasts, if only to a veranda.

The summer menus of birthday parties include the obvious traditional meat dishes, such as crab cakes, grilled or barbecued anything, and fried chicken. There are vegetables, too, which make special summer appearances, like corn on the cob, zucchini casseroles of infinite variety, cucumber slaw, potato salads from several different recipes, and, of course, sliced tomatoes.

Cake is usual at a birthday party, if not quite de rigeur. Families and even individuals within families have their own particular birthday cake. One family has a standard "birthday cake," a caramel colored and flavored cake which makes my mouth water just thinking about it.

A few days ago I had another family's birthday cake — whether offered at every fete I don't know — which was a devil's food cake with an excellent chocolate fudge icing. What gave it a lift above the usual chocolate cake — one of my favorites in whatever form — is that the two layers were cut in half. Instead of being iced with the fudge, the layers — now four of them — were interspersed with a cream icing. It was as visually beautiful as it was delicious.

My own birthday cake, to be enjoyed not too many days hence, Lord willing, is a German chocolate cake which, in my not very humble opinion, is an epicurean delight.

On the other hand, for my mother's birthday party in mid-June I always offer strawberry shortcake, a cake that is almost not a cake. Other summer fruits present dessert opportunities. Berries and peaches make delectable eating.

Ice cream is often offered with birthday cake. At the end of the day, there are few desserts more delightful than fresh fruit over ice cream. However good ice cream is 12 months of the year, it takes on a special significance between Memorial and Labor days.

The shift in dessert fashion toward the ice cream cake is to be deplored because it combines second-rate ice cream with a second-rate cake. The ice cream cake is enough to give baked Alaska a bad name. I do know they are enormously popular — anticipating the outrage of the parents who buy the disgusting things, as well as the dismay of children who ask for them — but then there is no virtue in railing against anything which has no advocates.

Whatever other purpose of a birthday dessert, it has to provide the opportunity to sing "Happy Birthday!" which, if memory serves me, is the all time number one song in the U.S.A. Candles are traditional accoutrements to the singing, but the older one gets, the less literal the number of candles become.

The other day I attended a birthday party for a brand new 30 year-old who had just three candles on her cake, one per decade. In the families where practical jokes are part of the culture, it is almost a tradition that the birthday boy or girl should be surprised with candles that can't be blown out, though the real surprise would be if the candles could be blown out.

To those whose birthdays happen to coincide with the publication of this column, "Happy Birthday!" To everyone else I will extend a little joke current in my own family, "Happy Un-birthday!" Why not celebrate our un-birthdays? After all, we have at least 364 of them every year.

Highest Happiness

by C. Spelcher

It is amazing how time and service we do not realize how well we have [illegible] (or bad). In this particular [illegible] and friend has passed. His [illegible] country on D-Day and receiving the Purple Heart, was serving joy to all.

But please let me first [illegible] for context. When I became totally deaf [illegible] seven years ago, I had zero lip-reading skills, which have not improved a whole lot since then, probably because lip-reading is largely more myth than reality. So, since my conversational skills are at best painfully rudimentary, it is almost always less embarrassing and awkward for me to avoid communication altogether. But of course, solitude also imparts pain, creating my personal catch-22. Unfortunately, many mistake my avoidance/detachment as a lack of interest, and it is difficult to convince them otherwise. Starting a conversation — forget about upholding one — is a challenge for me, and there is no "Conversation For Dummies." (Is there?) But understand, I am not throwing a pity festivity.

My deaf mother has some 35 year's more lip-reading experience than I do and is almost conversationally "gifted" for a deaf person. However, I am not my mother (though some people don't believe it). Starting seven years ago with my own onset of profound deafness, it became more obvious to me with each passing year who my friends are.

Thank the Lord I have a few select relatives, and the highest — as in finest — class of neighbors in eastern Grantsville anyone could wish for, to form something of a buffer from total isolation. Thanks to them, my "solitary confinement" to silence is not entirely solitary. Else, I would be an island.

But this week, it came to me as a revelation that someone I had never exactly perceived as a friend had been one of my truest, all my life. It took his death to open my eyes.

Death itself does not come as a surprise. We know enough to expect it from day one. Rather, it is the speed by which death overthrows that catches us off guard. Instantaneously, the world — at least momentarily — seems vastly smaller.

We all die young.

Yet, even when a loved one passes, faith, hope, and charity abide. As we view life in the long run, it becomes more clear that the highest form of happiness on this good earth is found in righteous relationships, all of which become all the more precious, all imparting meaning to the human being.

In memory of my Westminster (and greater Grantsville) friend, James C. Hahn.

On A Tangent

in. Splash! He starts up the lane. There is a noise coming from somewhere — what is it? Why, it's me. I'm yelling for the boy. "Go, Alex! Go!" And what else am I doing? Waving my arms, of course, in order to direct my son to the end of the pool. He might not know where to go if I don't wave. Uh-huh. So much for my high and mighty judgments of other spectators. He makes it, just fine, somewhere in the middle of the pack. He pops out of the pool, his little face looking babyish with his hair flattened down, and his blue eyes circled with the imprint of his goggles. I scramble down from the bleachers, probably kicking a few people on the way, and greet him joyously, telling him how proud we are. Wow. What a thing.

One time, Alex had a false start. That's when someone jumps the gun, literally. He went in, along with one other boy, before the official start. So everything stops and everyone waits for the small offenders to get back out and up on the block. (In more difficult competition, the child is instantly disqualified.) Alex is prone to shyness, and this was a trauma for him. His back was to me when he got out, but I could see he was crying. Our coaches comforted him while I sat helplessly in the bleachers. I knew if I went to him, he'd never get back up on the block. The funny thing was, as they comforted him, all these Manta Ray parents comforted me. They knew exactly how I felt, and I knew they knew. They all had stories of similar circumstances, about how their children struggled and how they ached for them, and are we doing the right thing and how far do you push a child, etc., etc. They are a nice bunch of people, those parents. Alex did get back up on the block and did just fine. We talked him up all day, with big bro Rob assuring him that "even the big kids fall off sometimes."

We all got much better at the whole process as the meets went by. We're old hands now. John learned to be a timer, and I learned to be calmer. We sat with Sharon Schwalm for a while at the championship, and watched her son Michael swim his very last race. He's off to college in the fall, and his long, stellar career with the Manta Rays has ended. Sharon watched my boys that same day swim in their very first championship, so our experiences as parents crossed ever so slightly that afternoon. But that's all it takes, really, for an understanding to exist between parents. It makes for one of those comforting aspects of life, when one parent can't finish a sentence without the other one nodding kindly and knowingly.

The season ended with a picnic at the beach of Alpine Lake (the team practices in the pool there). The kids went swimming, of course, since they're all so good at it, and then ate, since they're all so good at that. Trophies to be handed out were placed on a table, and Rob and Alex ogled them. "Maybe we'll get one," Alex said. I burst his bubble. "No, not this year. You have to work more than one season to earn a trophy," I said. "Well, we still might," Rob said, irritated by my pessimism. Of course they didn't, as is fair for two new swimmers, and Rob handled it pretty well. However, Alex's beautiful face was a storm cloud, his eyebrows furrowed and his mouth down-turned. "It's all been a stinkin' waste of time," he growled. I almost laughed. "No, honey, it's just the beginning. If you stick with it, you'll earn a trophy someday. I'm sure of it."

So we'll see. Maybe they won't want to do it again, but then again, maybe all three will do it. Maybe we'll push them to. Maybe we won't. We're always walking that fine line of parenting — when to push and when not to — and thank goodness there are lots of people out there who know just what I mean.

Thanks, Nan and Sally and all the other great coaches and friendly parents. We had a wonderful time.

FIRST UNITED SPONSORS GALA — The First United Bank and Trust is supporting local health care, as the Bronze Corporate Sponsor of the Golden Anniversary Gala for Garrett County Memorial Hospital is Wayne Johnson, chairman for the gala, is pictured above left as he accepts a $5,000 check from William B. Grant, CEO and chairman of the board at First United Bank & Trust. Also on hand for the presentation was Donald P. Battista, president and CEO of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. "Being a community bank, First United believes in being involved with the community it serves," said Grant. "We recognize the significance of the hospital's 50th anniversary, as First United is also celebrating an anniversary this year." The First United Bank and Trust has been in operation for 100 years. The gala is a fund-raiser, which will be held on November 4 at the McHenry House at Wisp Resort. "Highlights of the event will include a live and silent auction, dancing and live entertainment, food and beverages, and an evening filled with memories and activity," said Johnson. Proceeds from the gala will be used toward the purchase of a new spiral CT scanner for Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Additional information can be obtained by calling the hospital's development office at 301-533-4000.

Mishaps Injure

1995 Chrysler LeBaron operated by Lucille Virginia Crosco, 70, Oakland, rear-ended Miller's sedan.

Both Crosco and her passenger, Larry Glenn Crosco, 74, Oakland, were injured in the collision, and transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH, where both were treated and released. A citation was issued to Crosco in the wake of the accident.

Two vehicle accidents occurred yesterday, with three individuals sustaining injuries in each mishap.

The first took place at 3:09 p.m. in the Deep Creek Lake area, at the eastern end of the Glendale Road bridge. A 1990 GMC Sonora operated by Gregory Allen Boggs, 22, Oldtown, struck a 1990 Chevrolet Lumina operated by Connie Sue Swan, 39, Oakland, as Swan was waiting to turn from eastbound Glendale Road onto State Park Road, and the impact injured Swan and her two juvenile passengers, Kay Friend, 7, and Benjamin Meadows, 5, both of Oakland.

Swan and the two children were taken to GCMH by the Southern Rescue Squad, and all three were treated and released. Boggs was cited by sheriff's deputies.

A few hours later two vehicles collided head-on at the intersection of Maryland Highway and Weber Road, injuring three occupants of one of the cars involved.

A 16-year-old juvenile was attempting to turn left onto Weber Road from eastbound Maryland Highway when her 1997 Chevrolet Geo struck a westbound 1995 Chevrolet S-10 operated by Brian Douglas Rayburn, 18, Oakland, in the middle of the intersection. The juvenile and her two passengers, 18-year-old Roger Lee Brown, Oakland, and a 17-year-old Deer Park juvenile, were transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH, where all were treated and released.

The juvenile was charged with failure to grant right-of-way to Rayburn's vehicle.

Run Incident

of the farmhouse, about 40 feet from the stream's edge.

"The boys were playing a short ways downstream in clear-flowing water that couldn't have been more than 6 inches deep, and I had just walked up toward the house from checking on them at the creek bank, when I heard a roar that sounded like a fast-moving thunderstorm," said Daniels. "I looked up, saw blue sky with just a few clouds, and couldn't figure out where the noise was coming from. Then I looked upstream and saw brown water starting to rushg down the creek."

Daniels immediately started running downstream, yelling for the boys to get out of the water; he was able to get to his son and pull the boy out of the stream, and the older boy scrambled up onto some rocks along the shore where his father reached him just before what onlookers described as "a wall of water" crashed down the stream from the east.

"I've lived along Mill Run Creek all my life," stated Friendsville area resident Frank Vitez, who witnessed the flooding, "and I've never seen anything like that before. A number of us heard the roar coming down the valley, and we saw a wall of water that took the stream's depth from 6 inches to over 3½ feet in just a few seconds. The water was carrying logs as big as 16 inches in diameter, along with stumps and other debris. It was amazing, and frightening. Those boys had a close call.

"From what we understand the flooding was generated by a cloudburst east of us in the Keysers Ridge area. We had some showers earlier in the day, but there was no sign of rain in our area at the time the water hit us."

A MAJOR DONATION of computers was received recently by the Garrett County Board of Education from the National Security Agency, based at Fort Meade. Pictured above left is Ray Trehern of the NSA, shaking hands with Rick Dolan, computer technician for the board of education. The agency donated 50 Pentium computer systems and 10 laser printers. Dolan has placed about a dozen each of the computers in Southern and Northern high schools, and Southern and Northern middle schools. Dolan, who estimated to gift to be valued at over $50,000, said that the equipment will be awaiting students at those schools when the 2000-01 school year begins later this month. He said he anticipates future similar deliveries that will ensure that the units evolve with new technology.

JAMES C. HAHN

James C. Hahn, 77, Westminster, died Sunday, July 30, 2000, at Carroll County General Hospital.

Born Aug. 27, 1922, in Westminster, he was a son of the late Norval Edward and Margaret A. (Myers) Hahn. He was also preceded in death by one son, James C. Hahn Jr., and a brother, Harlan Hahn.

From 1941 to 1945 he served in the United States Army in the 4th Infantry Ivy Division during World War II. He worked at Hahn Brothers, Inc., Westminster, from 1947 to 1978, where he served as plant manager, treasurer, vice president, president, and chairman of the board. He then worked for Myers Refrigeration. A lifetime member of St. Paul's United Church of Christ, Westminster, he served as deacon and worked in the soup kitchen. He was a member of the American Legion, Carroll Post No. 31, and VFW Molleville Farm Post 467.

Survivors include his wife, Audrea C. (Speicher) Hahn, a former resident of Grantsville; two daughters, Deborah E. Lawrence, Hanover, Pa., and Carolyn Beth Marable, Gaithersburg; eight grandchildren; and one great-grandson.

A memorial service will be conducted at St. Paul's United Church of Christ, Bond and Green streets, Westminster, on Saturday, Aug. 5, with his pastor, the Rev. Leo Maley, officiating. A reception will follow in the church fellowship hall.

There will be no public visitation.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, Carroll County Unit, P.O. Box 824, Westminster, MD 21158, or to the memorial committee of St. Paul's United Church of Christ, Bond and Green Streets, Westminster, MD 21157.

The Myers Funeral Home, Westminster, is in charge of arrangements.

MURIEL L. SINES

Muriel L. Sines, 81, Accident, died Sunday, July 30, 2000, at Cherry Hill Assisted Living, Accident.

Born Sept. 13, 1918, in Damascus, Va., she was a daughter of the late Harry F. and Vertie L. (Pike) Phillippi. She was also preceded in death by three sisters, June Friend, Floretta Davis, and Maxine Sines, and three brothers, Paul Phillippi, William Phillippi, and Harry Phillippi.

She was a member of the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren, Oakland.

Survivors include one daughter, W. Maris Friend, Oakland; one son, William H. Sines, McHenry; seven grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren; and three great-great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland. A service was conducted at the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren on Wednesday, Aug. 2, with the Rev. Donald Matthews officiating. Interment was in the Sines Cemetery, Oakland.

The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to Cherry Hill Assisted Living, 251 Aiken-Miller Road, Accident, MD 21520.

ELOISE M. WHITE

Eloise Metheny White, 73, Oakland, died Saturday, July 29, 2000, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland.

Born Sept. 12, 1926, in Albright, W.Va., she was the daughter of the late Homer and Mabel (Shahan) Metheny. She was also preceded in death by one brother, Darrell E. Metheny Sr., and a stepson, Gary White.

She was a homemaker and a member of the White United Methodist Church, Germania, W.Va. She had been employed as a clerk at the Wright-Smith Clothing Store in Kingwood, W.Va.

Survivors include her husband, Harry E. White, Oakland; one son, Douglas Metheny, Kingwood; one stepson, David White, Oakland; one sister, Betty Emery, Albright; two grandsons; two stepgranddaughters; and one step-great-grandson.

Friends were received at the Browning Funeral Home in Kingwood, where a service was conducted Tuesday, Aug. 1, with the Rev. Berlin H. Wilhelm officiating. Interment was in the Mount Moriah Cemetery.

ETHEL V. ROHRBAUGH

Ethel Virginia Rohrbaugh, 82, Maysville, W.Va., died Friday, July 28, 2000, at her home.

Born April 22, 1918, in Laurel Dale, W.Va., she was a daughter of the late Robert "Weck" and Sena Lucilla (Cosner) Amtower. She was also preceded in death by six brothers, Ralph, James, Emory, Ervin, Floyd, and Haven Amtower; a half-sister, Nelda Ashby; and two half-brothers, Claude and Ray Amtower.

She was a seamstress for Windsor Knit in Petersburg, W.Va., until 1971. She attended the Maysville Bible Brethren Church and was a member of the Jordan Run Homemakers.

Survivors include her husband of 65 years, Vernon E. Rohrbaugh, a resident of E.A. Hawse Continuous Care, Baker, W.Va.; two daughters, Louise Carrigan, Annandale, Va., and Diana Goldizen, Maysville; two sons, Galen Rohrbaugh, Oakland, and Harold Rohrbaugh, Falls Church, Va.; two sisters, Edna "Piddie" Jones, Oakland, and Doris "Sally" Cosner, Mount Storm, W.Va.; nine grandchildren; one foster grandson; and 10 great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Schaeffer Funeral Home, Petersburg, where a service was conducted Monday, July 31, with the Rev. Paul Donaldson and the Rev. Lynn Rohrbaugh officiating. Interment was in South Branch Memorial Gardens, Petersburg.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to the American Lung Association or the American Cancer Society.

BRANDY A. TALBOT

Brandy April Talbot, 15, Oakland, died Saturday, July 29, 2000, at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., from injuries she sustained in an automobile accident. (See story on front page of today's issue.)

New Task Force Will Investigate Gasoline Pricing

Governor Parris N. Glendening issued yesterday an executive order creating the Task Force on Gasoline Zone Pricing in Maryland to look into the disparity in wholesale gasoline prices that oil companies charge station dealers with the state. The nine-member task force will examine how zones are created as well as their impact on competition and consumers. Recommendations will be issued to the governor by July 31, 2001.

"Outrageously high gas prices are putting a financial strain on both consumers and independent service station dealers," said Glendening. "The task force will help us get a clearer picture of the impact zone pricing has on prices at the pump."

Zone pricing is a method in which oil companies charge dealers different rates for gasoline based on geographic location. In many service stations within close proximity of each other are forced to sell gas at vastly different prices. Oil companies are not required by law to disclose the formulas used to determine these rates.

Residential Tech Camp Attended By Local Students

Two local students attended the 2000 Garrett County Residential Technology Camp last month, courtesy of VITAlink Inc., a computer firm in Markleysburg, Pa., and the West Virginia chapter of Faith, Hope, and Charity. Katey Gnegy, who will enter sixth grade at Southern Middle School, and Morgan Anderson, who will enter fifth grade at Dennett Road Elementary School, were recipients of full scholarships to participate in the week-long camp.

The tech camp offered the opportunity for students to spend a week at the Wisp Hotel constructing machines with LEGO™ building components and learning to control those machines with computers. In addition to the classroom projects, students participated in recreational activities as well as related field trips.

Morgan and Katey joined nine other students from other schools as nearby as Buckhannon, W.Va., and as distant as Salisbury, Conn. The projects that the students completed during the camp session have been posted on the Internet and may be seen at www.ga.k12.md.us/techcamp.

The Wisp Resort will host next year's residential tech camp July 15-20. Details on this learning experience will be posted on the web site in the early fall.

COME WITH ME

The Lord saw you getting tired
And a cure was not to be,
So He put His arms around you
And whispered, "Come with me."

With tearful eyes, we watched you suffer
And saw you fade away,
Although we loved you dearly,
We could not make you stay.

A golden heart stopped beating,
A beautiful smile at rest,
God broke our hearts to prove
He only takes the best.

It's lonesome here without you
We miss you so each day,
Our lives aren't the same
Since you went away.

When days are sad and lonely,
And everything goes wrong,
We seem to hear you whisper,
"cheer up and carry on."

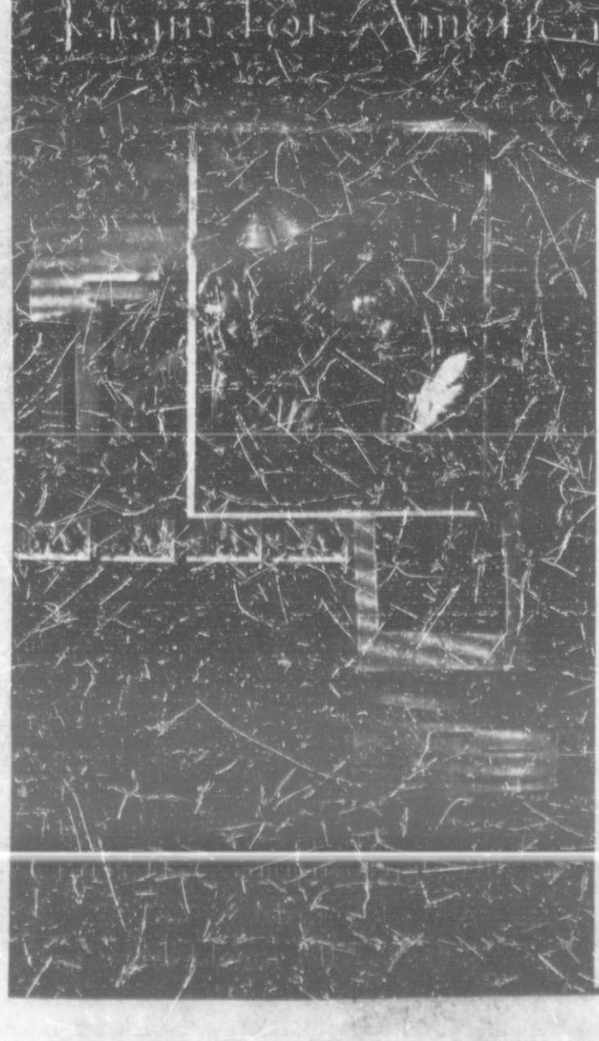

Each time we see your picture,
You seem to smile and say,
"Don't cry, I'm in God's keeping,
We'll meet again someday."

We miss you,
Love, your wife, Marie
& daughters, Linda & Cherse

Preston Graduate Completes RMSC Program At FSU

Tim Ridenour, a 2000 graduate of Preston County High School in Kingwood, has completed his fifth year of participation in the Regional Math/Science Center (RMSC) at Frostburg State University. Since its inception in 1992, the RMSC has provided intensive instruction in mathematics and/or the sciences for hundreds of high school students through its six-week residential program and additional services throughout the academic year.

The son of Nancy and Norman Ridenour of Tunnelton, Ridenour will enter Cornell University this fall as a mathematics major. He was a straight-A student at Preston High and a finalist for the National Merit Scholarship, achieving SAT scores of 680 on the verbal section and 790 on the math section, out of a possible 800 points each. Ridenour also earned high scores in a number of SAT subject tests, including a perfect 800 in Math IIC.

"Math has been my subject for a long, long time," Ridenour commented, crediting his math teachers, especially Ed Barlow, for encouraging him to pursue a career in mathematics.

This summer Ridenour took part in the RMSC's "Bridge Program," a two-week offering that focused on the skills necessary for a successful college experience. He also tutored some of the younger RMSC participants in the regular six-week program and served as emcee for its concluding event. He intends to return to the RMSC next summer to serve as a tutor-counselor.

The RMSC is a component of the Upward Bound Math/Science Program of the U.S. Department of Education's TRIO programs. Students participate free of charge and are also eligible for stipends. Participants are encouraged and expected to continue until graduation from high school. As part of FSU's Division of Student and Educational Services, the RMSC is staffed by tutor-counselors, who are college students or graduates working under the supervision of RMSC director Rita Hegeman.

RMSC participants must meet specific criteria for admission: residency in specific areas, which include the Appalachian region in Maryland, West Virginia, Baltimore City and the Eastern Shore; enrollment in 8th through 11th grade; federal income guidelines or status as a first generation college student; an interest in a math and/or science career; academic potential; and a need for services.

GCC OFFERS PROGRAM ON GERMAN CAMPUS — A study-abroad opportunity for Garrett Community College students, undertaken in conjunction with the University of Maryland University College's newest campus at Schwabisch Gmund, Germany, is available. A GCC student may attend UMUC-SG for a semester and transfer specific credits back to GCC, or may complete an associate's degree at GCC before transferring to the German campus to complete a bachelor's degree. All instruction is in English at the residential campus in Germany. Residents of Maryland may attend the German university at in-state tuition rates, and all students are eligible to apply for financial aid, grants, loans, and campus employment, and scholarship assistance is available as well. Persons interested in further information may visit UMUC-SG's web site at www.sg.umuc.edu or call Dr. Lillian Mitchell, GCC's dean of academic affairs, at 301-387-3059. Pictured above are three UMUC-SG administrators who worked with Manning Smith, GCC's former dean of students, to develop the agreement during Smith's recent sabbatical stay in the medieval German City. From the left are Dr. David Davidson, UMUC-SG assistant academic dean and registrar; Dr. Willard Martin, dean of the university; and Dr. Fernando Yarrito, director of enrollment development.

Bingo Brings In Bucks To Build New Library

A fund-raising event at the Grantsville American Legion last Sunday brought more than 80 people together to play Bingo and collect money to help build the new library in Grantsville. Coordinated by the reNEW Grantsville Library committee and spearheaded by committee member Fred Holliday, the event added $1,700 to the building-fund coffers. The amount will be enhanced by a matching contribution of $800 from the Associated Aid For Lutherans.

"There was tremendous community involvement," Holliday said, noting that items to be raffled during the Bingo games had been donated by local businesses and individuals. All the food served during the event was also contributed, and Holliday himself prepared the sloppy joes that were served.

"American Legion Post 214 let us use their facilities, their equipment, and even their paper products. It was a very generous gesture," Holliday noted.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the building fund is asked to make checks payable to Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County and note on the memo line that the money is for the Grantsville Library Fund. Donations may be mailed to: reNEW Grantsville's Library, P.O. Box 237, Grantsville, MD 21536.

THE SUN - In August, sunlight hours each day drop from 14.3 to about 13 at the end of the month. The sun's mid-day peak height decreases from 68 to 58 degrees (45 degrees is halfway up and 90 degrees is overhead). Sunrise times advance by about 30 minutes (from about 6:15 to 6:45 a.m.). Sunset times fall back about 45 minutes (from about 8:30 to 7:45 p.m.)

THE MOON - In early August the moon can be seen as a slender crescent low in the western dusk. By August 6th the moon will have grown to half full in the evening sky (looks like a "D"). This shape of the moon offers the best views of the moon's craters and mountains with binoculars or a telescope. The moon grows to full on August 14th. Within a week the moon has exited the evening sky, then rising after midnight. On August 22nd the moon appears half full at dawn (then looks like a backwards "D"). On this same morning, the moon appears near the planet Saturn. On the next morning the moon will be near the bright planet Jupiter. Just before the end of August, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS - Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even the planet's light may flicker. Three of the five bright planets can be seen in August. In the southeastern dawn you can see bright Jupiter and Saturn. In the first week of August, you can also see Mercury below and to the left of Jupiter. Both Venus and Mars are too close to the sun to be seen in August.

AUGUST'S BEST SIGHTS - The most arresting sight on August evenings is the Summer Triangle high in the south. The brightest star of the Triangle is Vega, a white-blue star nearly overhead. When high, the Summer Triangle points south. On moonless nights the Milky Way runs across the eastern (or leftward) side of the Triangle. As you face north, the Big Dipper is now about halfway up in the north northwest; its two lowest stars point rightward to the North Star. Low in the northeast is the zig-zag pattern of Cassiopeia, the throne of mythical Queen of Ethiopia. Earlier in the summer, Cassiopeia resembled a letter "W"; it is now turning into a "M" as we approach fall. Most amateur sky watchers enjoy the Perseid meteor shower, which will be best seen late in the evening on August 11th. Unfortunately, the moon then will be almost full, making the meteors seem less impressive. Look low in the northeast for Perseus, a star group that has three trailing curves of stars.

AUGUST ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES - Our Sunday programs at the Planetarium will resume next month. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will have its monthly meeting on August 18th at 7:30 p.m. at the LaVale Public Library. All interested sky gazers are welcome. Several club members are residents of Garrett County, including the vice president, Gus Johnson of Swanton.

Editor's Note: Dr. Bob Doyle directs the Planetarium at Frostburg State. Since the mid 70's, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask a sky question, call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Sky Watch" a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM, Frostburg State's radio station that transmits at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Dr. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Oakland All-Stars Rumble To Senior Division State Crown

The Oakland All-Stars won the Senior Division state baseball championship Tuesday by crushing the All Star squad from Hughesville in a two-game sweep, 18-3 and 12-1, at Joe Cannon Stadium in Harmans Tuesday. After taking the two out of three series, which had been delayed one day because of severe weather, the Oakland All-Stars are slated to travel to West Deptford, N.J., for the Eastern Region Tournament this weekend, where they will take on the New York state champions at 8 p.m. Saturday night in their first appearance of the double elimination tourney.

Tuesday's first game saw Hughesville's first three batters score off starter Bryson Meyers, but the hurler settled down to shut the out the South District representatives the rest of the way, tossing a complete-game seven-hitter and notching six strikeouts.

Oakland took the lead for good in the third inning when Joei Helbig, Kevin Goralski, and Chad Panther each drew walks to load the bases, then Ryan Ewing, Chris Remley, and Steve Eiswert each followed with run-scoring singles. Helbig and Panther each belted a home run later in the contest to add to the Oakland run production.

The Oakland team collected a total of 16 hits, highlighted by home runs from Helbig and Panther. Ricky Reams made several outstanding fielding plays at shortstop while catcher Brad Palmer turned in a fine job behind the plate, both with his glove and in providing a stabilizing influence to help encourage his pitcher to regain his confidence in the early going.

"I was a little concerned when their first three players scored," Oakland manager Doug Copeland commented afterward, "but Bryson really stepped it up after that. Our team is always ready and they don't panic if they get behind."

The second contest was never really in doubt as Oakland scored three runs in the first inning, then proceeded to score in every following stanza. The local All-Stars collected 12 hits to back the excellent pitching effort of Bryan Hauser, who gave up only five hits as he mixed in a variety of change-ups and slow curves with his faster arsenal to keep the Hughesville batters off balance.

Reams, Meyers, and Palmer each collected two hits while Meyers, Eiswert, and Ewing each recorded two RBI. Chad Kroll, Tobi Stoner, and Jay Tressler each made key defensive plays.

"Bryan Hauser pitched a fantastic game and did a masterful job of placing his pitches," Copeland observed. "All 13 players contributed in the series sweep." The manager also credited the efforts of his assistant coaches, James Burns, Greg Tressler, and Matt Whitacre.

Oakland's 2000 Maryland title comes on the heels of last year's run to the state finals, which ended in the championship round when Cambridge defeated the local squad in a heartbreaking three-game series that went the full distance.

The All-Stars will be gathering at the Senior Division field at Broadford Park at 9 a.m. tomorrow to board their bus, which will take them down Backbone Mountain on the way to New Jersey. The squad will be among the eight competing teams that will be recognized at a banquet tomorrow night in New Jersey. The Oakland Little League is encouraging all local businesses to send a message with their outdoor signs wishing the Garrett County squad good luck during the regional tournament.

Northern High Athletic Ticket Prices Announced

Ticket prices for admission to all fall and winter Northern High School sporting events were announced this week by Harv Speicher, athletic director, and principal Gary Reichenbacher. The cost to attend NHS sporting events for which admission is charged will be $4 for adults, $3 for students, and $3 for persons 55 and older.

Christian Men's Softball Teams Have Busy Week

There were seven doubleheaders played this past week in the Garrett County Area Christian Men's Softball League, four of which ended in sweeps.

Crellin United Brethren took a pair from Cherry Glade Mennonite, 20-1 and 19-14; Mt. View Mennonite swept Crellin United Methodist, 8-4 and 12-11; Glade Mennonite topped Oak Park Church of the Brethren, 10-7 and 19-6; and Oakland Nazarene topped Gortner Union twice, 9-6 and 21-18. In the splits, Cherry Glade edged Maranatha Assembly of God, 16-15, and lost the second game, 12-10; Oak Park topped Crellin Assembly of God, 24-21, and then lost in the nightcap, 21-10; and Pleasant View Baptist defeated Oakland Nazarene, 9-4, and Nazarene won the second game, 9-6.

Farron Hershman was the winning pitcher for Crellin UB in its sweep of Cherry Glade. Jason Park and Roger Bowman each had home runs for the winners.

Gerald Tice was on the mound for Mt. View in its double win over Crellin UM, while Brian Yoder and Millar Schrock each hit homers to pace Mt. View's offense. Billy Martin and Jeff Martin each had round-trippers for Crellin.

Pitching both victories for Glade over Oak Park was Lynn Brenneman. Ron Gnegy of Oak Park hit two home runs.

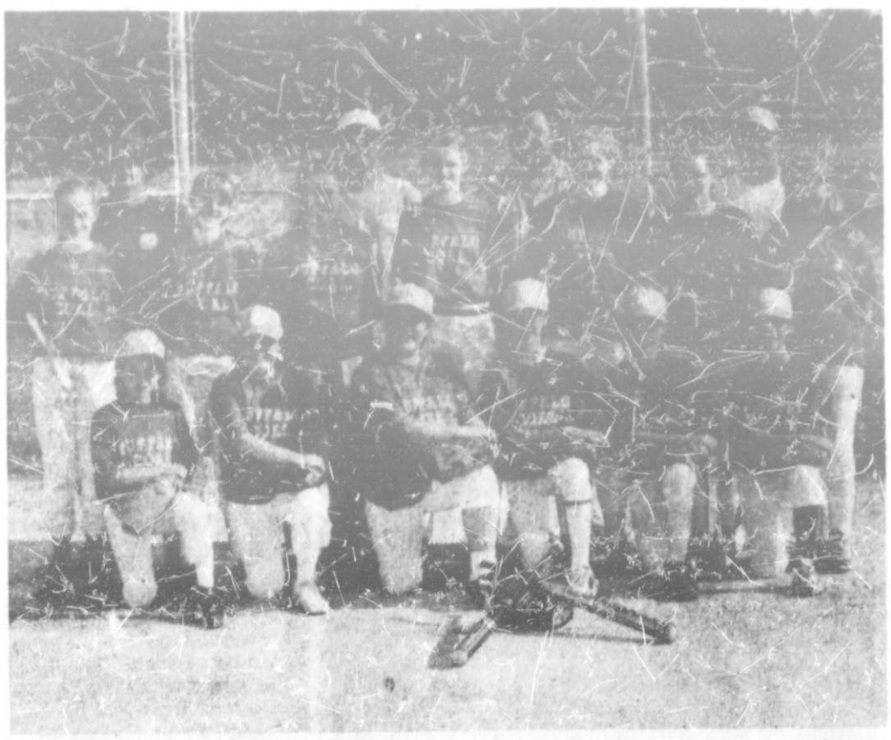

Dennis Murphy was the winning pitcher in both games for Nazarene over Gortner Union. Lawrence Dawson smacked three home runs for the winners, Steve Shaffer hit two, and Brian Ashby, Tim Upton, Jason Brenneman, and Josh Stevens each had one. Jerry Yoder and Durell Orendorf each recorded a home run for Gortner.

In the Maranatha-Cherry Glade split, Terry Beal had two home runs and Kevin Miller hit one for Cherry Glade, while Bud Hetrick had one homer for Maranatha.

Getting the win on the mound for Oak Park against Crellin AG was Steve Sines, and Bob Murphy was the winning pitcher for Crellin in the second game. Ron Gnegy blasted three home runs and Don Welch hit one for Oak Park, while Bob Murphy stroked two for Crellin.

Poke Winters pitched Pleasant View to victory over Nazarene, and Dennis Murphy was the winner on the mound for Nazarene in game two.

Bethel United Methodist is currently at the top of the league standings with a record of 19-2, followed closely by Crellin UB with a 19-3 mark. Mt. View is in third place at 15-5, followed by Crellin UM, 16-6; Maple Glen, 10-6; Glade, 14-9; Maranatha, 7-11; Cherry Glade, 7-13; Nazarene, 6-12; Pleasant View, 5-11; Cornerstone, 5-13; Oak Park, 6-16; Gortner, 4-12; and Crellin AG, 2-16.

BUFFALO COAL EARNS SEASON TITLE — Buffalo Coal captured the regular season championship of the Oakland Junior Girls Softball League by amassing an impressive 11-1 record. Shown above are, kneeling from the left, Julie Bittinger, Sara Cavalier, Nicole Harvey, Senay Rose, Jennifer Steyer, and Chanda Remley. Standing are Corey Lewis, Kayla Nazelrod, Julia Bosley, Kendra McLaughlin, Sarah Bittinger, Natalie Rohrbaugh, and Amber Cline. In the back row are coaches Mike Steyer, Frank Lewis, Scott Harvey, and Al Rohrbaugh.

Garrett Legion Team Halted In Maryland Tourney Play

The Garrett Legion baseball squad, champions of the Mountain District, came to the end of its road this week in the Maryland American Legion state baseball tournament in Frederick. Garrett lost its first two contests to a pair of powerhouses, dropping Friday's contest with Funkstown by a 10-2 margin, then fell prey to Greenbelt the following day, 13-3, to be eliminated from the eight-team field. Garrett closes its season with a 16-11 overall record.

Friday's meeting with Funkstown, which carried a 24-8 record into the contest, brought Garrett's batters up against the toughest opponent they had faced so far this season and one of the top Legion pitchers in the state. The squad got its first taste of 90-plus mph fastballs from starting right-hander P.J. Hiser, a mainstay of the Hagerstown Community College pitching staff, who held the Garrett nine hitless over his four innings of work.

Funkstown scored six runs in the second inning, three in the fourth, and another run in the fifth before Garrett finaliy broke into the scoring column in the sixth after Josh Bosley doubled and then scored on a fielder's choice with Jordan Uphold at the plate. Nathan Sleeman drove in the squad's other run in the ninth on his second single of the day.

Funkstown recorded a total of 10 hits off Garrett starter Justin DiSimone and reliever Justin Sleeman, who came to the mound in the fourth. Hiser and teammate Danny Fowler each stroked an RBI double, and Matt Hess laced a pair of singles. Garrett's six-hit attack didn't get under way until Hiser left the game at the beginning of the fifth inning in favor of relief pitcher Ray Wingerd.

Garrett found itself in for more of the same the following day against an even tougher opponent, a 32-8 squad from Greenbelt. Once again Garrett did not get onto the scoreboard until the sixth inning, after Greenbelt had taken a 10-run lead by scoring once in the first, twice in the second, four times in the third, and three times in the fifth. After Garrett's lone score of its top of the sixth, Greenbelt put another two runs on the board in the bottom of the stanza, and Garrett responded with a two-run inning in the top of the eighth. A single score by Greenbelt in the bottom of the eighth brought the contest to a close.

Bosley, who had started for Garrett, was relieved by P.J. Workman in the third inning. Workman turned the ball over to Jeff Carr in the fifth. Greenbelt's batters tallied a total of 10 hits off the Garrett staff, including a two-run, fifth-inning home run by Andrew Rosen. Greenbelt starter Don Nicol worked four innings before being relieved by Kevin McGlamary in the fifth, and the duo held Garrett to six hits on the day, including a double and a single by Keith Parks.

"Garrett County's ballplayers gained a lot valuable experience through the 27-game schedule of Legion ball this summer," commented co-head coach Jim Bosley. "One of the main reasons Phil Carr and I coach is to give the kids in our high school programs at Southern and Northern some extra experience and seasoning. Some of the older kids who graduated recently are going on to play college ball, and hopefully they've gained some valuable experience as well."

Pen-Mar Playoffs To Open Saturday At Garrett CC

The regular season of the Pen-Mar Baseball League came to a close last night, and the league's playoff tournament is set to open Saturday with contests at Garrett Community College and in Rosemont, W.Va. The Oakland Oaks will begin play on the road, as they take on the Rosemont hosts at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Tri-State and Elkins (W.Va.) appear to be the teams to beat in the tourney, as they headed up the regular season standings, which are as follows: Tri-State, 20-6; Elkins, 20-7; Fairmont (W.Va.), 16-11; Rosemont, 12-13; Oakland, 10-15; Cumberland, 9-17; and Hot Stove, 5-23.

This weekend's playoff match-ups will get under way locally with Round 1 of the tournament, when Elkins and Hot Stove take the GCC field at 1 p.m. Saturday, which will be followed by a 4 p.m. contest between Fairmont and Cumberland. The winners of those battles will go head-to-head in the first game of Round 2, a best-of-three series, at 7 p.m. that same evening. The Rosemont half of Round 1 will pit Oakland and Rosemont at 1 p.m., and the victor will then take on Tri-State (which earned an early bye) at 3:30 p.m. that afternoon in the opener of the best-of-three second round. Round 2 will continue with each bracket's second game on Sunday at 2 p.m. at the home fields of the squads with the best regular season records.

The third and final round of the Pen-Mar playoffs will take place with a best-of-three series next weekend, Aug. 12-13. Saturday's contest will be a single game, and Sunday's match-up will go to a doubleheader if necessary.

For further information interested persons may call league officer Terry Helbig during the day tomorrow at 301-334-3343.

"Maryland & Garrett County You Are Beautiful"
CITIZEN RECOGNITION

We are looking for Maryland's Beautiful People - those special people whose inner beauty compels them to actively love their neighbors. We want to make Marylanders aware of the great things their fellow citizens are doing. The "Maryland You Are Beautiful" Citizen Recognition Ceremony celebrates and honors individuals or groups from each county and the City of Baltimore who make Maryland beautiful. Each county will select one special individual or group to be honored as "Maryland's Most Beautiful" at a private reception with the Governor and a public awards ceremony in Annapolis scheduled for November 15. This event will be free and open to every Marylander, with entertainment provided by talented groups from every corner of the state.

The individual or group chosen for Garrett County will be recognized at the commissioners' meeting October 3, 2000.

Manta Rays Complete Successful Season At YMCA Championships

The 2000 summer swim meet championships at the Cumberland YMCA were held on July 22, with nearly 70 swimmers representing the Garrett County Swim Team taking part. The local team, the Manta Rays, performed well in the seven-team competition, bringing home 16 trophies and breaking seven YMCA pool records. The swimmers also broke eight team records.

The team participated in four preliminary meets and then the championships, competing against six teams from the surrounding Maryland and West Virginia area.

"We had a great season, and I'm really proud of all the kids," said Nan Gangler, head coach. "Of all seven teams, we were the only one to have graduating seniors, and we had seven of them. That gives us such credibility. Most of these kids have been on the team for 10 to 14 years. It says so much about them, that they stuck with it for such a long time. I'm so proud of them, and I'm going to miss them."

Gangler was assisted in coaching the team this season by Sally Marc, Connie Gibson, Debbie Clatterbuck, Barb Speicher, and Nancy Geisler. A web site for the team was created by Dave Taylor and can be found at www.iceweb.net/-swim/index.html. It includes the season results, team records, photographs, and video segments.

The team gathered at Alpine Lake in Terra Alta, W.Va., for the end-of-the-season picnic on Sunday, July 23, and trophies were given for recognition of most valuable, most improved, most dedicated, and most team spirit, among others. (See photo.) The Alpine Lake indoor pool is the training site for the team, which begins practice in early spring.

At the championship meet, new pool records were earned by Nick Gangler, senior boys, 50 fly; Jadyn Swerbinsky, junior girls, 50 fly; Shar Hollingsworth, prep girls, 100 free; Krista Hollinsworth, tyke girls, 25 breast and 25 fly; Kristen Yant, mini-tyke girls, 25 fly; and Ian Welch, mini-tyke boys, 50 free. All of these swimmers are B flight.

New team records were achieved by Kristen Williams, senior girls, 200 individual medley (IM); James Marc, senior boys, 200 free and 100 fly; Jordan Lantz, prep boys, 200 IM and 50 fly; Caitlin Williams, prep girls, 200 IM; and Ian Welch, mini-tyke boys, 25 fly and 50 free. ROARING KNOB

Scott Rhodes won the Summer Sizzler 75 at Roaring Knob Raceway Park last night, taking the $7,500 first place prize back to Somerset, Pa. Rhodes, driving the Rhodes Performance/Rocket Chassis, drove the race of his life for the biggest payday of his career. Dave Groves of Morgantown, W.Va., was the winner of $1,000 in the Dalton Bros. Lumber UMP Modified Shootout. The $500 Pure Stock 20 presented by Buzzo Music & Vending was taken by Scott Bochek of Cheswick, Pa. This much anticipated race was rained out two weeks ago and Wednesday's weather appeared doubtful, but Mother Nature was kind and held all the rain.

Lynn Geisler and Mike Benedum brought the field to the green flag. Geisler jumped into the lead and was challenged several times by Benedum in the opening laps. Steve Wilmoth, Chuck Harper, and Scott Miles battled for the other top five spots. The 75-lap main event started out slowly with several cautions in the first half of the race. The cautions included several spins and slowing cars, with the worst being a flip by Andy Fries, who climbed from his car uninjured.

The man on the move was Scott Rhodes, who started in the 19th starting spot. Rhodes moved immediately to the top of the track and rode the rim, passing car after car each lap. By lap 10, Rhodes was in the seventh position. After a lap 13 caution, the race went green, with Rhodes taking the lead from Geisler on lap 20. When the yellow came out for a scheduled fuel stop on lap 35, Rhodes had lapped more than half the starting field. The top five at this time were Rhodes, Geisler, Benedum, Wilmoth, and Miles.

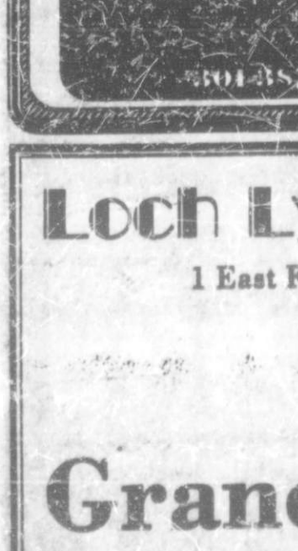

Shortly after the fuel stop, Geisler headed to the pits while Rhodes stayed on the point. Benedum put his nose under Rhodes a couple of times, but could not make the pass stick. At the checkered flag, it was Rhodes, Jeremy Miller (who made a late race charge to the front), Benedum, Miles, and Rodney Combs (who started at the rear of the field after Dave Groves drove in the heat race). Six through ten went to Wilmoth, Chuck Clise, Harper, Jeff Ferguson, and Mel Minnick. Heat races were won by Geisler, Benedum, and Harper.

The Modified feature was filled with cautions and ended after the time limit expired. Dave Groves passed Shawn Davis about midway through the race and never looked back. The top five were Groves, Larry Kugel, Davis, Doug Glessner, and Ken Riddle. Heats went to Davis, Chad McClelland, and Groves.

The Pure Stock feature was won by Scott Bochek, followed by Jim Shaffer, Jim Byers, John Redshaw, and Bob Medved. Heats were taken by Scott Herring and Bochek.

The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

LOCAL DRIVER TAKES W.VA. DERBY — When the dust cleared at a recent Weston, W.Va., demolition derby, Cranesville resident James Crosco and his trusty car were all that was left still in the running, and earned the first-place trophy. Crosco is in the midst of a fine year of demolition derby racing, and has crashed his way to first-place finishes in competitions in Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Virginia. He is slated to take part in yet another demolition derby tonight in Grafton, W.Va., and will be competing in the Garrett County Fair derby in a couple of weeks.

Women Golfers Host Tourney, Play Scramble

Sixty-eight women from golf clubs in the area participated in the Oakland Women's Golf Association Invitational July 20. The format was four-person team, two-best balls, with 15 year-old Natalie Winter's team winning first place honors. Her team included Barbara Fike, Nemacolin; Cathy Mattingly, Cumberland; and Betty Bean, Mill Creek.

Claiming second place was the team of Roberta Seward, Oakland; Lorraine Hart, Alpine; Cheryl Wotherspoon, Oakland; and Sharon Floyd, Polish Pines.

Members of the Women's Association gathered July 27 for a meeting, followed by a scramble, with the threesome of Janice Metheny, Mary Spencer, and Betty Lins winning first place, carding 74. Scoring 76 for second place was the foursome of Pat Filsinger, Loretta Pernell, Kazuko Hamill, and Debbie Weissgerber. Two teams tied for second place, carding 79: Marianna Naylor, Margaret Moran, Julia Sines, and Helen Nordeck; and Annis Colaw, Bonnie DeWater, Marion Boehmer, and Vickie Regnier.

NHS Athletics Meeting Slated

All Northern High School students of all grade levels who wish to participate in the sports of volleyball, golf, and girls' and boys' soccer — as well as their parents — are to attend an organizational meeting this Sunday, Aug. 6, at 7 p.m. in the NHS gymnasium. Among the topics to be discussed will be information pertaining specifically to athletic programs that appears in the new student activities handbook, according to athletic director Harv Speicher.

SANDY DOUGLASS MEMORIAL INVITATIONAL REGATTA RACED AT DEEP CREEK LAKE IN LIGHT AIR

By Dan Muss

An invitational regatta is one in which competitors from off our lake are invited to attend, and there were seven visiting 'Scots here this past weekend that placed in the money. Chairman for the event was Tom Scannell.

Sandy Douglass was the designer and builder of three important one-design racing sailboats: Thistle, Flying Scot, and Highlander. Sandy established the Gordon Douglass Boat Company in Deer Park, which is now Flying Scot Inc. (That's why some of us old-timers still call it the Go-Do-Bo-Co.) The Adventure Sports Institute at the Garrett Community College contributed the perpetual trophy for the winner of this regatta a few years ago.

In addition to the regatta, both the Lasers and the Flying Scot C Fleet sailed regular weekend races.

It was not surprising that Harry Carpenter, with his son Jimmy as crew, won this regatta after their triumph at the Flying Scot North American Championships.

The wind on Saturday was light, but it never died, so we had pretty good light-air sailing. Kevin Rissell, race commander, set a traditional windward-jibe-leeward-windward-leeward-windward course through the slot where the wind was best. His wife Dawn and Matt Matthews assisted Kevin. Ted Rissell was the official scorer.

Sailing

Ted Rissell, racing in C Fleet in the first race on Saturday, finished in the same time as the first A Fleet boat; that's really good sailing. Ed and Judy Wetzel sailed for the first time in six years and finished 6th in the B fleet.

On Sunday it really looked dead. There were a few zephyrs rippling the water, but in an informal meeting on the yacht club deck, C Fleet decided not to race. So my wife and I went out in our pontoon boat to watch and maybe tow boats home if it became necessary. When we got to the start it looked like a still-life painting... nothing was moving. Kevin reported that the wind shifted three times and then died. When the three guns for a cancellation were fired a cheer came up from the racers.

A word about the "Monkey" award. It was started some years ago for the racer finishing just out of the money, and each year the awardee has added something to the toy monkey, so it's really loaded now.

THE SWIM TEAM'S BOOTY was on display at the annual Manta Ray Swim Team Picnic, held each year at season's end. The team competed in the YMCA championships recently, earning a wide array of trophies, some of which are pictured here. The swimmers had a successful 2000 season, and this year are saying goodbye to seven graduating seniors, many of whom have put over 10 years into the program. See story. In addition to the presentation of special trophies, all team members were given ribbons for various placings in the competitions, as well as team pictures and jackets. The picnic was held at the Alpine Lake beach in Terra Alta, W.Va. The Manta Rays train at Alpine's indoor pool. Pictured as they hand out the presents, from left, are Sally Marc, assistant coach; Nan Gangler, head coach; and Connie Gibson, assistant coach.

her songs on a KRS compilation. The record gained a lot of attention, a spokesperson noted. Eventually Lord made two recordings for KRS (Mary Lou Lord and Martian Saints), which earned a strong following in the underground music scene, as well as good exposure to the established industry. She soon recorded a full-length studio album with Nick Saloman.

Lord's show will be preceded by a performance by local musician Jeff Gilbert. Gilbert will play at the pocket park, next to the Gonder's building, beginning at 5 p.m.

Guests to the concert are encouraged to bring their own chairs. The concerts of the Little Yough Summer Music Festival are free to the public.

The six-event series has been well-attended throughout the summer, according to event representatives, and comes to an end with the Lord concert. It has been sponsored by the Greater Oakland Business Association, WKHJ, the Garrett County Arts Council, Team One, Farmers and Merchants Bank, The Republican newspaper, and the Oakland Rotary Club.

BOE Releases Meeting Agenda

The Garrett County Board of Education will address instructional and administrative issues during the regular monthly meeting scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Action will be taken by the board on revisions to the student handbook, and on the school policy of administering medicines to students. A vote will also be taken on the acceptance of the videos on acquaintance rape and sexual abuse for use in the health curriculum.

Information will be presented on the K-12 Program of Studies for social studies, and textbook recommendations. Action will be taken on the capital improvement plan, a van bid, and a fleet insurance bid. Information will be offered on bid proposals for the food services program.

The meetings of the board of education are open to the public.

Brooks Ditmore And Mark Elliott Are Married In June 17 Ceremony

Brooks Dawn Ditmore and Mark Edward Elliott were married on June 17, 2000, at the Creilin Assembly of God Church, Oakland, with Pastor David Snodgrass officiating.

The bride is the daughter of David and Pam Ashenfelter, Kingwood, W.Va., and Mark Ditmore, Reedsville, W.Va. She is the granddaughter of Arnold and Elsie Wiles, Kingwood. A 1996 honor graduate of Preston High School, she will graduate in December from Fairmont State College with a bachelor of science degree in secondary education. She is currently a part-time accounting assistant at West Virginia University.

The bridegroom is the son of Daniel and Carolyn Elliott, and grandson of Roy and Loraine Elliott and Larry and Lucille Crosco, all of Oakland. He is a 1994 graduate of Southern Garrett High School and attended both Garrett Community and Davis & Elkins colleges. He is employed with the Beitzel Corporation in Grantsville.

Escorted by her stepfather and given away by her grandfather, the bride wore a straight, white satin gown with a detachable full cathedral train, featuring a princess neckline and long sleeves. The satin bodice and sleeves were covered in seed pearls and sequins, the detailed train included handcrafted cut-through flower designs trimmed in seed pearls and sequins, and the veil, which was given to her by her sister-in-law and remade by her mother, was also adorned with the pearl and sequin design.

The matron of honor was Sharon Griffith, friend of the bride, of Grafton, W.Va. The bridal attendants were Brandy DeWitt, sister of the bride, Heather Maczko, friend of the bride, Lisette Layman, cousin of the bride, all of Preston County, and Jodi McCroskey, sister of the bridegroom, Phenix City, Ala.

The best man was Jeff Martin, friend of the groom, of Oakland. The groomsmen were Joseph DeWitt, brother-in-law of the bride, Independence, W.Va.; Gary Crosco, uncle of the groom, and Donnie Upole, friend of the groom, both of Oakland; and 1st Lt. Brian McCroskey, brother-in-law of the groom, Phenix City.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Eagles' Club in Kingwood.

Following a honeymoon to the Blackbear Resort in Canaan Valley, the couple established residence in Kingwood.

Johnson-Wright Wedding Slated

Angie Ann Johnson and John Charles Wright of Lyons, Colo., are announcing their forthcoming marriage. The couple will be wed Saturday, Aug. 12, 2000, at the Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church at 3 p.m.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Barry and Linda Johnson, Lyons. Mr. Wright is the son of John and Jean Wright, Swanton.

A reception will be held immediately following the ceremony at the Markwood residence, 1057 Herrington Manor Road, just west of Oakland. All relatives and friends are invited to attend both the ceremony and the reception.

Brennemans Mark 50th Anniversary

In celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary, Olen and Louise Brenneman were honored at a party hosted by their children and families at the Bittinger fire hall on April 15, with approximately 80 guests in attendance

The meal, prepared by the family, was served by Ruth Stanton and Karin Durst. A three-tiered anniversary cake, baked for the couple by Christy Thomas, was decorated with white roses and accented with gold leaves, ribbon roses, and beads to reflect the golden anniversary theme. The hall, likewise, was decorated with gold balloons and yellow and white carnations.

The grandchildren presented the couple with a video of pictures from the past, which was viewed by the guests.

Pastor David E. Fetter gave the blessing. Entertainment was provided by son-in-law Morris Resh and daughter Lucretia Sines. "No Place That Far" was sung by granddaughter Alison Sines.

Mr. and Mrs. Brenneman were married February 11, 1950, in Oakland at St. Paul's Methodist Church parsonage by Denver C. Pickens. The couple have three daughters and sons-in-law: Nancy Resh and husband Morris; Denise Blocher and husband Ron, and Lucretia Sines and husband Ken. They have five grandchildren: Brian and Sarah Blocher, Aaron Blocher, and Christopher Sines and Alison Sines.

Mr. and Mrs. Brenneman were employed by the Garrett County Board of Education as custodians at Grantsville Elementary School. They retired from their jobs June 1, 1988.

The Brennemans along with their daughters thanked everyone who attended or sent cards, for this special day.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Seven couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to records at the Circuit Court of Garrett County.

Donald Wagner Tucker, 49, and Janice Louise Farber, 44, both of Mtn. Lake Park.

Steven Lee Savage, 23, and Lara Elisabeth Friend, 21, both of Accident.

David Wayne Wagner, 34, and Lisa Ann Pruitt, 33, both of Clarksburg, W.Va.

Larry Laverne Sweitzer, 34, and Tracy Lynn Cook, 30, both of Kitzmiller.

David Louis Mayer III, 35, and Diana Cassandra Johnson, 26, both of Takoma Park.

Andrew David Teter, 21, and Darla Ann Friend, 22, both of Friendsville.

Eric Wayne Shaffer, 23, and Allison Jean Atkinson, 28, both of McHenry.

Ms. Schroyer To Wed Mr. Guthrie

Robert and Vickie Schroyer, Friendsville, recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Heather Sue, to Dale Guthrie, Frostburg.

The bride-elect, a 1996 graduate of Northern High School, is currently employed at Flushing Shirt Factory.

Mr. Guthrie is a 1988 graduate of Northern High School. He is currently employed at Beitzel Corporation in Bittinger.

A 2001 wedding is being planned.

Mountain Lake Park Observer

by Dan Whittelsey

Glenn Tolbert was recently selected by the Town Council to act as the "enforcer" of the Town's ordinances. Glenn and I agreed that the term "enforcer" sounded like a bad Saturday night TV program. Glenn is calling himself an administrator of ordinances. A little less threatening. And besides, "enforcer" does not characterize properly this amiable friendly man from Texas.

Glenn is an "Army brat." His homes as a young boy were Europe and Texas. He graduated from Texas University, El Paso, as a journalist. In Maryland he worked for Maryland Public Television as a producer. He now works for Oakland's Main Street program.

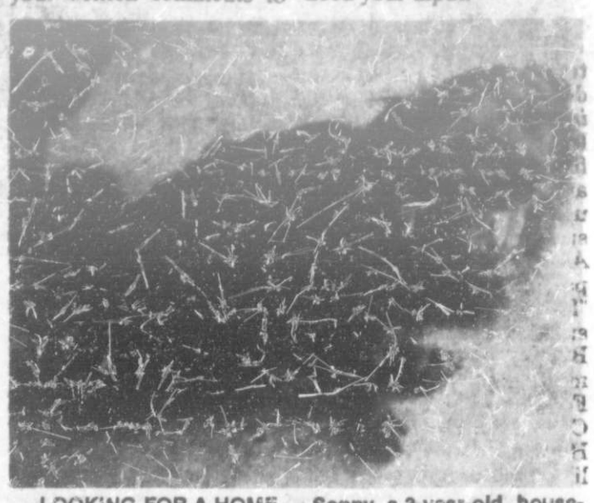

For Mountain Lake Park, Glenn looks on his job of not only giving some force to our ordinances, but also respecting the citizens' rights — the right to have ordinances enforced, but also to protect the citizen from undue, unfair harassment by town officials. In fact, Glenn felt that many violations of ordinances can be corrected by friendly suggestions to residents that they are in violation and they don't know it.

Obviously this can be carried too far. The mayor and town council should pay close attention to Glenn's activities, give him the support he needs, and guide him where necessary.

In fact, the community of Mountain Lake Park should put forth its welcoming hand and wish him success in his new appointment.

Some time ago I suggested that upgrading Allegheny Park should be considered. Fresh drinking water facilities, new swings or basketball facilities, roller skating path, outdoor grills, and many other enhancements should be devoted to this park. If you have suggestions on how to improve the park, you should send your written comments to Mayor Shockey or attend a town council meeting and bring up the subject. There is also a committee working on this project.

The next meeting of the town council will be at 6 p.m. August 8. The council will meet the second and fourth Wednesday of every month unless otherwise posted. Please attend. We need your input.

THOMAS & THE MAGIC RAILROAD

Rated G - Running Time: 1:25 - Released 7/26/00

For parents who like wholesome children's entertainment, Thomas & The Magic Railroad, the descendent of TV's Thomas The Tank Engine and Shining Time Station, may come as a welcome addition to the local cineplex. For Thomas's producers, however, the film may turn out to be a disappointment: its mild style and lackluster performances will not be enough to stand up against the unusual glut of kids' films released this summer. After The Road To El Dorado, Dinosaur, Titan A.E., Chicken Run, The Kid, and Pokemon, Thomas is pale competition. Still, it does provide one of the more "family oriented" themes offered, fitting snugly into the sugary-sweet, toddler-aimed category right between Barney and the Teletubbies. It also contains some famous names in the cast, like Alec Baldwin and Peter Fonda, with no one from the original TV show except Didi Conn (a.k.a Frenchy, the beauty school dropout in Grease). However, Conn's presence is so limited, her role is more like a featured cameo than a principal part.

I've always thought that the whole Thomas franchise (based on the 1940s stories by Rev. Wilbert Awdry) was little more than a clever vehicle for writer/producer/director Britt Allcroft to show off his love of model trains. The sets are indeed a hobbyist's dream, with every detail you could imagine—towns, mountains, lakes, bridges, tunnels . . . and numerous multicolored engines, all sporting interchangeable faces (with a plethora of different expressions) attached to their fronts. This film's story, however, leaves a little to be desired. It takes place mainly on the island of Sodor, where train engines live and cavort together among little plastic accessories, probably in about G scale. It seems that the evil Diesel has been threatening the steam engines with his attached overhead claw (the sort of device used to pick up trash or debris), which he calls "Pinchy." In fact, he is responsible for the disappearance of Lady, the fabled "lost engine" hidden somewhere in the mountain, for which he still searches, intending to do her in for good. No explanation is made as to why Diesel is so angry at Lady and the other steam engines; perhaps he was unable to perform in some attempted coupling and she told the others of his shortcomings. Anyway, he acts as the neighborhood bully to Thomas (voice of John Bellis) and the others, not to mention Mr. Conductor (Baldwin), the miniature guardian of the trains.

Mr. Conductor is able to deal with Diesel until he runs out of the magic gold dust that allows him to transport wherever he wants to go, and he must call on his Australian beach-bum cousin Junior (Michael Rodgers) to find him some more. Tangentially included in this ponderous, overly complex plot is Burnett Stone (Fonda), the sullen railman who failed to protect Lady against Diesel long ago and can't stop beating himself up for it, and two teens (Mara Wilson and Cody McMains), whose primary function is make kids in the audience feel that it's not completely a story about adults.

Apart from the numerous mechanical cast members, Baldwin is really the star here, and his approach to the role of Mr. Conductor is decidedly wimpier and more patronizing than that of Ringo Starr and George Carlin, who each played the role at different times on TV (Starr was even nominated for an Emmy for his portrayal). While Starr and Carlin both endowed Mr. Conductor with a friendly hipness, Baldwin mainly talks down to his audience as if they were mentally disabled. But the part is written differently, too: on TV, Mr. Conductor is a wise, confident little man with the answers to everyone's questions; here he is mostly a helpless victim, lost, confused, unable to solve his problems. Maybe he's had too much of that magic dust.

While a colorful presentation of model trains, Thomas & The Magic Railroad is a strange, brooding story vastly different from its TV ancestor, and it will soon slip indistinctly from the public consciousness and into video stores, which is where it belongs. ★★★

NUTTY PROFESSOR II: THE KLUMPS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:45 - Released 7/28/00

It's ironic that it took five writers to produce a script that is basically just a platform to let Eddie Murphy do his schtick. But what a schtick. Directed by Peter Segal, Nutty Professor II: The Klumps is a tour de force for Murphy, allowing him to expand (literally) the hysterically funny family of characters he created for just a few scenes in The Nutty Professor (1996). If the Klump family were portrayed by separate actors, this film would be a throwaway, but the fact that Murphy, playing six different characters, is in every scene (sometimes several times over) can't help but impress.

Written by Steve Oedekerk, Barry W. Blaustein and David Sheffield (three of the '96 Nutty Professor co-writers), plus brothers Paul and Chris Weitz (Antz), the plot of NP2K involves genius Professor Sherman Klump's continued possession by his thin alter ego, Buddy Love (Murphy without the fat suit). The film begins with a hilarious dream sequence where Sherman is at the altar with his true love, Professor Denice Gains (Janet Jackson), when Buddy pops out of his pants and disrupts the wedding. The good-natured Sherman is tormented by Buddy, who occasionally jumps into his brain and starts making him say rude, arrogant things that are antithetical to his normal personality. Needless to say, this also confuses Denice and threatens to derail their romance.

Luckily, Sherman and Denice have been collaborating on a new gene isolation/extraction process which is meant to further their experimental fountain-of-youth drug. Deciding to remove the "Buddy Love" gene from his DNA, Sherman uses the new, untested technology and reduces Buddy to a beakerful of goo. But Buddy escapes and promptly begins wreaking even more havoc.

The real joy in this film are the scenes between the several members of Sherman's family, all played by Murphy. His mother is a matronly woman of late middle age who wants only the best for her genius son, and is regularly appalled by the behavior of her other family members, especially their dinner conversations, which usually revolve around sex or bodily functions. Her husband, Sherman's father, who is suffering from impotence as a result of growing older, regularly engages in vicious verbal duels with his mother-in-law, the toothless grandmother who is still very sexually active and makes sure everyone knows it. Finally, Sherman's brother Ernie is an auto mechanic with a chip on his shoulder from having to live in Sherman's considerable shadow. Murphy endows all these characters with specific, varied mannerisms and attributes. His characterizations are full of energy and their interactions are hysterical.

Although Murphy must receive the lion's share of credit for the success of this film, there are other talents at work. Needless to say, a film like this requires much skill in the field of makeup, and Rick Baker, who won the Academy Award for his work in Nutty '96, expertly transforms Murphy again into his large (in more ways than one) family. Director Segal includes many little details of his own, like a number of amusing fantasy/dream sequences, one of which recalls themes from space films like Armageddon, Star Wars, and 2001. Jackson does an credible job portraying Sherman's love interest Denice, though her character is meant to serve only as the object of Sherman's affection and isn't developed much beyond that. Also present is comedian Larry Miller returning as Sherman's boss, Dean Richmond.

Not all of the jokes in NP2K land perfectly, but the scenes involving the several Murphy characters are fun to watch if only for the hilarious personal mannerisms he gives them. It's interesting to note that among the co-producers is Jerry Lewis, star of the original Nutty Professor (1963), who also co-produced the '96 version. Perhaps, being the "king of comedy," Lewis is able to recognize that even a disposable script like this can work if one has the right talent in the lead, um ... rolls. ★★★★

Battista Earns Law Degree At Univ. of Florida

Jeffrey Battista received his juris doctor degree from the University of Florida College of Law during recent commencement exercises. While at the law school, he was the recipient of the Chester H. Ferguson Scholarship; served as treasurer of the Criminal Law Association; and was a member of the Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, the Association for Public Interest Law, the John Marshall Bar Association, and the American Bar Association/Law Student Division.

Prior to receiving his law degree, Battista received his bachelor of science degree in accounting from West Virginia University in Morgantown, where he graduated magna cum laude with high honors. While at WVU, he became a founding member of the Delta Sigma Pi fraternity, for which he took on the role of treasurer and then initiation leader. He was also a member of the Pre-Law Society, the Golden Key National Honor Society, and the Beta Gamma Sigma National Honor Society for Accredited Business Programs. He was employed by the WVU Residence Hall Department, for which he served as a resident advisor to students in Stalnaker Hall.

Battista, a graduate of Southern High School, is married to the former Crystal Smith of Morgantown and now resides in Vero Beach, Fla., where he has accepted a position as assistant state's attorney for Indian River County. He is the son of Don and Patti Battista of Oakland.

TEAM ONE TEAM WINS TRIVIA CONTEST - The Team One Terminators were the winners of the 2000 WKHJ/Uno's Trivia Challenge, as they topped the former winners, the Paper Boys, from The Republican newspaper in the finals of the radio competition. The top prize was $1,325, which was then donated by the Terminators to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Pictured above, from left, are: Skip Bernard, co-owner of Team One; Greta Taylor, Uno's Restaurant manager; and the members of the team, Greg Shockey, general manager, Donna Brenneman, and Larry Sisler, co-owner. In the photo at right, the check is presented to officers of Southern Rescue. From left are: Skip Bernard; David Betz, president of SGCRS; Greg Shockey; and David Moon, chief of SGCRS. The Trivia Challenge, a weekday feature on WKHJ Radio, provides an opportunity for individuals and local businesses to try their luck at random trivia and then present cash winnings, donated by Uno's, to the charities of their choice. The next competition will begin in September.

fore. It's something we can get used to, they're not going to take over. As far as wildlife goes, they are known to kill young turkeys and raid turkey eggs, and they're only a threat to deer fawns in the first few weeks of life. After that a young deer can usually outrun a coyote.

"As far as pets go, anyone who has a large number of cats roaming on a small amount of ground is asking for trouble by creating an artificial food source. Any coyote is going to see that it would be easier to capture a cat in that situation than have to hunt for rabbits or other wildlife over a wider range."

"A sheep farmer may lose a few lambs, but then again, that's what a sheepdog is for," the professional outsdoorman stated, adding that sheepdogs have been specially bred for the purpose of herding and protecting sheep since biblical times. "A coyote would not want to fight another canine, especially one close to its own size. A sheepdog would put its life on the line for its herd, and run a coyote off, who would be forced to give up to go find some food that requires less work to capture."

"A coyote will battle most anything if cornered," Canola concurred, "but will not attack anything bigger than itself. Western states have been living with coyotes since colonial days, and have adapted by making hunting and trapping part of their strategy. We have an unlimited hunting season on coyotes here, and a trapping season that runs throughout the fall."

Ervin Schrock, a Pleasant Valley resident who operates a sideline business tracking and hunting pest wildlife with specially trained dogs, said that he has been monitoring the coyote influx into the county for a number of years. "From what I've seen, we are right at a meeting point of coyote movement. Over the past 10 or 15 years, a northern species has moved down from New York and through Pennsylvania to establish itself in Garrett County, and at the same time a western species worked its way across from Ohio and West Virginia. They are here to stay, that's one thing for certain."

SYTEP Concludes Another Year Of Youth Training

The Garrett County 2000 Summer Youth Employment Training Program (SYETP), which began on June 26, draws to a close tomorrow. The program has served 83 enrollees this summer, who worked at 25 different sites throughout the county. Fifty-two participants served in the regular work experience component at local businesses and governmental offices, and 31 others were placed on work crews that performed their duties at a variety of locations in local towns and state parks, and along area roadways.

SYETP funding was reduced under the Workforce Investment Act, a new program. At the outset this had resulted in funding for fewer jobs than were offered last summer, but the Garrett County Department of Social Services stepped in to assist by providing funds that allowed an additional 30 positions to be filled. This assistance took the count of youth served in the SYETP from 53 to 83.

In providing a wide range of skills training to its participants, the SYETP afforded experience in the particular jobs the enrollees were assigned to, and encouraged development of more general work and life skills needed for future success. Of the 83 young people served by the program, 39 percent took advantage of remedial skills training that included tutoring in subjects such as math and reading. The other 61 percent of the enrollees participated in occupational skills training that covered topics such as basic work ethics.

The SYETP is directed by M. Sue Shockey, supervisor of the Garrett County Western Maryland Consortium office. Program coordinator Elmer Redinger, assistant coordinator Robin Shaffer, and field advisor Ali Evans oversaw this summer's program.

The four work crews were supervised by Michael Friend, Nathaniel Emory, Ryan Wolf, and Megan Moore. Friend's Southern Roving crew performed various jobs at sites such as Broadford Park, the town of Loch Lynn, Potomac State Forest, Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls state parks, and the town of Mountain Lake Park. Emory's Northern Roving crew performed its duties at the Bittinger fire hall, the Western Maryland 4-H Camp, Northern Middle School, Puzzley Run, Camp Hickory, and New Germany State Park. Wolf's State Highway Administration crew worked at helping maintain and improve area roadways, and Moore's crew was responsible for the heavily used facilities of Deep Creek Lake State Park.

SYETP YOUTH GAIN WORK EXPERIENCE — The Summer Youth Employment Training Program (SYETP) has served 83 local youth this summer, who performed a wide variety of jobs at private and public sector work sites throughout the county. The Southern Roving crew, one of four work crews that performed a variety of outdoor duties, is shown above with some of the persons who helped make the SYTEP program possible. At the far left is Tom Rosser, assistant director of the Garrett County Department of Social Services, who helped procure extra funding to enable to the program to provide its target number of job positions, and front center is Elmer Redinger, SYETP coordinator. In the back row are crew members Tabitha Dimick, Brian Van Bogelen, Patrick Shiflett, Curtis Kitzmiller, Kenzie Lee, crew chief Mike Friend, Mike Renfro, Mark Dever, and Josh Shannon. This photo was taken as the crew was painting the picnic pavilion at Allegheny Park in Mtn. Lake Park in preparation for the annual Mtn. Lake Park Tennis Tournament.

Umbel Selected For Honors Prog. At University

Daniel Umbel, Friendsville, was among the 14 incoming first year students selected for the honors program at Eastern Mennonite University in Harrisonburg, Va.

Umbel, who plans to major in biblical studies, will receive a half-tuition scholarship to attend EMU in addition to participating in the honors program. He is the son of Earnest and Julia Umbel of 14936 Friendsville Rd.

The honors program, now entering its eighth year, is made possible by an endowment fund and is designed to recognize students with outstanding academic and leadership qualities. Each honors student relates to a faculty mentor who provides academic and career assistance and identifies opportunities for the student to become involved in research, conferences and special academic projects.

Of the 14 students admitted this fall, two received full-tuition scholarships and 12 received half-tuition scholarships, renewable for three years with satisfactory academic performance.

Applicants are chosen through a highly selective process which includes academic records, leadership activities, personal references, and an essay.

ARC Approves

$250,000 conditional loan from the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (obtained from the Maryland Economic Development Assistance Fund). Phenix will put approximately $2,700,000 into the project, and the county will be adding approximately 5 percent of the total cost. The project will also qualify for the One Maryland Tax Credit.

As a condition of the deal, Phenix Technologies has agreed to hire as many as 50 new employees over the next five years. This will be in addition to any new jobs created at the county-owned facility.

Officials at yesterday's gathering praised one another for working together on the project. Hinebaugh said Sarbanes was instrumental in urging ARC to approve the funds, and Sarbanes in turn said Hinebaugh's office and the county commissioners were efficient and aggressive in the process. Also noted as playing key roles were the Tri-County Council and the Western Maryland Development Strategies Task Force.

Delegate Edwards was also praised for his persistence in the pursuit, and he also expressed gratitude to the senator.

"Senator Sarbanes is one of the few senators who even knows where we are, and I appreciate his efforts on our behalf," Edwards said. "I think this is a great day for Garrett County," he added, noting that he and Vitez were classmates at Northern High School some time back. "This is a homegrown business, a Garrett County business. We don't want to bring new businesses in here that already have their workforces. We want to do projects like this so we can provide jobs to our own young people. Then they can stay here if they want to. That's what it's all about."

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett was not at the gathering yesterday, but did issue a statement about the project, commending the leadership of White and the ARC process.

"A comparatively small amount of taxpayers' money has encouraged an existing company to stay in Garrett County, make a major investment in the community, and create new jobs, while at the same time providing opportunities for other companies to come to the county and create new jobs," Bartlett said.

In the past years as the Phenix leadership was searching for ways to grow, West Virginia began "courting" the company to relocate in West Virginia. The prospect of the company leaving the county helped put this project in motion, Hinebaugh said.

"There's no where we'd rather be than in Garrett County," said Vitez. "And this will make it possible for us to stay."

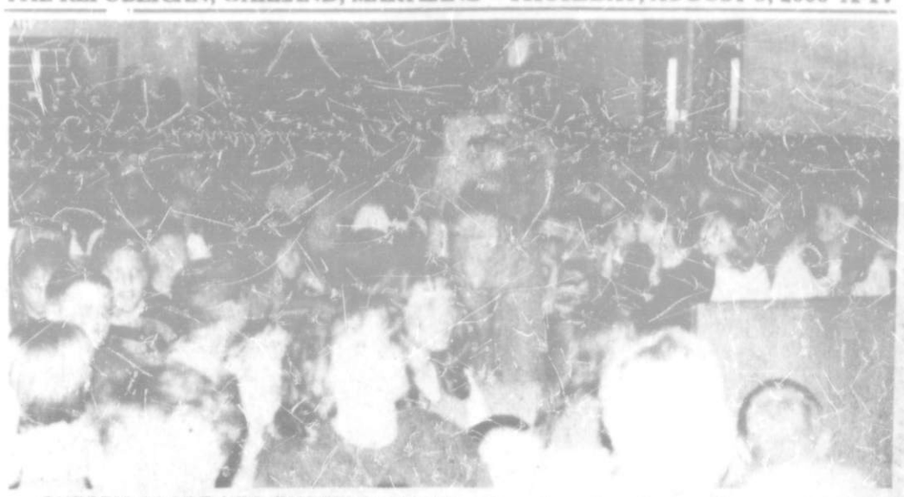

Garrett County Student Attends Forestry Program

John Gregory, Grantsville, was selected to attend this year's Awareness Week for Forestry and Natural Resources Careers, which is being held this week at Hickory Environmental Center, Accident. Gregory joined a group of over 30 students from across the state enrolled in the curriculum.

The weeklong program was designed to acquaint high school students with forestry and natural resources management career opportunities. "A variety of lectures, field trips, and meetings provide participants a first-hand look into the fields of forestry, wildlife biology, fisheries, recreation, and the physical sciences," a program spokesman said.

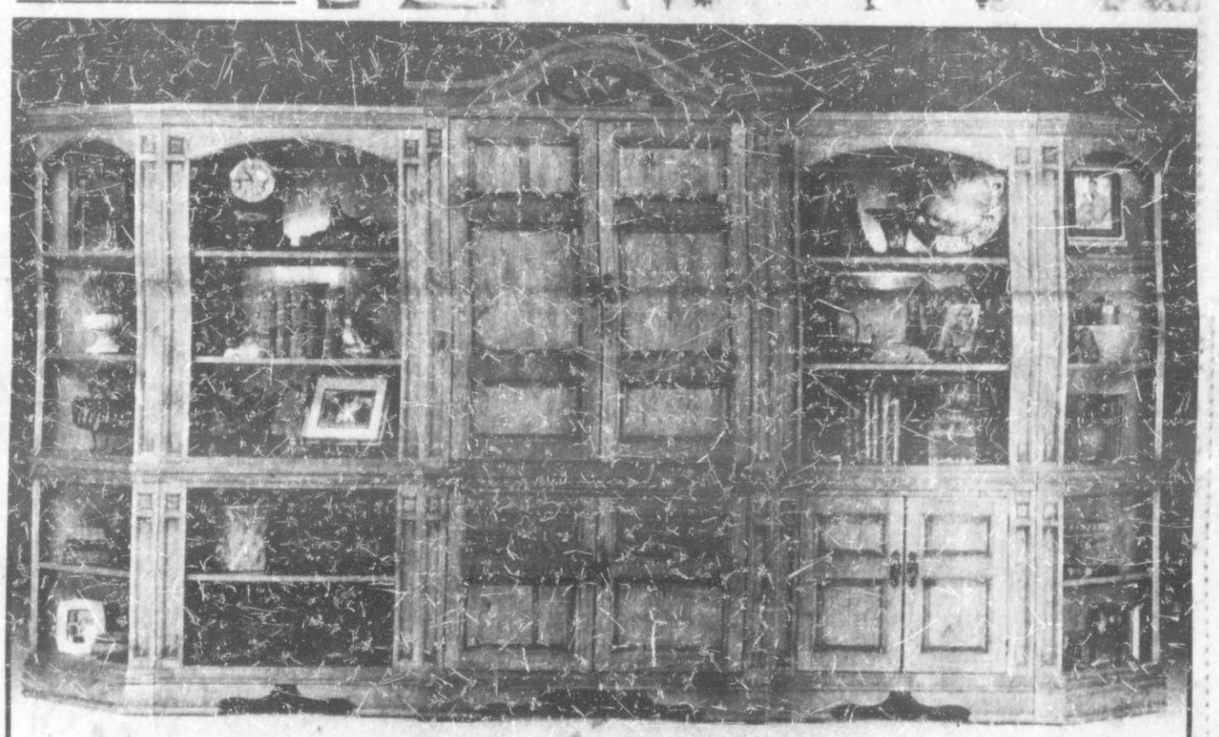

The camp is sponsored by the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy district boards in cooperation with the Department of Natural Resources, Forest, Wildlife & Heritage Service.

CHERRY GLADE VBS EXCEEDS GOALS - Based on imaginary adventures experienced while touring Australia, the "Outback Games" theme of the Cherry Glade Bible school drew more than 200 youths for activities and learning. For one week in July youngsters from the surrounding community gathered at Cherry Glade Church of the Brethren in Accident to compete in a "triathlon," row a boat on a farm pond, and play "adventure games." All activities were based on Bible stories or conveyed a biblical message. The children participating, who ranged in age from pre-school through eighth grade, brought offerings each night to help fund a mission trip to Ghana, Africa, by church member Sherwin Yoder. "We told them that if we reached the goal of $1,000 a staff member would get a pie in the face," explained the superintendent of the school, Kris Graber. Apparently this idea appealed to the youngsters because not only did they reach the goal of $1,000 and see a pie-faced counselor, they reached the goal four times. The mission fund climbed to a total of $4,000. That was a lot of pie-in-the-face for Cherry Glade Bible school counselors. But, according to Graber, it was a "sweet success." In the photo above, the kangaroo counselor tells an Australian adventure story to the 200 children attending the school. In the photo below, Graber gets a face-full of sticky-sweet whipped cream as another $1,000 mark is achieved.

Healthy-O-Living in Garrett County

THIS MAY STING A BIT - Children at the Jennings Head Start Center had the opportunity to dress as health professionals and learn about the toy instruments in their medical bags when the students from the western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) visited the school. AHEC students had built and supplied the Health First play station for Head Start.

AHEC Students Build Health First Play Site For Jennings Head Start

Children in the Jennings Head Start program have a new play station that may provide education as well entertainment. This Health First activities station, which includes toys and activities related to health care, was developed and constructed by a team of six students enrolled in an interdisciplinary course at Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC).

"The play station includes books, dress-up clothes, gross and fine motor activities, and toys that are all related to the medical profession," explained Sue Dotson of AHEC.

The student team that created the play station introduced it at the Head Start program recently. The children dressed up, made first aid kits to take home, and participated in interactive games. "The students who built this play station hoped that the familiarization with the clothes, toys such as doctor kits, and stories about going to the hospital would reduce the child's anxiety when he or she needs medical treatment. It may also help the children understand what health professionals do," Dotson said.

The AHEC student team also created a brochure for parents, adapted from the American Red Cross Community First Aid & Safety Handbook, which outlines basic first aid procedures and phone numbers for appropriate treatment. The brochure summarizes for parents the types of incidents which should be responded to with a call to 911 and the types of situations which merit a call to a physician.

The interdisciplinary team that developed the Health First project for Jennings Head Start was composed of the following students from Towson University and the University of Maryland: Colleen Clark and Beth Miller, occupational therapists; Kim Filling and Susan Mudd, physical therapists; Frances Cade, social worker; Brenda McKenzie, R.N.; Gail Mazzocco, Ed.D., R.N.; and Margaret Alston, Ph.D., physical therapist.

"This play station will remain at Jennings Head Start so that children may continue to benefit from it," Dotson noted.

Group Addresses Health Risks Of Chewing Tobacco

Outreach members of the Garrett County Health Department Tobacco-Free Coalition recently completed a campaign to reduce the use of "smokeless" tobacco products. The project, titled "Through With Chew," took a preventive message to the public about the health risks inherent in chewing tobacco.

The outreach workers carried this campaign to the Little League fields of Garrett County. Speaking with parents of ball players, the workers explained how tobacco can lead to cancer even when it is used in a form other than cigarettes. These parents were selected for the project because they are involved in their children's activities and would likely be concerned with setting a "healthy" example for youth, a committee member explained.

To further promote public education on the risks of smokeless tobacco products, the Cooperative Extension Service received a grant from the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene to present a program called "STEP," Spit Tobacco Education Program, which will train 4-H volunteer leaders to advocate avoiding tobacco use. April Enlow, a longtime 4-H member and former Garrett County farm queen, was hired as youth coordinator to implement this tobacco-free program for young people.

Community Outreach workers will continue the smokeless tobacco presentations in 4-H club in the fall.

The next meeting of the Tobacco-Free Coalition will be held August 23 at noon in the health department's conference room at GW Plaza. Interested persons are invited to attend.

Tips For Basic First Aid

The following information was adapted from The American Red Cross Community First Aid & Safety Handbook for a brochure given by students from AHEC to parents of children at the Jennings Head Start Center.

WHEN TO CALL 911

A parent or caregiver should call 911 for emergency medical help if the child experiences any of the following:

- Becomes unconscious.
- Has trouble breathing.
- Is bleeding severely.
- Has a seizure.
- Has possible broken bones.
- Has a severe injury to the head, neck, or back.

WHEN TO CALL A DOCTOR

A physician should be contacted in any of the following situations:

- If the skin around a wound becomes red, warm, and swollen.
- If a wound has a puss discharge.
- If the child has a fever above 101 degrees.
- Anytime you are unsure what to do.

Youth Council Holds Funland Learning Event

A leaning event at Funland, with the themes of "Love is Worth Waiting For" and "Love: Handle With Care," was offered recently by the Garrett County Youth Council, sponsored in part by a grant from the AIDS Administration. In this informal setting, information was presented on HIV and AIDS.

Over 100 participants, mostly youth between the ages of 10 and 18, played educational games, as well as carnival games, and helped themselves to pizza and soda. "The event was a huge success," said coordinator Sue Newton.

The evening started with information on the transmission of HIV, which was provided in the form of a game called "Contagion," introduced by Paulette Kelly, regional AIDS educator for Garrett and Allegany counties.

Newton illustrated how the sharing of needles for intravenous drugs, body piercing, or tattooing can spread HIV. She also demonstrated the "invisible" quality of the HIV infection and how one is unable to "see" HIV when meeting a person.

Among the games that the participants played was "Jeopardy," in which the questions related to HIV/AIDS. A dime pitch game served as a means of collecting money -- a total of $57.10 — for the Garrett County AIDS Council. The prizes given to game winners included teddy bears, mugs, pens, pencils, buttons, and T-shirts. Each was imprinted with "Love Can Wait" or "Love: Handle With Care."

Donna McClintock from the Garrett County AIDS Council attended the event, along with Hector Gomez the regional case manager for HIV Council. She explained that the money collected during the dime pitch will be used to assist HIV/AIDS patients with requests not covered by any source. "This money helps patients and families remain in their own homes," she said.

In thanking Newton and the members of AmeriCorps and the health department's community health team, McClintock cited the "continuing effort to educate and promote awareness" about HIV/AIDS. "Again, Garrett County can be proud of your efforts as can all others involved in the fun night event," she said.

Newton, who is the Teen Pregnancy Prevention coordinator for Garrett County, explained that this was the second event sponsored by the youth council. The first, a "Bowling Bash" in February, attracted 70 young people. "I see that there is a need for youth activities in Garrett County by the number of youths that have shown up for these two events. They come to the events and they have fun. That is something I'd like to see happen more often," she concluded.

ALZHEIMER'S GROUP HOSTS SEMINAR - The Alzheimer's Association, western Maryland chapter, presented a seminar last month for health care professionals from Frederick, Washington, Allegany, and Garrett counties concerning the use, administration, and interpretation of the Mini Mental State Examination. More than 50 providers from adult day centers, residential facilities, government organizations, and law enforcement agencies attended the educational program instructed by Dr. Edward P. Feher, neuropsychologist and chair of the Alzheimer's Association's Medical Scientific Advisory Committee.

DSS, Elks Club Sponsor Local Youths At Camp

As a result of the combined efforts of personnel at the Garrett County Department of Social Services (DSS) and members of the Elks Lodge, six local youngsters were able to attend Elks Camp Barrett, near Annapolis. At the end of the session, one of these local campers brought home two awards.

Megan Rollins, a student intern in the Family Preservation Unit at DSS, initiated the project on behalf of two boys and four girls. Jim Stewart, the Exalted Ruler of the Elks BPO Lodge, arranged for the Elks to sponsor the six youths. "The Oakland Elks Lodge covered the total cost for the campers," Rollins said.

Christopher Durst, Jeff McCurdy, Tammy Plummer, Deana Gordon, Amber Winans, and Jena Winans spent a week among about 100 campers who were hiking, playing soccer, learning archery, and making up skits to perform around the evening campfire.

The camp, which is owned and operated by the Elks Association of Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia, was established to provide youngsters between the ages of 9 and 13 with activities that emphasize physical, mental, social, and emotional growth, an organization spokesman explained.

"It was a wonderful experience for these kids and they did really well. Jeff McCurdy won two awards. He was chosen as the Most Courteous Camper and the Most Outgoing Camper.

WINNER ANNOUNCED - The Garrett County Health Department staff set up informational displays throughout Garrett County this spring concerning the breast and cervical cancer prevention program offered by the health department. The Community Health Outreach Workers (CHOW) used the displays to educate the public on breast health and to inform Garrett County women ages 40-64 that they may be eligible for a free mammogram and pap test. In the photo, Sandy Sutton, CHOW, is presenting a flower basket to Naomi O'Haver, whose name was randomly drawn from among those who visited the display sites. The CHOW team encourages all Garrett County women ages 40-64 to find out if they qualify for a free mammogram and pap test by contacting the Community Health Outreach Department at 301-334-8122 or 301-895-3113.

Bowser Surviving Battle For Bees

by Craig Speicher

Not many people would lay down a portion of their lives in defense of a small creature. But Alvin Bowser of Keysers Ridge is one of them, as the wild American honeybee — at least for now — appears possibly headed for quasi-extinction.

Over the last decade or so, bee colonies in the wild and in apiaries have been decimated by mites spreading diseases, according to local beekeepers, National Geographic on Discovery cable channel, and numerous periodicals. Some of these mites — there are two types — are almost microscopic, as they kill bees from within the trachea. This crisis is compounded by food crops dependent upon bees for pollination. Thus, when there are not sufficient feral, or wild, honey makers, farmers themselves must supply the bees in the form of apiaries.

Depending upon the source of information, wild honeybee populations have dropped as much as 80 to 90 percent in some areas. The catastrophe has driven all but the most dedicated apiarists out of the vocation and avocation. Bowser, obviously, is one of the chosen survivors.

He has sustained hundreds upon hundreds of dollars of cumulative damage to his apiary in recent years. He vowed last year would be his final if no relief from the mites and a few health problems of his own, forthcoming. But sufficient providence, coupled with a hefty dose of mountain-man persistence, has allowed him to continue caring for his apiary this year, even expanding to eight hives.

Part of the solution for stopping bee-killing mites is a medicine that kills the mites without harming the bees. The medicine is applied to the interior of hives, and bees gradually pick up traces of the medicine on their legs and spread it throughout the colony. But even so, tedious, constant monitoring of the hives is necessary to ensure success, said Bowser. This is beyond the substantial labor that has always been associated with honey production.

In the photo above (at right), Bowser and daughter-in-law Doris Bowser, also of Grantsville, dressed to protect against stings, tend to one of their hives. Doris said she completed last season without receiving a single sting. Alvin, who sometimes handles his hives without gloves, undoubtedly cannot make the same claim. Then again, it takes more than a few stings to pain this busy honey veteran, who also maintains a small saw mill.

Bowser shares some interesting observations about honeybees, pointing out that when clover fields are in bloom, he can hear his bees working all night in the hives.

"They have things to do with the nectar other bees bring in the daytime," he sais with countryside wisdom. "The bees will learn ya."

Despite his troubles, Bowser remains generous with his honey buyers. It's better to price it low to sell while it's fresh, he explains. A golden gallon sells for a fraction of retail store prices. (Honey lovers, hint, hint.) The honey has a uniquely delicious accent that separates it from the standard stores' variety. Ironically, honey is not Bowser's primary goal. He started his apiary to boost pollination of his apple orchard of some 50 trees. The retired trucker and his wife Norma also concoct homemade apple butter, which this writer has sampled and happily endorses.

Asked about the aggressive "killer bees" inadvertently exported from Africa to Brazil and now steadily advancing northward in the USA, Alvin said Garrett County is immune to the fierce species because they cannot withstand harsh winters.

But that's immaterial to Bowser, who has survived more than his share of hardships to reap pollen and apples from the good earth, and, along the way, has demonstrated a honey of a Garrett County spirit.

Westvaco Sets Acquisition Of Brazilian Assets

A subsidiary of Westvaco Corporation has reached an agreement to acquire all assets of Agaprint Embalagens, a leading supplier of consumer packaging in Brazil. Under terms of the agreement, Rigesa Ltda. will assume Agaprint's supply contracts and purchase its manufacturing equipment. Agaprint provides packaging for food, confections, and other products for companies including Garoto, Perdigao, Pillsbury, and Quaker.

Agaprint is a subsidiary of Nemofeffer, a paper and envelope supplier which produces packaging at a Sao Paulo plant that Agaprint shares with other Nemofeffer operations. Agaprint's manufacturing assets—including prepress equipment, an offset press, and a newly acquired offset press with capabilities unlike any similar equipment in Brazil—is scheduled for delivery in October, and will be installed in Rigesa's consumer packaging plant in Valinhos, Brazil.

"Agaprint's emphasis on providing high-quality packaging solutions to Brazil's leading consumer product companies makes its business a perfect fit for Westvaco's expanding global packaging business," said Mark R. McMahon, Rigesa's president. "By combining Agaprint's offset printing capabilities with a flexographic press that we installed just a year and a half ago, we will provide our customers with a broader range of packaging solutions. That enhanced capability is at the core of our strategy for continued growth in Brazil's high-value packaging markets."

Rigesa, which Westvaco has owned since 1953, is a leading packaging supplier in Brazil, operating two paper mills, four container plants, and one consumer packaging plant. The company has 18 sales offices strategically located throughout Brazil, employs about 2,000 people, and is the country's second largest producer of corrugated packaging.

Agreeing to purchase Agaprint's assets is Westvaco's latest initiative to expand its global packaging business, according to a company spokesperson. Following a strategic review in 1999, Westvaco reorganized its packaging business, then completed three acquisitions.

The company acquired a modern bleached paperboard mill in Evadale, Texas, in December, then acquired Mebane Packaging, the top U.S. supplier to multinational pharmaceutical and personal care product companies, the next month. In July Westvaco acquired IMPAC Group, a leading North American and European supplier of packaging for entertainment products, cosmetics, and health and beauty aids.

What do you see first when you look at this elephant? Do you see what is there or what is not?

What is there and What is not

Immediately, we see that the point of the tusk of this mammoth beast has been broken. In so doing, the elephant's ability to do battle is compromised. Yet, what we do not see is that because of this sacrifice, he can bring squeals of delight to thousands of children each year who flock to the circus to ride upon his massive back and rock to and from under the circus tent. Perhaps the trade-off is not so bad after all.

Life is a trade-off. Yet, when we keep the faith in God's will, we find that from apparent loss, we may gain the knowledge of a hidden asset, previously untapped. In Nehemiah 13:2, we read... "Yet, our God turned the curse into a blessing."

Do you feel that you have experienced an unjust loss? Perhaps you are frustrated that you have not attained that which you long for. Worship the Creator this week at your local church or synagogue. Praise Him for His wisdom...and trust Him for His love. Your Heavenly Father knows what you truly need.

YOU SHOULD CHOOSE ONE PHARMACY

Because today's medicines are so much more potent and so much more specific, it has become very important that a family choose one pharmacy to fill all their drug needs for both prescription and non-prescription drugs. A family should "shop" for a pharmacy they feel comfortable with in much the same manner they "shop" for a physician or dentist.

We hope you will choose our pharmacy for your family. We are dedicated to your better health and concentrate our efforts toward achieving this goal.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTES

August 14, 2000

Background Scripture:
Colossians 2:6-19.
Devotional Reading:
Romans 8:31-39.

For 40 odd years many Christians believed that the greatest threat to the Christian faith was "godless communism." If only we could defeat and discredit communism, we thought, the Christian faith would be triumphant.

Well, communism has pretty much been defeated and discredited, but the Christian faith does not appear to be marching on to victory. Religious spokespeople have had to admit that the 100 years just over were not, as was expected, "The Christian Century." Commentators on the world scene note that Islam is the fastest growing religion in the world. The Christian Church is dwindling and disappearing in former strongholds: England, Germany, Scandinavia, Spain, France and even Italy, where Roman Catholicism has been a bulwark for almost 2,000 years.

I have believed for some time that the greatest threat to Christianity is and has always been, not the isms on the outside, but those within. And not so much from those that are easily identifiable—like liberalism, conservatism, denominationalism, ecumenism, parochialism and you name it—but from those that bear no name and are not obvious to most of us. These are the beliefs and practices that, instead of openly challenging the gospel of Jesus Christ, subvert it by becoming substitutes for it. We are not on guard against these dangers because we see and understand them as part of the gospel—which they are not.

Only Shadows

What are these hidden and insidious threats? Paul warned the Colossians, "I say this that no one may delude you with beguiling speech...See to it that no one makes a prey of you by philosophy and empty deceit, according to human tradition, according to the elemental spirits of the universe... Therefore let no one p

GCC Foundation Notes Successes, Looks To Future

The Garrett Community College Foundation, which awards competitive merit and need scholarships to individuals pursuing their higher education at GCC, held its annual meeting recently on the college's McHenry campus. Relying on donations from interested individuals, organizations, and businesses, the GCCF has been able to award over $40,000 in scholarship funding to over 60 recipients for the coming 2000-2001 academic year.

"Individuals, businesses, and organizations have been extraordinarily generous to the GCCF this year," said Foundation president Ann M. Smith. "We are very grateful for the support we have received."

The foundation received a number of donations over the past year that have enabled it to expand its scholarship offerings. Among these were a $20,000 gift from Gary and Luanne Ruddell of Grantsville, who established an endowed scholarship to recognize the late J. Pauline and Paul A. Ruddell I.

The senior Ruddells founded Hobby House Press, an international company headquartered in Grantsville. Gary and Luanne Ruddell's donation was matched by the state of Maryland, which brought the endowment's value to a total of $40,000. The Ruddell family also contributed $1,500 to fund two awards for the first year of this scholarship.

Mildred Schmidt Nethken, Hagerstown, and Marie Schmidt Tasker, Ephrata, Wash., donated a combined total of $12,500 in memory of their father, the late William Henry Schmidt. Designated for an endowed scholarship and matched by the state of Maryland, their gift has resulted in a principal of $25,000 for the William Henry Schmidt Memorial Scholarship.

"The GCCF intends to make annual awards of the Ruddell family and the Schmidt memorial scholarship in perpetuity," explained Bretta Reinhard, advancement officer.

Among the other gifts received by the foundation this year was a donation from Oakland resident Ann Dilgard, who contributed to the principal of the endowed scholarship she had previously established at GCC.

Several new annual scholarships were initiated this year. Daniel E. Offutt III, a native of Garrett County who now resides in Connecticut, donated $5,000 for the Daniel E. Offutt Achievement Award, which pays tuition and fees for two residents of Garrett County to pursue full-time study at GCC for one academic year.

A number of other annual awards were initiated this year: the Knights of Columbus Scholarship, created through a donation from Oakland KOC Council #1771; a scholarship to assist an employee of Grantsville's Goodwill Mennonite Home was created through a donation by Jack and Dorothy Smouse; the family of the late William E. "Bill" Crawford Jr. started an annual scholarship in his memory; and GCC's Continuing Education Division donated a scholarship to encourage recipients of GED's (general equivalency diplomas) to pursue college credit courses.

The GCCF also received donations in the memory of the late Louise M. Stanton and the late Paul A. Ruddell I, designated for the Aza Stanton Art Scholarship and the Ruddell Family Scholarship, respectively.

The foundation received significant financial support for the Innovative Partnerships in Technology Program over the past year. GCC has established a technology endowment fund, and is directing all contributions to the IPT program. The Carl DelSignore Foundation was a strong supporter of the IPT program, and additional donations were made by First United Bank & Trust, Keystone Financial Bank, Mettiki Coal, and Farmers and Merchants Bank and Trust. Each donation was matched by the state of Maryland.

For information about the Garrett Community College Foundation, interested persons may call Reinhard at 301-387-3100.

"Garrett Community College is a significant community resource," stated foundation vice president William G. Weissgerber Jr. "We ask you to kindly remember and graciously support the GCCF."

VOLUNTEERS HELP GUIDE GCCF — The Garrett Community College Foundation relies on the volunteer assistance of community members as it distributes donations throughout the GCC student body to assist students with scholarship funding. "We sincerely appreciate the service of these community members on our board of directors," commented GCCF president Ann M. Smith. "I want to commend every member of the GCCF board of directors and thank everyone for the time and effort devoted to this organization. Their support of higher education is exceptional." In the front row are, from the left, board member and scholarship committee chairperson Virginia M. Clutter, Smith, board members Walter E. Schoenian and Donna G. Sites, and GCC board of trustees representative Charles C. "Bus" Bender. In the back row are GCC president Dr. Steven Herman, GCCF treasurer and finance committee chairperson Jeffrey S. McCauley, board member Philip L. Rodeheaver, and GCC dean of administration Michael Kilgus. Not pictured are GCCF vice president William G. Weissgerber Jr., secretary Phyllis K. Vitez, and board members Annette M. Chapman, James M. Cornelius, Colleen G. Nordeck, and Dr. William R. Yant. Smith herself was recognized for her leadership of the Foundation by the GCC board of trustees, who presented her with the Award for Outstanding Contributions to Garrett Community College at the commencement exercises of the class of 2000.

Lake Lions Will Hold Big Toys Drawing At Fair

The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club will hold its Big Toys drawing on Saturday, Aug. 19, at the Garrett County Fair in McHenry. Winners of the drawing will be awarded one of six prizes: an all-terrain Yamaha Big Bear 4X4, a Polaris Indy Classic or Arctic Cat snowmobile, a Cub Cadet tractor, a Polaris personal watercraft, a 10-day Panama Canal cruise on the Crown Princess (airfare included), or $4,000 in cash.

Proceeds from this annual drawing support many of the club's projects, including the Blind Skiers program, which for the past 25 years has afforded opportunities for blind children from the local area and from the Maryland School for the Blind to participate in skiing activities at the Wisp Resort. Other club projects supported by the drawing are scholarships to Garrett Community College, the leader dog program, the Wilmer Eye Clinic, vision research, and various local ball fields and parks.

Tickets for the drawing can be purchased at Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland and from any Deep Creek Lake Lions Club member. Persons may obtain more information by telephoning club president M. Sue Shockey at 301-334-4287.

Oakland Apostolics Schedule Dinner

The Apostolics of Oakland will be serving homemade turkey dinners on Saturday, Aug. 5, from 2 to 7 p.m., at the Mtn. Lake Park campgrounds. The cost is $5 per adults and $2.50 for children, with seated dining, takeout trays, and delivery services available. For further information persons may call 301-334-6171 or 301-334-5873.

Friendsville Class Of '45 Holds Reunion

The members of the Friendsville High School graduating class of 1945 held their 55-year reunion at the Will O'the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, on July 22.

Class members and spouses attending were: June Friend Walburn and husband Jim, LaVale; Jerry Custer and wife Nancy, Clearwater, Fla.; Warren Frazee and wife Marlin, Richfield, Ohio; Eddie DeWitt and wife Ruby, McHenry; Bill Heavrin and wife Rita, Cockeysville; Margaret Ann Thomas Lampe, Rockville; Eleanor Nicklow Fearer, Oakland; Joyce Frantz Skidmore, Oakland; and Bernadine Devine Friend and husband Bud, Friendsville.

Five members of the class are deceased: Alan E. Skidmore, twin sisters Lillian Fike Bates and Lucille Fike, Leah Schroyer Menear, and Daisy Schroyer Smith.

Cosner Named To Who's Who

Nick Cosner, a class of 2000 honor graduate of Southern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students, with the unique distinction of being included for four consecutive years. Only 1/2 of 1% of all high school students are honored for two or more years.

Cosner has also been selected to receive honorary award recognition by having his biography published in the 23rd annual edition of the National Dean's List, 1999-2000. He was nominated for this award by Lillian R. Mitchell, dean of academic affairs at Garrett Community College. He attended GCC his senior year of high school through the Early College Admissions Program.

The son of Rick and Becky Cosner of Mayhew Inn Road, Cosner was presented this spring with the award for outstanding progress in business and accounting by the Garrett County Vocational Advisory Committee. He was also selected to receive special recognition at the Success in Schools banquet sponsored by Westvaco Corp.

Cosner will be entering his second year at GCC this fall, where he is majoring in business administration. He is employed by TDEC in Oakland and by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co. Data Center in Cumberland.

Swanton Church Slates Benefit

The Otterbein United Methodist Church, located in Swanton, has set a fundraiser bake/yard sale for this Saturday, Aug. 5, beginning at 8 a.m. at the church. Proceeds will be used to benefit the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault shelter facility, and West Virginia Wesleyan College, a Methodist-affiliated college located in Buckhannon.

Local Student Among "SURFers" At Institute

Joshua R. Neubert, a 1999 graduate of Northern High School, was one of a select group of undergraduate students who did scientific research as part of California Institute of Technology's Summer Undergraduate Research Fellowships (SURF) program.

Neubert, son of John and Cathy Neubert, devoted 10 weeks to a research project titled "Mars In-Situ Mission Development," working with Lloyd C. French. A sophomore in planetary science, Neubert was one of 358 students in the program this year.

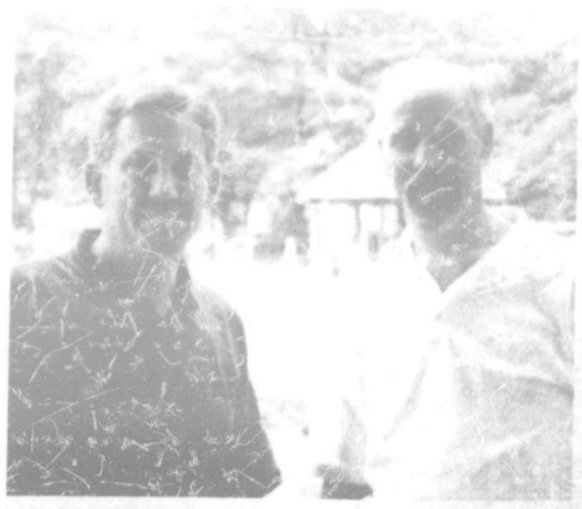

Now in its 22nd year, the Caltech SURF program is widely respected in academic circles for the special opportunities it offers undergraduates to do independent research and to work on a one-to-one basis with faculty members. Interested students collaborate with potential mentors and write proposals that, if accepted, are funded for a summer stipend of $4,000. The mentor pays research costs and provides lab space and equipment. More than 184 Caltech faculty members, Jet Propulsion Laboratory technical staff members, off-campus academicians, and small-business mentors participated this year.

In addition to research, SURF participants attend weekly seminars given by Caltech faculty and JPL technical-staff members, during which each speaker provides an overview of his or her area of research. Students also learn public-speaking skills, as well as techniques for delivering a technical talk and for creating visual aids. A series of informal discussions on issues students will face as they prepare for and commence their professional careers includes the role of communication in careers, scientists as speakers, entrepreneurialism, and the many career paths chosen by people with a technical background.

At the end of the projects, "SURFers" present oral reports at a one-day conference modeled after a professional technical meeting. SURF Seminar Day this year is scheduled for October 16. Approximately 20 percent of the "SURFers" become authors or co-authors of articles published in professional scientific journals, contribute to significant reports, or present their work at conferences.

This year's SURF program is funded by more than 200 donors, close to 50 major individual endowments, seven corporations, three private foundations, many individuals, and the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Founded in 1891, Caltech has an enrollment of some 2,000 students, and an academic staff of about 280 professorial faculty and 130 research faculty. The institute has more than 19,000 alumni. Caltech employs a staff of more than 1,800 on campus and 5,000 at JPL.

FOXCRAFT BECOMES SPONSOR - FoxCraft Homebuilders of LaVale has been named as a Bronze Corporate Sponsor for the OutSpokin' for Maryland Kids Campaign 2000, benefiting the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, a non-profit organization dedicated to providing a nurturing and structured home, plus educational and emergency shelter services to children in need. After spearheading the 1997 project of building an addition on Thomas House (Salem's smallest house) by enlisting the help of local contractors, FoxCraft remained a supporter of the Salem program. Pictured on the left is FoxCraft construction supervisor Steve MacGray with Tom Ruckert, Salem employee and OutSpokin' cycling participant. OutSpokin' for Maryland's Kids is a yearly event, sponsored by MARFY (Maryland Association of Resources for Families and Youth). Cyclists from various childcare agencies in Maryland will ride from Salem to Ocean City, September 11-15, in an attempt to draw attention to the needs of children living in the foster care system. Anyone interested in helping Salem reach its fund-raising goal of $20,000 may call 301-689-6176.

COVER STORY

American High offers a dose of real 'reality' TV

By Josh Greene
©TVData Features Syndicate

Anna

With the recent onslaught of such gimmicky shows as Survivor, Road Rules and Big Brother, the reality genre has been stretched thin by situations anything but real. Watching people trapped on a remote island, roaming the country, competing in various events or barricaded inside a house are amusing but hardly true to life.

So, it's kind of refreshing to find a reality show that's actually based on some semblance of reality.

Enter American High, a new series airing Wednesdays on Fox. Created by Oscar-nominated filmmaker R.J. Cutler (The War Room), American High gives a firsthand account of the ups and downs of being a high-school student today. No punches are pulled when documenting everything from pressures at home to the seemingly tougher ones at school.

The series follows a select number of suburban Chicago high-school students through their senior year. There's Kaytee, a gifted entertainer; football place-kicker Kiwi; the popular Anna; jock Robbie and his girlfriend, Sarah; Brad, the first student to come clean about his homosexuality; fun-loving Morgan and his girl, Salima; Allie, who's battling a difficult home life; singer Suzie; Pablo, a poet with a wild side; and Tiffany, who's just trying to fit in at a predominantly white school.

"I was interested in that remarkable moment in life," Cutler says, "where there is the part of you that's a child rushing to grow up, and the adult in you is desperately trying to hold on to childhood as ferociously as possible."

The biggest challenges to Cutler's project were finding a community willing to cooperate and subjects willing to bare their most intimate moments in the most tumultuous time of their lives.

In an effort to retain their anonymity, the students' last names aren't being used in conjunction with the show. Other than that, it's anything goes with American High.

In addition to the "low-impact situation" of three-man film crews, the teens help document their typical days with the help of personal video cameras. And yes, school administrators were more than tolerant of the minimal high-tech intrusions.

American High also reminded Cutler that he was working alongside more than just the stereotypical teen.

"What I found out was that there is a certain layer of sophistication," he says, "but really, when you peel away the surface, what you're really dealing with is confused, excited, baffled, passionate teen-agers.

"There is remarkable candor, remarkable honesty and remarkable emotion. I can't think of a single thing that we wanted to learn more about that we weren't able to film."

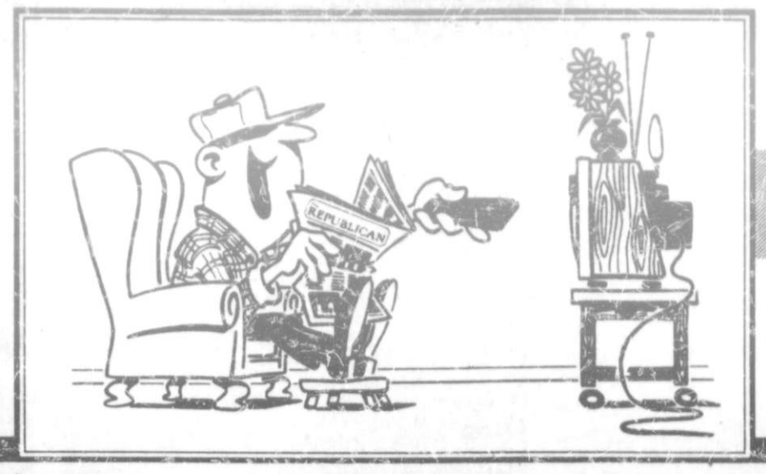

Capturing a school year's worth of dating, homework, parties, football games, parental interference and some tough decision making about the future, Cutler thinks his series is TV's truest attempt at airing something "authentic," a word other programs seem to take for granted.

"We live in a very Orwellian time," Cutler says about society's voyeuristic nature. "Reality television is a phrase being used to describe something that's everything but real.

"Where American High stands out is that it is real. These kids are going to high school and living their lives, dealing with their relationships, and confronting difficult decisions. They're growing up right in front of our eyes whether we're there to film them or not."

IN FOCUS

Donald Sutherland hosts the new series Backstory, premiering Saturday, Aug. 12, on American Movie Classics.

This new entertainment program offers a behind-the-scenes look at classic films such as Splendor in the Grass and The Seven Year Itch.

The program debuts with Sutherland discussing the 1967 drama Bonnie and Clyde, starring Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway in the title roles. The film airs immediately after.

Maryland Scores High in Electric Choice Preparation

Maryland is on the right track with the policies it has put in place to establish a competitive electric marketplace, according to a report issued by The Center for the Advancement of Energy Markets, an independent, non-profit think tank.

Maryland placed seventh out of 50 states and the District of Columbia, in terms of progress made toward the goal of a competitive retail electric market. The recently released Retail Energy Deregulation index 2000 (RED index) showed an increase in Maryland's score from February to July 2000, indicating additional progress has been made.

"A lot has been done to prepare the marketplace, and we continue to make any necessary adjustments to ensure consumer rights are being protected and suppliers are being encouraged to come to the state," said Glenn Ivey, chairman of the Maryland Public Service Commission. "We are quite pleased with our ranking and hope to continue to improve upon it in the future."

The RED index scores states on 18 attributes that the center sees as the most significant in evaluating the success of the transition from the monopoly model to the choice model in electricity supply. Those attributes include the deregulation plan, percent of eligible customers, percent switching, divestiture of generation, default provider, default provider price risk, default provider rates, competitive standards, uniform business rules, stranded cost calculation, stranded cost implementation, billing, metering, wholesale market model, distributed resources interconnection, regulatory convergence, performance-based pricing for network facilities and commission reengineering.

Maryland scored a perfect 10 for its detailed deregulation plan, indicating that the state has taken the critical first steps in preparation for the emergence of a competitive market. The state also performed well in default provider price risk, with a score of 8. This was due in part to the state requiring the default provider to sell electric services at a fixed price.

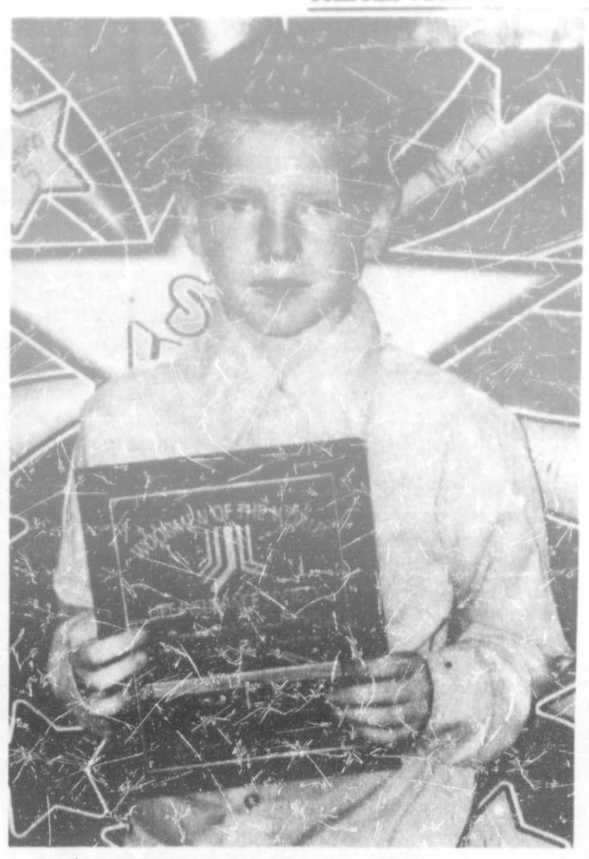

"Our scores show that while there is still work to be done, we have put in place the necessary groundwork for a competitive electric market," said Ivey. "The PSC is committed to making sure that businesses and consumers throughout Maryland are educated and have the information they need to participate in a competitive electric market and make an informed choice."

A comprehensive consumer education outreach program in the state includes extensive use of advertising, news media, a toll free answer center, web site, consumer and business guides, and outreach efforts to community groups that provide information to consumers at the grassroots level.

Information on electric choice in Maryland can be requested by calling the Public Service Commission's toll-free answer center at 1-800-800-4491 or by logging on at www.md-electric-info.com.

SCHOOL EARNS SILVER MEDAL - Broad Ford Elementary School has earned a silver medal from the Maryland PLANT Community program for its efforts "to enhance community forests." Teachers Jack Burdock, Lorie Burdock, and Carole Glotfelty initiated the project at the school last year and won a bronze medal. This year, efforts increased with the added support of parents, students, and other teachers. Plants were donated, collected, and cultivated, and students planted trees. In the photo representing all the students who worked on the project are, from left, Stephanie Lee, Marlena Kelly, Sara Stork, and Brittany Green. They are holding the plaque and sign given to them during a special ceremony at Ft. Detrick in the spring. Behind the children is the butterfly garden that was enhanced as part of this year's effort.

WINS SOCIAL STUDIES AWARD - Elric Weeks, a fifth grader in Debbie Hingbaugh's class at Broad Ford Elementary School, earned the Woodmen of the World award for being the outstanding student in social studies in the fifth grade. In the photo above, Elric displays the plaque presented to him during the year-end award ceremonies.

Beitzel Named To Who's Who

Randy C. Beitzel, who will begin his junior year at Northern High School this fall, was notified of his selection to Who's Who Among American High School Students 1999-2000 recently. Only 5 percent of the nation's high school students earn Who's Who recognition.

Last year Beitzel was named Student of the Year in the Maryland's Tomorrow program. He has been noted for his accomplishments in the auto mechanics courses at Northern High, and plans to attend Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland to further his auto mechanic education. He has been a member of the Huskies' junior varsity basketball team for the past two seasons.

Beitzel is the son of Rick and Karole Beitzel of Grantsville.

Simple Math.

25 Month Certificate of Deposit 7.00% APY =
- Low Investment Minimum*
- FDIC Insurance
- Guaranteed Returns

Indexed Money Market Account 5.44% APY =
- Tiered Rates — the more you save, the more you earn
- Rates Indexed to the 91-day T-Bill
- Investment Liquidity at ATM or in Person

25 Month Certificate of Deposit + Indexed Money Market Account = A great start to a balanced investment strategy!

If a balanced investment portfolio is important to you, Keystone Financial has two investment options to consider. Individually, our Certificate of Deposit and Indexed Money Market Account are wise diversification choices. And with FDIC insurance, together they lay the foundation for a secure investment portfolio with strong interest rate returns.

To open an account, stop into one of our local community offices. Or for more information, call 1-888-382-7283 (SAVE) or visit our website at www.keyfin.com.
